Leafs Finally Hit Stride Take Two Weekend Games

By The Canadian Press

It could be that Happy Day and his Toronto Maple Leafs have been playing possum all season. At any rate, the Leafs have hit their stride at the right time and appear to mean business in defeding the Stanley Cup they captured last year.

Stumbling along in the lower brackets for the first half of the campaign, the Leafs suddenly have caught fire, knocking off the top and bottom National Hockey League teams with equal ease.

Saturday Toronto thumped the high-and-mighty Detroit Red Wings 3-1, then moved to New York Sunday night and blanked Rangers 3-0. It was rather a lean week-end for the Wings, who barely managed to rally for a 4-4 tie at Boston Sunday night. In other week-end games, Boston whipped Rangers 4-2 Saturday and Chicago Black Hawks edged the faltering Montreal Canadiens 4-3 in the Windy City.

The big man in Toronto's week-end upsurge has been slick Max Bentley. He slammed home a pair of markers in each game to account for two-thirds of the Leaf goal production.

Wins Race-Horse

Bentley Saturday won himself a future race-horse when Leafs whacked Detroit before 14,191 Toronto fans. He connected with his first goal seconds after Breeder Charlie Hemstead offered the Delisle, Sask., speedster a yearling if he could score.

Joe Klukay opened the scoring for Toronto in the second frame, Gordie Howe tied it up for the Wings, but Bentley cashed his first counter before the period ended to send the homesters ahead again. Bentley made victory certain with the clincher early in the finale. Rookie Ray Timgren drew assists on both Bentley tallies.

At New York Sunday night, Bentley and Goalie Turk Broda were a hot combination for Toronto as the Leafs sunk the tail-end Rangers 3-0. Ted Kennedy scored the other Leaf goal in this contest. The victory moved Toronto three points ahead of the fourth-place Canadiens and nudged New York deeper into the cellar, three points back of Chicago.

Detroit's furious third-period drive paid off for the Wings at Boston Sunday night and gave them a 4-4 draw with the Bruins. Trailing 4-1 going into the final session, Detroit got hot and Gordie Howe, Bud Poile and Ted Lindsay tallied within five minutes to knot the count.

Pete Horeck gave Detroit an early lead in the first period, but Boston came through with four straight markers, Johnny Peirson beating Harry Lumley twice and Paul Ronty and Eddie Sandford once each.

20 People Die In Accidents Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Deaths of an entire Montreal family of seven in an airplane crash in Eastern Ontario marred what would otherwise have been for Eastern Canada a weekend comparatively free of fatal accidents.

Thirteen other accidental deaths were recorded by The Canadian Press in the five provinces. Seven of them resulted from traffic mishaps.

Wallace Siple, his wife and five young children died near Maxville, Ont., when their light plane, bound for Montreal from London, Ont., exploded in an attempted forced landing.

In one of five Ontario traffic deaths, 14-year-old Norman Brick slid across a road on his sleigh and was killed by a truck at Walkerton. Dolore Snycka, 20, of Detroit, died Sunday when a car crashed a tree near Cedar Springs, in southwestern Ontario.

Alec Koko, 49, died after being run over on a Toronto street and Mrs. Eleanor Robson, 63, was fatally injured by a motorcar in Hamilton. Max Brupner, 38, of Kitchener, was killed as he stood beside his parked car near Lucan, Ont.

Horses Bolt

Arthur J. Renaud, farmer near Chatham, was thrown onto the tongue of a hay wagon when his horses bolted. He died later of injuries.

In Westville, N.S., two-year-old Carrie Porter died Saturday after drinking part of a bottle of turpentine. Joseph Sampson was fatally injured at Shelburne, N.S., when hit by a car.

Mrs. Marie Lefrancois, 43, of Montreal, was fatally burned when her bathrobe caught fire as she was curling her hair. George Binet, 29, died in a Montreal hospital of injuries suffered in an auto accident Jan. 31 and Mrs. Augusta Glauzier, 66, was hit by a train on Saturday at the Pointe Claire, Que., railway station.

Two men died in Toronto as the result of falls. David McMurdo, 47, a night watchman, was fatally injured in a 30-foot fall down an elevator shaft. Thomas Gordon, 50, fell only five feet into a coal bin but an artery in his leg was broken. Air entered his bloodstream and reached his heart, killing him.

Because of World Day of Prayer services on Friday, March 4, it was moved by Mrs. Humphries and seconded by Mrs. A. E. Hogg that the missionary meeting be postponed, to Thursday March 10.

Mrs. Rork S. Ferguson gave an interesting report of the recent Presbyterial meeting of the WMS held in Trinity Church Peterborough. Mrs. A. E. Hogg read the hymn "We cannot think of them as dead, who walk with us no more", in conjunction with Mrs Ferguson's report.

Mrs. R. J. Leeper was in charge of the program, the theme being "Thy Kingdom Come through the work of Christian People".

The fifth chapter of the Study Book, was read by Mrs. Alec Davis. Mrs. W. H. Giffen, Mrs Alfred McMillan, Mrs. Fred Gardner and Mrs. Leeper.

Dismiss 3 Girls Cases Reviewed

An Arbitration Board with Bora Laskin, Osgoode Hall, as chairman, on Saturday heard the appeal of three girls who were discharged by the CGE from their jobs. The case was heard in the canteen of the CGE.

The company discharged Mildred Bell, Verena Kellett and Pauline Price alleging unsatisfactory work. They had been transferred from the Plastics and Meter Dept. to the Induction Motor Winding Dept. about three months previously.

Union representatives C. R. Sullivan and Phil Knibbs, district UE representatives, charged that the company improperly transferred the girls and unjustly dismissed them, claiming that seniority provisions had not been recognized.

The decision is pending.

Other members of the Board are Mr. Payette, CGE representative, and Drummond Wren, union nominee.

Representing the company at the hearing were D. R. Brown, Personnel Dept. and Michael O'Brien, general supervisor of wage rates. Both are from Toronto.

Veteran's Father Sends Gift To Scotland

A Toronto father's appreciation of the remembrance by a Scottish parish in Ayrshire of the death in action of his son early in Second World War, is reported in the Ayrshire Post of Jan. 14, a copy of which has been received by Mr. John Anderson, 195 Sherbrooke St.

The delivery of the gift was arranged by Rev. Canon J. Douglas Paterson, Toronto, for his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Moffat, Toronto, whose son, Capt. James J. Moffat, perished in an air disaster near Whitletts in August 1941. The people of the parish erected a memorial stone in Ayr Cemetery to the members of the crew of the airplane of which Capt. Moffat was pilot.

The gift was received by Rev. W. L. B. Wilson, minister of St. Quivox. In his letter Canon Paterson wrote: "It gave untold satisfaction to all that I was able to visit the cemetery." Cordial greetings were sent by both the Canon and Mrs. Moffat to Rev. Mr. Wilson who gratefully acknowledged the gift. It was distributed at Christmas.

Mrs. Moffat in a letter to Mr. Wilson spoke highly of the "kind people of Whitlets, and of the flowers on the grave that are changed according to the season. We are glad that our son's last resting place is in such a beautiful spot in Scotland, the land we all love, it being the birthplace of my husband and his ancesors for many generations."

Falls Off Sleigh Pierced By Stick Seriously Hurt

Out on a private party, Mr. Harper fell from the vehicle on a sharp stick that penetrated his abdomen. He was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where treatment was given by Dr. J. T. Stewart, who reported today that the patient was progressing favorably.

A former employee of the Outboard Marine Manufacturing Company, Mr. Harper was employed in the machine shop. He was staying with his sister, Mrs. William Dyer, who as a registered nurse, is attending him in hospital.

The weather has not been good for the popular sport of sleigh rides this winter, and it was not until last week that conditions permitted them to be held. An operator at Auburn reports that he carried a private party of children in one sleigh on Friday evening. On Saturday the Peterborough 20 Plus Club enjoyed an outing in seven sleighs with about 80 members present. Another ride scheduled for tonight may have to be cancelled due to poor slipping conditions.

Dutch Clergyman Claims True Religion Found In God

"True liberty is found when one is in the slavery of God," said the Rev. L. P. Bruijn, Dutch immigration minister for Canada, in his sermon on "Liberty" at George St. United Church Sunday night.

"Man is never entirely free whether he lives in a democracy or a dictatorship. There are three things which make him so, circumstances of life, his associates, and himself."

Mr. Bruijn said man is what he is because of the circumstances under which he lives. Nothing can be done about this, he explained. He illustrated his point by saying that people of the world are in nations such as Canada, United States and Holland. If a man is born a Canadian, there is nothing he can do about it.

"None of us is so independent that he is not influenced by his fellowmen. We are continually following the advice of friends and following in the footsteps of a man who has been successful in life. We are what we are on account of others," he said on the second hindrance to man's freedom.

"We are not free because ourselves do not let us be free. Even if we live in a far country or under the yoke of bondage we are never free."

Mr. Bruijn used as his text, "Where the spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty." This type of freedom, he explained, is not the same as the liberty that people usually think. He said God in Christ is Lord of everyone and everything. Democracy is a result of the consequences of being a Christian. True liberty, he said, comes with being a slave of Christ.

"Being a slave of Christ one is free of all things life brings with it. Outwardly nothing is changed when a person becomes a slave of God. Circumstances, associates and yourselves become second in your lives. God has the final word."

"In the slavery of God there is no nationality as Canadian and American. Everyone becomes as one. In this type of freedom true unity and brotherhood is found."

Mr. Bruinjn said the people find that coming to America after living as they did in Holland during the war is like coming to Eldorado. Many people there are looking forward to coming out here to escape a possible reoccurence of 1914 and 1939 and the crowded cities.

"After a year in the United States I returned to Holland durfelt the impression of narowness or limitedness, not in a political aspect. The cities are densely populated, demanding more restrictions than here. I missed the lakes, rivers, mountains and open spaces of America"

After the service colored slides were shown of Holland. Mr. Bruijn explained each picture.

A reception was held in the Board Room of the Church for Dutch immigrants to Peterborough and Mr. Bruijn. They sang hymns in Dutch. Refreshments were served.

G. R. Schawb, City Chinchilla Breeder, Wins 18 Awards With 15 Entries At Toronto Show

G. R. Schwab, 369 Mark Street, won highest awards in Toronto, February 12, for his South American chinchillas. The occasion was the second annual show of the Central Ontario Branch of the National Chinchilla Breeders of Canada.

Several hundred spectators attended the show where more than one hundred animals were shown. Mr. Schwab entered 15 animals and won a total of 18 awards. These consisted of cup and rosette for the grand champion male and female entries, an unusual feat according to the judges. In addition a rosette was also won for both female and male in another class as well as six firsts, three thirds and three fourth-class ribbons.

It is of interest to note that one of his entries, a female recently imported from Chile, won only a fourth prize against stock raised in Peterborough.

Recreation Group Plans To Sponsor Boxing Club

A meeting for the purpose of organizing a community athletic club to stimulate interest in boxing was called recently by the Peterborough Recreation Commission. The following attended: Ron Menzies, 542 Hamilton St.; Ralph Van Allen, 566 Armour Rd.; Bill Joiner, 487 Brioux; Chris. Jay, Lions Club; Jim Laidlaw, Summer Gardens; Alderman Jim Gillespie, representing Mayor M. Swanston; R. J. Bolton, Recreation Commission; Gordon Armstrong, Recreation Commission; Alderman Art Burrows; Wilf Cunningham, Knights of Columbus; Dr. R. A. Kelly, department of health; Jack Dane, recreation director; Gus Mastriani, 225 Hunter St. W.

R. J. Bolton was chairman and explained briefly the purpose of the meeting and the Recreation Commission's part in offering assistance in the formation of any recreation groups if there was a desire and a need. The Recreation Commission's policy was to aid wherever necessary and possible, existing organizations rendering a public recreation service and to assist in the development of program and facilities where there is a need and desire for a type of recreation that does not exist.

Jack Dane explained that as district representative for the Ontario Athletic Commission and the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada it was his duty to approve boxing and wrestling shows in the district, and where interest is sufficient to form a boxing committee of responsible citizens. The latter had not been done previously because steps had been taken by Gus Mastriani to form a boxing club and the formation of a boxing commitee might reflect opposition to the thing which Gus was doing. After some months of operation, Mr. Mastriani requested the Recreation Commission, through their director, to take the boxing club off his hands and form a committee to administer the boxing program in the city. Mr. Mastriani explained that he had spent a considerable sum of money in the remodelling of a building in the Fair Grounds, such as the installation of an electric light system, replacing of windows, purchase of equipment and various sundry items. He wondered if; he could realize a return of some of this money.

Alderman Burrows expressed an opinion that there was a definite interest as far as the boys were concerned, and if something were started the boys would turn out.

Alderman Gillespie indicated that Mayor Swanston was interested in the formation of such a group and would lend it all the support he possibly could.

Review Past Work

Bill Joiner said a club of this type could successfully function if properly administered by a committee of responsible people.

Ralph Van Allen suggested that previous attempts to organize boxing in Peterborough failed because the proper advance planning had not been made.

Gordon Armstrong said the Recreation Commission was not particularly interested in developing one or two champions, but wanted to be sure that every boy had an opportunity to participate. He suggested that a number of organizations be named by the meeting to appoint someone to an administrative council who would act as the boxing authority for the entire city.

One committee was suggested to be chief administrators of boxing, this committee to be a policy forming group and deal with the broad aspect of boxing in the city. An executive committee to operate each club, should there be more than one formed, to be appointed by the chief administrators and responsible to that body. The executive committee would be responsible for program and activities within the club and appoint such coaches, trainers, managers and other leadership as was necessary.

Fourteen organizations were named to appoint a member to the Boxing Administrative Committee:

To Call Meeting

City police, Ministerial Association, Service Club Council, Recreation Commission, City Council, Provincial Police, Fire Department, YMCA, Industrial Athletic Association, Board of Education, Catholic Priests, Armouries, Roy Scouts, Medical Association.

It was suggested that the Recreation Commission contact these organizations and call a meeting of the appointees.

Mr. Bolton suggested that a number of men interested in actually doing the work of conducting this boxing club attend the meeting to assure the administrative committee that here was sufficient to warrant the formation of an athletic club of this type. Some of the leaders named were: Ralph Van Allen, Bill Joiner, Ron Menzies, Reg LeSurf, Art Hunter, Mel Packingham, Adolph Caravagie, Len Post, Harold Wesley, Reg McMillen and Harold Jones.

Alderman Gillespie raised the question as to the position of Mastriana and the reimbursing him for his financial losses and work. While the meeting agreed that this was a matter for the administrative council it was hoped that something could be done for him and that the building he was using might house one of the boxing clubs, if not one, and the equipment purchased from Mr. Mastriani.

St. Valentine's Day Booms Cards, Flowers, Candy Romance Sets New Records

Postmaster Charles Lacheur offered the affirmation today that all must be well in the realm of romance as reflected by the heavier than usual volume of Valentine messages distributed by the postal staff. "It was really surprising," Mr. Lacheur said. "Christmas business on a smaller scale, but far more than we have ever handled on any other February 14. Staff was late getting started on their routes, because they had piles of these special letters to prepare for delivery."

That card you received today was one of more than 300,000,000 the Association of Greeting Card Publishers in the United States and Canada designed and printed for this day's gesture of gallantry and vestige of the age when knighthood was in flower.

The greeting card industry in alliance with the postmen in their February role of attendants upon Cupid rolled up big business in all the symbolism of hearts and flowers and pink atmosphere.

Adults Too.

"And there are just as many adults as teenagers," said Mrs. Eva Collins at Trebilcocks. "I think there were more adults and they appeared to be delighted in selecting cards for those dear to them. Of the cards we had selling at one dollar, only one was left this morning. That was a sign of the extent of adult buying. The demand on Saturday was very brisk."

One of the legends of St. Valentine's Day associated Feb. 14 with the belief that birds began to mate then. Ancient Romans turned this natural phenomena into a human game of chance by allowing bachelors to draw from a box the names of young women partners for laughter and love during the festival of the Lupercalia.

Victorian dandies spent up to $50 for gilded satin and lace cards which they considered worthy of expressing their sentiment.

According to the postmen this romance business must be flourishing judging by the weight of rosy sentiment they lugged all over this morning.

Flower Sales Up

At the florist shops and the candy stores it was the same story, heaviest buying since the Yuletide. There was a rush of orders for the spring flowers, tulips, daffodils, hyacinths and snapdragon, with more than the usual demand for roses and carnations. The rose with the exception of the long-stemmed ones fell far short of meeting the demand. The long-temmed ones command a much higher price. Potted plants had a brisk sale too, and fortunately there was a good supply of these, and most had beautiful blooms.

At the candy stores, both men and women were buying boxes of chocolates, and today the rush is continuing.

Bakery Burns At Hastings Damage $500

HASTINGS, Feb. 14 (ENS) — Firemen spent an hour and a half extinguishing a $500 fire which Peter Cruden discovered at his bakery shop early this morning.

Firemen found it no easy task to extinguish the fire and Chief I. Bonds Jr. estimated that the fire had caused $500 lamage.

25 Penalties Handed Out In Windsor Tilt

By The Canadian Press

Ontario Hockey Association referees still have their work cut out for them.

Despite fiery verbal warnings from the OHA executive, players continue to draw more-than-average penalties.

Latest outbreak came during the week-end in Windsor when officials meted out 25 penalties, including eight majors and a misconduct, as Windsor Spitfires defeated Stratford Kroehlers 4-2 in the Junior A tilt.

In other Junior A games during the week-end the eighth-place Toronto St. Michael's College Majors downed the sixth-place Guelph Biltmores 5-3, the second-place Barrie Flyers battled to a 2-2 tie against the seventh-place Toronto Marlboros and St. Catharines Teepees moved into a fourth-place tie when they beat the last-place Galt Rockets 6-5 in overtime play.

At Windsor, referees Pearcy Allen and Morris Walsh meted out nine minor and five major penalties to Stratford. Major altercation come during the second period when Joe Beda and John Wilson began scuffling in front of the Stratford nets.

Melee Starts

A melee started in a matter of seconds and lasted for five minutes. Before play was resumed the officials handed out a total of 32 minutes in penalties to six players. The original offenders were not penalized.

Both teams scored once in the first period and battled through a scoreless second. Windsor outscored Stratford 3-1 in the third frame. Larry Wilson scored twice for the Spitfires while John Wilson and Bruce McKay got one each. Pierre Cadieux and Dinny Flanagan counted for Stratford.

But violence wasn't restricted to the Windsor game. In Toronto during the St. Michael's-Guelph tilt players were sent to the penalty box frequently.

Wholesale Fracas

With seconds left in the game a wholesale fracas broke out involving 12 players. Referees Larry Heffering and Bill Towns stood back and watched the fisticuffs until the players decided they had had enough. Then the officials, unruffled, handed out seven major penalties.

The Irish showed surprising strength as they moved into the lead early in the first period by counting twice within three minutes. They struck again in the second frame with two more goals. Guelph threatened in the latter moments of the third stanza but Bud Marshall got the clincher.

Con Bonhomme tallied twice for Toronto while Bob Decourcey and Gord Hannigan got one each. Lorne Ferguson, Hill and Playge scored for Biltmores.

In other events, held at nearby Camp Fortune in connection with Ottawa's Winter Carnival week, John Clifford of Ottawa captured the Slalom and combined downhill and Slalom.

The senior event on the Lockeberg jump was the big drawing card of the meet. Hugsted soared 151 feet in his first jump and 158 in his second to garner 314 points.

Lakefield Wins 9-2 Series Against Ajax

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 14—(ENS)—Victors by a 2-0 whitewash in the second game with Ajax, Lakefield Juveniles go into the third round of OMHA playdowns.

Taking the round by a 9-2 margin, Lakefield played a smart brand of hockey in their Saturday afternoon tussle in the Whitby rink.

The game was fairly clean for the first two periods but turned into a donnybrook in the final canto as Ajax grew desperate for goals; but they failed to beat the defence and Red Wasson in the nets. Fourteen penalties, eight for Ajax, were handed out in the last stanza.

Scoring came in the second period with a goal by Aub. Morrison assisted by Ross Calberry at 19 minutes, followed 10 seconds later by a solo effort on the part of Roy Hockaday.

The game was a nice exhibition of team play on Lakefield's part despite soft ice. Ajax lost much of their effectiveness through numerous penalties handed to their ace players, Colin Arliss and Jack Hart. Goalie Dave Kemp turned in a fine game.

The teams:

Ajax—Goal, Dave Kemp; defence, Don Turner, Grodon Ward; centre, Terry Pepper; wings, Lawrence Ogden, Ernie Stoneman; alternates, Douglas Charleton, Danny Collens, Gerald Rowland, Colin Ariss, Jack Hill, Jack Hart, Doug. Burrows, Lloyde Johnston.

Referee—Bell of Peterborough.

Sports Program Ruined

COBOURG, Feb. 14—The week-end's mild weather ruined at least temporarily, all winter sports in the community. Open air rinks were ponds and the ski club was unuable to operate, the mild weather melting away a large part of the snow which had fallen a little over a week before. However, the warm day brought out a large number of citizens for a walk in what was almost a spring day.

N.B. Mob Forces Witnesses Leave

EDMUNDSTON, N.B., Feb. 14—(CP)—An investigation into mob action against four representatives of the Watchtower Tract and Bible Society, or Jehovah's Witnesses, was under way today by order of Mayor H. E. Marmen.

Police said that more than half of about 500 persons who forced the four to leave Edmundston by train Saturday came from outside the town limits. Some were in lumberjack attire and entered the town in trucks.

The Watchtower representatives—Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jones, Miss Winnifred Parsons and Miss Olive Lundell sought protection at the police station Friday night after the crowd gathered and began a search of the section where the Jehovah's Witnesses had been boarding since they came to Edmundston four months ago.

There was no violence, aside from burning of a truckload of tracts and other Watchtower literature near the railway station.

The crowd made it plain, however, that they wanted the Witnesses to leave town as soon as possible.

Oshawa Bull Century Sire

BRANTFORD, Feb. 14. — The fourth Canadian Holstein bull to earn the title of century sire, given to a bull when 100 or more of his daughters have completed an ROP test, is Montvic Monogram, owned by Elmcroft Farms, Oshawa, who has 106 ROP daughters. Monogram was bred at Mt. Victoria Farms, Hudson Heights, Que., and was used for the first four years of his life in the herds of Bert Thorton and Son, Thamesford, and their neighbors. Eight years ago he was purchased for use in the Elmcroft herd.

Monogram is the only living century sire, the other three, Sir Romeo Mildred Colantha 6th and Hazelwood Hello Sir Bessie, both used in the Colony Farm herd at Essondale, B.C., and Colony Colandthus Perfection, used at Frasea Farms, Vancouver, B.C., are dead.

The 187 records made by Monogram's 106 daughters average 13,930 lbs. milk containing 531 lbs. butterfat, average test 3.81 per cent; 87 of these were made at two years, 47 at three years, 31 at four years, and 22 mature; 31 were completed in the 305-day division, 130 on twice-a-day milking, and 57 on three-times-a-day milking.

Monogram is one of the most popular of present-day sires and many of his sons have been used in the leading herds of the Dominion. A grandson, Elmcroft Heritage, sold for $9,400 at the all-Canadian sale last fall, the highest price received for a Holstein bull at public auction on the continent in 1948.

Monogram's highest record daughter is Abbekerk Dutchland Monogram, who, in 1948, completed her fourth consecutive superior production record. She has two records over 1,000 lbs. of fat, one of 1,002 lbs. fat from 24,147 lbs. milk, and the other of 1,204 lbs. fat from 25,329 lbs. milk, both on three-times-a-day milking.

Navies of Britain and US Under Russ Press Review

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Feb. 14 (AP)—The United States and British Navies have been attracting considerable interest lately in the Soviet press.

The annual report of the United States Secretary of the Navy, John Sullivan, on the state of naval armaments was commented on at length in Red Fleet, which may be considered the Soviet Navy Paper.

After noting this, Red Fleet added:

"Additional information on the Naval Armaments of the U.S.A. can be derived from the comprehensive published statement of the chief of the ship administration of the Navy Department, Vice Admiral (Earle) Mills, on the program of shipbuilding reconstruction.

The commentary added, however, that Mills' statement provided "no full idea of the scales and tempo of naval armament of the U.S.A."

Expansion Unjustifiable

Red Fleet said the assertions of Sullivan and Mills for the necessity for further expansion of naval defence and particularly for a development of the submarine fleet and anti-submarines defence are "unjustifiable."

"Then, what is involved?" asked Red Fleet. "Why do the American naval leaders underscore the construction of aircraft carriers and submarine forces?

"This is explained simply: the naval programs as well as the naval doctrine of the U.S.A. are at present time entirely subordinate to and correspond to the expansionist policy of the ruling circles.

"Not defence of their communications, which no one threatens, but the cutting off at any moment of the communications of other powers on the seas and oceans, control over the world seaways—this is what the program of naval armament construction of the U.S.A. at the present time is based upon."

Summing up, Red Fleet declared:

"Thus, the British Naval leadership intends to strengthen its position on those same ocean communications which the American Admirlas are so zealously undertaking to 'defend,' unknown against whom. . ."

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 14 — (AP)—Governor G. Mennen Williams, his wife, and six others escaped death or severe injury Saturday night when a National Guard plane crashed at Lansing airport. The two-engine plane missed a runway, crashed into three small private planes, clipped a wing from a fourth and headed for a hangar. It veered sharply to the left some 200 feet from the hangar, airport officials said, which saved it from smashing into the structure.

Tried For Treason

PRAGUE, Feb. 14—(AP)—The Prague press said Sunday a state court will try Gen. Karel Kutlvasr and 12 accomplices next Thursday as spies and plotters against the republic. Gen. Kutlvas has generally been regarded as the hero of the Prague uprising that drove the Germans from the capital in 1945.

Expect Another Argument On Procedure In House

OTTAWA, Feb. 14—(CP).—Another argument on procedure may develop in the Commons today. When the House adjourned Friday, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, asked for a clarification of procedure for this week. He said he understood that the throne speech debate would be resumed as soon as the Commons completed study of Legislation providing for Newfoundland's entry into confederation as the 10th province.

That Legislation was finally passed by the Commons Friday, a week ahead of schedule. The House had set aside Feb. 7 to Feb. 18 for the Newfoundland debate.

When the debate concluded, attention turned to some of the control measures which must be extended before March 31. Some of these measures will be studied Monday until a decission on procedure is reached.

Veteran gallery members say that to their knowledge no previous opposition leader has ever held weekly press conferences.

Express

Increased express charges on small shipments of some food products are being proposed by the railways.

The new rates affect shipments of less than 100 pounds of meat, poultry and eggs. It was understood they vary considerably but do not make any large increases on individual shipments.

The proposed increases have been submitted to the Board of Transport Commissioners for approval.

The railways also are expected to file shortly a schedule of increases in express charges on fruits and vegetables and packing-house products.

Norwood Gets Letter Of Thanks

NORWOOD, Feb. 14 (ENS)—A number of crib and large quilts were sent by the Elgin Red Cross, four or five years ago. The following is one of the Thank You Letters received this week by Mrs. Henry Buck R. R. 4 Norwood.

Dear Mrs. Buck 23-1-49,

Four names and addresses were attached to a pretty coverlet which was one of several which passed through my hands this week, and I felt I must write and tell you how thrilled my fellow workers in the needleroom of a hospital (as well as myself) have been over the beautiful work put into each cover.

It has been a delight to see the various materials used, of every color and design, and to realize the patience and skill, as well as the kindly thought in making up such practical as well as beautiful gifts.

Maybe you have long forgotten about your handiwork, and may be very surprised to receive this letter, but I am sure you will be interested to know how much your gift and those also of other kind friends have been appreciated.

Trusting you are well, and with best wishes for 1949.

I remain sincerely yours,

LIVING COSTS COMPARED—The costs of living in Canada and the United States, which for a time took divergent courses, now are following about the same trend. In what is apparently the last stages of the post-war adjustment between costs in the two countries, the United States index has recently been coming down, while that of Canada has retained some upward tendencies. From now on the two are expected to follow about the same pattern. Charts prepared by the Bank of Nova Scotia show the courses of the costs of living and costs of food in the four years 1945-48. The lines do not, however, compare the cost of living of one country with the other; that is, they don't show whether it costs more to live in the United States or Canada. They do show how much living costs in each country has changed in terms of its own cost of living in the base period 1935-39.

Presbytery Young People Plan Annual Valentine Party

More than 300 young people attended the first annual Valentine frolic held by Peterborough Young People's Union of the United Church of Canada Friday evening. The most successful event was held in the YMCA gym, which was beautifully decorated. Red hearts on lace formed quaint, old-fashioned valentines on the walls. Miss Hilda Northey was decorations convener.

A varied and interesting program was planned by a committee of Hilda Northey, Helen Dummitt, Robert Clark and Robert Brown. To start, a sing-song was led by Robert Clark. The Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh of Havelock, led in a fitting and inspiring worship service around the theme of recreation.

Robert Brown, vice-president, welcomed the guests to the first gathering of its kind ever held in Peterborough Presbytery. The Rev. E. E. Pugsley of Norwood, chairman of the Presbytery, brought greetings.

Although the floor was crowded, every one enjoyed dancing to recorded music. Special features were novelty dances and games for which prizes were given. Games were under the direction of Miss Helen Kelly and the Rev. George Kelly of Lakefield.

Door prizes were won by Miss Diane Cullen of Ida and Mr. Warren Challice of Millbrook.

During the evening lunch was served.

This night of fun proved to be a successful adventure and the many young people present from outlying unions gave proof of interest in this form of get-together.

It is intended that Valentine frolic will become an annual affair.

QUESTION: Would you be kind enough to print a recipe, one like the fish and chip people use. I can't seem to get my batter just right so as when you dip the fish in the batter I just can't get it to puff up at all. My recipe is about ¾ cup pastry flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, a little salt and about 2-3 cup milk. I'm just a newcomer and sure do get a lot of good from your recpies. Hoping you can help me out and thanking you kindly "Sally".

P. S. Could you be so kind as to enlighten me on this subject? In the summer we grow our own leaf lettuce and sometime tire of it raw, so I boil it and use just like spinach, in fact I think it even tastes better. After it is boiled I take it out and chop it fine and add salt and pepper, then put back in pan which it was cooked in and thicken it a little; in that way you don't throw the good water away. The point is are the vitamins spoiled by boiling? My little girl likes the strained canned carrots the best; are they just as good as fresh boiled ones? Thank you again, and best wishes to you "Sally".

ANSWER:

Batter For Fried Fish

Sift together ½ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon baking powder; add gradually 1-3 cup milk beaten with 1 egg yolk; then add ½ tablespoon melted shortening or butter and 1 egg white beaten stiff. Dip the dried fresh fish in the batter, put in fat of 385 deg. Fahr. and cook until fish is just flaky. Do not overcook. Drain on unglazed paper while remainder of fish is being cooked. Keep very hot.

The home-grown leaf lettuce does develop a strong taste when it matures; I have found you can put in a second and third sowing in the first part of the season and have young lettuce longer that way. It does "spoil" some of the vitamins to boil it. A better method is to do what the Austrian girl I once employed did—she made "wilted lettuce". You panfry a little chopped side bacon until golden and crisp. To it add an equal amount of vinegar, stirring it into the fat in pan. Add salt and pepper and bring to boil. Pour piping hot over cleaned and chopped or shredded leaf lettuce in a bowl. The best way to conserve the best in green lettuce is to eat it raw; the stronger leaves can be shredded finely and used in a tossed green salad. Strained canned carrots are as good, and sometimes better than home cooked fresh ones. This is not true of freshly gathered young carrots from your own garden though. Cook those in as little water as possible, as fast as possible. Do not scrape them, merely scrub them clean before cooking.

Chinese Religions Studied By St. Paul's WMS

The meeting of St. Paul's Auxiliary, WMS, was held Friday afternoon in the guild room. President, Mrs. D. T. Diplock, was in the chair. Mrs. F. Weir had charge of devotional exercises which were based on the Beatitude "Blessed are the poor in spirit".

The program was in charge of Miss A. Erskine who conducted a round table discussion on Early Religions of China and early missionaries there. Mrs. A. A. McIntyre answered questions on the teachings of Confucius and on those of Buddha.

The former really built up a very practical system of morality which emphasized ability to govern oneself, then the family and finally the kingdom but there was little religion in it. Buddhism was brought from India with a few changes but Buddha was still the ruler of a Western paradise which all Chinese believers hoped to enter. The belief that a man's spirit entered an animal after death also persisted."

Taoism, the third religion, was fully discussed by Mrs. H. W. Ball, who showed how it really became a religion of superstitions. "Taoists believed in spirits, demons, witchcraft, sorcery, and fortune-telling, and as a result ancestor respect soon became ancestor worship, but as these beliefs appealed to the people of China, Taoism became very popular."

Mrs. A. F. McConkey told of the work of Francis Xavier who, while in Japan, discovered that all Japanese culture had come from China, and decided he would go there. Before he could accomplish much he died. Mrs. A. Jack told of the part taken by Xavier's successor Matteo Ricci. The latter found his way to the royal palace and at his death had founded a church which included 40 members of the royal family.

Work of the first Protestant missionary Robert Morrison was told by Mrs. Manson Comstock. In spite of a Chinese law forbidding it, Morrison was taught the language, and while acting as translator for the East India Company, translated into Chinese the Arts of the Apostles, the gospel of St. Luke, a catechism of questions and answers about Christianity and finally the whole Bible. He was very discouraged because he was only able to count ten converts but a hundred years after his death there were over 1,000,000 Christians in China. Now after a long war there are many more, and great efforts are necessary if Christianity is to survive and extend".

GIANT GERANIUM—Up and up it goes, and where it will stop no one knows. That is the way Mrs. M. England of Dorval, suburb of Montreal, feels about the geranium plant that is 46 inches tall and still growing. That's a yard-stick she is holding 10 inches below the tip of the geranium—and beside this giant are conventional plants of that type—10 to 12 inches in height.

Urged to Good Development By Young CGIT Speaker

A "hilltop experience" for 150 CGIT girls, and their leaders was the address given by 17-year-old Joyce McKenzie in St. Paul's Church Sunday evening. "Serve Him Alone," theme for CGIT week, was her topic.

"At no other time has the world had a greater need to wake up and realize that it's only hope is in serving God" she said. "Many of us are rather like tame geese waddling aimlessly around the barnyard, only making an attempt to fly when they see their wild brothers heading south. Our souls are like theirs, too much at ease, too much indulged, so that when other souls, trained to heights of Christian living, come upon our horizons, we but feebly respond to the call of the eternal, protesting faintly at our inability."

"We lack faith that God is ever with us" Miss McKenzie continued. "Daily we are released from the mistakes and failures of yesterday and given a new day, a new chance, to serve God. I believe that God's plan of life is a healthy happy expression for good of all and everything that makes us feel happy in doing will bring happiness to others."

"We in CGIT are growing girls. It has been suggested that growth is the key that unlocks the universe. Growth is God's plan. When he wants a tree, He begins with an acorn. There is imperfection in our lives because growth implies imperfections. True blessedness is not to arrive —but to travel."

Miss McKenzie explained to the girls that persons are not born worthwhile citizens, but they do have the possibilities of becoming worthwhile. "Our job as CGIT is to discover and develop the person God would have us be." Sooner or later we will all sit down to the banquet tables of Consequence. We have been free to choose evil or good with God standing hand-breadth off to give his children room to grow and develop a desire to do good, and form the habits and character of our lives."

"Tomorrow is ours to make or break" she concluded. "Woman is the keeper of the heart and the home. The moral soundness of the world depends on her for the quality of the whole social system is determined by what she is."

Miss Jean DeNure, past president of Girls' Council, introduced the speaker. Miss Joan Krogh, president, and Miss Christine Monk, vice president, took part in the service.

DOROTHY DIX

Stability Often Lacking In Marrying Too Young

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a very unhappy person. I have been married ever since I was 15 years old. I am now 22 and have two children. My husband is very kind to me, but my trouble is that I just can't get interested in anything. Everything bores me to tears. I start things but never finish them. I have no girl friends, and when people come to see me I can't think of anything to say, so they hardly ever return.

I think that if I went to work What would you advise me to do?

HEARTSICK.

ANSWER — I publish this letter in the hope in some public place, it would help to get my mind off things. that a lot of 15-year-old kids, who think they are in love and who rush into matrimony for which they are entirely unfitted, will read it and put off their wedding for four or five years. For marriage is not a diversion for children. It is the most vitally important act of any man's or woman's life, and it should be entered into by those who are old enough and experienced enough to realize the seriousness of the step they are taking, one that will make or mar the happiness of their entire lives.

Read this letter and you will see that there is nothing the matter with this marriage except that the bride was 15 years old. She had everything to make a happy married life—a good husband, a nice home, little children, a comfortable living. All that she lacked to make her marriage a success was the stability of maturity. She had a child's shifting fancy, crazy about a thing one day and bored to death with it the next. She wasn't even capable of a love that lasted, and so as soon as the novelty of having a wedding and a husband and a house wore off, she was fed up with it all.

Daily Tragedy

It is a tragedy that happens to millions of adolescent girls and boys who marry before they are ready for it. It is the underlying cause of most of the unhappy marriages and divorces, for there is no undoing the mistakes of youth. More's the pity.

DEAR MISS DIX—The boy I am engaged to is all that a girl could want in a husband, except his folks have been divorced and each have married again and so have mine. Divorce on both sides. Does that mean that divorce is hereditary in our families? People tell me that if one's parents are divorced, there is no chance of one's having a happy marriage. Is this true?

MISS BETTYE

ANSWER—No. There is not a scintilla of truth in the belief that divorce is hereditary, and that if your father and mother were unhappily married your marriage is bound to be a failure. Indeed, so far from family fights being catching, the opposite is generally the case, and the children who have grown up in discordant homes usually make the most peaceful and considerate husbands and wives.

Their parents are an awful warning to them. They have seen the cat and dog lives that their mothers and fathers have led. They have seen their homes broken up and their families scattered. They have suffered from the disaster that a high-tempered woman and a selfish man can inflict upon helpless children, and they are determined not to bring such a misfortune upon their own households. The children of broken homes want no divorce in theirs.

DEAR MISS DIX—How can a girl tell whether or not a man will make a good husband?

TWO GIRLS.

ANSWER—Unless she is a seer with second sight and has the gift of prophecy, there is no way by which a girl can absolutely foretell what sort of a husband a man will make. She has to take his word for it that he will be as good a lover after marriage as he is before, and that he will never criticize her cooking, or ask her whether that thing she has on her head is a hat or last year's bird's nest

But while picking out a husband is always more or less of a guessing game, there are certain signs and portents that will give a girl a few good tips on what sort of a husband a man will make. For instance, the bad risks are: Mama's baby boy, the man with a Yale lock on his pocketbook, the gourmet who thinks he knows how to cook, the man who passes into silence if he can't have the floor, or else breaks up the party with his monologues. And, most of all, beware the man who begins bossing you even before the marriage.

Of Interest to Women

Social Situations

SITUATION: When you are a newcomer to town a couple is helpful and friends but later you make other friends you enjoy more.

WRONG WAY: Completely drop the people who were so friendly to you when you knew no one.

RIGHT WAY: Even though you don't see them as often as you once did, don't drop them completely, after having accepted their kindness when you were lonely and were grateful for it.

Menus For Special Purposes

By MARY MOORE

Low-Calorie Dinner
4 oz. Minute Steaks (260 cal.)
Worcestershire Sauce or Horseradish
Baby Limas (2-3 cup 125 cal.)
Spinch with Lemon (no butter, 1 cup 22 cal.)
Canned Montmorency or Byng Cherries (2-3 cup with sugar syrup 90 cal.)
Clear Coffee (0 cal.)

High-Calorie Low-Cost Dinner
Hamburg Casserole with Stuffing (see note)
Baked Parsnips with Carrots (see note)
Shredded Green Celery and Savoy Cabbage Salad with Mayonnaise
Blueberry Pie Coffee

One-Burner Dinner
Oxtail Stew with Potato Dumplings
Celery in Tomato Jelly Moulds on Lettuce with Cottage Cheese
Orange Icebox Cake Coffee

Directions

We liked the hamburg casserole with stuffing because my family likes anything stuffed. Line a buttered or greased round baking dish with hamburg meat which has been salted, making the layer about ½ inch thick over bottom and around sides; fill to within about 1 inch thick over bottom and around sdies; fill to within about 1 inch of top with white bread stuffing flavoured wih poultry dressing and finely chopped onion which has been sauteed in a little butter; flavour the stuffing with plenty of salt and pepper. Cover with a top layer of hamburg meat about ½ to ¾ inch thick. If desired brush top with oil, or catsup or tomato juice. Bake in oven of 325 deg. Fahr. for about 1¼ hours. When serving "spoon" this.

I have printed directions for parsnip and carrot casserole before but think it is a good month to repeat it:

Pare and cut parsnips and carrots in 2-inch pieces. Place in buttered casserole, sprinkle with salt and a little white pepper and dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Put on cover snugly and bake a 350 deg. Fahr. for about 1½ hours or until vegetables are tender. This is a good way to cook root vegetables in the winter when there flavour is impaired by long storage.

The Oxtail Stew should contain a large oxtail, some carrots, onions, celery, tomatoes and during the last 12 or 15 minutes Potato Dumplings made by beating together 1½ medium-sized mashed potatoes, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ½ tablespoon melted shortening or butter, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 beaten egg, ½ tablespoon each flour and bread crumbs. Drop from tablespoon into boiling stew. Cover closely and boil until light—about 12 minutes. These amounts make 5 dumplings.

Orange Icebox Cake: Soften 1 tablespoon gelatine in ¼ cup orange juice for 5 minutes. Add 1-3 cup sugar and ½ cup boiling water to it and stir to dissolve gelatine and sugar. Mix together 12 cut up marshmallow and ¼ cup orange pulp in pieces. Add ¾ cup orange juice to the gelatine mixture. When the gelatine mixture begins to stiffen beat it until it is fluffy. Fold in the orange pieces, marshmallows and 1 cup whipping cream whipped. Line a pan with waxed paper, arrange a layer of lady fingers or sponge or butter cake on bottom and around sides. Pour in filling. Chill overnight. Unmould and garnish with whipped cream and orange sections. These amounts are too big for a small family, but this keeps very well and is a general favourite.

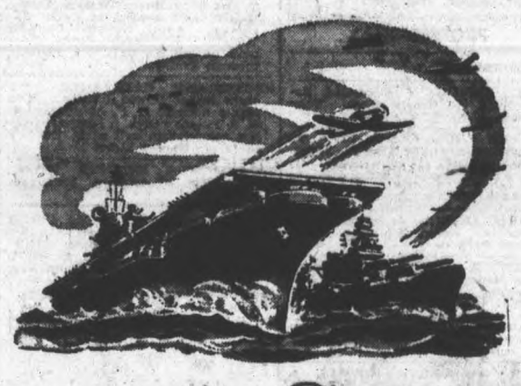
THE NAVY LEAGUE Of Canada Needs Your Support



The Navy League of Canada was formed to render service to the men of the seas; to operate hostels, provide meals, entertainment, look after their welfare ashore and to keep the morale of the sailor and the merchant seaman at a high pitch.

The Navy League In Action!

The League has 23 hostels operating in Canada for the use of the seamen returning from the seas. Funds are needed to keep these hostels equipped with games, books and other recreational facilities.

The merchant seaman who signs on from voyage to voyage is particularly benefitted by the Navy League, which provides a place of shelter.

The Navy League of Canada is also responsible for the formation of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets. This has been a great help in training our youth of today.

The work of the Navy League is vitally important, so remember that your donation to the Community Chest Fund will enable the League to continue its fine work.

Blizzards Open New Front In North Dakota

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—(AP). — The misery-dealing blizzards in the Western United States have opened up a broad new front in North Dakota today with the worst 24 hours of weather the West has had in two weeks.

Six North Dakota counties were added to the disaster area as a result of week-end storms which stalled relief and rescue operations in some parts of Nebraska and reduced them by 50 per cent in others.

A minor tornado damaged a few buildings at Edna, in Southeastern Kansas. At Alvarado, Tex., strong winds lifted some residences from foundations and scattered them over a wide area. There were no fatalities at either place, but damage at Alvarado was estimated at $50,000.

In Southern California, temperatures sank deep into subfreezing levels again.

The new North Dakota emergency area embraces six southwestern counties. Additional snow fighting equipment was moved into the 7,500-square-mile area today from other sections where the need for it was less acute. The Red Cross has begun a survey of urgent need with the use of six ski planes. Farmers and ranchers were reported in need of food and fuel.

In South Dakota, the United States Army had opened 921 miles of roads, but the gain was lost by wind which choked off another 1,000 miles by drifting snow.

Despite additional snowfall of from two to six inches in Wyoming, the Union Pacific Railroad hoped to clear today the last stretch of its snow-clogged right-of-way between Rawlins and Rock Springs, Wyo., and to resume operations of trains.

Truck Injures Baby Sitter

LINDSAY, Feb. 14. — Lindsay police are looking for a hit and run truck driver who early Sunday morning knocked down Caroline Haugh, 36 Peel St., at an intersection. Mrs. Haugh was returning from a "baby sitter" job. She yelled at the driver as she was about to be run down. The driver applied the brakes, the rear of the truck slewed and knocked the woman to the pavement. She was rendered unconscious and was picked up later by a passer-by. She suffered a large bump on the head.

Remand Hotel Keeper On Assault Charge

LINDSAY, Ont., Feb. 14 (CP)— Gordon Stewart, 27 - year - old hotel keeper of Selkirk, about 30 miles south of Brantford, today was remanded one week on $2,000 bail on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Hazel Collinson of Fenelon Falls.

The Crown alleged that the six-foot Stewart struck Mrs. Collinson so hard with a .22 rifle that the butt broke off the gun. The offence took place Feb. 10 and Mrs. Collinson has been in Lindsay hospital since.

Two Boys Of 14 Years Rescue Three Children

CORNWALL, Feb. 14 (CP) — Two 14-year-old Cornwall boys rescued three neighborhood children from their blazing home Saturday. Gerald Roderick and Robert Lalonde dashed into the smoke-filled dwelling and carried the children of Cecile Currier to safety. Firemen succeeded in checking the flames after they had damaged the rear of the frame residence.

Haultain Church Names Officers

The Annual Vestry Meeting of Holy Trinity Church, Haultain, was well attended and showed an advance in attendance and offerings for the past year, with the financial obligations met in full. The following were elected to serve during 1949: Wellie Dunford, Incumbent's Warden; Norman Bolton, People's Warden; Mrs. Mary Thompson, Treasurer; Douglas Dunford, Lay Delegate; Milford Bolton (alternate); Doris Bolton, Organist; Mrs. D. Fowler, Envelope Secretary; Orval Bolton, John Stone, George Booth, Douglas Dunford, Donald Fowler Milford Bolton, Sidesmen.

15 At WMS Meeting

COTTESLOE, Feb. 14 (ENS)— Fifteen women attended the WMS meeting at the home of Mrs. Merd. Clysdale. Mrs. Jack Kidd was sec'y for the meeting. Prayers were given by Miss Helen Tedford and Mrs. F. Toms. Mrs. Johnnson Blakley gave the offertory prayer. The scripture Reading was read by Mrs. Howard Patterson. Mrs. Chas. McMillan gave a reading on China. Mrs. J. S. Kidd gave a temperance reading.

It was decided to join with the Warsaw church for the Day of Prayer. The Study Book was well given by Mrs. Geo. Barr. Mrs. John Gallaher sang "Tell me His Name Again." Plans for the March meeting were made to be held at Mrs. Howard Harnden's.

WHAT EVERY Middle-Aged Woman
SHOULD KNOW!

When tears come too easily . . . when you get upset or panicky over the unexpected . . . when you feel "all in" and just a bundle of nerves . . . these may be signs of bodily changes which every woman must undergo in her middle years.

But don't be alarmed! Many women pass through this period serenely—by using common sense and taking good care of themselves. Extra sleep, plenty of fresh air and wholesome food are sound rules. And you'll also find a good tonic, such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, is most helpful in building up your vitality and restoring a brighter outlook on life.

For over 50 years, Canadian women have relied on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to help overcome a tendency towards nerves and hysteria at such times. Containing Vitamin B1, iron and other needed minerals, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has helped so many to rest better, eat better, feel better—whenever their nerves get on edge and they feel run-down. Let Dr. Chase's Nerve Food help you, too! Get the large "economy size" today. 15

GermanRedsProclaim State Of Distress

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 —(CP)— German Communists declared a "national state of distress" Sunday, the New York Times says in a dispatch from Berlin.

They also ordered a propaganda offensive to spread the impression that the United States is preparing for war and is determined to maintain the division of Germany, the story says.

The German People's Council, puppet administration of the Russian zone, called for a country-wide resistance movement against the Western powers to eliminate conditions they said had necessitated the declaration, the story continues.

Taegliche Rundschau, Soviet army newspaper, was quoted as saying "peace demonstrations" will be held throughout the Russian zone and in the Soviet sector of Berlin.

Placards proclaiming Russia's desire for peace and the alleged determination of the United States to provoke another war are to be posted in villages that newspapers and radios do not reach, the Times says. Newspapers, the radio and other media of publicity are to be used in the campaign.

The pioneer woman made her own soap. Water seeping through wood ashes in a barrel or piece of hollow log, produced lye. Soap was made by boiling this lye with fat in an iron kettle. In the soap plants of today, soap is made by boiling vegetable oils with caustic soda (lye). Salt is added to cause the excess alkali and by-products to settle to the bottom. Lye and salt corrode most metal vessels. Corrosion affects the color, purity and keeping qualities of soap. So most vessels and containers are made of Nickel alloys. They resist corrosion, last longer, protect the purity and color of the soap.

Nickel Brings Dollars to Canada

Since more than ninety per cent of the Nickel produced in Canada is sold to the United States and other countries, it brings a constant flow of dollars back to Canada. In fact, Canada's Nickel industry is one of our chief sources of U.S. dollars so essential at the present time to maintain our foreign trade and make available products not produced in this country.

These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees, and help provide the dollars which make it possible to pay millions in freight to Canadian railways, to buy timber, steel, coal, machinery and supplies amounting to many millions each year.

These millions, flowing into all industries through the length and breadth of Canada, help create jobs for Canadians.

Bob Hope Enjoys 15,000-Mile Tour Across U.S.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14 (AP)—The state of the union is good. So Bob Hope reports after seeing 15,000 miles of it.

"Wherever I went, I found people prosperous and happy," he remarked.

The Hope tour testifies to the prosperity of the United States (and the comedian's drawing power). Besides playing a number of benefits, he benefited himself by $612,000 in gross receipts from shows on his month's trip. In one night alone, he drew $32,000.

Bob is taking home many souvenirs he collected on the junket.

"It was fabulous," he enthused. "Why, in Abilene, they gave me a registered bull and heifer. In Cleveland, I got a Shetland pony. My kids can hardly wait until I get it here."

Whirlwind Tour.

Bob said the whirlwind tour made him feel better than he has in two years. "I'm going to try to made a regular thing of it," he declared. "The amount of friendship you encounter is worth it in itself."

The comic was celebrating his first week back by doing his own radio show, an hour dramatic show and a luncheon for the Federal Bureau of Investigation. ("After making all this money, I'd better keep on the good side of them").

Now comes a two-month rest at his home in Palm Springs, or so he said.

Among the projects he is mulling is a flying trip to entertain troops in Tokyo, such as the jaunt he made to Berlin last Christmas. He would do his air shown from over there and perhaps play an engagement in Hawaii, too.

He's eying television, which he will leap into as soon as it's more profitable. His next picture for Paramount, a remake of "Ruggles of Red Gap" you might say he's a busy man.

Chamber Wants Volunteer For Fire Brigade

MARMORA, Feb. 14 —(ENS)—"Conservation Night" was observed by the Marmora District Chamber of Commerce at the dinner meeting Thursday evening, Alex Fraser presided.

Guest included Marmora's former physician Dr. H. Crawford, Tom Wrightmyer and Bert Wells of the Carling Conservation Club, F. G. Cushing barrister of Belleville and C. W. Glading of Belleville.

Bernard Hughes, for the Waterworks and Sewage Committee said his committee hopes to have a report to present in a few months as to the cost of a scheme for the village.

President Fraser then announced the slate of new directors for the two year term. They are G. Forestell, C. Heath, F. R. Loveless, H. Neath, W. M. Regan, B. Hughes and C. Russell. Reeve V. M. Lynch drew attention to a meeting to be held in the Town Hall next Wednesday evening to discuss the possibility of a volunteer fire brigade. He also touched upon the question of side walk shovelling mentioning that at the present time, the Council felt that if any action should be taken by them it should be to include this as an extra convenience in preference to passing a bylaw making snow shovelling compulsory Reeve C. H. Buskard of Deloro guest speaker, gave an address on soil and water conservation basing his remarks on knowledge obtained as he and seventy others visited a district in Central Ohio last year where a project combining these two classes of conservation had been carried out. The remainder of the evening was spent in the viewing of technicolor movies on the conservation of wild life shown by Norman, O. Lee of the Carling Conversation Club. The films showing the Salmon run on the Fraser River and the study of the habits of the moose off the shores of Lake Superior proved highly instructive to the gathering. The next meeting will be held on March 10 and will be characterized as "Press Appreciation Night."

Decide Fate Of 2 Women By Next Week

WINNIPEG, Feb. 14 (CP). — Whether Isabel Blanchette, 21, and Winnifred Panchuk 200, now held as material witnesses in the slaying of Edgar Frenette, will be indicted or freed probably will be known some time next week.

Frenette 26, St. Boniface, Man., hotelkeeper, died May 30, the day after an attempted robbery at his hotel. The Crown alleged the two women and two men — Daniel Patrick Palso 15, and James Edward Campbell 18—attempted the robbery.

The four were arrested at Kenora June 1. Blanchette and Panchuk have been in custody since then.

Palso now is on trial for Frenette's murder. Palso's counsel has protested the detention of the two women since June 1, and argued this week that the Crown had had nine months in which to decide what charges, if any, would be laid against them.

"It's a disgrace to keep a woman or any person locked up for nine months," said the lawyer, L. D. Morosnick. He was told the two had every right to be released provided they could raise the bail.

Mr. Morosnick demanded Miss Blanchette's indictment on a murder charge in connection with the case. Mr. Justice W. J. Donovan said the question of an indictment rested with the Attorney-General's Department.

However, a report on what would be done with the material witnesses likely will be given at the end of the trial, expected next week.

Husband Captures Man Threatening Wife

TORONTO, Feb. 14 — (CP).—A man who had followed Mrs. Walter Morrison on to her East-end verandah as she came home from work early Sunday and pushed and threatened her fled when the woman kicked twice on the door to signal her husband.

The husband chased the man over dozen backyard fences and captured him after a half-hour running battle in which the fugitive used boots as well as fists. Marched to police station by Morrison, the man gave his name as Ronald Rothwell 25, and was charged with assault and wounding. The Morrisons came here from England 11 months ago.

Brother Arrested Minister Resigns

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 14 (CP).—Rev. Harold U. Trinier, pastor of Maitland Street Baptist Church Sunday handed his resignation to the Board of Deacons of his congregation.

He said he was resigning because of a misfortune which touched his personal life. He did not want the reputation of his church to suffer as a result.

Wearing women's clothes and pancake makeup, Mr. Trinier's younger brother Keith was arrested after an early morning chase on Sunday and accused of being London's "Phantom Female." Keith is being held in city jail on two charges of theft.

J. J. Gilmore, chairman of Maitland Street's Board of Deacons said no action has been taken on his pastor's resignation. Mr. Trinier presided at worship services on Sunday.

Road Death Results In True Bill

H. Overholt, Omemee To Stand Trial In Highway Fatality

Harley L. Overholt of Omemee will stand trial on a charge of manslaughter at the current sitting of the Supreme Court in Peterborough, the Hon. Mr. Justice Smiley presiding. A true bill was returned against him by a grand jury late on Monday.

The charge arises out of the death of a 26-year-old trucker, Edwin Morrow, of RR 8 Peterborough on Christmas Eve. Morrow was killed as a result of a side-swipe collision between his truck and Overholt's car.

Overholt was committed for trial by a higher court after his preliminary hearing before Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, on January 26.

Morrow's truck crashed through a guard rail beside No. 7 Highway after the impact and came to rest against several trees. He died while on the way to hospital in an ambulance.

Leo Buck, Oxford St., a passenger in the truck, escaped with facial injuries and cuts on his arm.

The grand jury with J. E. Girven, Mark St., as foreman, returned their verdict after about two hours of hearing evidence.

Overholt faces two charges: the first manslaughter and the second dangerous driving.

In his charge to the jurors Justice Smiley said: "You do not try him or find if he is guilty or not guilty, but see if there is sufficient evidence to justify his being put upon trial."

The Justice assured the grand jury that its members performed an important function. "You are assisting in the administration of justice in a most important way. The laws of our country are made by the people through their representatives."

In helping to administer these laws he said the grand jury lets the citizens know "there is no doubt that everyone receives fair consideration in matters coming before the court."

This gives the citizens assurance that their lives and property are well taken care of, he said.

Unless these laws are observed it will affect "everyone of us" said Justice Smiley. "We can't have laws kept unless the administration of these laws are respected by the people."

He outlined three functions of the grand jury: One, the preservation of life and the protection of property; two, "the protection of the liberty of the subject who may be accused of the crime; and three, the inspection of public institutions to ensure that they are maintained in an efficient way.

The Court House, County Jail, Old People's Home and the Children's Shelter were examined by a grand jury in December, he reminded the jurors. The House of Providence was inspected a year ago; Anson House, and St. Vincent's Orphanage, in June 1947. St. Joseph's and Civic Hospital, however, have not been looked over since February 1945.

Any or all of these may be inspected by the grand jury after it has discharged its duties in the pending manslaughter case, he said.

Soviet Arrests Author On Spying Charges

MOSCOW, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Moscow press announced today that Anna Louise Strong, well-known American author and correspondent, has been arrested on charges of spying and will be deported.

Miss Strong, who has been in Russia most of the time since 1921 writing books and articles which reflected a strong anti-Soviet viewpoint, is one of the seven American correspondents in Moscow. She is listed as representing the Allied Labor News.

The Soviet newspaper disclosed her arrest in the following announcement:

"The well-known intelligence operator, the American woman journalist, A. L. Strong, who got into the U.S.S.R. as a consequence of the carelessness of certain foreign-relations officials, yesterday was arrested by state security organs."

Sam Carr Hoping To Be Given Fair Trial

Tells Reporter He Has Nothing To Hide, Will Reveal Activities

TORONTO, Feb. 15—(CP) — A Toronto paper in an Ottawa dispatch today quoted Sam Carr—suspected key man of an exposed Russian spy ring in Canada—as saying "I have nothing to hide, and all that I can hope for now is a fair trial."

The newspaper—which obtained the interview through a "so-called 'friend' " of Carr—said that the former national organizer of the Labor-Progressive party claims he still is a member despite party avowals to the contrary.

Carr, arrested and deported to Canada by United States police last week after dropping out of sight more than two years ago, was reported as saying he was willing to "reveal any part that he might have played in the activities of so-called spy ring charged in the Royal Commission of 1946."

The Telegram said Carr denied reports that he had $11,000 in American currency when he was handed over to the RCMP at the border town of Prescott, Ont.

In answer to a question, Carr was reported as saying: "There's no reason, I suppose that I should not get a fair trial, but, in any event, I have the utmost confidence in my counsel, Miss Sarah Goldstick, of Toronto."

The paper said its reporter and Sam sat with a wire screen between them at Ottawa's Carleton County jail. Carr refused to answer when asked whether he thought his party had been "treacherous toward him."

The newspaper said it sent a list of 17 questions which Carr claimed he had answered "fearlessly," but the documents were confiscated by the Sheriff on "direct orders of (Ontario) Reforms Minister George Dunbar".

Constable Admits False Entry

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 15—(CP).—Provincial Constable J. E. Keays—whose allegations that Provincial Police officers committed perjury led to the appointment of a Royal Commission—today admitted making a false entry in his police diary. An entry for May 1, 1948, showing Keays employed on office duties, was false, he admitted under cross examination before Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay.

One of the allegations Keays has made in testimony before the Royal Commission is that Cpl. Sam Ervine of the Provincial Police falsified entries in his diary.

Keays said he had been ordered to begin a criminal investigation on May 1 in Prince Edward county. But Inspector W. A. Page ordered him off the case before he arrived at the scene. He made no entry of the incident in his diary, he said.

Mr. Justice Mackay, the Royal Commissioner, asked if Keays was under any coercion to make the false entry. Keays said only the "unpleasant" circumstances under which he was working.

Keays made the admission under questioning by Malcolm Robb, counsel for five of the officers.

"Why couldn't you have put down honestly the humble little part you planned in this investigation?" asked Mr. Robb.

"It was a mistake on my part," Keays said. "It should have been done."

He denied Mr. Robb's suggestion that he was "piqued" because he wasn't the "big shot" on the case.

Mr. Robb, produced registration cards for a Toronto hotel on March 25 and Feb. 14, 1948. Keays said he had been in Niagara Falls, Ont., on both dates and the writing on the card was not his.

Produce Judgment

Mr. Robb produced the judgment of Magistrate T. Y. Wills in the Leroy Woods case in 1948. The judgment indicated the magistrate believed Keays measured the scene of the accident the same day, Mr. Robb said.

"There is nothing there to indicate that," Keays said.

Keays testified Monday he made the measurements 16 days after the accident.

Woods was acquitted of drunk driving and convicted of dangerous driving. Keays alleges Cpl. Sam Ervine committed perjury and Constable G. R. Purdy submitted a false accident report.

Mr. Robb said Keays police diary contained an entry for Nov. 8, 1947, saying Keays had a conference with Donnan and a man named Roscoe Vandewater about the accident.

"I'm suggesting you never had that conference," Mr. Robb said.

"My evidence under oath is that I did," Keays replied.

Gave Purdy Pen

Keays testified he gave a pen, found at the accident, to Purdy on Nov. 8 but had never discussed the case with Purdy until Nov. 20.

"You silently handed the pen to Purdy, with no word of explanation from you and no request for information from him?" Mr. Robb asked.

"That is correct," Keays said.

Mr. Robb asked Keays about his testimony that in 1948, Inspector W. A. Pake had instructed Keays to organize an investigation

RCAF Evacuates 2 Eskimos Suffering From Gangrene

EDMONTON, Feb. 15—(CP).—A 14-year-old Eskimo boy who may provide the answer to the "mystery plague" at the Arctic hamlet of Cresswell Bay arrived in Edmonton today aboard an RCAF Dakota. One of the eight survivors of the outpost 1,000 airmiles north of Churchill, Man., the boy, Kamiuk, lost both feet from gangrene. Another of the plague-stricken Eskimos, Kavavow, also was aboard the plane but his condition is not serious.

The two were picked up yesterday by the RCAF at Fort Ross, south of Cresswell Bay, where all eight Eskimos were taken for evacuation.

Both were taken to hospital as soon as they landed. Doctors with the party said Kamiuk has a good chance to live if there are no complications.

They could not say immediately what the disease was from which nine of the Cresswell Bay Eskimos died.

Blame Food Poisoning

Two doctors who landed at Fort Ross yesterday said probably food poisoning was responsible for the illness.

The remainder of the Cresswell Bay survivors also are believed to be suffering from gangrene although this was not confirmed here. An RCAF spokesman said a landing would not be attempted at Fort Ross "for quite some time."

This was taken as an indication that their condition was not serious and medical supplies landed there yesterday will be enough to treat them.

Trans-Canada Road To Begin

OTTAWA, Feb. 15. (CP)— Resources Minister MacKinnon said Monday he hopes to see work started on the Trans-Canada Highway this year at an approximate cost of $260,000,000.

The minister said he met with a delegation from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., earlier in the day and told members he will introduce legislation in the Commons during the current session to implement Trans-Canada Highway construction.

The resources minister made it clear that the route of the highway was being left to the individual provinces to decide. Each province would decide the route within its own boundaries.

He also told the delegation the federal government was prepared to contribute at least 50 per cent to the total cost of building the highway.

$100,000 Fire Destroys Lodge

TORONTO, Feb. 15 — (CP) — A $100,000 blaze early today completely destroyed the Plaza Lodge, 50-room dance pavilion at Clarkson, about 20 miles west of here on the shore of Lake Ontario.

While fire companies from five Toronto suburbs battled the flames 25 families evacuated cabins at the rear of the lodge as flames and flying embers threatened their dwellings.

A heavy rain did more to save the cabins than the firemen, who were hampered by inadequate water pressure. The 25 families were able to move back into the cabins after the fire.

The brick and wooden lodge, formerly the Chicory Inn, had recently been offered for sale, with its furnishings, for $100,000. Cause of the fire has not been established although it is believed it started from a lighted cigaret.

A strong breeze from the lake fanned the flames which raced through most of the two-storey building before the first of the firemen arrived.

The fire's glow could be seen miles away, reflected on low-hanging clouds. Hundreds of spectators lined the lakeshore highway and police rerouted all motor traffic to the Queen Elizabeth way.

City of Tsingtao All Set To Go Red As Marines Leave

By CHARLES GORRY

SHANGHAI, Feb. 15 — (AP) — Tsingtao is a city of uncertainty.

Two months ago the people of Tsingtao cheered the sight of an American jeep. Today they throw stones at it. They blocked my way, refusing to let my jeep pass. Some shook their fists at me.

Their attitude seems to depend on the latest rumor as to whether the United States Navy is leaving or not. It varies from cheerful friendship toward Americans to open hostility.

Tsingtao, meanwhile, is all set to go Communist.

The mayor and police chief have departed, leaving subordinates whom they think will be acceptable to the Reds.

The Chinese Navy is pulling out with naval academy equipment.

Chinese Nationalist troops remaining in the city lack discipline. They often stand around, idly firing rifles into the air, or into the harbor if they happen to be on a dock.

The Reds need not battle to take the city. As I travelled about in Tsingtao, the people all had the same comment: "When the Communists come nobody will be poor. Everybody will have plenty to eat."

Of about 600 United States Marines still at Tsingtao, all are on the navy transport Chilton, except about 50 who form a shore patrol to protect American property against looting.

Besides the 78 Americans, Tsingtao has an estimated 1,600 foreigners, many of whom are stateless.

Since the withdrawal of 1,600 United States Marines a week ago, many shops and bars operated by foreigners have closed.

Blast At Coke Plant

KEARNY, NJ, Feb. 15 (AP)—A terrific blast at the Koppers Coke Plant here shortly before noon to-day shook Manhattan and New Jersey communities along the Hudson River.

Ambulances and emergency fire and police units were dispatched to the sprawling plant which employs some 800 persons. There were no immediate reports of casualties, although Hudson County Police said preliminary word was that "at least a couple of people were hurt."

40 Families Threatened Near Toronto

New Toronto Police Operate Car Ferry On Flooded Roadway

TORONTO, Feb. 15—(CP). — Unseasonable weather and last night's drizzling rain throughout Ontario brought most creeks and rivers to their spring flood level today. Most rural communities stood by to fight possible recurrences of the disastrous spring floods of last year.

From all sections of the province the water-rising report was the same.

Suburban Long Branch was threatened with high water of flood intensity by a large ice jam reported on the Etobicoke River near Brampton.

At St. Thomas the water was reported already within 18 inches of its highest recorded point and was rising at the rate of one inch an hour. Some 4½ feet of water was pouring over the dam.

At Highland Creek, on Toronto's eastern outskirts, some 40-60 families were threatened as creek waters boiled three feet over the Valley Road bridge of No. 2 Highway.

Only telephone connection with the village and the Valley was through an outside pay phone and no one was answering it today.

27 Accidents

Fog and icy streets and roadways accompanied last night's rain, making motoring difficult. In Toronto the slippery roadway accounted for 27 traffic accidents in which seven persons were injured—one of them seriously.

In suburban Long Branch the one street was reported under two feet of water as a small creek, which flows into the Etobicoke River, swelled its banks.

The river, cause of the township's previous flood disaster, was under control today, roaring out to the lake through a new channel cut by engineers as a flood-control measure.

Suburban New Toronto police operated a squad car ferry service across a flooding 300 feet of roadway. Pedestrians en route to work were carried through the 1½ feet of water in the police car.

Further fresh water damage was anticipated at Port Stanley, where there is an ice jam in the harbor.

Filchock To Play For Alouettes

MONTREAL, Feb. 15 (CP). — Flinging Frankie Filchock, ace of last year's Hamilton Tigers, has signed to play quarterback for Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four, it was made known to-day. Filchock will come to the Als on a two-year contract.

The story, given to one Montreal newspaper, said the deal for Filchock was closed in Toronto last Saturday.

(In Toronto Coach Lew Hayman of the Alouettes protected the story, but did mention there that "a big yarn" about the team was due to be made public in Montreal. The Filchock story was that yarn.)

In the story appearing here there was no mention of money or on what terms Filchock agreed to come to Montreal.

Report Premier Sun Offers To Resign

SHANGHAI, Feb. 15—(AP)—Premier Sun Fo was reported today to have offered to resign.

The Shanghai newspaper Hua Mei Wan Pao said the Premier's offer had not been accepted by Acting President Li Tsung-jen.

The offer, said the newspaper, followed mounting demands for Nationalist unity to talk peace with the Communists.

The newspaper hinted that the growing rift between the Nanking and Canton branches of the Nationalist Government might result in acceptance of the resignation by Li.

Meanwhile, Gen. Ho Ying-China, former Defence Minister, is reported to have gone to Nanking to take a responsible position.

No More Troops

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 — (AP).—The United States Army has turned down a request by Gen. MacArthur for more troops. Army Secretary Royall said today the supreme allied commander in Japan had been told it would be "impractical" to send him any more. Royall made the statement to reporters on returning from an inspection trip to Japan where he conferred with MacArthur.

Cars Marooned Stay At Farms; Few Accidents

The most-prolonged sleet storm of the year started Monday night at 7:30 p.m., and by this morning it was estimated that .31 inches of moisture in the form of freezing rain had covered the countryside.

More annoyance, rather than trouble, was experienced by motorists. Conditions on the highway between the city and Bewdley were so glare that a transport in-bound from Hamilton slid into the ditch near Bailieboro. Several motorists were completely stranded on the same stretch of road. Those fortunate to make private driveways, availed themselves of various farmers' hospitality and stayed where they were till morning. Tire traction was almost nil, and at one time there were so many crawling cars, bumper to bumper, that the sanding trucks were unable to get ahead of them to start operation.

In the city, taxi and transport operators, with the exception of Hamilton-Peterborough, reported safe driving through the night. All driving was cautious and though some schedules were slowed up, there was little trouble. Private cars whose drivers were unable to negotiate the various iced hill sections of the city, were abandoned at the curb until this morning.

Utilities had only one break in their power lines, at Fowler's Corners, where a tree, weighed down by ice, fell over the line and severed the service through the night. Power was still off this morning at 10 a.m.

City Parks department had the most calls according to a wide check-up, the weight of sleet loaded old limbs with ice and sent them crashing to the pavement. Three men are engaged in gathering the broken limbs this morning and torn stubs will be attended to later.

Coach lines operated normally and were no more than a quarter of an hour late in completing schedules to and from the city. Most people whose services were at the mercy of the sleet storm were relieved to see the temperature rising this morning resulting in ice melting from windshields, trees and power lines. Weather recorder Jim Harrison, said that the barometer was still low which indicated that mild weather would continue for several hours.

Quash Conviction

TORONTO, Feb. 15 —(CP) — The Supreme Court of Ontario Monday quashed a conviction against James B. McGinn, Toronto lumber and hardware merchant, fined $3,000 eight months ago for selling nails at a price "higher than is reasonable or just." Chief Justice R. S. Robinson said there was "no evidence to warrant the finding that the price was unjust or unreasonable.

Ban On Lighting Removed For Stores And Signs As Power Supply Better

New Ruling Effective From 7 p.m. To 7 a.m. In Operation Today; No Easing Of Electric Heater Regulations

TORONTO, Feb. 15—(CP).—Lighting returns tonight to store windows, theatre marquees and canopies and the big electric signs in southern and southwestern Ontario. Hydro Chairman Robert Saunders last night announced lifting of the outdoor and commercial lighting restrictions on week nights from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. and both day and night throughout week-ends.

Otherwise, the restrictions, imposed to meet the power shortage which developed last fall, will continue during daytime. There will be no easing of regulations limiting use of electric water-heaters and space-heaters.

Mr. Saunders said easing of the restrictions was made possible by continued improvement in the power situation during the last few weeks.

A Record Day

The commission had a record day last Thursday, when generated and purchased power totalled 35,160,800 kilowatt hours, Mr. Saunders said.

The improvement was due in large measure to improved water conditions as a result of the mild weather and co-operation by consumers.

But Mr. Saunders added that it is still necessary to keep some of the power-saving rules in effect.

"We regret that we are unable to remove all restrictions at present, but it should be understood that our present position makes it necessary for us to make provision for certain unforeseeable emergencies," he said. "The restrictions now in effect will be removed as soon as sufficient power becomes available."

Frost Plans Budget For $200,000,000

TORONTO, Feb. 15 (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Frost said today he is preparing "a budget which obviously runs in the neighborhood of $200,000,000." This is slightly higher than the 1948 gross budget of $199,353,000.

In an interview he said because of weight of administering "two heavy departments, Mines and Treasury," will prevent him from running for the provincial leadership of the Progressive-Conservative party and Premier of Ontario.

Taxi Drivers Strike Ties Up Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15 (AP) —A taxi-drivers' contract walkout added to the woes of Philadelphia's beleaguered commuters today, but new hope of settlement arose in the city's five-day-old transit strike over wages.

The cab tie-up spread unexpectedly through the city shortly before midnight, 13 hours after officials of the Yellow Cab Company and the Taxi Drivers Union (AFL) announced a scheduled strike had been postponed until Thursday.

Coming at a time when most of the suburban rail lines had discontinued service for the night, the walkout left hundreds stranded outside night clubs, theatres and industrial plants.

Hundreds of Women See Stockings Vanish In Air

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP)—A fantastic run was reported here yesterday, and it wasn't on a bank. It was up and down milady's legs.

Hundreds of women pedestrians in downtown Jacksonville said their nylon hose simply went to pieces while they were wearing them.

It was just like that. You'd be walking along when all at once—rippity-rip—there it was, that bane of feminine chic and charm, a run in your stocking.

Health department officials took a few looks and notes and went into action. Dr. W. W. Rogers, the city health officer, said certain gases that mixed with air and smoke might have reacted with the nylon fibres and caused the sudden disintegration. He wasn't exactly sure, though.

Reading, Pa., got in on the act by saying it was all old stuff. Nylon hose had disintegrated there about a year ago, a chemist at a knitting mill said. He blamed the calamity on fumes discharged from a chemical plant.

Fumes from such strong acids as sulphuric and hydrochloric acid cause quick disintegration of nylon, the Reading chemist said.

Meanwhile, Jacksonville hosiery shops and counters were doing a fabulous business in replacements.

Jury Decides Train Deaths Double Suicide

MONTREAL, Feb. 15—(CP)— A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of double suicide in the St. Valentine's day deaths of Earl Fauman and Mrs. Martha Leona Kelly, both of Toronto.

The verdict followed testimony by medico-legal expert, Dr. Rosario Fontaine, who testified at the inquest he was of the opinion both fatal wounds were "self-inflicted."

The 28-year-old Mrs. Kelly, and Fauman, a Toronto lawyer, were found in a sleeping compartment aboard a Toronto-Montreal train when it arrived here yesterday morning.

Dr. Fontaine, key witness at the inquest which opened this morning under Coroner Dr. Richard Duckett, declared both Mrs. Kelly and Fauman "died from gunshot wounds through the mouth and brain and multiple fractures of the skull."

Both were married with families.

Dr. Fontaine said that in his opinion both victims had to open their mouths to permit entry of a gun muzzle before the death weapon was fired.

He said this was a .38 calibre revolver found in the sleeping compartment near Fauman's knee. From it two bullets had been fired and police recovered the spent shells. Also recovered were four bullets unfired.

Russians Hold War Manoeuvres

BERLIN, Feb. 15—(Reuters)—Extensive Russian troop movements in the Russian zone of Germany and combined air-submarine manoeuvres along the Baltic coast were reported here today by the American official German-language newspaper, Die Neue Zeitung.

"During the last few weeks Soviet troops in Mesklenburg have been showing lively activity.

"The strictest secrecy prevails particularly during night manoeuvres and attempts are being made to camouflage the widespread movements of troops," the paper added.

"The main body of the Soviet army group in Germany is concentrated along the Baltic and to the north and northwest in Mecklenburg and that part oof Pomerania that belongs to the Russian zone. Strongest troop concentrations are along the zonal border of Schleswig-Holstein and Mecklenburg.

"In Mecklenburg, the Russians are maintaining large naval contingents estimated at some 5,000 men."

Delegation Urges Lake Superior Road

TORONTO, Feb. 15 (CP) — A delegation from the Lake Superior Highway Association today urged the Ontario Government to build the Lake Superior route of the Trans-Canada highway.

The seven-man delegation presented a brief to Highways Minister Doucett arguing that the route along the north shore of Lake Superior would attract more tourists, be useful as a defence measure and would give Canada the shortest possible highway link through Ontario between east and west.

Wants Limit On Action If Attacked

Unprovoked Aggression Only Commitment For Aid—Senator Asks

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—(AP)—Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep. Iowa) said today the United States should be "morally committed" to act under the proposed North Atlantic Alliance only in cases of unprovoked aggression against a member.

Hickenlooper's observation came after Chairman Tom Connally (Dem. Tex.) of the Foreign Relations Committee and Senator Arthur Vandenburg (Rep. Mich.) had made it plain that the United States Senate will not approve any treaty language which would morally commit the country to go to war.

The Connally-Vandenberg statement was made in response to questions yesterday by Senator Forrest C. Donnell (Rep. Mo.). it generally was regarded by political circles here as involving a setback for the Senate Department in its efforts to negotiate the proposed alliance of Britain, the United States and Canada with friendly European countries.

Hickenlooper, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, told a reporter he agrees the United States ought not to make a blanket commitment to fight.

Wants Safeguards

"We don't want to enter any agreement in which a member nation can go out and provoke a war and expect us to fight for it.

"But if we enter the agreement and there occur what we ourselves decide is an actual, unprovoked act of aggression against one of our friends, then I think we will have the moral obligation to take such action as is necessary to meet it."

There was evidence that Connally and Vandenberg had something of the same sort in mind.

Vandenberg said there could be no "automatic commitment" for war, but "obviously, something is meant by a general assertion that we find common interest in our mutual safety."

Connally said there are many "who would favor automatically going to war, which would mean letting European nations declare war and letting us fight."

Connally said he and Vandenberg have been making it plain to Acheson that the Senate will not approve of "any sort of language in an international agreement which would commit us to go to war when some other country in Europe might be attacked."

Fresh Blizzards Halt Road Traffic

CHICAGO, Feb. 15—(AP)—Fresh blizzards put a virtual halt to road travel over storm-battered southern Wyoming and southern Idaho today and flood dangers mounted higher in the blizzard-stricken areas of Nebraska.

Winds diminished and temperatures moderated over the northern plains states, giving new hope to relief workers that digging operations will not be further hampered.

SARNIA, Feb. 15—(CP)—Police Monday arrested Jack Stewart of Sarnia township in a grocery store here, shortly after he was alleged to have used a gun to threaten the proprietor, Oliver Konecny. Konecny said he wrested the weapon from Stewart, and kept him covered until police arrived.

into a break-in in Prince Edward County.

He asked to see entries in Keays' police diary and Keays replied there was no entry in the diary about the case.

"I was no part of that investigation," Keays said. "I was instructed to return to Belleville."

Mr. Robb said the diary showed Keays had been in the office from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m.?" Mr. Robb asked.

"No," said Keays.

"Then this diary entry is false?" he asked.

"Yes," Keays replied.

Mr. Robb asked if entries for other dates were true or false.

Keays said he would have to see the diary.

"It is fair to tell him what the entry is" interjected Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay.

Mr. Robb said he was trying to establish whether or not Keays was in the habit of making false entries in his diary. Keays said sometimes he filled the diary out for a week at a time when he was on office duty.

Persecution Complex

Mr. Robb said the report of Constable C. Siple made no mention of Keays in the investigation. He asked if Keays and Siple had been "putting their heads together" to try and show Keays was being persecuted.

Keays said that was not true.

He said Sgt. E. F. Hartleib, Constable James Richmond and Constable Siple were discriminated against.

Mr. Robb asked if these men had made a formal complaint. Keays said he did not think so.

"So far as the Woods case is concerned, any idea of perjury, discrimination or grievance arose first of all in the mind of Keays?" asked Mr. Robb.

"Yes, sir," Keays said. "Based on fact."

Mr. Robb asked Keays about the double slaying of John Miki and Provincial Constable Harold Dent at Navan, Ont., in 1940.

Miki shot Dent and then was fatally shot by Sgt. J. A. Stringer. Keays claimed Stringer lied at the coroner's inquest and that Inspector T. W. Cousans ordered suppression of evidence.

Mr. Robb asked how many people Keays had told "this story about Sgt. Stringer."

"I didn't spread it," Keays replied. He had told only Sgt. Hartleib and Judge C. W. A. Marion, crown attorney for Prescott and Russell counties at the time of the shooting.

No Statement

Keays said he was instructed not to take a statement from George Smith, the man who drove Stringer in pursuit of Miki.

Mr. Robb again turned to the 1946 fraud trial in which E. M. Carefoot of Belleville was acquitted. Reading from the transcript of the evidence, he asked Keays to confirm his testimony that Carefoot was not investigated under the Medical Act. Keays said that was correct.

He then produced a police report, signed by Keays, which said Carefoot was practising medicine without a licence.

"Do you believe it was an honest answer to tell Magistrate (T. Y.) Wills that you investigated nothing in connection with the Medical Act?" asked Mr. Robb.

"Definitely," said Keays, he said his instructions were not to investigate Carefoot, but to assist Inspector Monahan of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. The investigation was carried out with a view to laying charges of fraud, not charges under the Medical Act.

Keays said he could not conceive that he had given the magistrate a false answer.

Mr. Robb said Keays had also told the magistrate he was the only officer with a key to the provincial police store room. He said three other officers also had keys.

Refused Car

The evidence was given when Carefoot was prosecuted on a narcotics charge. He was acquitted but a new trial was ordered and is pending.

Mr. Robb said Keays had complained that Inspector W. A. Page refused to permit him to drive a government car and he had had to borrow a car to go to Toronto for a conference at the attorney general's department.

Keays said he had not applied for a police car to go to Toronto.

Keays had testified that Page had wrongfully accused him of stealing files from the Provincial Police office at Picton.

Mr. Robb asked eKays if he had looked at any files. Keays said he had looked at a file in the Picton office listing police officers in the district.

Keays said he did not open a filing cabinet himself.

It was after that that files were reported missing.

Mr. Robb said he intended to prove Constable Harry Caldwell found Keays looking in his files Keays said that was not true.

Stool Pigeon

Mr. Robb asked Keays about a dispute with inspector, then constable, Tom Trimble in 1943. Mr. Robb said Keays had accused Trimble of being "the commissioner's stool pigeon."

"That's what he said I said," Keays replied.

Keays agreed that "if it had been said" it would have been a "shocking and shameful" thing to say.

Keays said Trimble had mentioned the statement to him and he had denied saying it.

"The conversation was not heated," Keays said.

Mr. Robb asked if Keays had put in a report, accusing Constable J. B. Driscoll of falsely reporting a grease job to a police car.

Keays said he told Driscoll was "a pathological liar."

Mr. Robb said: "I suggest to you that ever since you arrived in 1944 you've held Constable Driscoll up to ridicule because he is a Roman Catholic."

"I've never ridiculed him," said Keays.

Keays said he too was a Roman Catholic.

Asks Provinces Consulted About Union

OTTAWA, Feb. 15 — (CP) — Shoud the provinces be consulted about Newfoundland's union with Canada?

That debate-provoking constitutional question may be answered in the Commons today in a recorded vote.

It was injected into the simmering union debate yesterday by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, through a motion urging the dominion to consult "at once" with the provinces and not take the union issue a step further until those consultations have been brought to a "satisfactory conclusion."

Mr. Drew said he had nothing against the union with Newfoundland but he did want to protect the provinces against constitutional changes being made without their consent.

The question produced a rising debate and battle-lines were quickly drawn.

Front-rank government speakers said there was no basis for the argument that the provinces first had to be consulted on national issues. The Fathers of Confederation never intended that the provinces should have the right to veto expansion of Canada.

CCF Backs Liberals

The CCF party threw its support behind the government and the Social Crediters said they would vote with the Progressive Conservative party.

The debate stemmed from a government motion for an address asking the United Kingdom parliament to amend the British North America Act to give the union full force.

Mr. St. Laurent introduced the motion and said the government was following a precedent established in 1931 when the national resources of Alberta and Saskatchewan were returned to the provinces by the Dominion through an amendment to the BNA Act passed by the British Parliament.

Then Mr. Drew threw the debate wide open, attaching his call for provincial consultation to the main motion as an amendment and warning the provinces that if the constitution was amended now by a mere majority decision of parliament it could be amended "in any other case in the same way."

Only Safeguard

"This," he said, "is no time to take short cuts which would have the effect of lessening respect for the constitution."

Consultation with the provinces on constitutional changes was their only guarantee that their rights would be safeguarded.

Justice Minister Garson, arguing that the union procedure was sound, said the sections of the BNA Act providing for Newfoundland's entry into Confederation made no mention of consultation with the provinces.

R. Low, supporting the Progressive Conservative move, said the issue of union should be referred to the provinces for their approval. If two-thirds of them found union favorable, then it could be brought about.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, suggested that "chaos" would be brought into the Constitution if the provinces were consulted on constitutional questions which did not affect them except as component parts of the country as a whole. The proposal was purely and simply one of national responsibility.

Defence Minister Claxton, who helped negotiate the terms of union, termed Mr. Drew's amendment a challenge to the very concept of Confederation and a challenge to the right of Parliament to deal with matters affecting all Canadians.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Leroy (Satchel) Paige, the legendary Negro pitcher, nonchalantly announced Monday at Kansas City he had signed "a pretty good contract" with Cleveland Indians for 1949.

Satch admitted he had received a little hike in pay—he wouldn't say how much—over last year when the Indians were reported to have paid him about $15,000.

Satch, somewhere in his mid-40's, joined the Indians in mid-season last year after playing for years with the Kansas City Monarchs. He won six out of seven for Cleveland and saved four as a relief hurler.

At New York, four men pleaded guilty Monday to charges that they tried to "fix" a college basketball game by offering a player $1,000 to see that his team lost by at least 16 points. Pleading guilty to bribery and conspiracy charges were Joseph Aronowitz, 35, Philip Klein, 34, and Jack Levy, 40. The fourth man, William Rivlin, 43, pleaded guilty to conspiracy.

Sid Smith of Pittsburgh Hornets piled up eight points last week to take over the leadership of the American Hockey League's scoring race from Carl Liscombe of Providence Reds, it was announced at New York Monday night. Smith has 81 points to the 79 compiled by Liscombe. However, Liscombe retained his goal scoring lead with 45 goals to Smith's 44.

Johnny Chad with 77 points. Roger Bedard with 72 and Harvey Fraser with 74 followed the leaders to give Providence four of the first five placings. Bedard leads in assists with 53.

Armistice Optimism

RHODES, Feb. 15—(AP)—An air of optimism marked armistice talks between Egypt and Israel Monday. An authoritative source said he now feels an agreement is certain. A source close to the Egyptian delegation said Egypt had announced willingness to agree to demilitarization of three strategic Negev desert towns, control of which has been one of the knotty issues in the talks.

Tables Turned

WELLAND, Feb. 15—(CP) — A defence witness, Edward W. Warren, 33, of Windsor, testifying Monday for two persons accused of theft, was himself arrested and charged with the theft while the two accused were freed. Four Windsor residents, Reginald Webb, 30, Larry Robicheud, 28, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Curley, had been arrested for stealing articles from cars at a tourist cabin last June 3. Webb and Robichaud had been freed and the Curleys were tried Monday.

simply dissolve and disappear by this one simple, safe and sure method. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store, sprinkle on a hot, wet cloth, and apply gently—every blackhead will be gone.

Coalton ran in an inconspicuous overnight race at Miami's Hialeah track Monday and Calumet Flyer knocked 3-5ths of a second off the track record and equalled the world's record for the mile and a furlong. The marks won't go into the racing record books.

Coupled with Free America as a Calumet Farm entry, Coaltown covered the 1⅛-mile route in 1:47 3-5th of a second better than Hialeah's track record shared by Brevity and Stagehand and equal to the world mark set by Indian Broom in 1936 and later equalled by Shannon 2nd.

At Chicago, White Sox officials said Monday night that the club has made an offer of cash and players to Philadelphia for hurler Phil Marchildon of Penetanguishene, Ont. Details were not revealed.

Kennedy Gov't Supported Twice In Division

TORONTO, Febz. 15—(CP)—The Ontario Legislature resumes the throne speech debate today after a lively sitting yesterday in which the Progressive Conservative Government was twice supported in a division.

Premier Kennedy and CCF Leader E. B. Jolliffe, leader of the Opposition, today will speak in the throne speech debate.

The House voted 60 to 22 yesterday to support a ruling by Speaker Rev. M. C. Davies of Walkerville.

W. J. Grummett (CCF-Cochrane South) appealed a ruling of the Speaker that Premier Kennedy was in order in giving precedence to a government resolution to refer charges of irregularity in the election last June of Education Minister Porter to a select committee on privileges and elections. Mr. Grummett had a similar resolution on the order paper and sought to have it considered first. The CCF were supported by the two Labor-Progressive members.

Mr. Grummett then moved an amendment to the Premier's motion to give the committee authority to examine under oath certain persons concerned with the St. George by-election but not responsible under the Elections Act. He declined to accept assurances of Attorney-General Blackwell that the committee already had such authority under Legislature rules.

In the second division of the day, the amendment was defeated 53 to 32. Ten Liberal and the two LPP members supported the CCF. Three Liberal members—H W. Walker (Welland), G. T. Gordon (Brantford), and E. B. McMillan (Kent East)—voted with the Government in opposing the amendment. The original motion was carried without division.

LONDON. — Decision to allow the Feb. 17 speaking engagement of Stanley Ryerson, secretary of the Ontario - Labor-Progressive party, was reached at the University of Western Ontario Monday.

Much News About A Boundary Survey

Within the last two weeks many Canadian papers have given prominence to a survey of the Manitoba-Ontario boundary. They have been justified in doing so, for the feat of cutting a swathe through a wilderness of hundreds of miles of rock and wood to mark on the ground a boundary which heretofore had existed only on maps, was noteworthy. In fact, so remarkable was it that the Examiner felt justified in carrying as early as December 6th, 1947, pictures and a story about it written by the Examiner's own staff writer. We shall not be falsely modest about our records. We have carried three special articles on the Manitoba boundary survey in the last fifteen months—during the survey and after its completion in April, 1948. It is gratifying to us and justly deserved by the men who made the survey, that now other papers, both metropolitan and provincial, are at last giving front-page prominence to the exploit.

Our readers will remember from the specially written articles which have appeared in the Examiner that Mr. John W. Pierce, a Peterborough surveyor, began the work of defining the boundary in 1921. He ran off the first leg of the survey with such astounding accuracy that he missed the point he was aiming at by only five feet. Sixteen years later Mr. Pierce added another 144 miles to the survey, with equal accuracy. Last winter Mr. Pierce's son, John G. Pierce, became second-in-command of a party led by Edward Gauer of Manitoba. Their task was to complete the boundary line. Through 160 miles of the roughest country in Northern Ontario they cut a path with such precision and technical skill that, when John G. Pierce looked through his transit near the shores of Hudson Bay, he found that the line was but fifteen feet, eight inches, from the cement cairn which representatives of the Geodetic Department of the Federal Government, approaching by sea, had set up years before to mark the Hudson Bay end of the boundary.

Because it was a remarkable engineering feat, and a task carried on by father and son over a 27-year period, the line will probably be known in Canadian history as the Pierce-Gauer Line. Such fame is deserved by the two Pierces of Peterborough and Edward Gauer.

Are Ontario Courts Too Lenient?

The Ottawa Journal draws attention to the case of five Toronto boys who were arrested last October for robbing a drug store, and for shooting the proprietor in the stomach; they were given penitentiary terms, and a total of 80 lashes among them. Now the Court of Appeal has excused them from the lashes, and mitigated their sentences to a maximum of two years each in a reformatory. The Journal asks if this is not too lenient?

In our opinion, it most certainly is. Understandably our courts shrink from extreme severity, but in our imperfect world and with our rough-and-ready system of justice some severity must be shown toward vicious characters, or the deterrent effect of punishment will be completely lost. Society must defend itself against those who are anti-social until some superior method of treatment for criminals is found.

At present there is a great deal of half-baked, sentimental talk about first offenders. Popular psychology and amateur criminology suggest that boys who get themselves into trouble for the first time should be given every inducement to go straight. Severe sentences are thought to create a grudge against society. We think that this is a dangerous half-truth. Our judges and magistrates are capable of deciding which first offenders are misguided youths, and which are corrupt and vicious young scoundrels. But surely boys who shoot a man while robbing him come under the second heading? Surely in this case too much consideration has been given to the young criminals, and not enough to the man whose life was endangered by them?

We make no plea for cruel judges or vengeful sentences. But we feel very strongly that flabby courts create more criminals than they cure.

A Thousand Dollars A Head

We freely admit to being not quite at our ease when faced by a figure with a dozen zeros trailing after it. For instance, we are respectfully astonished to read in a headline that Canadians produced more than $15,000,000,000 worth of goods in 1948. To be exact—in a round way—the value of the goods and services was $15,350,000,000, and that was a record, being 15 per cent. more than the value of the production in 1947. There is more to these figures than meets the eye, we are sure, so to our gratified astonishment is added bewilderment and some scepticism. For instance, the cost of living rose by 14 per cent. during the year. That cuts down the real increase in production. However, ordinary people cannot feel much reality in such arrays of figures; it is easier to believe in giants.

The Bureau of Statistics issued another figure over the week-end. It estimated the national income to be $12,802,000,000. We have succumbed to the temptation to over-simplify this figure, so as to give it some reality. For the sake of simple arithmetic we have divided that figure — roughly $13,000,000,000 — among all the people of Canada, who number—roughly—13,000,000. According to our calculation, each person, from nonagenerians to babies in cradles, therefore had an income of $1,000 last year. On the average, according to our arithmetic, a bachelor like Mr. Mackenzie King had an income of $1,000, and a married man of our acquaintance who has ten children had a total family income of $12,000. Of course, the money did not in reality divide quite in that way. However, the $1,000 a head seems to be quite a satisfactory level of income. Ten years earlier, in 1938, it was only slightly more than half that.

That Quaint Word "Beverage"

Looking through the "Menu For The Day" in a contemporary the other day we noticed that each meal was completed with a "beverage"; not "Tea, coffee or milk", or "Any suitable drink", but "beverage". And we have noticed that in restaurants the waitresses have stopped saying "What will you have to drink?"; they always say "What's your beverage?"

We are growing rather tired of the word "beverage". Indeed, we never liked it very much. In Fowler's excellent Modern English Usage it is listed under "Pedantic Humour", and it is in that category that we think it belongs. What has happened to the good old English word "drink"? It has not been discarded because some people foolishly use "drink" only when they mean intoxicating drinks, because the beer parlours are now called "beverage rooms", and the government reports which deal with such matters speak of "beverage alcohol".

Why this craze for a pompous, prissy word? What has got into the people of Canada that they should call all drinkable liquids "beverages"? It is rarely that our nation makes any attempt at elegance in the common speech; as a people, we Canadians use the English language with all the finesse of a gorilla playing a fiddle. Let us forget this nonsense about "beverages" and return to honest drinks—hot and cold, hard and soft.

Canada's Changing National Character

For many years Canada has been represented in political cartoons as a combination of farmer and woodsman—a rather peculiar figure in breeches and field-boots, a mackinaw shirt, and a Mountie hat; very often this creation was labelled "Canada", just so that there could be no mistake. Judge of our surprise when we discovered a cartoon in an American paper recently in which Canada was represented as a paunchy financier in top hat and morning coat!

Is that how we now look to the rest of the world? Not the hard worker, the muscular grappler with Nature in the raw, but the clipper of coupons, the director of the world's business? It is a compliment, in a way. It means, perhaps, that the world no longer thinks of Canada as a worthy, thrifty, but inconsiderable country cousin. It means that we are a weightier, wealthier, more formidable country than before. Yes, upon the whole we think that the change is a complimentary one.

A French circus performer who puts his head in an alligator's mouth has been badly bitten. Well, what is he complaining about? If there were no danger in the trick, no one would pay to see him do it.

Conscience

From
THE TIMES LITERARY SUPPLEMENT

A MAN'S beliefs result not from the exercise of any one faculty but from an act of his whole personality. In forming them he appeals to reason, experience and intuition. Where these authorities concur, their dictates do not necessarily or even generally have a sufficiently compelling force to govern his conduct. In most cases this requires a deliberate act of will and a continuing effort of self-discipline. Where they appear to contradict each other it is necessary to assign a due weight to each, and the faculty with which this is done may be called judgment. Conscience may be defined as the sum of moral convictions held at any given moment.

ITS authority is challenged from two opposite sides. The less serious, because the more obvious, of these challenges comes from psychological determination, which professes, though with less confidence than it did, to have explained the sense of moral obligation in terms of the biological relationship between mother and child. It is not necessary to dispute the conclusions of research on this subject in order to dissent from the philosophical inferences drawn from it. It may well be that a man first experiences the sense of personal dependence, from which moral obligation is alleged to derive, in relation to his parents; but the fact that this experience later develops into a sense of dependence upon and responsibility towards supernatural authority, whether or not conceived as a personal God, has yet to be explained. If, as religious apologists argue, the universe is an outward expression of inner mysteries, it would not be surprising to find the relationship of God to his creatures thus exemplified in that of parent and child. It may also be thought significant that even those who have explained conscience away not only continue to observe moral conventions but make moral judgments of their own. They are, indeed, usually to be found among those who appeal most confidently from established standards of right and wrong to the findings of their own consciences. This inconsistency does not invalidate their arguments, but it does at least show that conscience is in a different category from other fetishes retained from childhood, which are weakened in proportion as their source is understood. In any case, Christians, at least, regard intuition, the validity of which psychologists profess to have disproved, as only one element in moral judgment, relying upon it only when it is supported by reason and experience. The psychologist may point out that these also are profoundly suspect, but he can only dismiss them if he is prepared to deny altogether the validity of private judgement, including, of course, private judgement of psychologists. For those who reject or have never heard of determinism, which is to say for the majority of mankind, the belief that there is such a thing as moral obligation, the demands of which can, within certain limits, be ascertained, seems self-evident.

A GRAVER threat to the authority of conscience comes from religious propagandists themselves. A dangerous form of apologetic is characteristic of right-wing Churchmen, whether Roman Catholic or Reformed. It consists in an attempt, sometimes explicit but more often unconscious and implied, to disparage the authority of private judgement in the interest of exalting that of the Church. How, it is argued, can a man oppose his own opinions to the consensus of informed and inspired opinion throughout the ages without unpardonable pride? Surely such reliance on private opinion amounts to the claim of personal infallibility? It is abundantly clear that the consciences of different individuals contradict each other; and even the moral views of any one man may change repeatedly in the course of his lifetime. Conscience is therefore a precarious and capricious instrument, to be treated with distrust; and whether the issue concerned is moral, intellectual or historical, tradition has more weight than private opinion. By such arguments the proselytizing priests of Disraeli's Lothair tried to convince the young nobleman who had been wounded in the service of Garibaldi that he had in fact fought for the Pope, a belief firmly held, they said, by all orders of society in Rome. The parody was grossly unfair as a description of intelligent Roman Catholic apology; but it can be justly applied to a good deal of confused thought prominent in the lower ranges of religious journalism. Applied to its proper purposes the argument is sound, but it is irrelevant to the authority of conscience. It is one thing to encourage a man to take into account, or even give primacy to, tradition or the Church in the formation of his convictions; it is another to deny him the right to have convictions. Even the belief in Papal infallibility rests on private judgement. Authority must be questioned before it is accepted, and it is precisely the habit of questioning it before accepting it which distinguishes belief from acquiescence.

THE attack on conscience is, however, partly the product of misunderstandings for which Protestantism and Liberalism are to blame. When Archbishop Temple explained Newman's conversion by saying that he made the mistake of looking for the true Church and then believing what it taught, instead of looking for the truth and believing the Church which taught it, he gave a salutary warning in a dangerously over-simplified form. A man may start by looking for the truth; he will soon find that at least part of his task is to find those who can be trusted to tell it. The inexpert have to assess, to the best of their ability, the credentials of rival authorities. Their decision is an act of private judgement and at the same time of deference to superior knowledge and experience.

LIBERALISM has also undermined conscience by treating it as a sacred flame which must be protected at all costs from the rude blasts of experience and contradiction. As a consequence, the convention has arisen that matters of conscience are beyond the sphere of State. Since, however, the State is obliged, in the cause of public order, to interest itself in the moral judgments of its subjects, it restricts the term "matters of conscience" to cover a small variety of activities, like religious workship, which it normally feels safe in tolerating. In fact, all opinion and comment are under the authority of conscience. For this reason no State can concede to its subjects the legal right to do whatever their consciences dictate. Men have an inescapable moral duty to act on their convictions; they have no right to exemption from the legal consequences of doing so.

Letters To The Editor

REPLIES TO MR. McWILLIAMS

Sir: We note in your paper of Feb. 8, 1949, that Rae F. McWilliams has not only replied to a published letter of ours but has an introduction to his letter; since, the question is debated, we offer the rebuttal.

First, we presented our facts in a truthful manner the implication to the contrary notwithstanding. The interpretation of the facts was not difficult. Without the help of Mr. Russelle we were stuck.

Secondly, we wrote in appreciation of good service, not primarily to be harsh with those who offered poor service.

Thirdly, we made reasonable use of the advertisement announcing who were open to serve. Must we be obliged to confine our calls to that list, when a number of trials prove ineffective? Russelle's service was recommended as dependable and that was proven to our satisfaction.

Fourth, in the list, is the question of personal insult. None was intended for any individual, but the members of any association sponsoring the lack of service which we encountered should not complain, if they act as members of that association.

Fifth, comes the matter of the 40 hour week. Nobody is asking that someone else work more. But somebody is suggesting that travel, a public matter, be restricted to suit service station operators who apparently have not heard of more than one shift of work per day.

Sixth consideration is the fact that residence in Oshawa does not constitute endorsation of the restrictions in Oshawa any more than the bylaw in Peterborough is approved by the motoring public of Peterborough. The point is that it is especially away from home that one appreciates good service to the public.

As our last word, travel is not in the same class as groceries and other retail businesses, and should not be treated as such by those who engage in it. No one begrudges Mr. McWilliams the privilege of visiting Oshawa at his leisure, but we do object to any act of his, or his colleagues that interferes with the freedom of another to render the service of which we stand in need. If 75% or 85%, even 95% of the service station operators think so, let it be known that there is as great a percentage of motorists who resent "conspiracy in restraint of trade".

Those who are interested are familiar with the old query, "Which came first the hen or the egg"?, or an easier one is, "Which came and comes first, the motorist or the service station".

Yours very truly,
M. ROCKERT,

OBJECTS TO ADVERTISING AT MOVIES

Sir: I hope you will allow me space in your paper to voice an opinion on a matter that I believe is of importance to the average citizen.

I am an ardent reader of your paper. I find in it the best of news coverage and all the best features that go to make up an interesting and valuable newspaper; all this for a mere nickle and the advertisers I understand provide the balance of the revenue for your operation. I appreciate the value of this advertising and pay considerable attention to it; finding it a good guide to better buying.

I believe that the show business is run on a very different setup to your own. A setup similar to any enterprise where the cost of buildings, salaries, overhead and all costs of production are carefully calculated; a fair profit added thereby arriving at a cost per unit as used by the consumer; in the case of a theatre a seat from which one may watch an entertaining performance or picture.

One should not be asked to sit through the advertising of anything other than the coming features in the theatre itself while paying for his seat on that basis. The manner in which such advertising is being presented is in my estimation an insult to the public intelligence.

If someone should operate a theatre in which one could watch a show for a nickle while the advertising revenue paid the remaining forty-five cents of the cost I would appreciate it as I do your paper. In the meantime I intend to refrain from attending any theatre where the advertising of products is the order of the day.

If the powers that be should notice two empty seats they would be well advised to consider the possibility that another fellow citizen has quietly joined the rank. In the meantime I shall carry on my campaign on the basis of—one empty seat one strong protest.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And there was one Anna, a prophetess, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser.... And she coming in that instant gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of him to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem....

And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man. (Luke 2: 36, 38, 52.)

Jesus went unto the mount of Olives. And early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him; and he sat down, and taught them....

Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. (John 8: 1, 2, 12.)

C.C.F. and Debt

Mr. Hansford, the Manitoba C.C.F. leader, criticized the Coalition government for paying off too much of the debt of this province. Actually, the Coalition, under the premiership of Mr. Garson, retired $37,500,000 of debt. At the peak, this province owed $130 millions. In the last budget, the debt stood at $92.5 millions.

Mr. Hansford, like the rest of the C.C.F. party, is a spender. He would doubtless approve of the financial policies followed in Saskatchewan, where a C.C.F. government has been in power since June, 1944. Certainly there has been no corresponding effort in Saskatchewan to pay off the debt of that province.

What counts in this matter is the result.

On its last loan, issued in December, Saskatchewan is paying four per cent. This is a 12 year loan of $2,200,000 bearing interest at 3¾ per cent. and sold at $97.64. The yield, as stated, is 4 per cent.

Manitoba has just now sold $6,700,000 of bonds. There is an eight year issue of $2,700,000 which yields 2.90 per cent. and a 15 year issue of $4,000,000 which yields 3.06 per cent. In the Spring of 1948 the Manitoba government sold bonds to yield 3.09 per cent. There has been, therefore, a slight fall in Manitoba's interest rate within the year.

PARIS, Feb. 15 — (AP) — The three-day world figure skating championships open here tomorrow with 53 skaters from 11 countries competing.

Two new champions are sure to be crowned since the present titleholders in the women's and pairs divisions will not defend their titles. Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa, who won the women's title last year, has since turned professional.

Dick Button of Englewood, N.J., is an overwhelming favorite to retain the men's crown he won last year at Davos, Switzerland.

The contest for the women's title may be a repeat of the European championships at Milan, Italy, in January. Austria's Eva Pawlik, winner of the European crown, is favored to take the world title.

However, Czechoslovakia's Alena Vrzanova, runner-up in the European meet, is expected to give the Austrian girl strong competition.

Edi Rada of Austria and Ede Kiraly of Hungary are the stoutest contenders for Button's title. Rada won the European title and Kiraly finished second at Milan.

THE FAMED REICHSCHANCELLORY in Berlin joins other ruins of the former Nazi capital as it crumbles from blast set off by Russian authorities. From its balcony Adolf Hitler made many of his speeches. The building was damaged during the war and supposedly is where Hitler and Eva Braun committed suicide.

Decision On Setback Bylaw Deferred Pending Amendment

R. H. Yates of the Ontario Municipal Board deferred at the local hearing Monday afternoon decision on the proposed George St. setback bylaw, pending amendment by the council to confine its effect only to new building.

Eventual purpose of the bylaw is to widen George St., south from King St., three feet on each side. New construction during the last 18 months has complied with the wish of the council, in its long view planning for the future, by setting back their building fronts three feet from the street line. These properties are the Cherney Brothers Store at the southwest corner of George and King Streets; the Haywood-Reilly block on the west side of George St., between King and Sherbrooke Streets, and the Beaver Lumber Co. office, on the east side of George St., south of Rink St.

Objection to the bylaw was raised by the owners of long standing buildings south of Sherbrooke St. A clause requiring the prescribed setback in the event of "any conversion or structural alteration" of their buildings was declared to range from the impractical to the impossible, involving extremely heavy costs and in some instances demolition.

Mr. Yates said he understood the aim of the council in looking toward the gradual widening of that stretch of George St., south to Lansdowne St., but on the other hand he was in sympathy with the opposition of the owners of buildings who would be seriously and adversely affected. According to that section of the bylaw, if they wished to make some structural change they would have to comply with the three-foot setback.

Mr. Yates intimated that, if the scope of the bylaw was limited to new building, its objectional feature would be removed, and, revised to that extent, it might receive the approval of the Board.

Several Object

Objections were submitted by James J. Collins, manager of Coca Cola Co.; Roy Magee, representing National Grocers; W. Stanley Bogue at George and Romaine Streets; Norman Crook, representing Kawartha Sports Equipment Co., of which Wm. Addyman is proprietor; Ralph Standish, representing Rishor-Schneider, Alexander Limited, at the northeast corner of George and Dalhousie Streets; Ald. Hugh Waddell of B. F. Ackerman, Son and Co., Ltd., at the northwest corner of Dalhousie St.; Howard W. Outram, 184-186 George St., north of the CPR.

Meyer Cherney supported the bylaw in its immediate application to new construction, effecting uniformity of widening the street three feet on each side, and in the probability that as the years went by property changes might also reach out to the older buildings recommending their setback, too.

At the outset, Mayor M. J. Swanston said no one was actively sponsoring the bylaw.

"The council asked the owners of new buildings to setback their fronts three feet, and they have done so. They have been most co-operative," His Worship said. "The bylaw was looking ahead to the Peterborough of 25 or 30 years from now. If it had been passed years ago, the city would have had the benefits of it in wider streets on both George and Charlotte. Mr. Brooks, Mr. Cherney, Hayward-Riley and Beaver Lumber Co. have been willing to look into the future. The council is not quarrelling with property owners. It is their city. If they want George St. to remain too narrow 25 years from now, I don't know what we can do about it. This is an opportunity for gradual widening. There has been some mention of the city paying for setback strips. I think the council felt owners would receive payment from the improvement of the street."

Mr. Collins said Coca Cola Co. objected to the clause requiring a setback in the event of any "conversion or structural change" being made to the building. If the company wished to make some alteration, they would have to set back their front three feet from the street line. That would obviously require a large expenditure.

Dubbed Ultra Vires

Mr. Crook said the bylaw was outside the authority of the council. He expanded objection on legal grounds, and contended that it was in contradiction to the Municipal Act.

Ralph O. Standish said the Schneider corner, northeast at Dalhousie, had 190 ft. frontage on George St. and 114 ft. depth. Of the frontage, 80 ft. abutted several buildings.

"According to the words of the bylaw, if we wanted to enlarge a window, a structural change, we'd have to set back the whole building three feet," Mr. Standish suggested.

Mr. Yates: "Oh, I doubt that it would go that far."

Mr. Standish: "Changing a store front would be a structural change."

"It is our contention that the city should expropriate three feet if they want it," said Mr. Standish. "We'd have to give them a three feet strip 190 feet long. Leave out the buildings, and we have to give the city three feet by 110 ft. in length, that would be 330 sq. ft. I don't think the city is jusified in going to anybody for a contribution of 300 sq. ft. of choice land on George St. If the city wants three feet, they should be prepared to pay a fair price."

"I may have to put a modern front in my store at Romaine St.," said Mr. Bogue, "but the cost of the setback would mean that I couldn't do it at all. I would have to make the change through the apartment on the second floor."

Favored Setback

"We abided by what the council wanted and moved back our store front three feet," Mr. Cherney said. "We had our own reason, too. We anticipated that business was going south to Dalhousie St., and we were looking at the physical appearance of the street. There was considerable vacant property that could be built on back from the street line, and we felt that it was feasible for us to do so, believing that new building would also abide by the bylaw. We were in favor of it because we felt that it would be a benefit to everybody."

Cherney Bros. paid $39,000 for the corner property, and their store is exceeding $100,000.

"I can see the permanency of the buildings down toward Dalhousie St., and I can quite understand the feelings of the gentlemen here, that it would be hard to take off three feet, but for the advantages in the future I think the bylaw should be kept in force. We didn't particularly like giving a strip to the city, but we simply left it to the council."

Mr. Outram and Mr. Waddell said their objections were the same as those already presented.

"What worries me," Mr. Yates commented at the conclusion, "is that the structural alterations clause is too broad. I think it might be advisable for the council to consider the bylaw again, especially as to amending it."

"I think the council would be glad to do that," Mayor Swanston replied.

Mr. Yates: "The bylaw could apply now to vacant land. It would be too bad if the city was to let this opportunity of widening on vacant land go by. I shall report to the Board that we defer any decision until the council has had a chance to reconsider the bylaw."

Howden Beats City Police In Puck Melee

Any scarcity of rubbing liniment in the local drug stores is due to the great demand by city, district and provincial police. On Monday night the annual hockey game between the city police with district police and the provincial police was played in the Lakefield Arena. The final score of the fracas was Provincials 13, City police 9.

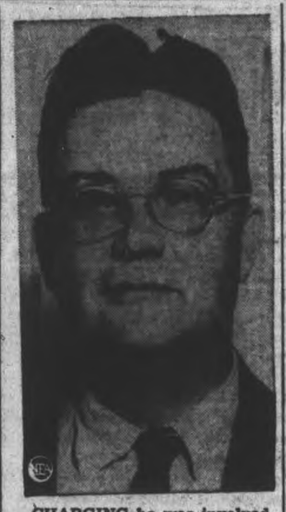
No sooner had the strains of "God Save the King" ended when the two clashing bodies met head on. Farthing of the city team was sent to the penalty box early in the game by Judge Herbert Payne for tripping Howden. Pressing, the provincials broke the goose egg at the 3:40 mark of the first when Howden scored on a screen shot. Rodrigue, city team, was help off the ice with a cut chin. Howden scored again at the 6.40 mark. Fowler provincial, was given the gate for boarding. Eberts counted on a passing play with McCartney to open the city team's scoring. Howden then scored two more goals. McCartney banged home another for the city team. Darlingson scored followed by a goal by Howden. Fowler scored at the 17:40 mark on a passout. Eberts was given a penalty shot because Feeley, the provincial goalie, threw the puck forward. He took the shot to no avail, with a short red hockey stick given to him by Chief Samis, timer. Burwick finished the scoring.

Scoring in the second period was done by Eberts, two, McCartney for the city and Howden, the provincial. In this period Farthing thrilled and amused the crowd of 300 with his slipping, sliding, skating, golf brand of hockey. The only penalty of the period was handed out to Erskine of the provincials, for tripping.

"The Blue Danube" waltz started the third period off. Three goals were sunk by the provincials, two by Howden and the other by Fowler. After this goal by Fowler, Feeley skated the length of the ice to do battle with Gillespie for no apparent reason at all. Within seconds about 40 players and coaches were milling on the ice. The ice became littered with sticks and gloves. Chief Samis was called to the scene of the argument where he himself became involved. He was escorted off the ice and handcuffed to the pipe in the timer's box. Resuming play Feeley was hit above the eye on a beautiful stop on a shot by Morris. He was forced to leave the game. Before a new goalie had been put in the net, Eberts had scored three goals and McCartney one for the city team. Three of the goals were scored in 30 seconds. Howden on a nice stickhandling play ended the scoring of the game. Cook replaced Feeley in the goal for the last few minutes.

Howden led the scorers with nine goals. Ebert led the losers with six goals while McCartney got three.

Players were from Cobourg, Apsley, Lakefield, Keene and Peterborough. They represented the district or the provincial police in their areas.



CHARGING he was involved in the case of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, the Hungarian government ordered the recall of Selden Chapin (above), US Minister in Budapest.

First Dog Derby In 18 Years Begins In Ottawa

OTTAWA, Feb. 15 — (CP). — Nearly 100 yapping and howling dogs from Siberian huskies to a few of unknown breed, lined up on the banks of the Rideau Canal to-day for start of Ottawa's first international Dog Derby in 18 years. A $1,000 pot of gold awaits the winning driver in the 90-mile grind, run in three 30-mile heats and spread over three days.

Starting time of the race, the highlight of the week-long winter carnival sponsored by the Junior Board of Trade, is at midday and smack in the downtown area.

The Derby has attracted 10 sled dog drivers—eight from the United States including attractive Mrs. Louise Lombard of Auburndale, Mass., and her husband, Dr. Roland Lombard—and two from Canada. The Canadians are Cecil McCooeye of Ottawa and Wilf Lepine of Quebec City.

Winner of the race is decided on the best total elapsed time. In addition to the $1,000 first prize and the Chateau Laurier Challenge Trophy, sponsors have offered $500 as secondplace money, $250 for third, and $150 for the fourth. A $100 cash award goes to the team judged to be in the best physical condition on completion of the three heats.

A 29-point list of rules and regulations covers all phases of the race. Whips of less than three feet long may be used "only in case of fights among the dogs" and anyone caught abusing the dogs in any way will be disqualified.

The third challenge of Lou Brouillard, Worester, Mass. French-Canadian for the world middleweight title was turned back by Marcil Thil, French boxer, 12 years ago tonight. Thil was awarded the bout on a sixth-round foul, over Brouillard's protest. The fight the year before ended the same way in the fourth round, while Thil won a 12-round decision in their first meeting.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Those keen sports folk of Keene aren't going to let other district centres get ahead of them. Becoming rink-conscious they held a recent meeting to discuss plans for erecting a village arena. Arnold Nelson told of a group checking on the Norwood and Hastings rinks, and two Peterborough Co-Op chaps went into details and costs. This committee was chosen to start the ball rolling right away: President, Charles Nelson; secretary-treasurer, James McCarthy; finance secretary, David McNeven; building secretary, Robert Keille; publicity secretary, Mervin Mather. Canvasser will be named shortly. A suggested site was the east side of the ball park. Good stuff, Keene.

The Belleville and district puck loop, which operated before the OHA season commenced there, did well financially. The previous season saw a dozen teams in and about $800 cleared. They cut the entry this semester to seven clubs and they cut up a melon worth more than $3,000. George Carver says: "This year seven teams participated with concentrated power. The brand of hockey was far above that of a year ago, and the actual answer was in the gate receipts. The same thing should apply to senior baseball. Give the district four good senior teams and the fans will do the rest."

Playing For Keeps

Legion swapped nights here this week with the junior "B" IOOF-ers, taking Monday and leaving Wednesday open for the return junior playoff with Oshawa. It's two out of three with the victor going into group finals. If the Triple Links need any pep talk, we might point out to them that hitting he old provincial playdown trail is lots of fun. Competition is stiff as the pick of the group winners play for keeps. But there are trips to new centres and that important feeling of representing your city in Ontario competition. We've had a lot of fun with junior winners from here down the years and in many cities throughout the province. Let's do it again, eh?

* * * * * *

Those surprising IOOF-ers upset the cocky Oshawa junior "B" puckists—and their fans—no end last p.m. in the Motor City. After previously absorbing a 12-0 shellacking there, last night the Weir lads jerked out a 5-4 decision to go one up in their OHA best-of-three group semi-finals. Return one here tomorrow night, if there's ice. Triple Links were full value for their victory, earning a 2-0 margin in a fighting first-frame drive, playing on even terms throughout a hot second stanza, and then checking like leeches through the scoreless third period as Oshawa drove desperately. Wilf Morrison of Oshawa had a leg fractured in the last minute when he hit a goal post.

* * * * * *

Earned The Victory

It was the IOOF-ers' best effort of the season as they proved real money players. They fought in there for loose pucks and checked perfectly in the exciting struggle. While Goalie Jack Byers starred in the cage, and Chum Fyria scored two and assisted on two more, all the Oddfellows rate orchids on that performance. The speedy Motor Citizens are good, but they were beaten this time and it was no fluke. The Berwicks and Anderson erected a stone wall defence against which the Oshawa attack battered vainly most of the distance. And the wingers worked like troopers going both ways. A dandy duel to see and a honey to capture as group playoffs commence.

* * * * * *

A capable bus driver slithered his big hack into the city—over an icy highway—at two a.m. with a tired but happy bunch of junior puckists. Another bus took a load of fans from here to the game, and several private cars were filled with Peterborough rooters. They made a lot of noise during the slambang scrap. A clean contest, though, as both sides wanted that first win. Next one will be a battle, too, as Oshawa won't bow out without a terrific fight, but Oddfellows have a little edge now. Winner of this semi-final bracket goes into group finals next week against the winner of Toronto Lions and Toronto Royals.

Curling Notes

By HERB MARTIN

This extended mild spell has caused the boys to wonder what we would do if we had no artificial ice.

What would we do? Why, just the same as we did in many seasons gone by—do without. You hear some say "I don't recall a winter such as this one." We forget very soon. So just for comparison we looked up a few of our records and were surprised at what we found oout. These are only a couple of them:

In 1945—Feb. 20 was the last day of good ice—after that it was only hit and miss.

In 1946—February was a broken month but we did manage to stagger through until March 5. There was one game played again on March 12 and that ended the curling season.

And we could go on at great length, but now that we have the artificial ice these mild days do not affect us. It is unfortunate for natural ice sports and there is only one way to overcome all that "Artificial ice is the answer."

Oddfellows Capture First Of Junior Group Playoffs

Edging Oshawa 5-4 in the Motor City last night, the local Oddfellows went one up in their OHA junior "B" group semi-finals. It was the first game of their best-of-three series to see which squad tackles Toronto in group finals. The return game is slated for Civic Arena tomorrow evening. Dishing up a dashing brand of play, Coach Archie Weir's crew battled from the first face-off to rack up a 2-0 lead in the first frame. They were outscored 4-3 in a hot second stanza, and then withstood a sustained Oshawa attack throughout the scoreless third heat to bring home the important first victory. Some 50 Peterborough fans were on hand and made plenty of noise in the redhot tilt. Play was quite clean all the way.

Stood Out

The two outstanding stars for the Triple Links were Jack Byers in goal—with a stellar effort from start to finish—and Chum Fryia, who scored two goals and aided on two more. Collins, Doris, Pagett and Anderson were each in on one marker for the victors, and the whole team turned in a fine effort. The defence was exceptionally strong in this fast fray, and the wingmen toiled hard to help them out in back-checking. Oshawa put up a stern fight right to the last gong, with Burnett, DeGray, Brabin and Myles standing cut.

Play was speedy from the start. Birch went right in but shot over the net and Oshawa goalie went off for repairs for several minutes Wilson drew the only penalty for slashing and Collins cashed in on it smartly on a forward pass in close from Fryia. With Wilson back, Byers thefted a couple of them in a row as play swept back and forth fast. Fryia had a nice try and then he set up Doris in close with a pass and the latter fooled Claus neatly to make it 2-0 as the Oshawa fans looked on in surprise. Collins got a bang in the nose and the IOOF outfit kept pressing and checking the fast homesters almost to a standstill, through DeGray nearly got through near the finish.

Hot Going

A Pagett-Floyd thrust was close to open the second, and this line looked good through the period for Peterborough. DeGray was robbed at close range and he came right back to smack one home from Towns. Fryia threatened and, with Peters waved over for holding, Chum stickhandled through in nifty fashion to pull out the goalie and make it 3-1. Brabin got it back soon from DeGray, tipping in a high shot. Pagett, Floyd and Collins threatened and Pagett got a solo tally as he raced in from centre. Truss and Fryia tested Claus before Fryia added one more from Anderson on good inside combination. Oshawa roared back to score two and narrow margin to 5-4, Brabin batting in Wilson's pass, and Pankoski taking the puck in close from Myles and denting the hemp.

The homesters went on the attack early in the third and kept five men up in Peterborough's zone a good part of the period. But the Oddfellows checked like fiends and Byers was unbeatable in goal. The visitors often iced the puck to relieve the pressure as the desperate redshirts poured in there. Welsh came cloose once and Doris went off after taking a puck on the throat. Floyd eased the pressure with a good try but later drew a slashing penalty, and the IOOF-ers had to fight to keep the rubber out of the cage. Later, Anderson and Wilson were chased for roughing, and play kept fast and exciting with Oshawa applying the pressure but being held out, and the visitors threatening with the odd dash down the ice. Oshawa yanked their goalie near the end but put him back when the Triple Links threatened. In the final minute of play, Morrison was hurt and it was feared he suffered a broken leg when he slid into a goal post.

The teams:

IOOF—Goal, Byers; defence, W. Berwick and Anderson; centre, Birch; wings, Wyatt and O'Heron; alternates, J. Berwick, Pagett, Collins, Floyd, Truss, Fryia, Doris, and Whitnell.

Oshawa—Goal, Claus; defence, Burnett and Peters; centre, Myles; wings, Welch and Pankoski; alternates, Towns, Morrison, Wilson, DeGray, Brabin, Weddup, Etcher, and Trimm.

Referees, A. Bellemer and E. Hodgins.

IOOF—Collins (Fryia) 7.10.

Roy Conacher, Bentley Leading Scorers

MONTREAL, Feb. 15 (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks are in fifth place in the National Hockey League standing but there's every indication that one of their fleet forwards will annex the scoring title this season.

Left-wing Roy Conacher and centre Doug Bentley moved farther out in front of the pack last week to take a commanding lead over the other sharpshooters in the league.

Conacher added six points during the week to move into a tie with linemate Bentley. Each has 55 points—and that's just 13 better than any other player. Last week Bentley had a two point edge over his colleague.

Detroit's Sid Abel, while holding third place, managed to pick up only two points to bring his count to 42, made up of 20 goals and 22 assists.

Canacher has 21 goals and 24 assits. Bentley has 19 goals and 36 assists. The third member tof their potent line, rightwing Billy Mosienko, is tied for eighth place with Ted Lindsay of Detroit.

Billy Reay of Montreal is in fourth place, with 38 points, four behind Abel. Chicago's Jim Conacher, Bud Polle of Detroit and Gus Bodnar of Chicago, with 37 points are tied for fifth while Lindsay and Mosienko have 36 apiece.

Maurice Richard, who so far has counted 33 points offensively for Canadiens, stepped up into second place in the bad man division behind Toronto's Bill Ezinicki. The Rocket has spent 98 minutes in the penalty box and Ezinicki 122.

BATTLE OF GIANTS

MIKE SHARPE

versus

HI LEE

BIG BEN MORGAN vs. ABE YOURIST

BILL STACK vs. MIKE "PRINCE" MAHALIKIS

BROCK ARENA -- WEDNESDAY

Two New Mat Stars On Card At Brock Arena Tomorrow

If Sky-Hi Lee can repeat his win over Mike Sharpe in the feature mat attraction on Wednesday night, the 300-pound Ozark Giant will demand a bout with Whipper Billy Watson. On the other hand if the mighty-muscled Mike comes out on top the tall good-looker from Hamilton will have greatly enhanced his chances for an Empire title bout.

The Empire challenges are flowing fast and thickly from Fred Atkins and Earl McCready but the six-foot six-inch Sharpe must be rated well up. And his standing would improve greatly if he can flatten the great hill-billy from the Ozark Mountains.

A new face and figure will be seen in the Prince Mahalikis semi-final when Abe Yourist the rugged Chicagoan meets Big Ben Morgan. Morgan has been out of action with a torn ligament but is again ready for the mat frays.

In the first bout Bill Stack meets the greatly publicized newcomer Mike "Prince" Mihalikis. The "Prince" is a man of many attributes being a song-writer, inventor, organ-player and spectacular high-diver as well. All of which goes to make tomorrow night's card one of the most star-studded of the whole wrestling season.

Dutchmen Edge Hamilton In Rough 6-3 Semi-Final

By The Canadian Press.

The two strongest teams in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League gave indications last night that the league's playoff picture won't be far different from the situation during the regular schedule.

In their first semi-final games, the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen, who finished the schedule atop the five-team league, took a 6-3 decision from Hamilton Tigers who ended third place. Second place Toronto Marlboros earned a 5-3 overtime score against Owen Sound Mercurys, who finished fourth.

Anything can happen, of course, before the best-of-seven semi-finals are finished. But barring injuries or drastic reversals in form, the Dukes will likely have the dubious honor of facing the potent Dutchmen in the loop finals.

Nothing unexpected happened in the only Junior A game played last night as the league-leading Windsor Spitfires turned on a six-goal scoring display in the third period at Stratford to trounce the third-place Kroehlers 8-4.

Earn Their Win

Although Kitchener led all the way against Hamilton, the doughty Tigers made them fight all the way before the Dutchmen were able to hang up their 15th broke Hamilton's seven-game straight triumph. The defeat victory streak. The game, rough throughout, was capped with a mix-up in the final period, with Harvey Jacklin of Kitchener and Bobby Laurent of Tigers drawing major penalties.

Marksmen for the Flying Dutchmen were Billy Flick, Bill Curick, Dick Behling, Ted Grasser, Don Bauer, and Mike Dzuira, while Hamilton's goals were scored by Johnny Conick, Clare Shillington, and Hal Cooper.

Owen Sound led Marlboros for two periods before the Dukes scored two unanswered goals in the third period to send the game into 3-3 overtime. Two more goals were scored by Johnny McLellan and Bill Johnson in the overtime period.

Johnny McCormack, Scotty Mair, and Ray Hannigan tallied Toronto's other goals, with Al Forslund, Tommy Burlington and Mike Shabaga netting the Owen Sound markers.

In the Junior game, Stratford held a one-goal lead going into the second period against Windsor, held Spitfires to a 2-2 tie at the stanza's end, and faded as the visitors outscored them 6-2 in the final period.

Bert Giesebrecht and Bob Rawlyk tallied two goals each for Windsor and Marcel Pronovost, Bruce Giesebrecht, Jim Maxwell and Gerry Lavergne added the rest. Stratford goals were by Bibber O'Hearn, Billy Mitchell, Dinny Flanagan, and Danny Lewicki.

AN OUTSTANDING LANDMARK in the St. John's area of Newfoundland is Cabot Tower on Signal Hill. It overlooks the entrance to the harbor and is closely associated not only with Newfoundland history but also with world history. It was here Marconi received the first trans-Atlantic wireless message.

Since Discovery By John Cabot Newfoundland's History Sea Story

By DAVE McINTOSH

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., Feb. 15—(CP)—The history of Newfoundland, Britain's senior colony and soon to become Canada's junior province, is for the most part a story of the sea. Early voyogers from Europe four centuries ago reported on the island's "multitude of fish" and Newfoundland still makes its living mostly from salt cod. John Cabot appears to have made the first landfall in Newfoundland in 1497, though Cape Bretoners still dispute this. By the middle of the 16th century there were as many as 400 English, French and Spanish vessels fishing her banks.

Sir Humprrey Gilbert, carrying the letters patent that seemed to be part of an explorer's standard equipment in those days, claimed the island for Queen Elizabeth in 1583. But it was not until well into the next century that James I distributed a brochure "for the encouragement of adventures unto plantation there."

By 1650, there were about 2,000 person living in some 15 settlements along the Newfoundland east coast. There was also a floating population of several thousand that lurched across the Atlantic in their tiny ships to fish during the summer.

The fish caught were salted and dried on shore and when winter came on the fisherman re-embarked for England carrying the fish with them. There, fish merchants knew when they had a good thing and enlisted the government to prohibit settlement within six miles of the shore. In this way the shipowners and merchants kept exclusive use of coves and harbors and set up a fishing monopoly that would have broken every clause in present-day anti-trust laws.

Thus Newfoundland came to be ruled by what were known as the "fishing admirals."

Things went along like this for more than a century and the wars between the French and English didn't improve matters. The French harassed the few settlements for decades until the Treaty of Utrecht in 1713 helped to put a stop to it.

First Governor

In 1728 Capt. Henry Osborne was appointed first governor and by 1763 the population had increased to 8,600 hardy souls who clung to the land and exchanged swipes with the fishing admirals. In 1763 the Labrador-Newfoundlanders still refer to their dependency as "the Labrador"—was attached to Newfoundland.

Things looked up considerably after the French Revolution and in 1832 Newfoundland was granted representative government. She got responsible government in 1855.

There was almost interminable wrangling between the French and English over fishing rights in Newfoundland. Newfoundlanders built a number of factories in an area where the French were supposed to have exclusive rights. In 1890 the British foreign office, acting under a statute passed in the time of George III, ordered that these factories should be destroyed.

After the British navy carried this out, with a great and understandable hue and cry from Newfoundlanders, it was found that the statute had expired in 1832. A James Baird sued a British naval officer for $5,000 for this oversight and collected.

The "French shore" question was finally settled in 1904 by a bit of horse-trading. The French quit Newfoundland for good and in return got some cash, a portion of the Sahara Desert near Lake Chad and a couple of islands here and there.

Newfoundland and the United States then began haggling over fishing rights. It took the Hague Tribunal to settle that matter in 1910.

During this period there had been off-and-on talk about confederation with Canada. It came up as early as 1669, but a government that took union as its platform got nowhere.

Drafted At Quebec

Terms for entry of Newfoundland into the proposed union were drafted in 1864 at Quebec. Like Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland was not represented at Westminster in 1866 when the British North America Act, creating the Dominion of Canada, was drawn up. The B. N. A. Act, however, provided for the admission of the island should it later decide to enter confederation.

Faced by a rapidly approaching financial crisis, Newfoundland sent a delegation to Ottawa in 1895. The conference came to abrupt and bitter end when Canada said flatly it would not assume the island's $16,000,000 debt.

The "boom and collapse" trend after the First World War hit Newfoundland like every other country. By 1932 Newfoundland found it could not cope with the situation any longer and asked Britain for a royal commission.

The commission recommended that Britain assume financial responsibility for Newfoundland under a commission form of government until it could pay its own way again.

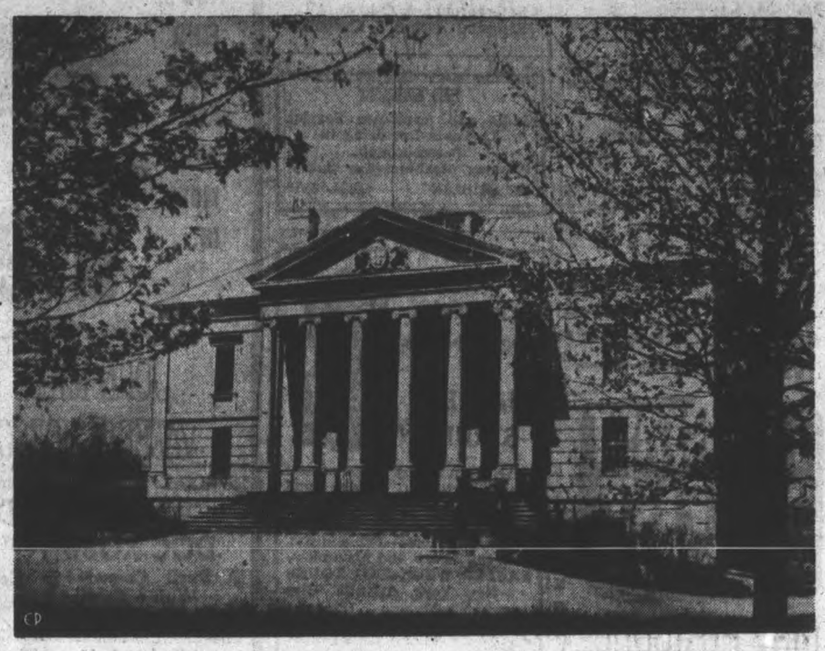
Government by seven-man commission took over in 1934 as hunger and unemplegment riots swept the country. It ran into deficits, too, until 1941 when the war boom sent the financial tide ebbing out of the red columns into the black.

Newfoundland became — and still is—of strategic importance. The United States, Britain and Canada poured millions of dollars into bases there.

With her finances again in order, Newfoundland elected a national convention in 1946 to make recommendations regarding the island's future form of government. The convention, dissolved Jan. 31, 1948, recommended the electorate be given a choice between a return to responsible government or continued commission government. Later the United Kingdom decided to include confederation with Canada on the ballot.

In the referendum held June 3, 1948, commission government was turned down by the voters but neither confederation with Canada nor responsible government won a clear majority. In a second referendum held July 22 to decide the issue 78,406 votes were polled for confederation with Canada. 71464 for responsible government. It was the most momentous decision in Newfoundland history.

TRINITY, 165 MILES by railway from St. John's on Trinity Bay, is one of the oldest settlements in Newfoundland. First settled toward the end of the 16th century, its population today is only 800. It is considered one of the most beautiful places in Newfoundland.



THIS IS THE COLONIAL BUILDING at St. John's, Newfoundland. When the island had responsible government it was the House of Assembly. Government offices occupied the building during the era of commission government and it was here the national convention was held to decide the future course of events on the island. It will likely be the site of the provincial legislature after confederation.

Optimist Clubs Helped 385,000 Boys In Past Year

"Optimism is the fastest-growing service club in the world today," said lieutenant-governor Dr. Donald J. Twiss of Brantford at the first monthly meeting of the Peterborough Optimists Club Monday evening. He pointed out that there will soon be one thousand clubs in Canada, the United States, Puerto Rico, Mexico, Australia and England. Club membership will soon reach 75,000.

GEORGE PETTINGER

In his first visit to the Peterborough Club, Dr. Twiss was made welcome to the Kawartha City with a presentation of a stuffed fish. Though the fish was only four inches long the prank started the meeting off by breaking down any formal barriers. He was very sincere about the work of Optimism and pointed out that it was a vital force in this age of confusion.

He felt that the Optimist movement on boys' work was one answer to the solution of settling young minds in these chaotic times. In 1948 Optimists International contacted 385,000 boys through club work.

Richard Quimet, Anthony De Noble, Jeffrey Grindrod and Jerry Cournyea were inducted into the Optimist Club by Dr. Twiss. Business affairs were reduced to minimum in order that members might avail themselves of pleasure of a visit with their lieutenant-governor.

Jack Rodgers reminded the gathering of the District 15 Convention slated for May 19, 20 and 21 at Windsor. Harvey Strubbe, Alfred Quemby, Joseph Lucano and Kenneth Hopcroft were entertained as club guests by regular members.

Led by president John Broadhurst, the Optimists went to their Boys' Town, Trafalgar House, to show Dr. Twiss the progress they had made. It is planned to open the House unofficially on Feb. 18 and it hoped that their boys' work governor, William English of London, will be able to declare the project officially open in early March.

Cancer Society To Hear Toronto Man

Chief speaker before the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Division, Canadian Cancer Society, on Wednesday night will be George Pettinger, newly-appointed field director. The meeting will be in the auditorium of the Public Library at 8 p.m.

Mr. Pettinger served with the Merchant Navy for three years during the Second World War. Prior to this he taught school in rural Alberta, and was for two years on the staff of the Alberta Provincial Institute of Technology and Art.

In January, 1946, he was appointed executive secretary of the Alberta Division, Canadian Cancer Society, and a year ago he was transferred to the national office in Toronto as campaign manager and later as office manager.

HOLD OPEN MEETING

In the Public Library auditorium at 8 p.m. this evening the Chamber of Commerce is holding an open meeting for its members. Future plans of the Chamber will be discussed and suggestions will be received from the members.

CAR HITS BREAD WAGON

Marylin King, 457 Gordon Ave. was driving on Park St. on Monday when the car hit the rear of a bread wagon. Constable M. D. Traynor estimated damage to the car at $60.

NEEDED STITCHES

Constable Louis Rodregue was cut between the lower lip and the point of the chin during Monday night's hockey game between the city police and the provincials. Three stitches were needed to close the cut.

GREAT WHITE WAY

With the announcement that lighting restrictions are lifted on exterior theatre lighting, executives of the Capitol and Odeon theatres will see to it that their marquess and signs are blazing tonight. The Paramount canopy will also be shining and in a few weeks time the sign that is now being installed will also be illuminated.

WELCOMES JUSTICE SMILEY

The Hon. G. N. Gordon, KC, senior member of the Peterborough Bar Association present, on Monday afternoon welcomed the Hon. Mr. Justice Smiley to Peterborough on behalf of the members. The occasion was the opening the current sitting of the Supreme Court. After thanking Mr. Gordon the Justice said this was his first trip to the city as a Supreme Court Justice.

BREAK CHANNEL

Employees from the Board of Works recently chopped a channel five feet wide along the Jackson Park Creek to prevent flooding. This morning the creek had risen slightly and the water was moving swiftly. Police are asking mothers to keep their children away from this creek which claims victims almost every year.

CUT OVER EYE

Provincial Constable Roy Feeley, husky goalie for the Provincials, was cut over the left eye in the closing minutes of the Provincial-City Police hockey game in Lakefield. He stopped what was a sure goal for Ken Morris, Lakefield. Morris had the open corner when Feeley dove sideways to block the shot, the puck hitting him above the eye. One stitch closed the cut.

GLORIOUS PUNISHMENT

A penalty at the Provincial-City police hockey game in Lakefield Arena Monday night was like giving a parole to a lifer after 60 years of imprisonment. Everyone who entered the sinbin gave a sigh of relief for that breather. Constable Douglas Farthing was first into the penalty box in the first few minutes of play. He said, "Boy! Do I need this rest!" - - - - DG.

CALLED WITHIN BAR

At the opening of the Supreme Court in Peterborough on Monday, W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, presented his patent as KC to the Hon. Mr. Justice Smiley, and was called within the bar. "I have great pleasure, Mr. Fair, in welcoming you within the Bar of the Province," said Justice Smiley. "And I am sure that this honor and confidence which has been conferred on you is well merited, and that you will uphold the dignities which go with it in a satisfactory manner. I hope you will have many years to enjoy the privileges which it affords."

BUYING OVERCOATS

A mild winter has played havoc with overcoat sales and merchants along George St. are offering unheard of bargains. Many men who have postponed purchasing of the winter raiment are delighted at the saving they are effecting. Another incentive to purchase now, is the report from cloth manufacturers that materials for next winter's coats range from 50 cents to $1.50 more per yard. Merchants are now purchasing their next winter's requirements and are selling out the stock which would have moved in early winter if the weather had been normal.

Varsity Alumni To Organize Branch In City

The new University of Toronto placement service and how it can assist graduates in the Peterborough area will be one of the topics discussed by Dr. Sidney Smith, University of Toronto president, when he speaks here Monday, February 21. Dr. Smith and other university officials will be guests of Varsity Alumni and their friends at a dinner in the Empress Hotel.

The main purpose of the dinner will be to organize a Peterborough branch of the University of Toronto Alumni Association and to elect officers for this year. The committee in charge of arrangements includes R. L. Dobbin, Dr. G. S. Cameron, Dr. S. Y. Walsh, Dr. Russell Morgan, Mrs. J. R. Roy, W. M. Cruthers, Dr. E. P. Ray, Dr. Agnes Moffat, Miss Ila Giles and Miss Margaret McCulloch.

Tickets may be obtained from any member of the committee.

"The Alumni Association is being reorganized to embrace as many as possible of Varsity's 90,000 alumni (graduates and ex-students)," Mr. Ross Dobbin said today. "Peterborough is a key point in the plan because of the many Varsity alumni who live and work in this area. There is more to it than getting old classmates together for periodic reunions, pleasant as that prospect may be. The University needs a strong graduate body which, in the words of Dr. Smith, will display a keen, critical and heartfelt interest in the University and its undertakings.

"As the President has said, alumni represent the University, and its successes and failures are gauged in the main by their records. The University must have their active promotion of its educational aims, their advice as to the efficacy of its services, and their help in interpreting the institution to the public."

May Postpone Centenary

Peterborough may postpone its proposed centenary celebration until the completion of the Civic Hospital and the new city hall.

Ald. Hurrell Dodds asked the finance committee Monday night what was going to be done about the 100th anniversary in 1950 of the incorporation of Peterborough as a town. Mayor Swanston suggested that "we might as well wait a year or two until these important civic works are finished."

City Clerk Outram commented that although the historic occurrence was important, it would be desirable to be able to present the new municipal buildings. "The new postal-customs building might be completed by that time."

The Dodds query rested on that general proposal which appeared to have the assent of the committee composed of all the members of the council with Ald. Hugh Waddell presiding.

Sales-Ad Club Gains 16 New Members

Sixteen new members have been accepted into the Sales and Ad club since the big Industrial Night staged in January and these men will be welcomed at the meeting to-night.

Paige Rowell, president said today a special table has been provided to the newcomers and their sponsors, and he added the membership now is 187, perhaps the largest in the city.

The new members are Dr. A. H. Ball, Harvey L. Bamforth, George D. Cook, R. G. Curtin, Joseph E. Fallen, Robert A. Ford, C. A. Goodier, Gordon Harrison, D. A. Harwood, George A. Jonah, Haig Kelly, Fred Leslie, Ferd Malenfant, John A. Miller, Stanley D. Pogue and Douglas Burrows.

Mel McIntyre, Jim Gillespie and Clayton Ruth have been named a nominating committee and bring in their slate at the March meeting.

Plan To Examine Gas Station Bylaw

Legal committee of the council was disposed Monday afternoon to examine the bylaw regulating the hours of gasoline stations for elasticity, if any, that would permit some arrangement for 24-hour service to the public. Ald. Adam Sands presided.

The committee affirmed that it was not hedging on the scope and effect of the bylaw. However, it was felt that the city needed some accommodation for the motoring public all the way round the clock. If some adjustment is practical, a new petition to the council from the service station operators would be required. The committee expressed a willingness to survey all the circumstances, if the operators will respond to the proposed call to a meeting.

Witness Says Overholt Car Was 'Weaving'

Harley L. Overholt of Omemee, now standing trial on a charge of manslaughter, was driving his car so erratically on No. 7 Highway on Christmas Eve that William Thachuk, Anson St., thought it too hazardous to attempt to pass. That was Thachuk's evidence today as he told of following Overholt's car for several miles before the latter collided with the truck driven by Edwin Morrow of RR 8, Peterborough.

Morrow died as a result of injuries received in the accident.

Three of the 11 Crown witnesses were put in the witness box by Crown Attorney John Bradshaw. Identification Officer William Aggis of the City Police presented photographs of the two vehicles and the section of the road where the accident occurred.

Provincial Constable George Henderson testified as to what happened after he arrived; and Thachuk told of driving behind Overholt at a distance of about 30 feet and seeing the collision.

Jurors serving on the case are: Frank C. Frost, Gilchrist St.; Jack Dobbin, George St.; William R. Gaskin, Wolfe St.; Harry McIntyre, Otonabee; Harry Gabbutt, Chamberlain St.; Cecil Moore, Stewart St.; Arthur C. Hunter, New Romaine St.; Frank Murphy, Ennismore; Howard J. Hull, Bethune St.; Keith Pimmett, Otonabee; Kenneth Thompson, Norwood; and Raymond A. Healey, Prince St.

After the jurors were seated the Crown Attorney gave them a brief outline of his case, and outlined their duties.

Attended Party

He informed them that the manslaughter charge had arisen out of the death of Morrow in the accident on the Lindsay Highway, about a mile and a half east of Fowler's Corners in Smith Twp. Evidence would be produced, he stated, that earlier in the day on Christmas Eve Overholt had attended a party where beer was drunk, and that the accused left in his car for his home in Omemee.

The Crown Attorney also said he would produce evidence to show that two cars had tried to pass the accused but failed to do so because he was "weaving." This procession continued for about two and a half miles along the Lindsay Highway to the place where the accident occurred, he said.

Provincial Constable Henderson testified that he arrived about 6.30 p.m., fifteen minutes after the collision. The atmosphere was clear and the road surface was dry, he said, with the occasional patch of snow and ice.

In the north ditch, and lodged against three elm trees was the truck, related the constable; while the passenger car was in the south ditch.

South of the north border of the solid white line there were six gouge marks in the road, which represented the point of impact in the opinion of Constable Henderson. And he believed the gouges were caused by the dragging undercarriage of the car.

The passenger vehicle carried on for slightly more than 43 feet and landed in the south ditch while the truck continued on for 192 feet, toppling into the ravine and coming to rest against the trees.

Travelling at 45

Thachuck said he was travelling on the highway at about 45 miles an hour. He passed one car but when he drew up to the Overholt's car he would not try to pass.

"Why didn't you pass?" asked T. J. Carley, K.C., solicitor for the defendant.

"It was extremely hazardous to pass a car weaving from side to side. His car was nearly in the ditch a couple of times."

Speed of the accused man's car was estimated at between 30-35 miles an hour.

Thackuk claimed that when Overholt started up the hill, at the brow of which the collision occurred, the accused was on the proper side of the road. Shortly before the brow of the hill was reached he strayed over to the wrong side and collided with the truck which was travelling toward Peterborough.

He stated that the car struck the stake truck on the left-hand door.

Whisky In Car

After stopping his own car, he climbed out and went over to Overholt's vehicle. The witness said he got no satisfactory reply from the accused when he asked how he felt, but concluded that he was all right.

He helped a passenger in the truck, Leo Buck, out of the ravine, he said; and then went back to find Morrow lying unconscious on the ground where he had been thrown from the truck.

Constable Henderson said he found two bottles of rye and three cases of beer in the rear of Overholt's car. None of it was opened, however. Three beer caps were found on the floor beside the front seat.

The case is continuing.

Milton Clysdale was elected president of the Kawartha Conservation Association without opposition at well-attended meeting in the Public Library, Monday night.

Fred C. Marshall who has piloted the organization since its birth three years ago retired, and voiced his appreciation for the splendid support given during his office. Others elected are Arthur Parker, vice-president; Sidney Pammett, secretary-treasurer; and an executive committee consisting of Fred C. Marshall, Kenneth Hoard, P. Bruce Munro, and Norman Finnie.

Larry McKeever took over during the election and Warren Rayner read the nominating committee report. There were several nominations from the floor, and a second ballot was necessary to elect the executive when three men tied.

After considerable discussion, a motion by Larry McKeever and A. Moore, that the Association use its influence and good offices in trying to obtain a suitable camp site for the Peterborough Boy Scouts Association was passed.

The meeting also authorized the members of the executive to meet with the Chamber of Commerce in an attempt to get further information on the steps necessary for the setting aside, management and development of a recreation area north of the city. Several vital points are in need of clarification, and it is hoped this work will be done within two weeks.

16 Cottages Ransacked At Belmont Lake

Sixteen summer cottages and a boat house at Belmont Lake have been broken into and ransacked. Screens have been ripped off, windows broken, and the cottages, which have been standing vacant during the winter, have been found in disorder.

Douglas Zachariah, a 19 year old Indian of Belmont Township was remanded without plea, when charged by Magistrate W. R Philp K.C. at the city police court today with breaking and entering one of the cottages.

Most of the owners live in outlying districts of Peterborough but two cottages and a store which have been entered are owned by John Rogers of Florida and another three belong to K. C. Marshall of Beaver, Pennsylvania.

Provincial Constables Grayling and Crough, who investigated the matter after James Cumming of Belmont notified the police, are still trying to contact the owners.

When the police were investigating the cottages on Monday they found the burners of an electric stove alight and the kitchen was completely disorganised.

The extend of the damage to the buildings is not yet known and it is not known whether anything has been stolen.

Cottages entered are owned by Arthur Fennell, Toronto; George Hubbell, Havelock; William Sandercock, Bellevile; William Seabrook, Havelock; Mrs. Clark, Havelock.

Police have not yet been able to obtain the correct identity of owners of some of the cottages. One is known as the Jamieson cottage, another, Ford cottage and a third, U Ramble Inn.

L. Paisley, Howard van Tassel and Mr. Bancock, owners of cottages have not yet been located. The boat house is known as Backus boat house.

Speaker Claims More Livestock Highly Desirable

Blame for decrease in production of farm products was placed on the farmers for not having enough livestock by F. E. Wolff, general agriculture agen, Eastern Region, Canadian Pacific Railway. He was addressing the Rotary Club in the Empress Hotel on "Animal Agriculture."

"Livestock problem is as important as soil erosion. But people forget all about it. Soil can't be built without manure from livestock. It can be done for a length of time, but the lack of humus will eventually affect the land. The only way humus can be obtained is fram barnyard manure," he said.

As the population of the country increases, he explained, research opens new lands for development. Northern Ontario, Quebec, and Manitoba can be used and will produce just as well as the southern parts of these provinces.

In the Prairie Provinces there has been cross-breeding of wild animals with domesticated animals. He mentioned the cattalo, a cross between a bison and a cow. This animal is able to live through the worst possible winters and live on the barest amount of food.

"Besides the cattle situation, the grain research is forging ahead. Through research there are varieties of grain never heard of years ago. Due to climatic changes, insects and diseases, research made the necessary changes to keep the standards up. If research had not been done 20 and 30 years ago, the grain and cattle problem to-day would be twice as acute."

Breeding artificially was once thought of no use, he said. But now it is being done nearly everywhere, being easier and more useful. The number of cattle has increased a thousand fold. In the older method, he explained, the number of calves was limited.

Blood typing in cattle is becoming of more use. It can be determined to what bull or cow the calf belongs. In humans the same thing has been done but is not as much a necessity as in livestock.

"In the dairy industry statistics prove that a pint of milk per person per day is being had in Canada. There has been an increase in the population of Canada since 1940 of 1,500,000. The number of cattle in Canada has decreased 250,000. Yet enough milk is being produced to satisffy the needs of all."

Need More Milk

One person in six in Caanda is in the dairy industry, he said. If the farmers took up the new developments in research, the increase of milk per cow would be 2,000 pounds.

Mr. Wolff feels that there is a need in Canada for "Animal Agriculture." An improvement in lands would be noticeable if there were more cattle. The ability of the soil to produce is gradually falling off, he said. This is due to the decrease in livestock.

Mr. Wolff said animal agriculture would create a food reserve. It would be "stored meat on the hoof." Before the war there were large stocks of cattle. These stocks filled the requirements of the army and the people in Canada throughout the war. In the early '30's the stock of livestock was down. There was a drought. Mr. Wolff believes the situation now is comparable

"People in the Western Provinves would rather work with grain for five months of the year than the whole year with cattle. This is only being shortsighted. The West will gradually lost its productivity."

Most farmers, he explained, fear over-production. He said there are thousands underfed in Canada and the United States. In the United States more than half the population have not a proper diet.

Eighty years ago four people on a farm could produce enough to feed themselves and one more. Now one person on a farm produces enough with the help of machinery to produce enough to feed four more

"A farmer would realize more money over a period of years with livestock than he will with grain. At the present time 78c out of every dollar an Ontario afrmer takes in is due to animal products. An animal agriculture is a national asset."

Mr. Wolff was introduced by Gerald Stenton and thanked by G. A. Gillespie.

James Juby introduced the guests of the Rotary. They were: William Malton, Cobourg, Col. C. Tuck, Hamilton, L. Gould, Toronto, and W. J. Berry, Toronto.

Group singing was led by Charles Allen and the Glee Club.

Germany Outdistances France In Industrial Production Already

By DANIEL DE LUCE

ESSEN, Feb. 15 (AP).—Four years after high allied statesmen glibly talked of turning Hitler's Reich into a goat pasture, Germany is on the road back. This country still is in political chains. Militarily, it is nowhere. But in industrial production, it is again competing for first place on the Continent of Europe. Already jittery France has been equalled or outdistanced in several important production categories.

Don't jump to conclusions from the rubble still left in German cities by 1,000-bomber raids.

In surveying Germany's comeback, you can toss out the East zone, wher 20,000,000 Germans are under the guns and commissars of the Russian army.

But that leaves 46,000,000 Germans in the West. Even standing alone, they are a nation outnumbering France's 40,000,000 and nearly equal to 48,000,000 Britons of the United Kingdom.

These West Germans accounted for three-fourths of the industrial production that mbade dustrial production that made Germany No. 1 in Europe before

Coal, steel, electricity are the sinews of a modern power. West Germany has them, despite tremendous property losses by war and reparations.

Didn't Knock Out Coal

Flying Forts and Lancasters did not knock out coal deposits in the earth. Germany was second only to Britain as a producer of Europe's coal.

Nor did they pulverize the multi-ton presses and forges in the steel mills, which formerly rivalled Britain in their output and dwarfed France.

In electric power, the bombing was negligible. Excessive wartime wear and poor maintenance hurt the plants more.

Dismantling since the war has cost West Germany about 750,000 tons of equipment which could have been converted to peacetime production. An additional 300,000 tons of machinery may be taken away before the reparations bill is paid.

Further reparations are a long-range blow to West Germany's hopes. But they have not seriously crippled the recovery drive because potential capacities are not yet fully utilized.

Production is nearing 80 per cent of the pre-war level of 1936.

Senators Upset At Move To Extend Loans

OTTAWA, Feb. 15—(CP)— A move to expand the lending powers of the Government's Industrial Development Bank, an institution designed to help small industries, came under assault from both sides of the Senate Monday night.

As explained by Senator Gray Turgeon (L-British Columbia), a government bill would raise from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000 the total sum the bank can lend to individual applicants for loans exceeding $200,0000.

Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative Leader, said the bank got only "the leftovers" who could not get loans from chartered banks and who would collapse when times tightened up. He didn't approve of backing such people with public funds and he thought it transgressed on private enterprise.

Senator J. J. Kinley (L-Nova Scotia) said any loans exceeding $200,000 were not small but big business and the applicants should be able to stand on their own feet.

Senator Norman Lambert (L-Ontario) said the essence of the original Act was to aid small industries that had done excellent work in the war and who needed something beyond the loans available from the chartered banks.

The bill was given approval in principle and sent to committee for detailed study.

Increased Costs

Senator Turgeon attributed the proposed change to the increased costs of capital investment construction. The total aggregate of $15,000,000 for loans beyond $200,000 was "fast being reached," under current conditions. Another $75,00,000 was set aside for smaller loans.

The bank in four years had granted 568 applications, refused 519 and another 500 had been withdrawn. Total loans now amounted to $30,000,000. The bank was not a competitor of chartered banks.

Senator Haig thought the chartered banks would approve the bill. It would foist "the beginners, the leftovers on the government. . anyone who is a good asset can get money from the chartered banks."

Quebec Studies Estimates During Week

By The Canadian Press

Quebec lawmakers will have before them this week an estimate of what the province will spend during the year starting next April 1.

Provincial Treasurer Onesime Gagnon is expected to give the estimates to the Legislative Assembly today or tomorrow. Expected revenues will be made known when Mr. Gagnon makes hsi budget speech, probably during the last week of February.

Ordinary and capital expenditure last year ran to $141,990,457. So far, there has been no indication whether spending during the coming year will be higher.

The Quebec session now is expected to end early in March. The budget debate still is ahead. Legislation to curb reckless driving is forecast and the government also is expected to bring in bills dealing with mining and Hydro-Electric development in Ungava.

Another provincial legislature, Alberta's, opens Thursday. It will be the sixth to start the 1949 session, leaving only the Maritimes Houses to assemble.

The Alberta budget will be brought down early in the session while the members still are fresh. It is expecting that Premier E. C. Manning, acting as provincial secretary, will ask members to vote more than the record $53,349,553 asked for last year.

Members Meet Standard University Women's Plan

A well-prepared address by Miss Margaret White explained to her fellow members of the University Women's Club the part of a director in producing plays. Miss Margaret McCulloch, also a member of the Club, was second speaker at the regular meeting Monday evening in the YWCA and took the Doon School of Art as her subject.

14 PCVS Plays

"My idea of really satisfying entertainment is a night at the theatre," said Miss White. For the entertainment of Peterborough audiences she has had a part in producing 14 successful plays at the PCVS. First play in which she was co-director was "Quality Street" presented in 1940. The 15th is now in production and will be ready for the public on February 25.

First difficulty to be overcome is choice of a play. For school purposes it must be fairly pure as to language and morals and this cuts down the selection considerably she pointed out. The scenery required must not be too complicated and the parts not too difficult for adolescents. But, the play must also be worthy of the time and work required of directors, players and assisting committees.

"Casting is very often partly done in our minds when we choose the play" Miss White said, but quite frequently it will be changed after hearing the parts "read," which is the method of choosing characters. Three days to a week are usually taken up in casting.

"Props" in Place

The first rehearsal is called a "read-through." As soon as possible the directors call for "walk-throughs," characters still using their scripts. For these the stage floor is chalked to mark doors and windows, and furniture is represented by chairs. It is most important to have these in the proper place for the very first walk-through and not to change them, thus confusing the actor. "In this way he learns the exact number of steps which will bring him, facing the audience, at the head of the sofa" she explained. "Such details as this add finish to the play."

Miss White said proudly that several performances have been given in which not a single "prompt" was required. She credited this in part to planned footwork from the beginning.

Most difficult thing to teach the player seems to be that he must remain in part until he is well off the stage. Many performances are spoiled for the audience because the player dropped into his own character while still in their sight.

20 Rehearsals

Each act is worked up in painstaking fashion, usually taking about two months in which more than 20 rehearsals may be held, each one lasting about two hours. Dress rehearsals are held two days before the public performance to give all taking part one day to rest. From the time required to get a play perfected for the stage it is easily deduced that one does not take part unless they are completely interested.

"School players find the love scenes most painful" Miss White said and told amusing contrasts encountered. She also told of funny accidents which have happened on performance nights that are stored in her memory as "painful happenings."

Teamwork Needed

"Directors and cast cannot put on good plays alone" Miss White stated. "They depend heavily on the committees in charge of set design, properties, lighting, sound effects, choosing costumes which have to be kept cleaned and pressed; make up artists, and the advertising and publicity committee in charge of providing a good audience.

"Complete teamwork from director to prop-man is necessary for successful play-producing," Miss White said in conclusion. Co-director in the school plays she mentioned is Mr. R. L. Hale.

First Art Work

Miss McCulloch's descriptions of the scenery and the setting of Doon Art School which is a short distance from Galt fired many of her listeners with a desire to take art lessons. Canvases painted by her friend, Miss Mary Cassidy of Toronto, who had hardly shown any interest in the art until she spent a week at Doon last summer, almost clinched the deal. The paintings showed a rare style of representation which had amazed her teachers, and kept them wondering just how far she should be guided.

Personalities too were described with such clearness that they seemed almost real to her listeners. Miss McCulloch first explained that the school is held in the home of the late Homer Watson, outstanding Canadian painter of 1900 to 1914. It is run by Mr. Ross Hamilton whom she described as a "character," but a very wonderful one it developed, and is open from May 31 to Labor Day.

Suggests School Here

"The country there was lush and kindly, while the country surrounding Peterborough seems rather stark," Miss McCulloch commented. However, she felt that a community such as this with so many interested in painting, might find a similar project very successful. About 40 were registered at the school every week of the season and many others joined them during the day. "Such a school given the people in that community more of the feeling of artists and they look at the scenery from their point of view."

Miss Verna Burgess expressed appreciation to the speakers who had given such infomative talks. Dr. Agnes Moffat, president, also thanked them.

DOROTHY DIX

When Parent Weak-Willed All Respect too Often Lost

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 16 about to graduate from high school. My problem is that my mother has become an alcoholic. She used to drink at home, but now she has acquired the habit of sitting in taverns and guzzling liquor and often doesn't come home until ten o'clock in the morning.

It used to hurt me to come home and find my mother drunk and I would cry for hours, but no matter how much she hurts me now I can no longer cry. I have lost all respect for her and am only trying to protect my little sister. Please help me. Is there any hope left? And what, oh, what should I do? P. G.

ANSWER: I don't think that any woman can read your pitiful letter without feeling like mingling her tears with your, for bad as a drunken father is, a drunken mother is infinitely worse. Every child looks to its mother for example and guidance and protection. Every child wants to put its mother on a pedestal, and it is a crime of crimes for a mother to fail to live up to her children's ideal of her.

It is a heartbreaking thing to even think of a girl of 18 whose life already has been seared by her mother's weakness; but before you give up your efforts to save her, contact Alcoholics Anonymous, as that organization is unusually successful in dealing with chronic drunkards. Their theory is that the drink habit is a disease. They treat it from that angle and bring about many cures.

Many Branches

In your city there are many branches of Alcoholics Anonymous, in which the men and women who have been saved from the drunkard's fate devote much of their time and effort to rescuing others. Appeal to these philanthropists, and if your mother can be saved they will do it.

DEAR MISS DIX: Whenever I hear a woman say, "I am marrying this man and not his family," I know that she is lacking in good, hard common sense and is destined for trouble. For if our marriages are to be happy, we do, in a very real sense, marry not only our husbands but also their families, their friends and their work. Any woman who alientates her husband from his family destroys something in his nature that will be a boomerang which will annihilate her. In-laws can be very helpful and are worth cultivating. I've done it and it has paid big dividends. MRS. C. F.

ANSWER: Right you are, lady. When a man marries he doesn't automatically cease to love his mother and father and sisters and brothers. He still thinks his folks are the grandest people in the world; and when he gives his wife his name and status, he expects her to become one of the family. Great is his disappointment when he finds out that his bride starts on her wedding day to alienate him from his people.

Also great is the possessive wife's mistake in trying to separate her husband from his family. Her role should be to court her in-laws as she did her husband. Nothing will do more to make her marriage a success. It will keep her husband eating out of her hand, and it will make her mother-in-law her backer—instead of her critic—in all family arguments.

DEAR MISS DIX: Would it be good taste for me to go with my husband to see his small son by a previous marriage? There are no hard feelings over the divorce, but the situation undoubtedly would be a little awkward since the child lives with his mother.

MRS NUMBER TWO

ANSWER: Personally, I should think that you would have a violent sick headache or something on the occasions when your husband was taking you to visit his ex-wife Of course, your husband, man-like, doesn't realize the awkwardness of the situation He thinks he is giving you a treat in taking you to see his child and he doesn't realize how embarrassing it is to both Wife Number One and Wife Number Two.

A rousing sing-song with harmony parts taken by the girls was led by Mrs. D. B. Gordon, Mrs. McNeill at the piano.

Miss McKenzie spoke to the girls of her activities as a CGIT girl and led a discussion on program and projects in senior groups. In conclusion she mentioned the advantages of CGIT work for a girl of 17. "Here you have a program of work and worship in group and in camp, not found anywhere else, which makes a good foundation for participation in all events following the high school years," she added.

Miss Jean DeNure introduced her fellow camp member and she was thanked by Miss Fern Carveth, who also presented her with a vanity case on behalf of the Council.

Dream Dumplings!

TOMATO CHEESE DUMPLINGS

1½ cups water; ¾ tsp. salt; ⅛ tsp. pepper; 1 tsp. sugar; 1 can condensed tomato soup; ½ cup (2 oz.) shredded Ingersoll Baby Roll — a delicious cheddar blend with a touch of a tang. Or, if you prefer milder cheese, use Ingersoll Rideau. ½ tbs. grated onion; dash salt; 1 cup prepared biscuit mix; ½ cup milk.

Add water, seasoning and sugar to tomato soup and heat. Add shredded cheese, onion and dash of salt to prepared biscuit mix; blend lightly. Add milk to make a soft dough. Drop by spoonfuls into boiling soup. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 20 minutes. Do not lift cover during cooking. (A green salad is a good accompaniment to this dish.) Makes 4 servings (8 dumplings).

Perk Up Eggs!

For deliciously different scrambled eggs, team 'em up with the mild cheddar flavor of Ingersoll Rideau Cheese. The flavor's wonderful! (Melt in 1 oz. Rideau for 3 eggs). Rideau is one of seven distinctive Ingersoll Cheese types and flavours.

Takes Longer Term

When John Jordan, 141 Sherbrooke St., was sentenced to three months at city police court today on a third offence of drunkenness, he asked Magistrate Philp, KC, to extend the sentence to four months. This was granted and he will serve the term at Guelph reformatory.

Charge Sabotage

TARRAGONA, Spain, Feb. 15—(AP)—Railway officials formally charged Monday that Sunday's Madrid-Barcelona express wreck, which cost 30 lives, was caused by sabotage. Forty injured persons are in hospitals. The express jumped the track 40 miles west of here.

Mrs. A. McIntosh Dies

TORONTO, Feb. 15 — (CP) — Mrs. Alexander A. McIntosh, wife of the former editor-in-chief of the Toronto Globe and Mail, died here Sunday. Born in East Nissouris township, near St. Marys, Ont., she was married in 1902.

Duplessis Raps Newspapers For Propaganda

MONTREAL, Feb. 15.—(CP).—Premier Duplessis of Quebec took newspapers to task last night for giving what he considered too much space to the "propagandists of disorder, Communism and sabotage."

He said it was shameful to keep on giving publicity "to every disorderly strike, to every declaration of Communists, and of radical people."

He declared newspapers don't realize the situation; "they are sleeping, they are dreaming."

He made the remarks in the course of a dinner address to the annual conference of Canadian Retailers.

He said:

"I think the time has arrived to speak plainly and fully. It may not be the talk of a politician, but it is the talk of a Canadian who loves his country.

"I think that the retailers, wholesalers and everyone in business should use their power to make newspapers understand that the time has arrived for the newspaper to stop being, wittingly or unwittingly, the propagandists of disorder, of Communism and sabotage."

The stand taken daily, wittingly or unwittingly, by newspapers acting as megaphones for the friends of disorder, for subversive ideas, is dangerous and appalling, he said.

"There is confusion in certain minds between liberty, real liberty and between licence.

"If you are a friend of liberty, and we are, you cannot do anything better than to do away with the arch-enemies of liberty."

Pope To Make Sunday Speech

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 15—(AP)—Pope Pius is expected to make a major speech on the case of Cardinal Mindszenty at a giant demonstration in St. Peter's Square, Sunday, informed Vatican sources said today.

Catholic Action, militant lay organization, had called on all Catholics in Rome to gather in the Square in a protest against the arrest, trial and sentencing to life imprisonment of the Hungarian Primate.

The Pope will appear on the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica at 5 a.m. EST, the sources said, and probably will address the demonstrators.

In a group audience with the Pope tomorrow, diplomats from 36 countries are expected to express solemn indignation over Hungary's treatment of Cardinal Mindszenty.

It will be the first time the present Pontiff has received the diplomatic corps to the Holy See en mass, since the February, 1946, Consistory creating new Cardinals.

Challenge USSR For Inquiry

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Feb. 15.—(AP).—The United States has challenged Russia to allow an impartial study of American charges that the Russians have 8,000,000 to 14,000,000 slave laborers.

The charge was made in the United Nations Economic and Social Council last night by Willard L. Thorp, assistant secretary of state. Thorp backed demands of the American Federation of Labor for a UN investigation of slave labor.

Thorp challenged Russia to let representatives of the international labor organization travel freely behind the iron curtain to study labor conditions.

"It would seem inconceivable that any country would want to oppose a survey of the situation throughout the world," Thorp said.

He added that the secrecy imposed by the Soviet Government "seems to be one of the surest indications that there is much to hide."

Mrs. H. Forster, 82 Buried In City

Funeral service for the late Mrs. Henrietta Forster, 82, was held on Monday from the Nisbett funeral home. The Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church officiated, and pallbearers were Harold Millen, Ernest Adamson, Reginald Hunter, Norman Moncrief, Norman Stenson and J. O. Pue of Fraserville. Burial was at Little Lake Cemetery.

Mrs. Forster died on Thursday at the home of her son in West North York. Her husband, Herbert Forster, predeceased her in 1938. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. C. Wilson (Edna) of Stoney Creek, and three sons, Harry of Rochester and Joseph and Percy of Toronto.

Separate School Teachers Meet

The Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association, district 18, held their semi-annual convention on Friday in Mount St. Joseph.

The convention opened in St. Joseph's chapel with mass celebrated by Rev. John Coughlan.

Rev. J. Coughlan, the president, greeted the teachers and gave a short account of the OECTA meeting in Toronto during the Christmas holidays.

The guest speaker of the morning was Mr. A. Ballantyne of Plains Road School, East York Township, who spoke on and demonstrated audio-visual aids in teaching, and emphasized the value of the film strip. He outlined clearly the proper procedure in order to obtain the maximum value for the pupil and stressed the value of showing each film repeatedly. He showed how it may be correlated with many of the other subjects in the curriculum.

The afternoon session opened with Mr. Wm. A. Hayden, inspector of Separate Schools, commenting on the necessity of uniform marking of the register, and he explained the summer courses being held at Normal schools for uncertified teachers. He also stressed the value of natural science in the course of study and its effect to develop the child socially and scientifically to an interesting adult life.

The speaker for the afternoon was Rev. Sister St. Winnifred, CND, principal of St. Brigid's School, Toronto, who chose for her topic, "Credit Unions in the Schools." She explained how such unions may be a common band among residents of a community, men in a factory, or even children in a school. She outlined the benefits of such to the child in teaching him thrift and responsibility in handling his finances.

His Excellency Bishop Berry also spoke on the value of credit unions, especially to classes with lower income.

Accompanied by their teacher, Miss Patricia Twoomey, the pupils of St. Joseph's School, Otonabee, delighted the audience with three songs.

Special displays were prepared and exhibited under the instruction of the following:

Crafts, Sister M. Ermelinda; religion, Mrs. J. McDonald; cathetical helps, Sr. St. Keven, Sr. M. Bernard; social studies, "The Growth of Peterborough," Sr. Adele.

A dainty lunch served by the sisters of Mount St. Joseph brought the day to a pleasant closing.

Dr. Bruce Gordon officiated and pall-bearers were Walter Metheral, David Fleming, Alex Gillies, James Juby, Roland Glover and Charles Banks. Burial was at Little Lake Cemetery.

Mr. Whatley died at the home of his brother, Frederick, on Friday. He was born in Otonabee township son of the late Robert Whatley and Isabella Bryson. He leaves one brother, Frederick, of this city. He was employed by the Peterborough Canoe Company for many years as saw filer and was a member of Trinity United Church.

Czech Officers Tried As Spies

PRAGUE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Another trial of Czechoslovak military figures, including a general, began Monday on spying and plotting charges.

Six officers, including Gen. Rajmund Mrazek, 52, and Col. Vaclav Jandera, went on trial.

The trial of Gen. Karel Kutlvasr and 12 other officers is scheduled to begin Feb. 17. Gen. Heliodor Pika recently was arrested and charged with plotting for a foreign power. Gen. Karel Janousek, head of the Czech air force during the war, was sentenced two days ago to 19 years in prison.

There have been stories, never officially confirmed, that several hundred officers have been arrested since December in a wide plot to overthrow the government. Daily new trials are announced.

Pika headed the Czechoslovak delegation's military section at the Paris peace conference in 1946. He has held other high posts, including chief of the military mission in Moscow during the war.

Mrazek was charged with collecting information about the Czechoslovak Army and turning it over to Ervin Kolenata. The latter was described as an agent of foreign authorities.

Jimmy Durante, Keaton May Re-team

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 15 (AP)—Jimmy Durante and Buster Keaton are talking the possibility of a screen re-teaming.

The two comics were paired in MGM films in the early days of talkies. Jimmy has not done a picture in a year and is eager to work again.

The Keaton-Durante combination is just a dream at present, but it is something for MGM to consider. The public seems to be hot for comedy these days. Bob Hope tells me that "The Paleface" is drawing 50 per cent more business than "Road to Rio" in some places. That is big coin.

People and Things

William Holden is going to be busy again this year. Finishing "Dear Wife," he goes right to Columbia for "Miss Grant Takes Richmond" with Lucille Ball. Then back to Paramount for a Western, "Beyond the Sunset."

Paul Henreid returns to his own company for "The Runaway" after "Rope of Sand." Paul will be in the picture, too.

Frank Loesser, who had two simultaneous hits with "Slow Boat to China" and "My Darling," wrote the songs for "Red, Hot and Blue," and also plays a gangster. The script calls for him to be slugged by both Betty Hutton and Vic Mature. That could be the stars' revenge.

Shinwell Scolds Noisy Students

ABERYSTWYTH, Wales, Feb. 15 (CP)—War Secretary Emanuel Shinwell Monday rebuked a crowd of University students who demonstrated noisily at the opening of a territorial army recruiting campaign.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourselves," he told them. "If you are not disciplined now you may be later."

The students, carrying banners inscribed "Peace, Not War," created so much noise and disorder that attention was distracted from a parade which was part of the campaign.

Shinwell, stepping down from the saluting base, walked over to them.

Interrupted by jests and catcalls, he said the government is not in favor of war or aggression but "we are determined to go on with our campaign whether you like it or not."

"When you students grow older and become professional men you will realize how important it is that our country is properly defended."

Have 8,000,000 Slaves

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Feb. 15—(CP)—The United States Monday charged that Russia has 8,000,000 to 14,000,000 persons working under slave-labor conditions in the Soviet Union. Willard L. Thorp, assistant secretary of state, told the United Nations economic and social council that the figures are estimates but Russia has offered no contrary facts.

Canadian Recruiting Tests Adopted By Great Britain

By STUART UNDERHILL.

LONDON, Feb. 15 — (CP). — "Pulhems" tests, used since 1943 to grade Canadian Army recruits, have been adopted by the British fighting services and the Labor Ministry. Only here they are called "Pulheems."

Every 18-year-old called up for national service gets a Pulheems, which the War Office declined to introduce during the war. The tests are a Canadian development and their adoption in Britain follows wartime and postwar experimentation here.

The name was changed because the Royal Navy and the RAF felt Canada seemed to have forgotten that normal men have two eyes.

Each letter in pulheems represents a physical or character attribute. The "E" stands for "eye" (vision). The Canadian Army demanded one visual standard, whereas the Navy and the RAF wanted the visual acuity of both eyes, with and without glasses. Hence the two "Es."

The other letters? P—Physical capacity; U—Upper limbs; L—Locomotion; H—Hearing; M—Mental capacity; S—Stability (emotional).

Grades under each are from one to eight, with eight meaning unfitness for any form of military service. Grades in the 4-5-6 bracket indicate fitness for employment in temperate climates only.

The Labor Ministry uses the tests to help classify applicants for employment.

In an article in the British Medical Journal, Maj. Roy T. Fletcher, RAMC, notes that the "minimum standards" set for infantrymen are "notoriously impossible" to reach in all cases.

"Fine physique, good hearing, strong eyesight, must be allied with intelligence, stable temperament, self-confidence, and determination," he wrote.

Re-elect Cotterill Labor Council Head

TORONTO, Feb. 15 (CP) — Murray Cotterill of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) Monday night was re-elected president of the Toronto Labor Council. He defeated Ross Russell of the United Eelectrical Workers (CIO).

Speaking as political action director of the Canadian Congress of Labor, Mr. Cotterill told the Labor Council that a political campaign fund target of $350,000 had been set by the CCL in its drive to swing the CCL's 350,000 members behind the CCF in the next Federal election.

He had served as Lord of the Treasury in 1916-19 and treasurer of the King's household in 1915-16. Lord Rankeillour was deputy speaker of the House of Commons from 1921 to 1929.

Britain Ups Defence Budget 10%

To Spend 3 Billions In Next Year; Modernize Equipment

LONDON, Feb. 15—(AP)—Britain has proposed increasing her defence budget 10 per cent to £759,860,000 ($3,039,440,000) in the next fiscal year.

This compares with estimates of £692,600,000 for the army, navy and RAF for the fiscal year ending March 31.

Some of the increase will go for higher pay to the armed forces, but most of it, the Government announced last night in a white paper, will be used for newer equipment and modernization of present war machines.

The white paper said RAF squadrons will be re-equipped with the latest type of jet aircraft.

Modernization of the army's tanks, radar and radio also is planned.

"The services must be ready, if need be, to fight with the weapons of today," the Government said.

It is planned to call 174,000 conscripts under the Compulsory Service Act during the next fiscal year.

Issuance of the budget plan coincided with some expressions of disappointment in Western Europe at the American rejection of any "automatic war" clause in the projected North Atlantic Alliance.

Official comment here was restrained, but there appeared to be some anxiety among British Government leaders over press reaction to an outline of the United States Senate's position Monday which gave such an indication.

"There is some concern in London," reported the pro-government Daily Herald, "at attempts which are being made to create the impression that the draft Atlantic pact is being so watered down by the Americans that it will be valueless, and that there is consequently a crisis.

Atlantic Pact Reaches Critical Stage

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(AP)—Negotiations for a North Atlantic Security Treaty reached a critical stage today. The big question: what kind of commitment should the United States make to aid Western European countries in case they are attacked?

Opposition appeared to be growing steadily stronger in the Senate against approving any kind of pledge which would automatically involve American armed assistance to another member of the alliance.

Chairman Tom Connally (Dem. Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee proposed Tuesday night that the United States, in joining the proposed alliance with Canada and Western Europe should keep its full right to determine what it would do if and when an emergency arose.

His proposal would leave out any reference to use of military measures or other actions which could in effect be interpreted, if they were included, as an open warning that the United States would go to war under the alliance.

State Secretary Achceson said in a Jan. 26 statement that "we can best contribute to the maintenance of peace by joining with other nations in making it absolutely clear in advance that any armed attack affecting out national security would be met with overwhelming force."

While the North Atlantic Treaty draft is still secret, it is known that it has contained to date a similar statement of the principle that an attack on any one member of the alliance would be considered an attack on all of them.

Dispute Keays' RCMP Service

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 16—(CP).—Constable J. E. Keays stepped from the witness box today after 7½ days of testifying to his allegations of misconduct by Crown and police officials. For five days he told a Royal Commission the story behind his allegations. The rest of the time he was questioned by two lawyers. Most of their questions were aimed at Keays' reliability as a witness.

Now the 44-year-old constable will begin calling witnesses to attempt to prove the charges he levelled at seven Ontario Provincial Police officers and Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan of Belleville.

Mr. Keays was questioned by Mr. Donnan and Malcolm Robb, counsel for five of the officers.

Mr. Donnan produced a telegram from Commissioner S. G. Woods of the RCMP to challenge Mr. Keays' claim to service in the RCMP's drug squad at Montreal.

Mr. Keays said the information in the wire was not correct.

It said Mr. Keays was not a regular member of the narcotics squad but had helped on raids when large numbers of officers were needed.

"Oh that is not true," Mr. Keays said. The Commissioner would not be in a position to know what each individual officer's duties were.

Before calling witnesses, Mr. Keays said he believed his credibility "had not been attacked in any way."

Refers To Admission

Mr. Keays referred to his admission that he had broken his Provincial Police oath of secrecy by telling his story to newspapermen.

He did it, he said, only because there was no official machinery for airing grievances within the force without leaving himself "at

US Secret Spy Trial Opens Refuse to Name Defendants

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 16—(AP).—A spy trial, so secret that the identity of the defendant or defendants and the verdict will be concealed, is to open here today before a United States military commission. The person or persons accused will stand trial on charges punishable by the death sentence. The charge is sale of important secret information to the Communist - dominated Czechoslovak Government.

Brig.-Gen. John L. McKee, chairman of the trial commission, said one other of the five pending spy trials will be equally secret. All of the trials relate to the same basic case.

"Does this mean that if a man or woman is ordered executed, it will not be announced?" a reporter asked.

"It will not be announced by the commission," McKee replied.

He said a review board might decide to disclose the names and verdicts later.

Recommended by Army

McKee said the secrecy, which is believed to have no precedent in United States military trials, was recommended by army intelligence for security reasons. He said it was felt the security of the United States would be endangered if some of the testimony and names of those on trial became known.

The trials stem from the round up November 9 of 20 persons accused of selling military, political and industrial information to the Czechoslovak Government.

Some of the defendants already have been identified. One of them is Elfriede Zirlik, a Sudeten German, alleged to have been known to underground associates only as "Lillian." She originally was scheduled for trial to-morrow, but McKee said her case will be heard later.

McKee said plans call now for the first and last trials to be secret, but that trials numbers two, three and four will be open to the press and public. In the secret trials, not even the nationality of defendants will be disclosed, he said.

Charge Youth In Bus Theft

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 16—(CP)—Alex M. Milynk, 21, of Welland, Ont., today was charged with first degree grand larceny in connection with the alleged theft of a $28,000 bus which brought 14 members of the Dain City Cribbage Club here Monday

The regular driver, Steve Trykolis of Humberstone, Ont., told police the bus was taken when he went to tell the party to prepare for the return trip.

Milynk and club member "Happy" Harrison of Welland Junction, Ont., allegedly drove the bus several miles to Cheektowaga, N.Y. Police found the undamaged bus on a side road with both men asleep.

Rule Decision Stands In Stockholm Tilt

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 16—(CP).—The international ice hockey directorate today ruled that the result of the game between Czechoslovakia and Canada last night, which Czechoslovakia won 3-2 on a disputed goal, shall stand.

Canada had lodged a protest against the decision of Referee G. H. Ahlin of Sweden to allow the second Czech goal, on the grounds that it was scored with a stick in the air. Ausustin Bubink tallied the disputed counter on a pass from Zabrodsky. Bubink's stick was high above his head, observers said. Later Zabrodsky admitted he didn't think it was a valid goal.

Arrest 5 Men At Gunpoint After Wild Ride

TORONTO, Feb. 16 (CP)—Five men were arrested at gunpoint early today following two furious chases through downtown Toronto streets and nearby Scarboro township. All were charged with automobile theft.

Edward Gallagher, 20, Allen Guilbert, 20, and Joseph Grace, 18, all of Toronto, were arrested after a 10-mile, 80-mile-an-hour chase during which four warning shots were fired and a police cruiser was twice forced into a ditch. The trio jumped from the car, reported stolen last week from Frank Hewitt of Toronto, but surrendered a half-mile away. Gallagher was also charged with dangerous driving.

An hour later, police arrested Louis Quesnelle, 28, and Norman Lenz, 28, for theft of a car from London, Ont. The arrest climaxed a wild 60-mile-an-hour chase through downtown Toronto which ended when police forced their car to the side of a bridge.

Overholt Guilty On Reduced Count

Harley L. Overholt, Omemee was found guilty of dangerous driving by a Supreme Court jury this afternoon. He had been charged with manslaughter

In view of the accused's clean record, defence counsel T. J. Carley, KC, asked for a suspended sentence, and the sentence will likely be passed later to-day.

Use Stolen CNR Crowbars To Gain Entry, Remove Door Of Steel Safe

Constable Tries Doors At 3 In Morning Finds Everything In Order; Caretaker Discovres Broken Safe, Calls Police

MILLBROOK, Feb. 16—(Staff).—Robbers made their third successful raid on Millbrook Post Office since 1939 some time during the night, and took more than $680 worth of stamps and about $97 in cash from the office safe. The raid was cleverly planned and executed and the intruders must have been watching the building, because Provincial Constable Gordon Langton circled the building and tried the doors at 3 a.m. He was on district night patrol and the radio log shows an OK report at that time.

Crowbars and other tools stolen from the CNR tool house at Millbrook were used to gain entry. They smashed the lock on a side door, and flipped the big steel safe on its side before going to work. The door was removed and the contents taken.

When Albert Muspratt, caretaker, arrived at 7.45 this morning to check the furnace, he discovered the open door, and the broken safe. Papers and letters were scattered around the floor, and it is possible some packages ready for mailing were taken.

Call Police

Mr. Muspratt notified Mr. Collins, and the Provincial Police at Peterborough were called. J. J Kellett, village constable was on the job early, and discovered the loss from the CNR tool house

Mr. Collins could not be reached for an estimate of the loss but it is believed he is in the habit of taking any large sum of money home with him for safe-keeping.

Two years ago, the safe was smashed open, the intruders using crowbars stolen from Chapman's garage next door.

No person heard the robbers working, nor was any car seen in the vicinity of the building during the night. The previous break-in was a clean cut job and no person was arrested in connection with it.

The post office is on the main street, at the corner of Union, and is a new building, being opened for the first time in 1939

Police are considering the possibility that the safecrackers may be the gang which failed in an attempt to cut open vaults at an Orono bank a few weeks ago.

At first it was believed that the thieves had stolen the rubber stamp used to certify money orders, but Provincial Police denied this.

Provincial Constables Joseph Hanson, Gordon Langdon, and Keith O'Shaughnessy of Peterborough along with Provincial Constable D. Nicol, Cobourg, investigated the break-in.

A Koppers spokesman said the blast was not related to the explosion yesterday at Koppers' Kearny, NJ, plant.

Hear Appeal On Tweed Liquor Vote

TORONTO, Feb. 16 — (CP)—Hearing of an appeal arising from a liquor plebiscite at the village of Tweed began today before the Ontario Court of Appeal.

Citizens of the village near Belleville were reported by the Returning Officer as voting 495-333 for open sale last Aug. 25. Judge J. C. Anderson of the Hastings County Court later confirmed in a recount the figures, which fell several votes short of the three-fifths majority stipulated by the Liquor Licence Act of Ontario.

J. R. Cartright of Toronto, counsel for E. J. Cournega, Tweed hotel proprietor, and "affirmative" voters in the district, told the Appeal Court he would attempt to prove that at least four ballots had been improperly counted.

B. Robertson Collins of Tweed, representing "negative" voters, opposed the appeal.

The court reserved decision on a submission by Mr. Collins that the matter was outside its jurisdiction because "before there is a right of appeal the judge's decision would have to be in the form of an order capable of enforcement."

Child 3 Drowns In Dixie Stream

TORONTO, Feb. 16 (CP) — Colder weather today eased the flood threats from swollen rivers in several sections of Ontario.

The mercury hit the mark well below freezing in many points overnight but milder weather was promised late today for Southern Ontario.

One death was attributed to the swollen water levels as three-year-old Ray Belford was drowned in a fast-flowing stream at Dixie, 10 miles west of Toronto. Another child, three-year-old Harriet Goodbaum, was saved by two passing motorists as she was swept along a drainage ditch in the Toronto suburbs.

Thousands of acres were under water in areas from just east of Toronto to Windsor.

Highland Creek was over its banks east of Toronto, and west of the city the flood-swollen Etobicoke River sent water swirling in the streets of Brampton. Ice jams in the Etobicoke were dynamited and merchants who had removed their stocks to higher levels believed the danger was past.

Ontario Controls Hospital Sales

TORONTO, Feb. 16 (CP) — Government control over the sale, leasing or mortgaging of public hospitals is provided for in a bill given first reading in the Ontario Legislature Tuesday.

Health Minister Kelley said the legislation, which would require government approval of all such transactions, was desirable in view of money paid in grants to hospitals.

Other bills given first reading Tuesday would: validate Ontario Northland Transportation Commission pension plans which have been in operation since 1922; exempt the Crown or any foreign state from paying land transfer tax; and amend the Lakes and Rivers Improvement Act.

The lakes and rivers amendment would authorize the Lands and Forestes Minister to order the owner of any dam to be used for hydro-electric developments to clear timber from lands flooded by his dam. Another amendment would enable hydro engineers to inspect such dams as to their suitability for hydro development. The owners might then be ordered to make necessary repairs or have the property forfeited.

No dam may be constructed without approval of the Lands Department and all must include fishways.

Russia, Two Others Resign From UN Group

GENEVA, Feb. 16 (Reuters) — Russia, the Ukraine and Byelo-Russia have resigned from the World Health organization, one of the 11 specialized agencies set up by the United Nations.

Dr. Brock Chisholm, director of the organization, in making the announcement today said the three Soviet countries were not satisfied with the work done by the W.H.O.

Dr. Chisholm, of Oakville, is former Canadian Deputy Minister of Health.

US Scientists Working On 10,000 mph. Space Ship

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—United States government scientists are working on a "space ship" which would flash through the stratosphere at nearly 10,000 miles an hour.

While bare hints of such an "earth satellite vehicle program have appeared before, the first scant details have just been disclosed in a chart issued by the Curtiss Wright Corporation, long-time builder of military planes and engines.

The chart shows that secret government research is being conducted on both the 10,000-m.p.h. satellite and a 3,000-4,000-m.p.h. rocket plane. Also under the secret classification is a guided ram-jet missile able to speed above 2,000 miles an hour.

Scientists have speculated on shooting a rocket beyond the pull of the earth's gravity, where it could circle like a miniature moon.

All three armed services are working on the research problems.

Some scientists believe that the country which first creates an outer space platform for guiding or launching atomic rockets will dominate the earth.

Such an outpost on the frontier of interplanetary space would have both military and non-military uses.

As a military direction post, it would control long-range rockets, dropping them anywhere on earth. It also could be used in peacetime for navigation, as a "reflector" for radio television and radar waves.

The Satellite probably would be automatic and crewless—at least at the beginning. Later, it might be possible to send crews back and forth from the earth to the space ship.

Reveals Church Persecution

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (AP). — A report which said "outright persecution" of Bulgarian Protestants began in January, 1943, on secret orders from Communist central headquarters in Sofia was given the Associated Press Tuesday by a traveller returned from Europe.

The traveller stipulated that neither his name nor his connections nor the source of his report could be disclosed.

The report, which said that between 30 and 40 pastors of the United Evangelical Church were jailed during 1948, was prompted by the Bulgarian Communist-dominated government's recent announcement of the imprisonment of 15 church leaders.

They were charged with acting as spies for the United States and Britain, treason and violating the foreign currency law.

(Represented in the United Evangelical Church are Congressist, Methodist, Baptist, and Pentecostal faiths.)

The report said the campaign against the church got under way in January of last year when the Protestant Purge In Bulgaria Told In Smuggled Story

Communist central headquarters in Sofia sent a directive for the "local agitators of the Fatherland Front (the Communist Party)."

Given Orders

The directive then ordered "the local agitators" to go to "the meetings in churches, and to ask them the following questions:"

"1. What is your attitude toward the building of our State and the power of the Fatherland party? 2. If you have a positive attitude, how do you express it practically? 3. From where do you obtain the financial backing for your church and pastor? 4. What is your attitude toward the policy of the Anglo-Americans aiming to kindle a new war and to enslave foreign peoples? and 5. Why do you not speak out against inciters of war?"

The report said the directive had the immediate following results:

"In February a group of pastors held a week's meeting formally authorized by the district militia office. On the closing Sunday seven of the group went to various nearby villages to preach.

"At 10 o'clock in the morning they were all arrested and informed that they had failed to obtain permits to journey to these villages for their purposes.

The pastor of another district was taken before the district chief of militia, who with one other member of the militia beat him severely, accusing him of being a traitor to his country and a servant of Anglo-American reaction.

In June, 1948, the report said, the government addressed a circular letter of directive to all church leaders, that they should:

"Not criticize the government; support nationalism; acknowledge and preach that the State stands above the church; support fully all government measures and train theological students to fulfil government obligations."

Gen. Clay Orders Reds To Leave

FRANKFURT, Feb. 16 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay has requested the official Russian repatriation mission in the United States zone of Germany to leave American-occupied territory, it was announced today.

The "request" virtually amounted to an order, it was said. Army authorities said Clay, United States military governor in Germany, had asked the Russians to leave, but they had contended the mission was "indispensable."

Following this, the army announced:

"Because the voluntary repatriation of Displaced Persons who are Soviet citizens has virtually ceased, the Russian repatriation mission in the U.S. zone will not operate after March 1."

CCF Amendment Charges Gov't Failure

TORONTO, Feb. 16 (CP) — Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver today picks up the cudgel wielded yesterday by Opposition Leader E. B. Jolliffe in the Ontario Legislature's throne speech debate.

Mr. Jolliffe yesterday charged that under the leadership of George Drew between 1943 and 1948 the Ontario government was conducted "as though it were a mere stepping stone to high office at Ottawa."

Mr. Jolliffe moved an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne. His amendment "regrets the failure of the government to meet the needs of the people of Ontario with respect to housing, hydro, health, welfare, education, agriculture and labor."

Premier Kennedy earlier had told the House the opinion, expressed Monday in Ottawa by Mr. Drew, that the provinces should be consulted before Newfoundland was admitted to Confederation, reflected the opinion of the Ontario government.

Absurd Opinion

Mr. Jolliffe described thos opinion as "the extreme point of absurdity" in the campaign to raise "the false issue of provincial rights." During Mr. Drew's premiership the Ontario government's policy on Dominion-Provincial rights "was not a policy at all but merely a part of a purely political campaign designed to woo votes—Federal votes" in Quebec.

The Ontario government had failed to mention in the throne speech the problems of hydro-electric power development. He suggested the government had no defence for its policies. The speech had also failed to forecast any measure of tax relief, despite the fact Ontario was "very heavily overtaxed."

The speech had said 5,000 new houses were built in Ontario during the last year under legislation which permitted the government to assume second mortgages. Actually, Mr. Jolliffe said, the legislation had helped in the purchase of newly-built or partly built houses but had not necessarily assisted in the building of a single new house.

Armed Robbery Charge

TORONTO, Feb. 16 — (CP) — Captured at gun-point after a 10-mile chase in the Perth area, three Toronto men were charged here Tuesday with the armed robbery of taxi-driver William Muir Feb. 11. The three—Victor Chipperfield, 20, Peter Penak, 20, and Robert Kozlov, 21—were remanded to Feb. 22 on bail.

SCORER'S ERROR

Official score at the Provincial-City Police hockey game was 13 to 10 in favor of the Provincials. The official scorer omitted a goal scored in the second period by Constable Vernon O'Donoghue. A protest was going to be lodged by the City team if the goal wasn't counted. The next "game" will be in Lindsay next week.

Commons Sweeps Aside 2 Motions To Delay Union

OTTAWA, Feb. 16—(CP).—The Commons last night swept aside two motions which might have delayed the long-awaited union of Canada and Newfoundland. By a vote of 137 to 66, the Chamber ditched a thrust by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, which would have required the Government to consult with the provinces before asking the United Kingdom Parliament to amend the British North America Act and give full force to the projected alliance.

By another whacking vote of 191 to 12, it rejected a second move by a private member—Wilfrid Lacroix (L—Quebec-Montmorency)—which would have gone a step further and specified that the provinces must "consent" to the union.

The amendments developed in two days of rough-and-tumble debate over the ticklish constitutional question of whether the Provinces should be given a say on charges that the Dominion proposes to seek in the BNA Act.

The Progressive Conservatives contended that in this case the provinces should be consulted, the Liberals maintained that provincial consultation was not necessary because provincial rights and prerogatives were not involved.

Adjourns Debate.

As the votes were recorded, Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, the former Prime Minister who handled the early union negotiations, said he could not allow the issue to end without saying "a few words on this all-important question of the union of Newfoundland and Canada." He adjourned the debate until tomorrow.

In a swift strategical move, the Liberals forced the Progressive Conservatives—who for two days had urged Provincial consultation—into voting against Mr. Lacroix' amendment specifying that Provincial consent must be obtained as well.

When the amendment was called Prime Minister St. Laurent and his supporters indicated their wish for a recorded count. In the ensuing vote, the Progressive Conservatives sided with the Liberal and CCF members in defeating the amendment, which won support from the Social Credit group and a handful of Independents.

Little Support

When the Progressive Conservative motion came up, it won support only from the Progressive Conservatives themselves, the Social Credit group and a few Independents. The Liberal and CCF parties banded together to defeat it.

The debate leading up to the divisions featured name-calling and a charge by Ralph Maybank (L-Winnipeg South Centre) that the Progressive Conservative party was seeking to provide Premier Duplessis of Quebec with "veto power" over the union in return for his support in that province.

He termed the Progressive Conservative amendment either "patiently insincere or crazy" and appealed to some of the "fine" men in that party to "stop this Tory business of trying to buy their way into Quebec." They should remember that "their good friend Maurice can break them just as quickly as he can make them."

Lebel Jury Resworn Hear Sanity Evidence

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que., Feb. 16—(CP)—The Maurice Lebel murder-trial jury today was to be re-sworn to hear evidence by alienists on whether the 28-year-old accused is mentally fit to stand trial.

The hearing developed sensationally into a trial within a trial yesterday after Lebel's counsel pleaded insanity on behalf of his client in a written motion accepted by the presiding judge, Mr. Justice Romeo Langlois.

The surprise move by the defence came on the fifth day when the crown had called its 50th witness and was nearing completion of its case against Lebel on a double-murder count.

Valmore Bienvenue, K. C., said in his motion that the backwoods trucker from St. Guy, Que., has the mentality of a child who has only a 'foreign" interest in his trial.

Mr. Justice Langlois observed it was strange that a man with the alleged mentality of Lebel and been able to borrow $4,743.26 on promissory notes from the Trois Pistoles Bank formerly managed by Breton.

Base Metals, Oils Firmed On Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 16 —(CP)—A few base metals and western oils firmed in dull trading on the Toronto stock exchange today. New Jason Mines attracted some busy action for a two-cent advance at a new high at 74 cents, but the remainder of the gold list turned downstairs. Industrials moved narrowly into slightly easier ground.

Volume for the first three hours was 527,000 shares, about 39,000 shares less than yesterday's similar period.

Consolidated Smelters rose ¼ at 107 in base metals while Waite Amulet and Quemont dipped from yesterday's gains.

Steel of Canada sagged $1 and a few other steels weakened. International Paper and Imperial Oil were stronger fractionally.

New Jason held the spotlight in the golds, trading more than 129,000 shares in three hours. Senior and junior producers slipped downwards on small losses.

New York Has Summer Heat

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 — (CP) —The weather pattern over the United States appeared like a crazy quilt today, with unrelenting Arctic blasts still striking the Western States and New York basking in summer-like temperatures.

While the weather bureau predicted another potent storm heading south from Canada into Idaho, Montanna and Wyoming, New York stole a page from spring's calendar with two "winter heat" records shattered.

At 3:15 p.m. Tuesday the temperature here was 71 degrees—a record for the date. In addition the temperature had reached 70 degrees this early in the year for the first time in the recorded observations kept since 1871.

Southwestern Wyoming yesterday took the main beating from winds and snow that have hammered the State for 11 straight days. Gusts reached 50 miles an hour and railroads and highways were still in the paralyzed state they have been in for almost a fortnight.

In Idaho, emergency crews fought blocked roads in an attempt to reach partial recovery from previous storms before the new Arctic incursion arrives. New snow was predicted for this afternoon.

Flood threats also plagued areas in the Western States. The heavy snows, if they melt too fast during the spring thaws, may cause critical high levels in the rivers and streams. In Western Oregon, the danger is apparent already following heavy rains and thawing conditions.

More Red Troops Sent To Germany

BERLIN, Feb. 16 — (AP). — New reports that the Russians were increasing their occupation forces in Germany came to-day from a German source.

The British-licensed German news service said that German railway crews engaged in running reparations trains to Russia had reported meeting transports of new troops coming to Germany from the East. The same crews claimed to have seen no transports going East recently, so the conclusion was drawn the new arrivals were additions rather than replacements

The Russians were estimated by Allied sources last year to have some 330,000 troops in Germany.

Printing Bureau Move Means 2 Million Loss

OTTAWA, Feb. 16 (CP) — The government's controversial plan for moving the federal printing bureau across the Ottawa River to Hull, Que., will, when carried out, mean a loss of $2,600,000 a year in business for central Canadian printing firms, it was learned today.

The plan calls for expanding the present staff of 822 to more than 2,000.

As a result, much of the business in printing government forms and publications, previously let out to firms in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Quebec and elsewhere in central Canada, will be finished in the new bureau.

Dispute Keays

the mercy of the powers that be."

He said every officer in Ontario had broken the oath by giving reporters details of traffic accidents.

He renewed his request that Attorney General Leslie Blackwell be called as a witness. Mr. Blackwell was the only man who could testify about the Provincial Police oath.

Asks Confirmation

Mr. Donnan asked Mr. Keays to confirm that Constable G. R. Purdy wished to withdraw a drunk and dangerous driving charges against Leroy Woods in November, 1947. Mr. Keays said Constable Purdy "not only wished but was instructed" by Mr. Donnan to withdraw them.

Mr. Donnan said Mr. Keays asked him not to call Constable Purdy as a witness at the trial at which Woods was acquitted of drunken driving and convicted of dangerous driving.

Mr. Keays said that was not true. He had asked that Constable Purdy be called.

He denied discussing with Mr. Donnan what charges should be preferred against Gerald Holdenbeck, driver of a bus involved in a traffic fatality.

Mr. Donnan asked if Mr. Keays knew that the attorney general's department had been asked for instructions about the prosecution. Mr. Keays said the first he knew of charges being laid was after the limitation of time for a summary matter.

Produces Letter

Mr. Donnan produced a letter from the attorney general's department ordering dangerous driving charges.

Mr. Keays had accused Mr. Donnan of withdrawing the charge and only proceeding with it six months after the accident on instructions from the attorney general. He said he was accused by Constable J. B. Driscoll of drunkenness.

Mr. Donnan asked Mr. Keays about the investigation of the death of Jean Badgley at Frankford in November 1947.

Mr. Donnan asked if Mr. Keays told the coroner: "This is murder. I will take charge."

Mr. Keays said he had not said that. He said he told the coroner the circumstances of the death were questionable and the body should be taken to the morgue.

Didn't Write Report

Mr. Keays said he did not write any report of the pathologist's report. He did not tell the Crown Attorney it was murder but he did say "the girl had been strangled and was shot after she was strangled."

"You didn't tell me it was definitely murder?" asked Mr. Donnan.

"Nor sir," Mr. Keays said.

Mr. Keays said he took a fingerprint from a rifle found near the body, but he denied that he suggested a charge of murder against the girl's boy friend, Harold Hagerman.

(The coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide).

Mr. Keays said bloodstains indicated the girl had been dressed after she was shot. There were stains on the foot but not on her stocking.

"Do you recall the simple explanation given at the inquest that nylon will not take a blood stain?" asked Mr. Donnan.

"No sir," said Mr. Keays.

Mr. Donnan asked Mr. Keays if he recalled the pathologist told the inquest he had made a mistake in his report and that he might have been responsible for injuries to the girl's body.

Little Investigating

Mr. Keays said Inspector W. Franks of the Police Criminal Investigation Bureau took over the investigation but did "little investigating" for the first week.

Mr. Keays said neither he nor Inspector Franks knew the body had been taken to Toronto and he "had to take over" to assist Dr. W. Robinson, senior provincial pathologist.

Mr. Donnan then questioned Mr Keays about the allegation that Mr. Donnan was implicated in a fraud with Mr. Carefoot. Mr. Donnon and Carefoot were associated with the Belleville Aqua Vita Company, Ltd.

Mr. Keays said the company sold a mineral water called Aqua Vita which it claimed had beneficial medical properties.

Mr. Donnan produced letters from several firms giving an analysis of the water.

CORNWALL, Feb. 16—(CP).—Cash bail of $1,000 each or $2,000 property was set today for three Kingston and district men charged with extortion and robbery. The accused are George Smyth, 23, and Russell Parker, both of Kingston; and John Graham, 21, Barriefield.

Charges arose out of an alleged incident at a Montreal hotel last January 5, in which Smyth's estranged wife was said to be involved. Bernard Hart of Dickinson's landing said the men demanded $2,000 from him to keep his name out of divorce proceedings between Smyth and his wife.

PARIS, Feb. 16—(AP)—Prince Aly Khan's marriage to movie star Rita Hayworth will be indefinitely delayed, it appeared today.

Court clerks here said that the "reconciliation" meeting between Aly Khan and the present princess in their divorce action has been postponed because of the princess' illness.

The prince has asked for a divorce in order to be free to marry Miss Hayworth. Under French law, the judge handling the case must first hold a meeting with the two parties to try to effect a reconciliation.

Princess Amused At Gossip About Romances

LONDON, Feb. 16—(Reuters)—High-spirited Princess Margaret is amused by current talk about her "romances," although royal circles are said to be concerned at the linking of her name with a chain of admirers.

Friends say the lively, 18-year-old princess reads every bit of gossip about her private life and enjoys keeping columnists "guessing" about her "favorite" of the moment.

She relished, for instance, the small surprise she pulled on the press last week-end. The newspapers gave prominence to her private visit to the Sussex home of the parents of 31-year-old Tom Egerton, former Guards officer.

But they failed to notice a blonde young man wearing a bow tie, who was also a house guest.

Monday night Princess Margaret went to Covent Garden Opera House to see the ballet 'Cinderella' with this young man, Hon. Julian Fane, 21, brother of the 24-year-old Earl of Westmoreland.

Buckingham Palace officials do not try to hide their annoyance when asked about rumors of the Princess' engagement to this or that young peer.

Princess Margaret herself has said she wants to marry young.

At various times nine men have been nominated as her future husband. They are: Ex-King Michael of Romania; Prince George of Denmark; the Marquis of Milford Haven, who was best man at the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh; the Marquis of Blandford; the Earl of Derby; the Earl of Dalkeith & Lord Portchester; Lord John and Lord Ogilvy.

Tourist Cars Increase In '49

OTTAWA, Feb. 16.— (CP).—More tourist cars entered Canada in January than in the corresponding month of any year before, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The number entering the country on traveller's vehicle permits was higher by 15.4 per cent than in January, 1948.

The number of entries in the month amounted to 32,590 compared with 28,243 in the corresponding month a year ago. The gain was shared by all provinces except Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia, the latter province showing a substantial decrease. These divergent trends across Canada may have been influenced by unusual weather conditions, the bureau said.

Entries for January this year, totals for the same period of 1948 in brackets: Nova Scotia, two (nil); New Brunswick, 2,243 (1,150; Quebec, 7,932 (5,364); Ontario, 17,591 (13,119); Manitoba, 130 (252); Saskatchewan, 27 (54); Alberta, 303 (244); British Columbia, 4,328 (7,364); Yukon Territory, 34 (31).

Kitchener Refuses To Increase Wages

KITCHENER, Feb. 16—(CP)—Not one cent increase in a wage rate which now amounts to 85 cents an hour for laborers will be granted the Kitchener civil employees union this year, if Aldermen maintain the stand taken in negotiations Tuesday night.

Meeting with union representatives a four-man council union agreement committee put up a strong unanimous front against a proposed 18-cents-an-hour wage boost, or $7.70 more a week for salaried men.

The Union met other snags. Instead of granting 11 statutory holidays with pay, the Aldermen propose to cut the Union down to seven, two less than last year. Negotiations will continue.

X-Ray Survey In Peterborough County

Beginning in April tens of thousands of citizens of the city and county will have the opportunity to have their chests X-rayed free of charge. This service is being provided by the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association. Its objective is that every person in the county will be thus examined. The survey will not only discover cases of T.B. in early and easily-treated stages which would othewise be unremarked until they had become dangerous. It will also give all but the few the satisfaction of knowing that their lungs are sound, that they have no need to worry about T.B. It will be a very valuable survey if completely carried out and will be a great step toward realizing the object of the Peterborough and Provincial Tuberculosis Associations which is to wipe out tuberculosis entirely.

The County Tuberculosis Association already operates in the city two chest clincs a month, free of charge to the people who are X-rayed. Useful as these clinics are, they provide only a partial service since the only people examined are those referred to the clinics by physicians. Usually such people already have reason to suspect that their chests may be affected. The mass survey which begins in April will be for all. Unsuspected and unrecognized cases will thus be detected, to the benefit of both the diseased person and his neighbour who might otherwise be infected by him. It is a policy of many local employers to require a chest X-ray as a condition of employment. Some industries have their workers examined periodically, through the Industrial Hygiene Survey of the Department of Health — for which the industry pays. These X-ray surveys all have the disadvantage of being exclusive, limited to certain groups of people. The one which begins in April will, it is hoped, be fully inclusive.

The costs are being borne by the Peterborough Tuberculosis Association, which depends for its revenue on the sale of Christmas seals. Peterborough is one of the last cities in the Province to be surveyed in this way, although a beginning was made last year in northern townships and in Havelock. A reason for the lateness may be that both city and county have been poor supporters of the Red Seal campaign. The sale of the seals has been much lower than in districts of similar population. The surveys cost money. If the Association does not have the money it cannot carry out the tasks it sets itself. There is good hope that by next Christmas the Peterborough County Association will have greater financial support, for this year it has energetic leadership, and the public is more alert to the need here for adequate anti-tuberculosis measures.

U.S. Fluffs The North Atlantic Pact

The North Atlantic Pact has been shaping with remarkable speed and concord. A central part of the treaty would be its terms providing for the defence of western Europe, and a defensive grouping with the five Brussels-Pact countries. The general supposition has been that signatory countries of both the Brussels Pact and the North Atlantic Pact would immediately and unitedly go to the support of a member nation which was attacked. The chief use of the Pact would be in its assertion of defensive action which was automatic, complete and certain. Otherwise the Pact would be merely mumbo-jumbo. It seems that it may become that.

Now that the State Department had lined up the players and discussed tactics, the authorizing power, the Senate, is not sure how the United States should play or if it will play. Mr. Tom Connally, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Senator Arthur Vandenberg, his Republican predecessor, have jointly stated that the U.S. Senate will not approve any treaty terms which would morally commit the country to go war. They do not even bother to mention that they would not approve a treaty which would literally commit the U.S. to go to war.

There is something very wrong with the American system and its foreign policy-makers if at such a late stage in the proceedings a fluff like that can happen. In effect the United States has recruited nations to a policy which it sponsored, and then itself backs out. It wants to have the other nations on its side but seems unprepared to side with them. The real stumbling-block, which has until now been concealed by fine words, is not the Senate, but the Constitution. The United States cannot, under its constitution, go to war without a declaration by Congress. The State Department could pledge the U.S. morally, but that kind of pledge is not the kind of assurance which would put teeth into a North Atlantic Pact. Even so, the leading Senators are opposed even to a moral commitment. The wry or angry comment of other western nations may be that the United States suffers from its creeking eighteenth century constitution and its governors from political asthma.

Why Not Better Taste In Valentines?

Now that St. Valentine's Day is over, and we cannot be accused of attempting to kill trade, we protest against the quality of the Valentine cards which were offered to the public by the manufacturers this year. They were, upon the whole, crude in design and crude and vulgar in sentiment. We heard several people say that they would send no cards at all rather than send what was offered. And surely no one can pretend that the cards are tawdry because that is what the public wants?

A Valentine should be a pretty thing, and a sentimental thing. It is meant to carry a message of love—usually an honest and sincere one. But a Valentine which conveys any such honest message is a rarity nowadays. Coyness and bad grammar are combined to provide messages of all sorts, but no honest declarations. And the really depressing thing about the modern Valentine is its painful infantilism. Do the manufacturers of greeting cards really think that we all wish to express our messages of affection in the language of backward children?

The finest Valentine message we have ever seen is that which the General Post Office of Great Britain prepared in 1935; it was a telegraph form, beautifully designed by Rex Whistler and printed in red, blue and gold; a dozen messages, each expressed in excellent verse, were offered to the sender of this "Greetings Telegram"; the telegram was delivered in an envelope of gold paper; cost, one shilling. The first year that these telegrams were introduced, 47,000 of them were sent on St. Valentine's Day. We think that if either of the Canadian telegraph services attempted something of this sort they would be astonished by their success.

The bad taste of most modern Valentines prevents hundreds of people from sending the messages which they wish to send. It is surely unwise of the manufacturers to underrate the public taste in this way.

The Danger Of Half Listening

It was about twelve years ago that Orson Welles created a panic on the Atlantic seaboard of the U.S.A. by broadcasting an extremely realistic version of H. G. Wells' story about an invasion from Mars. People fled to the mountains, rushed about the roads in terror, fainted, telephoned the police, the military, the White House — behaved, in fact, as if Old Nick had taken possession of them. When they learned that the cause of their alarm was simply a radio program they were very much put out.

Recently a radio station in Ecuador broadcast this same program, changing it only by substituting names of Ecuadorian people and places for those used by the ingenious Mr. Welles. The effect was the same. People rushed about in wild terror, and it took many hours to convince them that the radio program was nothing more than a rather stimulating entertainment. They then retaliated by burning down the radio station which was impetuous, though understandable.

There are several morals to this story but we think that one which is likely to be overlooked is this: if you are listening to the radio, listen—do not half listen. If you hear dreadful news, make sure that it is not a clever producer up to his tricks. If you turn on the radio and give it only part of your attention you really deserve anything that happens to you.

We read that "British war bride has boy triplets". It is not the number but the speed which astonishes us. Brides are usually wives or matrons before they have children.

The World's Best Game

By GEOFFREY VIVIEN.

SCRATCH a Canadian and you find an ice-hockey player. Scratch an ice-hockey player and you find a swallow, a tiger, a waterfly, a serpent, a ballet-dancer, an actor and a clown! This list is not really so fantastic as it may sound. All games call into play some qualities which we share with higher and lower creatures. The best games give the greatest range of experience. Let's take a look at ice-hockey that way.

SWALLOW. You are sitting on the verandah of your holiday cottage on a summer evening. The day has been calm but there is a feel of rain in the air. As the shadows gather they are threaded with the flight of swallows—dipping, swerving, banking, turning, diving to within an inch of the water, skimming its surface, then soaring sharply up again. As you watch you long for the gift of such swift, graceful motion. Where can you find it in human sports? In ice-hockey.

TIGER. Most things of which men are afraid are ugly. The tiger is a notable exception, strangely combining huge danger with great beauty. The poet William Blake captured the essence of it in his famous verse

Tyger! Tyger! burning bright
In the forests of the night,
What immortal hand or eye
Could frame thy fearful symmetry?

I am not going to suggest that the bulk form of a padded hockey player has quite this kind of beauty. But imagine yourself down there on the rink—within the bars of the cage!—and then you will feel the fearsomeness of these hurtling creatures. Even from a seat high up on the bleachers one can feel the swelling pride and the secret joy they have in their striped swiftness and striking-power. Like the big cats of the jungle they seem at times to be waiting the moment to pounce, gathering themselves together for a leap, then suddenly loosing their attack, ripping a path through the thrashing tangle of obstruction!

WATER-FLY. I sometimes wonder if they get their feet wet. Their movements across the pool are so sudden and so frictionless it seems that the surface is of polished steel. Try to follow their course; it is an electric scribble too fast for the eye, motivated by some logic too intricate for the mind. Where else do you get the sense of watching the unpredictable impulses of the imagination plotted out on a table, of thought become visible At an ice-hockey match.

SERPENT. Of all the letters in the alphabet S is the only one which has a quite unmistakable character. It is sinister. Coming from the mouths of an audience it can kill the meeting or the play. Coming from the fangs of a snake it can paralyse a prey with fear. Coming from the blades of an attacking forward it is like the song of a sword that means to strike at the heart. All games should have at least a touch of the sinister in them, something that calls out the serpent that lies coiled round the gnarled roots of our personality. Fencing comes high in this respect with its subtle luring on, feint, parry and quick coup de grace. But it is, so to speak, "land-based". With ice-hockey you have all this and planing too; a mazy motion that weaves a spell on the beholder and lulls by its gracefulness into a sense of peace and ease. Then with a sudden venomous flick the fangs are out—the puck is in the net!

BALLET-dancer — actor — clown. A little time ago "Life" carried an article on the vogue that the English MG car is having in America. One of the enthusiasts gave as his reason for choosing this dashing little machine that he "just wanted to be different in a non-obnoxious way". There's a phrase for all of us, as modern life shapes us into one or other of its acceptable moulds. To be different without being a nuisance—is not easy for a city-dweller. A burst of joyous song from one happy flat-holder may cause acute annoyance to a dozen others. Earle Birney recently read a poem on the radio that summed this up well. It was entitled "A song of self-pity of an apartment-dweller" and had these verses:

By the edge of the divan
I sit down and weep;
Life is so dreadfully dear,
And so horribly cheap.

I am a diminutive cube
In a rectangular mass;
I am a mere problem
For Pythagoras.

Have I the wide canopy of heaven
Over my head?
No. I have the Krepinsky's
And their creaking bed.

Have I the dark, mysterious earth
Under my feet?
No. I have a man from Buffalo
Who is in meat.

By the edge of the divan
I sit down and weep,
I will escape now into the star-strewn
Kingdom of sleep.

There are other kingdoms that man can escape to in search of a fuller existence. Sport is one; the Arts another. And sometimes the two come together. Ice-hockey is one of those times. Its kinship with ballet and the theatre is obvious. One might add that its periodic tussles link it with the wrestling ring, but happily the frank sadism of that sport has not made any serious inroad into ice-hockey, and I like to regard these incidents as a kind of over-exuberant slapstick.

THAT completes the list. If you are not an ice-hockey fan see how far you can draw up a comparable list for your own favorite sport. Football? Well, we might say: a bull, an antelope and an I.B.M. machine (they punch holes in the right places). Not a very impressive list. Golf? A trench-mortar, a mole and a mailman. Still less impressive. Say what you will. Ice-hockey is the world's best game!

Letters To The Editor

MOTE IN THE EXAMINER'S EYE

Sir: Regarding your editorial about the abuse of the King's English, even the Peterborough Examiner refers in another editorial to "The most unique distinction", while in another editorial it employs a word "Nonconformism", which I cannot find in a standard English dictionary Judging by the context "Noncomformity" would have expressed the meaning which this etymological curiosity was intended to convey. The Peterborough Examiner frequently uses "Home" in place of "House" despite an editorial deploring the practice.

The latter is an example of a common custom of euphemism by which people never die, they pass away. They are put into caskets rather than coffins and laid to rest, not buried, in a memorial park instead of a cemetery by a mortician rather than an undertaker. By the same token a house is always a home, a janitor becomes a custodian, a public dinner or supper becomes a banquet, a cabin a state room, a shopkeeper a merchant, a teacher a schoolmaster, and a bank clerk a banker, etcetera.

Another custom is to deplete the language by discarding certain words. Thus a house is "to rent" for rent instead of "to let" for rent, or simply "for rent". The word "let" has nearly disappeared. An elevator transports goods or people instead of goods alone. The word "Lift" reserved for a device for raising people is not used. A tailor uses the same word: button, for a fitting to hold your collar to your shirt or to hold up your trousers, instead of using "stud" for the former. Trousers has largely been discarded, being replaced by pants, in turn replaced by drawers, rightly a feminine covering. Wrench is used for spanner and wrench to the exclusion of the former, although they are different tools working on different principles, for different jobs.

Of course a language should change and grow, but change should not be only along one line, and growth is retarded by discarding words for which there is no exact substitute. Possibly these two practices of euphemism and depletion may do as much harm to the King's English as the grammatical deficiencies, to which you refer.

Yours truly,
C. W. HOLMAN.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Like most daily papers, The Examiner often sins against the King's English, but we struggle upward, hopefully, toward the light.

RECREATION CENTRE FOR ASHBURNHAM

Sir: I am handing you herewith a copy of a letter which I have written to the City Council.

Perhaps you will be able to find a place for this in the Examiner if you think the matter of sufficient public interest.

Thanking you for your courtesy, I am
Yours sincerely,
JAMES DUTTON.

His Worship The Mayor and Members of the City Council.

Gentlemen: I notice a proposal to sell certain City properties in order to help provide funds for the purchase of the property necessary to provide the site for the new City Hall.

Amongst the properties named is the Ashburnham Hall on Hunter Street East. This property consists of five stores with an Assembly Hall over them.

The Hall is used for various purposes of a community nature and fills a need in the communal life of Ashburnham.

The present returns from the property are very small and the revenue derived would never be missed if the buildings were torn down. I would, therefore, respectfully suggest that this property be retained.

Some day Ashburnham will need a community centre, and I know of no place in that part of the city that would lend itself to such a project as the property in question. There is room for the erection of a beautiful building and for effective landscaping. This would, in my opinion, make a worthwhile contribution to the happiness and well-being of our fellow-citizens across the river.

If the property is sold now, the City will find itself faced with the problem of having to buy another site, which would not be as suitable as the present one. We have too few places devoted to the recreational needs of the people, and I feel very strongly that it is a mistake to sell land that can be used for the healthful needs of the people.

Thanking you for your attention and consideration of this matter, I am,
Yours sincerely,
JAMES DUTTON.

Bible Message

And as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth. And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind?

Jesus answered, Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents: but that the works of God should be made manifest in him. I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work. As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world.

When he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the splittle, and he anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay, and said unto him, Go, wash in the pool of Siloam, (which is by interpretation, Sent). He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing. (John 9: 1-7.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"I cannot understand," said the young man, "why you permit your daughter to sue me for breach of promise. You remember that you were bitterly opposed to our engagement, because you said I wasn't good enough for her and would disgrace your family."

"That, young man, was sentiment. This is business."

"With your ready speech," remarked a young minister to Dr. Andrew Thompson, "I wonder why you spend so much time on your sermons. Many's the time I've written a sermon and caught a salmon before breakfast."

"Well," replied Dr. Thompson, "all I can say is, I'd rather have to eat your salmon than listen to your sermon."

Man in swimming: "Are you quite sure there are no crocodiles about here?"

Man on shore: "Yas, sah. De sharks done scare 'em away, sah."

They were discussing a friend.

"Brown is a good fellow, really," said one, "but he treats his poor wife miserably."

"What do you mean?" the other asked. "Does he beat her?"

"No, no! He just refuses to argue with her."

If We Want To Grow

By long odds the most important need for Canada's future is new capital investment.

That comes first. Before there can be new jobs for Canada's growing population, before new industries and new resources can be developed, there must be capital to build the plants and supply the equipment necessary.

Yet in relation to national incomes, the proportion of new capital being invested today is not much higher than it was 20 years ago, when our population was much smaller and our industrialization very much less.

That is not good enough.

BOARD MONEY: "My aunt has come to live with us, eats heartily, and would like to pay board. We are in no position to refuse. What would be a fair price to charge?" If you look after your aunt (bedroom, laundry, phone, meals, etc.), from 10 to 12 dollars a week is considered fair. This includes cost of food, laundry, wear and tear on bed linen and service.

STREAMLINED BATHTUB: "I understand you made over a bathtub with old-fashioned legs so that it looked modern. Can you tell me how this was done?" Plywood was fitted in under the lip of the tub and running right to the floor. A kick board was installed above floor level. It was neat and smart looking.

MAPS: "We have a large kitchen and I'd like to have the walls literally papered with maps. So far, all I have are two road maps of Ontario. I have three school children, want the maps so they can locate names in the news." O'Keefe's, Toronto, have an excellent map of Canada. So, too, have Lipton's. World maps at Woolworths, both hemispheres, are 25 cents. Nearly all foreign countries with consulates in Canada will send maps on request. See yellow pages of telephone directory under consuls for list.

WEDDING BREAKFAST: "We are serving a wedding breakfast, 20 guests, around 1.00 p.m. What would be tasty, light, and not too expensive?" Creamed chicken, chicken a la king, or chicken salad with fresh rolls, pickles and olives is always good. Follow with ice cream, cookies and the bride's cake. A salad plate with a jellied ham loaf looks colorful dressed up with a jellied cabbage salad and rolls. Small iced cakes, cookies, ice cream and coffee would complete the picture. We've a good wedding punch, too. We're mailing you that recipe.

Border Pro Ball Loop again will be a six-team affair, including Watertown, Ogdensburg, Geneva, Auburn, Ottawa and Kingston. Private interests there have bought up the Kingston franchise, which was on the block after Nels Megaffin died. The talk of a year ago of Belleville and Peterborough being added has gone with the wind. As a matter of fact, we will have neither floodlights nor a covered stand this year in Riverside Park, though there will be sufficient seating accommodation in a new layout over in the park by the river. Each Border League club will be obliged to carry three rookies again this year, along with their experienced pro ballsters, in order to develop young players.

End Of The TVL Trail

TVL-ers go on four fronts tonight, if there's ice, like this: Warkworth at Lakefield, Frankford at Norwood, Marmora at Campbellford, and Madoc at Tweed. This is supposed to wipe the schedule slate clean, if there are no postponements, with the loop playoffs due to commence Friday night of this week. A couple two out of three series, and a brace of best-of-five before the champs are declared. Marmora is well out in front but Norwood, Campbellford, Lakefield and Hastings, in that order ,are having a belated dog fight. Marmora will enter OHA intermediate "C" playdowns.

That 5-4 setback at the hands of the local Oddfellows the other evening in the Motor City was a double reverse for Oshawa's speedy junior "B" puckists. 'Twas one down and two to go in their group semi-finals, and they lost Wilf Morrison, out with a fractured leg. He hit a goal post in a wild dash as the IOOF-ers buzzed around the home net. But they'll be full of fight with elimination staring 'em in the faces when these clubs clash in the second of the two-of-three sawoffs in Civic Arena tonight—provided the ice is okay. The local lads rate a full house for their fine showing so far in playoffs, and it'll be an 18-carat lulu all the way.

He's Partly Correct

Oshawa writer thinks the accident to Morrison should have been avoided if the ref blew his whistle for icing the puck. Not so, the shot at the enemy net made by a Peterborough player was from the Oshawa side of the red line. As a matter of fact, two referees watched the Oddfellows closely the last part of the game for icing the rubber. The writer also says the homesters kept shooting the disc into Goalie Byers' pads—that's right, as Byers kept moving fast to keep in between the burnt biscuit and his twine teepee. We agree with the statement that what beat Oshawa was the persistent backchecking all through by the battling Triple Links.

Like the early birds of baseball and softball—who are thinking of worms already—the local lacrosse enthusiasts are on the prowl. Senior officials seek material for the jump to "A" company. And now comes word of the annual re-organization meeting of the Minor Lacrosse Association this Friday p.m. at eight at the home of Ken Kingston, 21 Manning Ave., up in the Normal School area. Officers elected at this time and plans discussed for the coming season. Former managers and others interested are invited. Last year, Ken Kingston, Walt Murphy and the rest had a fine large setup operating for the boys, with Jack Foote the full-time coach. It should be a success again when summer rolls around.

Curling Notes

By HERB MARTIN

Dr. C. McKee and G. Gabel have just returned from the T. N. and O. open bonspiel away up north. They had with them G. Sayles and Flemming, both from Kirkland Lake. The games were played on natural ice, six sheets at New Liskeard and four at Haileybury. The boys report a wonderful time.

They played 12 games, winning nine and losing three—a real smart performance.

They reached the finals in the Dunbar Trophy, but were defeated by Thomas Ramsey 12-6. They each received a thermos set. They also came second in the grand aggregate for non-association rinks, receiving for their efforts each a Nylon shaving brush.

They intend to go back again next season and suggest that some of our other curlers take in the trip.

Here's the best curling story we've heard for some time:

It seems a minister was curling against a blacksmith, and during the first part of the game things were going against the blacksmith; he was very abusive to his players and was using blasphemous language. Then things began to come his way and he turned to the minister and said:

"Sir, do you think there will be curling in heaven?" The minister replied: "Well, if there is, I hope it will be home and home games."

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A Toronto paper in a sports page story said today that Frank Filchock "will get $20,000 for playing with Montreal Alouettes for two seasons, it was learned Tuesday night on reliable authority."

Announcement that the playing-coach of the Hamilton Tigers of the Senior ORFU had been signed to play with Montreal Alouettes in the Eastern Big Four was made at Montreal Tuesday.

The story said "Filchock will get $10,000 per season from Alouettes and it is expected he will take over a job which will probably assure him another $3,000 per year.

Coach Lew Hayman of the Alouettes said in Toronto Tuesday that Jack Harper, 21, who led ORFU individual scorers last season with the Tigers, also will play with Alouettes next season.

The 1948 Olympic games made a profit of $119,400.

The preliminary financial statement from Lord Burghley's Olympic Organizing Committee Tuesday at London reported that surplus from the greatest amateur sports competition in history. Gross receipts, mostly paid in by 1,247,283 spectators, were $2,399,400. Expenses were $2,280,000. Ultimately the next profit will be handed over to the British Olympic Association for disposal to amateur sports organizations in Britain.

A third match between Ike Williams and Kid Gavilan was signed Tuesday at New York for March 18 at Madison Square Garden with the winner in line for a crack at Ray Robinson's welter title. No guarantee of a Robinson bout goes with this rematch but the winner will be recognized in New York as the leading welter-weight contender. Lightweight champion Williams, whose title will not be at stake in this 10-rounder at the 147-pound limit lost a close decision to the Cuban Kid last Jan. 28. Williams won a unanimous decision over Gavilan Feb. 27, 1948.

Welterweight champion Ray Robinson and Henry Brimm of Buffalo battled 10 rounds to a draw Tuesday night before about 5,000 customers in Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium. Robinson weighed 153½ for the non-title fight. Brimm weighed 156½.

The 1949 Canadian bicycle championships will be staged at Vancouver in October, Henry Vann Berkel, chairman of the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Wheelman's Association, announced Tuesday. The meet will decide the ultimate British Empire games team that will embark for New Zealand in December.

Two pre-series favorites—Ken Watson and Jimmy Welsh, both of Winnipeg—Tuesday night captured their respective round-robin titles and will meet tonight in Winnipeg in a sudden-death final for the Manitoba Curling Championship and the right to represent the Province at the Canadian finals at Hamilton. Both rinks went through the round-robin series without a loss in five starts.

Indian River Wins

KEENE, Feb. 16—(ENS)—Indian River bantams won 4-2 from the Keene boys in a fast, clean contest. Don Bethune starred with three goals and Jack Lang notched one in a good effort. For Keene, Jack Nelson was prominent with McCarthy and Rennick also showing up well. Jim McCarthy was hit in the mouth by a puck, breaking a tooth, a tough accident to a good player. The teams:

Indian River: Goal, Heron; defence, Pimmett and Varcoe; centre, D. Bethune; wings, Lang and Heron; alternates, Edwards, W. Bethune and Lang.

Keene: Goal, Whelan; defence, Moore and Jackson; centre, Nelson; wings, J. McCarthy and Rennick; alternates, D. Shearer, G. Shearer, Godfrey, Moore, D. McCarthy, L. Shearer and G. Ellison.

AT BROCK TONIGHT—Bill Stack, shown above, who will open tonight's all-star wrestling card at the Brock Arena when he takes on the versatile newcomer, Mike "Prince" Mahalakis. The main bout brings together Mike Sharpe and Hi Lee in a rematch that should prove a honey. A new referee will be in charge and after last week's torrid bout fans will want to see the outcome with an efficient arbiter in charge. Abe Yourist tangles with Big Ben Morgan in the semi-final. The entire card shapes up as one of the best of the season.

Czechs Defeat Wolves 3-2 In Rough Tilt

By William Boss.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 16—(CP)—Wide-open Canadian hockey has brought troubles to Sudbury Wolves, the Dominion's representatives at the World Amateur Hockey Championships.

During the Canadians' first game in the round-robin finals, which the Wolves dropped to Czechoslovakia 3-2 Tuesday night on a disputed goal, a fracas occurred which is in the hands of the International Jury of the tournament.

It happened this way: during the last few minutes of play, Tom Russell of Hamilton, flung his stick to the ice and tackled two Czech players. Referee G. H. Ahlin of Sweden banished him to the penalty box and then ordered him to leave the stadium.

Later during the game, which brought heartaches to the Canadians and dimmed their hopes of retaining the trophy which the RCAF Flyers won last winter at the Winter Olympics, John Kovich, who played the last two seasons with Junior Porcupine Combines was penalized for "kicking" a Czech player.

Has Company

Seconds later, when Tom Russell joined him in the cooler, goalie Al Prichard found only three men in front of him. Disheartened, he pulled off his gloves and skated off the ice in protest. However, he soon returned to the nets.

The Czechs won the game on a dubious goal while the Canadian team was two men short in the second period. Ausustin Bubik tallied while his stick was high above his head after a pass from Zabrodsky. Later Zabrodsky admitted he didn't think it was a good goal, with most observers agreeing.

After the Czechs had scored a goal which the Canadian team didn't approve of, Joe Tergesen of Gimli, Man., tried to have a talk with referee Ahlin about the disputed goal. Ahlin refused to discuss the Canadian protests with Tergesen and gave Tergesen something he never read in a Canadian rule book—a penalty for "bad sportsmanship."

Ray Bauer of Waterloo, and Russell scored the Canadian goals while Czechoslovakian marksmen were Zabrodsky, Bubnik and Stanislav.

Remember When—

England's first Olympic hockey championship was assured 13 years ago tonight when Canada edged out a 1-0 decision over the United States at Garmish-Partenkirchen. The English team, strengthened by six Canadians, previously defeated Canada 1-0 and played a scoreless draw with the Americans. Canada placed second in the final standing with United Sates third.

Down Galt 9-3 Move Into Sixth-Place Tie

By The Canadian Press

It's going to be a tight squeeze for the sixth and last playoff berth of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A race.

Last night Toronto Marlboros moved into a sixth-place tie with Guelph Biltmores as Marlboros downed the last-place Galt Rockets 9-3 in Toronto. In the other game, the Biltmores dropped an 8-4 decision to the fourth-place St. Catharines Teepees.

If you go by statistics, the Dukes have a better set-up than Biltmores. Guelph plays two games before the regular schedule winds up Saturday while Toronto has one four-point game. The Biltmores will clash with the potent Windsor Spitfires and Barrie Flyers while the Marlies will play a four-point game against the lowly Toronto St. Michael's College Majors.

In Toronto last night, the Dukes moved into a 3-0 lead in the first period, held a 5-2 edge at the end of the second and then outscored the Rockets 4-1 in the final frame.

Lorne Pirie was the spark of the Toronto squad, collecting three goals and an assist. George Armstrong, Bobby Hassard, Hugh Bolton, Don Windley, Murray Grenke and Howie Lee got one counter apiece. Ernie Keefe tallied twice for Galt while Price got the other.

Guelph staged a strong comeback in the last period, but overanxiety prevented them from producing the necessary goals. The Biltmores had such a wide margin of play that they outshot the Teepees 21-7 and only managed two goals.

Both teams ended in a 2-2 draw at the end of the first period. The Teepees got the only goal of the second and then outshot the Biltmores 5-2 in the third.

Bentley Names Horse After Ted Kennedy

TORONTO, Feb. 16 (CP) — Max Bentley, who became a race stable owner overnight by scoring two important goals, plans to name one of them "Lucky Teeder," after Ted Kennedy, captain of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The little centre of the world hockey champions received his first horse a couple of weeks back from George McCullagh, Toronto publisher, after Max scored his first goal of the season against Detroit Red Wings. The second thoroughbred was added last Saturday night, when Max flashed the red light against the Wings just after Breeder Charlie Hemstead promised him a yearling "if you score right now."

"If it hadn't been for Teeder Kennedy I might not have been getting it," said Bentley.

In a slump most of the season, Max fired four goals during the week-end. He now rates third among Toronto snipers, with 14 goals and 17 assists for a total of points.

Montreal Hopes Bruins Will Win

By The Canadian Press

Montreal Canadiens will raise a few grudging cheers for Boston tonight when the Bruins meet Chicago Black Hawks in one of the two scheduled National Hockey League games.

The Habitants, teetering along in fourth place for weeks because of injuries, are idle. And if Chicago wins, the Hawks will be in a tie with the Canucks.

The result of the other game, between the front-running Detroit Wings and the last-place New York Rangers, won't affect the team positions.

Chicago's Gus Bodnar will be out of the lineup until Sunday night. He injured his jaw in a collision with Murph Chamberlain in last Sunday's Chicago-Montreal game and although no bones were broken, he was advised to take a few days off.

Besides the team position, Chicago's top snipers will be shooting for goals to bolster their records. Linemates Roy Conacher and Doug Bentley are tied for first place in scoring, 13 points ahead of any other player.

Disease Destroys Half Peanut Crop

JOHANNESBURG, Feb. 16—(CP)—South Africa's £3,000,000 ($12,000,000) peanut crop is threatened with serious loss from the incurable virus disease rosette, which may cut the yield by 50 per cent. There is no cure for the disease, which spreads quickly.

In northern Transvaal areas, home of peanut growing, rosette has appeared and vast acreages are badly infected. The disease normally appears at this time but under favorable conditions the plants are well advanced and the nuts set. The drought, however, seriously retarded growth and the yield per acre may drop from 10 bags to 3½.

There is a world shortage of oils for the soap industry and in the last two seasons the Union has planted bigger acreages than ever before. Last year's crop was more than 1,391,000 bags and most of the oil pressed from it went to the soapmakers. The crop failure this year will have serious repercussions in that industry.

Rhodesia Taking Steps For New African Dominion

LONDON, Feb. 16—(CP).—Future steps towards the formation of a new African dominion with a population of 20,000,000 will be taken this week at a conference in Southern Rhodesia, but to cautious Whitehall it is all "unofficial." No British Government representative will be present when Prime Minister Sir Godfrey Huggins of Southern Rhodesia—a British-born surgeon—and Polish emigrant Roy Welensky, Northern Rhodesia representative, set forth their plans for federation at sessions starting today.

Sir Godfrey recently was re-elected with a strong majority and Welensky is leader of the elected members in Northern Rhodesia's Colonial Legislature.

With these two men will be representatives of the Nyasaland Protectorate, which lies east of Northern Rhodesia and along the shore of Lake Nyasa.

Observers also are expected to attend from Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika, all territories under British control, which would contribute 14,000,000 people to what may be known in future as "The Dominion of Capricorn Africa."

To Draft Proposal

Purpose of the meeting is to draft a proposal for a Federation of Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland for submission to London. They will cite the benefits of an extension of common services, already established in some public service fields. They will argue that power to undertake developments and deal with native problems should be given to local authorities.

British Colonial policy is designed to bring forward native peoples to education, training and added responsibility to the point where they can handle their own affairs.

The main objection to plans such as those of Sir Godfrey and Welensky is that native interests may be forgotten if the authority of the Colonial office is withdrawn from territories like Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

Southern Rhodesia is practically a Dominion now, but legislation concerning natives must be approved by London.

Bylaw To License Electricians Being Considered By Council

Text of a bylaw to examine and license master and journeymen electricians was referred to the legal committee of the council by its finance committee Monday night as it was received from the Peterborough Electrical Contractors' Association, represented by a deputation and their solicitor, Mr. Ralph O. Standish.

"This is something that should have been undertaken 25 years ago," said Roderick Grant. "In fact I feel personally guilty in having neglected it for so long, but I was too busy. This bylaw won't mean a nickel to me. I can conscientiously say that if anything it will be a detriment. We are selling 75% of the electrical building material used in Peterborough and the district. This bylaw will cut some of it off.

I can tell you of many cases in which the public is being rimmed by engaging and trusting in incompetent men to do their electrical jobs. Before I came here tonight a Hydro inspector telephoned me and told me some of the cases he has seen."

Mr. Grant, J. Gordon Hall and Roy Powell, three of the outstanding electrical contractors in Peterborough, declared themselves in favor of the bylaw in its protection to the public.

Mr. Hall remarked that in a few years he would have to consider retiring, and it was obvious that he was not thinking solely of his own interests. Mr. Powell said he was heartily in favor of it. The electrical inspector did not get in on a lot of work" and "we feel helpless to do anything."

A Safeguard

Mr. Noel Andrade of Stroud, who described himself as "not a paid organizer but an active contractor" declared that Hydro inspectors could not begin to supervise all the work "and there is bad work being done." The public was entitled to the service of experienced skilled master and journeymen electricians, and should be safeguarded against anybody who stuck up a shingle after working for a few months on odd jobs.

Mr. Andrade said similar bylaws were in effect in St. Catharines, Brantford, North Bay, Orillia, Barrie, Kingston, Sudbury, Toronto, Windsor and so on. Even some townships had their electrical examining and licensing boards.

Mr. Hall said that a few years ago most people in Peterborough knew the practising electricians and their qualifications, but the city has outgrown that population and the conditions which were generally favorable to the public.

Ald. Adam Sands enquired whether everybody in the business would have to pass the registering examinations for license. He recalled that last year provision was made to license only those who applied after the system was set up. The information to the council was that everybody receiving a license would have to pass the required examination by a board to be appointed in accordance with the bylaw.

Judge Fisher Retires

TORONTO, Feb. 16 — (CP) — Mr. Justice Robert Grant Fisher retired Tuesday after more than 25 years as an Ontario Appeal Court justice. In a parting observation he had a few things to say about bringing up children. The 83-year-old judge said modern mothers who neglect their children are the "breeders of criminals." "Mothers of today have too much luxury and too many distractions," he said.

Conservation Group

TORONTO, Feb. 16 — (CP)— Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver Tuesday gave notice in the Ontario legislature of a motion to set up a select committee on conservation. The resolution, to be introduced next Wednesday, would empower the committee to study soil depletion, drainage, flood control, reforestation, local demonstration farms and soil anaylsis.

Empire Defence Scheme Takes Form In Indian Ocean

By LESLIE BRODIE
Canadian Press Correspondent

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 16 (CP).—Christmas Island, a tiny dot in the Indian Ocean, about midway between Ceylon and Perth, West Australia, is destined to become a vitally important link in Empire defence plans.

The British and Australian governments are expected to turn the island into a secret defence base. It will house observation posts for scientists studying the results of experiments connected with the rocket- testing range at Mount Ebo, 2,000 miles away on the Central Australian desert.

The island is in the path the rockets will taken when they are fired across the desert range, and it is understood it will be used as a target for some of the guided missiles.

Secrecy surrounding work on the island is to be tightened up and it is expected to be as closely guarded as the rocket range itself.

The Australian and New Zealand governments were reported recently to have purchased the rights to the phosphate deposits on Christmas Island from the British government. The price was stated at $9,600,000. Work on the deposits will continue, but all workers will be subjected to a tight security check.

Also Considered

Cocos Island, 100 miles from Christmas Island, also is being considered as a defence base. Cocos is owned by the Clunies-Ross family in Australia, but the British government is interested in purchasing it for defence reasons. Representatives of both parties are in Singapore negotiating the deal.

Cocos, although within range of the guided missiles from Mt. Ebo, would be more valuable strategically as a landing strip for long-range aircraft than as a target for the rockets.

The island is well situated to replace the trouble spots of the East Indies should it again become necessary to by-pass them. The present air-strip was used during the war by Liberators and Lancastrians flying direct from Colombo to Perth.

It will be used also as a stepping-stone from Australia to South Africa and Britain in the event of India or Middle East being cut off in any future conflict.

A Lancastrian has surveyed the route to South Africa via Cocos, Mauritius and Durban, and it is hoped that a regular air service will be put into operation over this route shortly.

Cocos figures strongly in Australian naval history. It was here that the cruiser HMAS Sydney fought it out with the German raider Emden early in the First World War. After a running battle the Sydney forced the Emden on to the beaches of Cocos.

THESE CATTLE PENS in Kansas City are nearly empty as stock shipments reach lowest point since last year's packinghouse strike. Prices jumped $1 to $2 per hundred pounds, a substantial recovery from last week's price break.

Child Loses Eye

TORONTO, Feb. 16 — (CP) — Doctors here had to remove 12-year-old Dorothy Petersen's right eye late Tuesday, after the child's rush trip from Arntfield, Que., was too late to save the eye. The girl and other children were playing with cocktail sticks at her home in Arntfield Monday when one of the sticks pierced the girl's eyeball.

Quebec Legislature Studies Record Estimate Of Expenditures

By the Canadian Press.

Record estimates of expenditures were laid before the Quebec Legislature Tuesday, but the Quebec revenue estimates are still to come in Treasurer Onesime Gagnon's budget speech next week.

The Quebec expenditures for the 1949-50 fiscal year are estimated at $176,497,000, which is $34,507,000 more than in the current year. The Quebec House is already working on the estimates and yesterday passed the figures for legislation, $892,000 as compared with $865,900 in the current year.

At Winnipeg, the Manitoba Legislature debated a motion by Edmond Prefontaine (LP-Carillon) asking legislation to regulate the sale of margarine and prohibit its coloring to resemble butter. Mr. Prefontaine said Canada now is about the only country where margarine may be sold without restrictions.

A Manitoba air force member, Wing Cmdr. Ronald Turner, said there was no necessity for further safeguards to protect the consumer of margarine; Federal Statutes provided ample protection.

No Confidence Vote

The Saskatchewan Legislature at Regina continued throne speech debate and Liberal leader Walter Tucker, in his maiden speech in the House there, moved a vote of no-confidence in the CCF Government. The form of his 14-point amendment however was questioned and the Speaker reserved judgment as to whether it was a proper motion.

Tucker charged that the CCF had failed to promote agriculture, had failed to relieve school costs and had failed to provide satisfactory health services.

At Victoria the British Columbia Government received a petition from the B. C. Cabaret Owners' Association containing 23,000 names, asking for a one-year trial for cocktail bars. Sale of liquor by the glass is prohibited in British Columbia.

A CCF member, Herbert Gargrave, charged that the B. C. Coalition Government's expension plans could be attributed to opposition prodding. Gargrave's charge that Premier Byron Johnson's recent policy speech containing expansion plans smacked of a "political bribe" brought an objection from the Premier. But the CCF member said he was exercising his prerogative in terming it "a political bribe."

Britain Expects

LONDON, —(CP)—Britain's coal mines will be expected to achieve an output of between 210,000,00 and 215,000,000 tons of deep-mined coal in 1949. The National Coal Board is also aiming to increase its labor strength to 736,000 men.

300 At Dinner By Sales-Ad Hear Mrs. Wright

Questions the 30,000 organized housewives of Canada are asking the retailers were outlined to more than 300 members of the Sales and Ad Club meeting on Tuesday night at the Empress Hotel. The speaker was Mrs. F. E. Wright, Port Credit, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers.

It was "Retail Night" at the club, with many women from downtown stores attending as guests, and the program was replete with booster prizes, musical entertainment and table souvenirs. J. H. Jamison, was in charge of the committee responsible for the program, with the president Paige Rowell in the chair and El. Jones as master of ceremonies.

Mrs. W. A. Addyman, president of the Local Council of Women and Mrs. Paige Rowell, accompanied Mrs. Wright at the head table.

Describing the origin and growth of the organization since its beginning in September 1947, Mrs. Wright said the purpose of the group was to improve the standard of living in Canadian homes.

"Women buy about 80 per cent of the goods sold over the retail counters, and no matter what the origin of the buyers' problems is, looks to the retailer for the answers".

She explained that the smashing impact of price increases on the family budget has started the women asking if any of these increases could be avoided. They want to know whether or not the trade and industry are taking any share of the squeeze, through unavoidable boosts in cost, or whether they are passing them all on to the consumer.

Speaking of labelling, Mrs. Wright said, "Women want labels which mean what they say, and are intelligible to the average person—not just the trade and technician. Grading like that for poultry, for example, is the cause of much confusion to the consumer. They want to know why a name like "Special milk-fed" is attached to a chicken that is milk fed, and if it applies only to chickens. What difference is there between a "milk-fed special" and a "Special" or an "A" or an "A milk fed"? Would it not be better for everyone if there were a simpler and more uniform system of naming the grades of poultry."

Referring to meat and the high prices, Mrs. Wright said, "The present high prices and particularly the increases following the lifting of the embargo to the U.S.A. have been a matter of grave concern, and we were delighted to see some reduction in the past few weeks".

"Next to food, most consumer complaints relate to the high price or poor quality of shoes, and particularly children's shoes. The Association has suggested that a basic shoe for children. CAC would also like to see more emphasis on quality than on style for children's shoes. When we complain to the manufacturers that we cannot find plain quality shoes at reasonable prices, they tell us it is because the retailer does not order them", she said.

Mrs. Wright also dealt at length on textile goods, canned goods, shortening, lard, butter and margarine.

The speaker was introduced by Erroll Wilson and the thanks of the gathering was voiced by Don Loucks.

SALES WOMEN in the retail field were guests at the Sales-Ad Club dinner Tuesday night, and heard a splendid address by Mrs. F. E. Wright, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers. One table is shown and on the right are Jack Fitzpatrick, Mrs. J. Harris, Miss Helen Brooks, Miss Rita Young, Mrs. Fred Breen, Miss L. Kearney and Tony Welbourne.

CGE and Quaker Oats Help Prevented Cut-Offs Matthews Says In Review

Mayor Swanston transferred his CHEX time Tuesday evening to Mr. Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission, thereby providing an opportunity for a review of the city's electric, water and gas utilities that are administered by the Commission.

The summary of facts presented by Mr. Matthews began with the statement that the Commission has been faced with major problems since the close of the war, which stem from the rapid growth of the city in the last few years.

In 1948, Mr. Matthews said, the number of domestic consumers of electricity increased by 500 to 8,744. During the year 443 new water services were laid, requiring the extension of the water mains by 30,000 feet.

To finance new construction, the Commission had to ask the council to issue $200,000 debentures, "and this year we are again asking the council to issue a similar amount of debentures.... We have on file at present, requests for 200 water services which will require 10,000 feet of mains."

The chairman outlined three major projects which should be completed this year. They are the 24-inch force-main from the pumping station across the Hilliard farm and down Bethune St. to Sherbrooke St. More than half this work is done. This job was begun early in the war in its lower Bethune St section, but demand for men in the services, including industry, forced its suspension until the return of peace.

Second Big Job

The second undertaking mentioned by Mr. Matthews is the laying of a 12-inch main under the river between McDonald's and Burnham's Points. The council will lay a sewer in the same course.

"The third job is the erection of an elevated water tank behind the new Civic Hospital, with a booster pumping station at Monaghan Rd. and Weller St. This will increase the water pressure in the western part of the city."

"The consumption of water is increasing at such a rate that your Commission believes it necessary to install a new electric motor-driven pump that will be capable of pumping 6,000,000 gallons a day. This pump is on order and will be installed next fall."

In the electric department a new three thousand kilowatt substation is being built in Ashburnham. New circuits were erected last year to supply the housing area near the Lock's Bridge, the Brookdale subdivision in the north, the Cadverly subdivision in Ashburnham and Rose and Wilson Avenues in the southwest.

In the south, 80 new 300-watt street lights were set up.

Referring to the electric power shortage, now lifting, Mr. Matthews gratefully mentioned the co-operation from householders, retailers and industrialists.

"When our electric quota was cut for the third time we were about ready to give up and pull switches. Most industries had changed their work-week. We were buying power from the uaker Oats Co. and C.G.E. Co. were running their steam turbine 18 hours a day.

Realizing, however, that this was an emergency the C.G.E. offered to run this steam turbine 24 hours a day. This allowed us to stay below our quota, and I am quite convinced that without their help, and that which we were receiving from the Quaker Oats, Peterborough would have experienced power cut-offs."

Mr. Matthews also referred to the conversion of the gas plant to propane for which new equipment was installed at the Simcoe St. plant.

"A year ago this winter we had a great deal of difficulty in obtaining enough fuel oil to operate our gas plant. We decided at that time to install apparatus that would allow us to use propane gas mixed with air. This change was completed by midsummer.

The gas being manufactured now has a heat content of 710 B.T.U.'s per cubic foot compared with 450 B.T.U.'s in the former gas.

Rates were increased in proportion to the increase in the heat content.

In the last six months we did not receive sufficient revenue to cover our expenses. We are now working actively to reduce our expenses. If this is not possible we have no option but to increase the price of gas."

MILTON, Feb. 16—(CP)—Constable Elwood Lemon of the Ontario Provincial Police died suddenly today three hours after he went off duty. The 42-year-old officer had complained of a chest pain shortly before his death.

TORONTO, Feb. 16 — (CP) — Virgil Barkman of Toronto, the alleged driver of the automobile that struck and killed Bill Miller three weeks ago, today was remanded to Feb. 23.

Barkman, 44-year-old barber, was charged with manslaughter and failing to stop at the scene of an accident.

Dunbar To Investigate Interview Of Carr

TORONTO, Feb. 16 — (CP) — Hon. George Dunbar, Ontario's Minister of Reform Institutions, said today he intends to find out if any Ottawa jail officials "doublecrossed" him by allowing Communist Sam Carr to be interviewed.

Yesterday, a Toronto reporter wired from Ottawa that a "friend" of Carr had obtained information for him.

"I intend to find out if he was actually in to interview Carr," Mr. Dunbar said. "If so, it was a violation of the regulations of the Prison and Reform Institutions' Act".

Jan Masaryk Leaves Estate Of $37,807

LONDON, Feb. 16.—(AP). — Jan Masaryk, who plunged to his death from a window of his Prague residence last March 10, left an estate in England of £9,451 ($37,804).

Masaryk's death, officially reported as suicide, occurred soon after the Communists took over the Czechoslovakian government. He was then Minister of Foreign Affairs.

One clause in his will, dated Sept. 19, 1940, and probated today, directed that $5,000 be paid to Dr. Jan Papanek "to be used by him to carry on the political work for which this money was intended."

Dr. Papanek, a Czech member of two United Nations commissions, repudiated the Communist government. The United Nations voted to continue him on the commission anyway, despite strong protests from the Communist bloc.

Breach Widens Sun Denies Plans To Resign

CANTON, Feb. 16 — (AP) — The breach between Acting President Li Tsung-Jen and Premier Sun Fo widened today with a denial by Sun that he had offered to resign.

The Premier rejected anew demands that he and his cabinet resign or return to Nanking.

Emerging from his third Canton cabinet meeting, Sun made his denial that he had offered his resignation. He had been reported by Nanking sources to have asked permission to take a rest.

Sun was reported attempting to enlist support of South China members of the legislative Yuan in bringing the legislature here for its next meeting. Li and North China government officials want the Yuan to meet in Nanking, the capital, which was abandoned late last month by the cabinet and most of the government ministries.

The Kuomintang right-wing leader, Chen Li-fu, has been conferring with members of the Sun cabinet.

Chen arrived in Canton yesterday. He was reported on a mission to try to weld together more solidly the right-wing elements of the government in opposition to the Li faction.

Political observers believe Chen will try to persuade Sun to retain the premiership as long as possible. Control of the cabinet has been a trump card for the political group dominated by retired President Chiang Kai-shek, foreign Minister Wy Te-chen and other members of the government who strongly oppose the Communists.

Increase Reported In Unfilled Vacancies

TORONTO, Feb. 16—(CP)—Bart Sullivan, Director for Ontario of the Federal Unemployment Service, said today the present level of unemployment in the Province is largely seasonal. "I am encouraged in that belief by the fact that for the first time in several months the number of unfilled vacancies showed a slight increase," he said.

A total of 49,338 are listed on the Unemployment Insurance rolls in Ontario, east of the lakehead, against a total of 10,989 vacancies. Unplaced applicants represent a wide range of occupations.

Students of the Normal School visited the J. J. Reid Photo Engraving Co. on Tuesday afternoon. The visit was part of their work in social studies, learning the process of obtaining a newspaper cut from a photo. Another purpose was to get practice in obtaining interviews.

Employees of the company went through the various process explaining each step. The photograph is put into a camera to enlarge or reduce to make a half-tone negative. The negative is developed, cut to size, then stripped onto a large piece of glass. The image is then transfered to a sensitized metal plate. The plate is exposed in front of a double arc lamp for three minutes, then put into a developing tank. In the tank the image becomes a violet color. The plate is then treated and hardened ready for attacks of Nitric acid in an electrical etching machine. After the plate is given one bite of acid, it is taken out and banked with powder. Then back into the machine for two or three bites of acid. It is then re-etched by hand. The plate is then routed, bevelled, proofed and mounted.

Jack Reid, Reginald Reid and Thomas Turpin went through the various stages with explanation for the students.

Complainant Swoons As Verdict Announced

GUELPH, Feb. 16—(CP)—Frederick W. Huck, 22, of Guelph was acquitted of a rape charge Tuesday night. The trial before Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly, occupied a full day's sitting of the court.

As the verdict was announced the complainant, an 18-year-old girl, pitched forward from her seat onto the floor of the court room.

Huck before being released was subjected to a scathing denunciation for his "reprehensible conduct," by the judge. Judge Kelly advised the jury that while he couldn't say he disagreed with the finding, he thought they might easily have arrived at another verdict.

33 Diplomats Express Regret

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 16—(AP)—Diplomats of 33 countries today expressed to Pope Pius their condolences on the sentencing of Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary to life imprisonment.

The pontiff, in an address of gratitude, termed the mass audience unique in the history of the Holy See's diplomatic relationships. Speaking in French, he said he awaits the "hour when all nations put forth friendly hands to collaborate for the restoration of humanity at present torn by hatreds and discords."

Of the diplomats accredited to the Vatican who were in Rome today only the Yugoslav charge d'affaires, Petar Benzon, failed to attend. He pleaded illness. Two years ago, Yugoslavia sentenced for 16 years another high Roman Catholic, Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac, on charges of collaborating with the Germans.

Minister Arthur Maixner of Czechoslovakia, the only other eastern European country maintaining a diplomat at the Vatican, was not in Rome.

Say Burmese Troops Open Big Offensive

RANGOON, Feb. 16—(AP)—Pro-government sources said today Burmese troops had opened a major offensive aimed at recapturing Insein, held by rebellious Karen tribesmen since Jan. 31.

The informants said the government troops jumped off last night from a new base at Byoygon, one mile below Insein and nine miles north of Rangoon. First reports today claimed a government advance beyond a Karen stronghold guarding the entrance to the town.

The Karens have been battling furiously against government troops in the Insein area. They are fighting to set up an independent state.

Low Charges Socialists, Reds Similar

OTTAWA, Feb. 16 — (CP). — A brief, angry scene developed in the Commons Tuesday night when Solon Low, Social Credit Leader, charged that the tactics of the Socialists and the Communists are similar.

"If you are calling me a Communist, you are a d——d liar," shouted H. G. Archibald (CCF-Skeena), at the height of the argument.

It all started after Claire Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South) said that in his opinion the legality of a thing depended on the justice of the cause. He was speaking in a constitutional debate on Newfoundland's entry into Confederation and said the addition of the new province woud bring social justice to hundreds of the people on the Island.

Mr. Archibald, William Irvine (CCF-Cariboo), M. J. Coldwell, CCF Leader, and George Cruickshank (L.-Fraser Valley) got in exchanges before order was restored.

Mr. Low said the Socialist and Communist argument was to try to make the end justify the means. On the basis of Mr. Gillis' argument Canada should also bring India and China into Confederation because the people of those countries are suffering a great deal.

Better Citizens

Mr. Archibald: "They might be better citizens than you."

Mr. Low: "Some more of my Communist friends."

Mr. Archibald: "If you are calling me a Communnist, you are a d——d liar."

Mr. Irvine: "Amen."

Mr Low: "Mr. Speaker, it would be beneath my dignity to pay attention to my friend because those are exactly the tactics the Communists use."

Mr. Coldwell: "Mr. Speaker, I rise on a question of privilege. The group with which I am associated has no connection with Communism. It has fought Communism all through the years, and though I deprecate the calling of my honorable friend when he was called just now, I understand why it was done. I feel this kind of thing should not be permitted."

VISIBLE FOR MILES ground and beacon for hundreds of spectators, fire destroys the Plaza Lodge, formerly the Chicory Inn, just east of Clarkson on the Toronto-Hamilton Highway, Monday night. Heavy rain helped firemen of five brigades confine flames to lodge, saved tourist cabins on the property. Only the owner, Joe Bush, and caretaker were in main building.

Girl 14 Describes Double Slaying

SIMCOE, Feb. 16—(CP) — A 14-year-old girl told a crowded courtroom Tuesday of a bloody pre-dawn fight in which her father and uncle were killed.

Testifying at the second murder trial of Seth Linton, 41-year-old well digger, Joanne Stewart said that just as the sun came up last June 6 she saw her father lying on the ground while Linton bludgeoned John Kipp with a rifle butt.

It was the second day of Linton's trial for the murder of Lew Stewart, 44-year-old plasterer. In an earlier trial he was sentenced to be hanged Feb. 6 but the Appeal Court ordered a new trial because it held the jury had been misdirected.

Linton also faces a charge of murdering Kipp, 32, a tobacco worker.

Mrs. Stewart, who lived with Joanne at Linton's home as his housekeeper for several years, told the court that prior to the shooting she decided to return to her husband. Linton had forbidden her to take Joanne away.

Elizabeth, Prince Philip Planning Two State Visits

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, Feb. 16 —(CP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are enthusiastic about two approaching events on their calendar—a state visit to Edinburgh March 1 and a tour of the channel island in June. Youth organizations will play a prominent part in public functions arranged for the Edinburgh visit. A guard of honor of Sea Cadets, Army Cadets and members of the Auxiliary Training Corps will salute the Royal couple when they attend the freedom ceremony at Usher Hall, and groups surrounding the guard will include members of five other youth organizations.

Elizabeth and Philip will drive through all the principal street of the city and later will inspect Edinburgh's new housing area.

Youth leaders will be presented to the royal couple at a reception and dance March 2, and the Princess will go to Edinburgh University to receive an Honorary Doctorate.

To Meet Children

Next day they will receive Honorary Membership of the Merchant Company, and in the afternoon will meet thousands of Edinburgh school children at a youth reception in Waverley Market.

For their tour of the Channel Islands, Elizabeth and Philip may make their first sea trip together under auspices of the Royal Navy —by battleship from Portsmouth.

At Jersey and Guernsey the couple will be received with a wealth of feudal ceremonial dating back to the days of William the Conqueror.

The tiny Island of Sark, where all motor vehicles are banned, will place a horse-drawn hansom cab, suitable ornamented, at the disposal of the visitors.

Have No Information On Bulgaria-Pearson

OTTAWA, Feb. 16—(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday the Government has no official information on the reported arrest of 15 protestant clergymen in Bulgaria.

Replying to T. L. Church (PC-Toronto Broadview), Mr. Pearson said all the information the Government had was what was in the newspapers. Canada has no representative in Bulgaria.

However, the Government has approached representatives of friendly powers in Bulgaria with a view to obtaining further information.

When that information is received the Government will be in a position to decide what action, if any, can be taken.

Report Ian Mackenzie May Seek Election

VANCOUVER, Feb. 16 (CP)— A Vancouver newspaper said on Tuesday night Senator Ian Mackenzie (L-British Columbia) may leave the Red Chamber and seek election in his own Vancouver Centre riding.

The newspage story said Senator Mackenzie, a visitor here for the past week, has had requests from Liberals in the riding to throw his hat into the ring for the next nominating convention.

The Vancouver Centre seat was won by CCF candidate Rod Young last summer. Ralph Campney, KC, was the Liberal contestant.

The Senator himself would make no comment. "I have made no commitment to anybody," he said.

Finds 11 Cattle Electrocuted

LANGFORD, Feb. 16.—Eleven of 13 cattle in the barn of W. B. Misner were electrocuted Tuesday morning, but it has not yet been determined whether or not the building was struck by lightning. Two animals in the centre of the row of stalls were unharmed.

The dead animals, Holsteins and Jerseys, were discovered by the owner when he went to the barn after breakfast. A small fire in the barn roof led to the belief lightning had struck the barn during an early morning storm, but hydro inspectors were investigating in an attempt to discover whether or not there had been some other cause for the mass electrocution.

50 Hams To Assist RCAF Guard Air Bases

TORONTO, Feb. 16 — (CP)— Watchdogs of the airways, recruited from Canada's 4,000 amateur wireless operators, at least 50 amater radio operators in Toronto now have signed up with the RCAF amateur radio system, it was learned Tuesday night.

With like groups all across Canada, the "hams" eventually will provide a systematic regular auxiliary communications network for the RCAF.

Several operators already have performed notable services in the past, especially when storms have disrupated the communications channels. Their function is to intercept distress calls, relay the messages for civilians and servicemen, and maintain their technical proficiency.

The RCAF is asking them to arrange shifts at their home listening posts so that at every hour some home receiver is tuned to a fixed frequency in each area. They also co-operate with police forces and forest rangers in every province.

Norwood Skaters Present Merry Carnival On Melting Ice; Spectators Come Out In Record Numbers

NORWOOD, Feb. 16—(ENS)—The annual ice carnival presented by the Board of Trade in the Arena on Saturday was seen by a record number of spectators. The mild evening was an inducement to many who watched the entertainment in comfort while the skaters were somewhat handicapped by melting ice.

Most spectacular of the evening's events were three exhibitions of fancy skating presented by Miss L. Coburn and skaters from Peterborough.

Broom ball games between Havelock and Norwood girls and firemen versus the Board of Trade caused a great deal of fund.

In the first game the Norwood girls were the victors, Jean Baskin scoring the only goal. The team included Frances Hogg, Lois Stackhouse, Laurabel Barrie, Jean Baskin, Jean Webb and Shirley Rusaw for Norwood and A. Brown, N. Curtis, M. Cosgrove, E. Graham, Fay Brown, M. Brennan, D. Holdcroft, B. Chase and M. Forsythe for Havelock.

Board of Trade was defeated 1-0 by the firemen, the only goal being scored by H. Morrison after two minutes' play.

Lineup for the Board was Kenneth Pakenham, Rod Webb, Jack Chevers, John Hamblin, Earl Hamblin and J. G. Nixon. Firemen: H. Morrison, C. Fredericks, D. Morrison, M. Simpson, Joseph Rae, E. Cuthbertson and B. Webb.

A tug-of-war between Asphodel and Dummer lasted only 10 seconds with the Dummer team as the victors. Those taking part were:

Dummer—Reeve William Darling, Erwin Hawthorne, George Cooper, Wilbert Cooper, Everett Gallagher, Johnston Blakely, Walter Sloan, Gordon Stinson, Lloyd Montgomery and Charles Lobb.

Legion Women's Party Nets $75

MILLBROOK, Feb. 16—(ENS)—A Valentine tea party attracted many guests to the waiting-room on Saturday when the Ladies' Auxiliary to Millbrook branch of the Canadian Legion No. 402 held its first public event, which reached approximately $75.

Mrs. Keith Blair, president of the hostess society, welcomed the guests, and a sale of home baking was held by Mrs. Allie Sloan and Mrs. Lynden Saunders. Valentines, large and small were used for decorative purposes.

There was a brisk demand for the homemade candy sold by Mrs. H. Raper, vice-president of the auxiliary, Mrs. B. L. Richards and Mrs. E. C. Richards.

A lace-covered table, at which Mrs. J. W. Wright poured tea from a silver service, was centred with a silver basket of tulips, the spring time effect being further emphasized by the bud vases holding a single tulip which centred the individual tea tables. Mrs. Sanford Sloan was tea convener and assistants serving included Mrs. Allen Earle, Mrs. Clifford Challice, Mrs. H. Whyte, the Misses Jean Smith, Esther Armstrong, and Mary Raper.

Mrs. D. L. Lunn made the tea and among those helping with supplies for the plates were Mrs. Russell Reid, Mrs. W. Kinsman, Mrs. H. Whyte, Mrs. Percy Martin, Mrs. G. Raper and Mrs. Harold Hawkins.

Flowers which decorated the tea tables were later sent to Miss Betty Lunn, a patient in Western Hospital, Toronto.

The Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary are co-operating with the Lions Clug in its program for community betterment.

Pilots Wanted

CANBERRA, Autsarlia (CP)—Australia is running short of commercial air pilots and the establishment of a training school is urged. Airline business has expanded and the flow of new pilots has fallen away to a trickle.

BUSY SECRETARY—A sense of humor, a rugged constitution and "eternal" patience are the requirements for the job of secretary to a provincial premier. At least that is what Miss Eleanor McKinnon, shown here, says about her job as private secretary to Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan. As for Mr. Douglas, he claims she probably knows more details about the province's government than any other person.

Society Tackles 25 Additional Family Problems

Children's Aid dealt with 25 new cases during January, bringing the total number of cases of unsatisfactory home life under the Society's supervision to 391. Of the new cases, 16 were instances of unfortunate family situations of which seven involved child delinquency and others were caused by desertion, illness, neglect, marital discord and separation of parents.

Approximately 60 per cent of the delinquents were children from broken homes or homes in which there was serious discord between the parents. Superintendent Miss R. Young told the committee on Tuesday that she thought some of these problems might have been prevented if the Society had been notified earlier of the unsatisfactory home conditions.

Remove Cause of Problem

Miss Young said that there were many people in need of the Society's assistance who were reluctant to ask for aid. The Society was still thought of in terms of removal of children from their homes or as offering assistance to the poor. In actual fact the Society was concerned with removing the problems which make home life for children uncongenial.

The Society had 18 more wards at the end of January this year than last.

One Child Admitted

Mrs. Maquire, police matron, reported that one child was admitted to the Shelter in January making a total of 10 children in the Shelter at the beginning of February. She said that all the children had been skating during the month and two boys were busy with hockey teams.

Mr. and Mrs. Brash had entertained two boys in their home and donations from the following had been received:

Mrs. L. Yeates, ice cream; Junior Welfare League, ice cream and doughnuts; Quaker Oats Company and Colonial Bus Lines, bread; PCVS Home and School Association, sandwiches and doughnuts; Mrs. J. H. Eastwood, weiners and rolls; Mrs. Roberts, two jars of relish and Mrs. Keith Lech, ice cream.

Mrs. David Diplock reported that 164 articles had been mended, six were remade and four pairs of hose, two shirts and two quilts had been made. She reported the following donations:

Mrs. Lumsden, Anson House, 94 years of age knitted a pair of mitts; Miss Robinson, Anson House, 1 pair stockings; Mrs. A. May, 1 pair mitts; Mrs. S. A. Armstrong, used clothing; Mrs. Batten, mitts; Mrs. J. P. Roberts, 4 pair golf hose; Mrs. McIntosh, patches; Mrs. E. H. LaFave, skates; Mrs. W. Allin, 2 coats; Mrs H. G. McGinnis, Mrs T. Hall and George St. Baby Band, clothing; Mrs. Ben Reid, Keene, layettes; Mrs. I. Routley, mitts; Mrs. McWilliams and Trinity E.W.A. Group, clothing; Mrs. S. Hayman, new quilt and used clothing; Mrs. L. Halcrow, used clothing; Group 4, Mark St. United Church, clothing; Mrs. V. M. Eastwood, quilt and sweaters; Mrs. John Turner, children's shoes; Mrs. Hoke, 4 pair mitts; Mrs. I. Butler, used clothing; Warden Roy Simpson, venison.

A NEAR-DROWNING INCIDENT in the open ditch on the west side of Park St. S at Braidwood Ave. Tuesday noon, came to Bobby Wagster, 7, of 532 Brioux Ave. To avoid passing traffic, he slipped into 30 inches of water and was rescued by his companion, Charlane Gerard, 10, same address; they are shown in the Right photo. At Left, Bob Davey kneels at the spot where Bobby went in the water and Glen Hamilton sits on a cross bridge above the place where Charlane hauled Bobby out. The open ditch is a source of terror to neighborhood mothers, a trap for skidding cars, several of which have skidded in this winter, and it is also a collection hole for garbage.

Rescue Boy 7 From Creek On Park Street

Bobby Wagster, 7, of 532 Brioux St., on his way to Confederation School on Tuesday after lunch, slipped into the open ditch on Park St. S. at Braidwood Ave. Had it not been for Charlane Girard, age 10, of the same address, who was accompanying him, the little lad might easily have drowned in the 30 inches of dirty run-off water. She pulled him out of the current just before Bobby reached one of the cross bridges; he was wet to the waist when some unidentified man passing by helped Charlane lift him out and carry him into Reynolds Snack Bar.

Joseph Crowley, A. Neilson and Percy Crummey were in the shop talking about the dangerous conditions of the eight-block open ditch when Bobby fell in.

"It should have been filled years ago," said Mrs. J. A. Holden who lives a block away on Park St., S. Although she has no children attending school at the present time, she said it made her heart ache to watch the chances children had to take along the narrow street. Aside from flood water periods, heavy snow makes conditions equally dangerous for drivers, who crowd their cars to the soft snow shoulders created by street graders. Four cars were reported to have slid into the open ditch during the last snow storm and another on Monday.

Mrs. A. Northfold, who does not live near Park St., said that it as a terrible condition for school children. When her small child starts to school she said that she would be in a state of constant worry.

The little Wagster boy was badly frightened by the accident, and although he was whisked from the swollen stream too quickly to get badly soaked, he said the experience would make him afraid to walk to school for some time to come.

A petition was recently presented to the City Council from people in the area asking that this open ditch be covered and the Board of Education has also asked the city council for action. School authorities have ever since the area came into the city feared a fatal accident especially during the spring freshet season.

Otonabee Volume of Flow 300 cu. ft. Above Normal Power Plants Benefitting

The mil and fluid winter has filled the reservoir of the Trent Canal system almost a month earlier than usual, and management is inclined to draw down the lake levels to leave room for March. The volume of the Otonabee River, usually around 2,500 to 2,700 cu. ft. per second, has been over the 3,000 mark, at some peaks probably showing an excess of 1,000 cu. ft. per second. Regulation by the Trent Canal department from its Peterborough headquarters varies with circumstances of the great outdoors.

The whole storage system has filled with water, and the weather has kept that reserve at a level through winter that has been reassuring to the power dams all the way to Trenton.

The Trent and its communities have experienced no water worries this winter, and through the local office supervision management is now looking over the system to provide some "slack" against the freshets that come with the spring.

Winter Coming and Going

Mr. T. J. Ryan, superintendent of the canal, said today that in the lower section of the watershed the winter kept coming and going—on the move. Further north there is deep snow in the bush, but in the intermediate areas snows have been followed by rain and even melting weather.

The whole Trent system and its flow is kept under the thumb of departmental management, daily reports, and all the detail of close control Winter maintenance of lake levels for electric power needs is a fairly steady and tractable problem, nothing to lose sleep about, but when March approaches and freshet time looms on the calendar and charts, supervisory vigilance quickens.

And, it has been stirring recently with the cawing in the pine rookeries.

Instead of winter settling down in snow banks for three months it has been melting and flowing off into the Trent streams and lakes. The result is that the whole system is amply stocked with water for all requirements of the retreating weeks of winter, Power dam operators have informed the Examiner that they have been observing the rise and fall of the flow. One source intimated that an inch or more of water was being drawn off the vast acreage of the long reach from Buckhorn to Bobcaygeon.

A Healthy Condition

Mr. Ryan's comment to the Examiner was that the Trent reservoir system was in a stout and healthy condition, but that "we have to allow for the potential of March."

Usually the spring flow through the Trent does not rise substantially until the 10th to the 15th of March.

Mr. Ryan said that winter might not yet have fully expended its resources, although the signs were becoming daily more persuasive. So, winter has been trickling into the lower lakes, the deposit of snow is light, the backlog of water is comfortably high, but management must reckon with the moisture of March.

"Keep the lakes full and we might have a flood," Mr. Ryan said. "The surge of the freshet water that might come, could cause trouble if we didn't have the storage capacity above the dams for just such seasonal possibility, to catch and absorb it."

So, what the Trent is doing these days is keeping the wheels of electric generators whirring, watching the water levels throughout the Trent, and making allowance in present flow for an expected swelling of volume about the time March comes in like a lion or a lamb.

Highway Case Goes To Jury

After hearing addresses from the defence counsel and from the Crown Attorney, the jury in the Overholt manslaughter case retired at 12:15 p.m. today. Before doing so they were given their charge by the Hon. Mr. Justice Smily, presiding at the current Assize of the Supreme Court.

Justice Smily said if the jury did not find the accused guilty of manslaughter it should then consider whether or not he was guilty on the charge of dangerous driving.

Six more witnesses for the Crown were called on Tuesday afternoon.

Eva Thachuk, wife of the previous witness, William Thachuk, said that as the accused man drove his car up the hill, immediately preceding the accident, he was at first on the right side of the road, then he swayed to the left side, back to the right, and finally over to the left again. At this point, according to the testimony, the truck came over the brow of the hill and the accident occurred.

She said the driver after the collision "seemed dazed" and "there was a faint smell of liquor on his breath." The witness related that Overholt's only comment was "it's cold."

John Leach and his wife Eva, of Odessa, corroborated much of the evidence given by the Thachuks. They said they too had tried to pass Overholt on the road but because of the manner of his driving they concluded it was too dangerous.

Mrs. Leach also stated that there was "a slight odor of alcohol" on the breath of the accused.

Harry Pearson, a fellow-employee of Overholts at Lillico Motors, testified that the accused had been at a party on Christmas eve with a number of other Lillico employees. He said that beer had been consumed at the party but when he left he considered Overholt "quite capable of taking care of himself."

Leo Buck, Oxford St., who was with Morrow in the truck at the time of the accident said he first saw the Overholt car as their

For the annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association here April 9, the reception committee of the council decided Monday to arrange a dinner. Hon. Leslie Blackwell, Attorney-General, will be invited as guest speaker. Ald. Adam Sands was chairman of the committee meeting.

HOLES GETTING WORSE

Motorists report several bad holes are developing in the city streets because of the early break-up. A particularly bad one is at the CNR tracks on Charlotte St. and others have been reported from Ashburnham. This means an early headache for the city department of works, which is usually spared this extra work until much later in the year.

Recreation Commission Asks $21,425 From Council

Recreation Commission's budget for 1949 totals $24,425 as reported to the Commission by R. E. MacDonald, treasurer, Tuesday night. This includes an estimate of $3,500 from the Citizen's Band. The previous estimate had been $19,000 without the expected band expenditure.

Last year the Commission received $21,500 from the City Council and $3,000 from a Provincial grant. This means the Commission is asking $75 less from the City Council than was received last year, as a grant of $3,000 is expected from the Provincial government.

Estimated requirements of the Peterborough Citizen's Band were reported by Quirt McKinney. Salaries to five members, bandmaster, assistant bandmaster, band manager, secretary-treasurer and the librarian, totalled $1,150, with the bandmaster receiving $600. Pay to 45 men for six park concerts will be $750. Six new uniforms have to be bought, costing $50. Instruments, consisting of a baritone sax, tympani, trombone, clarinet and trumpet will cost $1,175.

Jack Dane reported that a number of the playgrounds lacked shelter for the equipment, mentioning Fleming Park, King Edward Park and Confederation playgrounds and suggested permanent shelters.

Hurrell Dodds said the Parks Department looked after the physical part and the Commission the supervision of the programmes and any building would have to be erected by the latter.

"Ask the Parks' Department to add the estimated cost of these buildings to their budget," said Gordon Armstrong, vice-chairman who was in the chair due to the absence of Robert J. Bolton.

"But we are still at the mercy of the other departments if any work is to be done," said Mr. Dane. "If the Parks Department didn't wish to build a shelter at Confederation school, what would happen to the recreational program there? If we don't have the facilities, we don't have the programs."

Skating carnivals sponsored by the Commission was next on the agenda. Although the general feeling was that it was too late in the season to develop a large scale carnival, a committee to plan a carnival was chosen. They were Mr. Bolton, Mr. McKinney and Richard Ouimet.

Recently Mr. Armstrong, Clare Collins and Mr. Dane visited the Ashburnham Hall to explore its possibilities as quarters for a boxing club. They reported a ring could be made on the stage and punching bags and other equipment could be placed along the walls.

Fifteen organizations are using the Dixon House.

Lights Ablaze In Store Fronts

Main street was its fluorescent self again Tuesday night with the lifting of the lighting restrictions imposed by the Hydro-Electric Commission when nights were lengthening last fall and Ontario was short of power for its industrial needs.

Nocturnal main streeters blinked at the incandescence in store fronts and business signs blazoned with restored kilowattage on merchandise of seasonal merging, some beckoning to spring and other making a last bid to winter.

Out Millbrook way this morning lower fields were widespread with surface water, ditches were filling, brooks were boisterous in their babbling, crows were winging about the countryside, the air was bland and the sky blue, and the lustre of spring was in the sunshine. For all that, capricious March lay ahead with still two weeks of February that can pack a wintry wallop if it wills.

Plan Control Of Car Wreckers

Control of car wreckers was proposed by the legal committee of the council to the suburban planning committee which was organized last year. It is an expansion into the adjoining townships of the city planning committee.

The townships have manifested their interest and willingness to co-operate iwth the city, and they are being requested by the legal committee to take some effective action relating not only to wreckers but also to other details of control in community planning.

It is understood that the townships adjoining the city have not yet passed the bylaws giving the councils the necessary planning authority, but it is expected that they intend to do so as a further step in the suburban agreement of control.

THE GAME IS ON

Playoff is at the Civic Arena at nine o'clock tonight but in an all-out effort to preserve the ice, doors will not open until 8.15 p.m.

May 15 Deadline For Wartime Homes Council Undecided On Asking For More

"I think Peterborough's housing problem is easing somewhat, but we have a long away to go yet," said Ald. Raine in reference to Central Mortgage and Housing's recent information that May 15 is the deadline for any additional houses that may be applied for this year.

"It requires a lot of consideration whether we are going to ask for any more of those houses," Ald. Hugh Waddell, chairman of the finance committee, commented last night.

"I think we might leave this question until we have finished with the estimates," Mayor Swanston suggested. "That may be by the end of the month, and we'll have plenty of time to go into the housing matter.

The committee fell in with that temporary shift.

Junior Chamber of Commerce spent $75 decorating the Civic Arena and the armouries for the visit last fall of the Governor-General. Of that sum they expected the council would contribute $56.

"We might as well pay the whole bill," Ald. Adam Sands moved in finance committee Monday night. The motion was adopted but the council is asking for the bunting that was bought and used. It might be needed for some other festive occasion.

May Alter Plans of Centre To Fit Finances

Aldermen Getting Impatient As Site And Starting Date Still Undecided

Probably the No. 1 headache at the city hall is Joe Jebson's Memorial Community Centre. Nobody knows for sure what to do about it, in the council or out.

Ald. Doug Miller mentioned it at the finance committee meeting this week. He had been talking with C. B. Neal, the patient treasurer of the Centre committee. The facts relayed were not new, neither were they less disconcerting than they have been every time they are dusted off for a new look.

Funds are: $215,00 mostly in government bonds; and credit is: $75,000 voted by the ratepayers for borrowing by debentures when needed. And, in the background is a hunk of cash from the presumptive sale of municipal realty, chiefly the market block.

Credits amount to approximately $300,000 and the estimated cost of the Community Centre, as originally conceived by all hands, particularly its enthusiastic promoters, is $600,000.

So, the problem is to finance the other $300,000, Ald. Miller bluntly reported. Opinion is that present plans will have to be scrapped, and financing proceedure will have to be reversed. That is, instead of fitting the finances to the Centre, the Centre will have to be fitted to the finances. Hence, the proposed revision of the plans.

City council has been suggesting a Burnham St. site,, which will have to be bought, although they would like to toss the Rink-Townsend St. block at the Centre committee, because the municipality owns it, and say: there you are.

But, Ald. Miller brings the further information that cost of footings for the Centre on Townsend St. plus a grid of concrete as floor base was estimated by an engineer, engaged by the Centre committee to make soundings, at $80,000 to $85,000. And that, according to members of the council was twice the cost they had heard mentioned in previous estimating.

To try to get somewhere, Ald. Miller suggested: would it be possible to borrow $150,000 on expectations of city property that is to be sold, and another $150,000 on the Centre, and that sounded something like a mortgage.

Because of overhanging doubt of building costs for the next five years, Centre opinion inclines to the view "that this fall might be as good a time as any to begin". Completion could be expected by the winter of 1950-1.

Ald. Hurrell Dodds said he was amazed at the $80,000 figure. "I was at a meeting where the footings cost was said to be around $30,000 to $40,000".

Mayor Swanston said Ashburnham property owners were objecting to the Burnham St. site.

"Everywhere we look there are opposing petitions," said Ald. D. Miller.

"There were no petitions against the old site at the east end of the bridge," said Ald. Dodds.

Ald. Jim Gillespie: "That's all water that's flowed under the bridge."

That is about where the discussion ended.

Yugoslav Spying Rapped By Hungarians

BUDAPEST, Feb. 16 (Reuters)—Hungary has met a Yugoslav complaint with a counterblast accusing her of spying, provoking frontier incidents and seizing Hungarian property, it was announced today.

Answering Yugoslavia's protest at being excluded from the new Soviet-sponsored Council of Economic Assistance in Eastern Europe, Hungary declared that she backed this exclusion because of Yugoslavia's unfriendly attitude.

Specific charges made in the note were:

1. That Yugoslav military authorities were provoking frontier incidents.

2. That Yugoslavia had been arresting her nationals of Hungarian descent who expressed sympathy with the Soviet Union or the people's democracies.

3. That Yugoslavia last year rejected Hungary's request for a reduction of reparations payments.

4. That Yugoslavia, immediately after that date, confiscated all Hungarian property on Yugoslav territory.

5. That Yugoslav diplomats had been engaged in espionage activity in Hungary.

6. That Yugoslav leaders had attacked Hungary in speeches.

The note also charged that the former Yugoslav minister in Budapest, Karlo Brazovic, had once threatened that unsettled problems with the Hungarian Government should be taken before the international authorities. "That is to say," the note said, "that Yugoslavia wishes the intervention in Hungary of the imperialists' voting machine led by the United States."

Aleutian Isles Rich In Mummies

VANCOUVER, Feb. 16—(CP)—Human remains dating back 2,000 years were found by archaeologist Alan G. May in the Aleutian Islands, 2,500 miles northwest of here.

Mr. May, fresh from his latest trip to the islands that form the tag end of the Alaska penninsula, said in an interview that the field is rich in mummies.

"The deeper you dig the more chances there are to discover traces and evidence of an old civilization and culture."

Originally a British scientist whose hobby was archaeology, Mr. May explored the Columbia River and the Aleutians for the Smithsonian Institution of America. Now an American citizen, his latest porject was financed by the United States Navy's research department.

He said his expedition found bones, stones, tools and weapons left by the pre-Aleuts 1,500 to 2,000 years ago. The remains were oiled and generally unaffected by their long interment. Even the clothes were intact.

One of his prized trophies is the second largest skull ever found. It measured 2,005 cubic centimetres, compared to the average of 1,450.

Make Efficiency Film Keynote

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14 (AP).—Efficienc yis the keynote in Hollywood today.

As proof, you can look at MGM, which has traditionally been the studio most set in its ways. The studio, which used to shoot scripts the size of telephone books and then subject the finished product to costly cutting, now starts films with tight, 90-page scripts.

Most streamlined of the new MGM films is "Scene of the Crime," which has a slim, 28-day schedule. The schedule is so fast that star Van Johnson has no time to talk to press or visitors. He has to keep learning lines.

May Cut Staffs Meet Rising Cost Of Labor

By LESLIE BRODIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 16 (CP).—Australia's post-war financial boom shows signs of cracking.

Workers who have accepted high wages, shortage of labor, and abundance of unrationed food as a matter of course since the war ended, received a sobering jolt recently when it was announced that many of the large retail stores and other businesses would cut their staffs to meet rising wage costs.

Four of Sydney's leading departmental stores announced they would have to consider closing their restaurants when another increase in the basic wage comes into force this month.

The basic wage is the minimum wage paid for labor and is adjusted regularly to meet the cost of living. The present increase of 32 cents is the second this year.

The withdrawal of government subsidies on essential consumer goods last year is being felt now as unsubsidized goods reaching the market cause a considerable rise in the housewives' budget.

A warning of the dangers confronting Australia's present inflationary trend was given at Hobart, Tasmania, by Prof. Douglas Copland, one of the country's leading economists.

Professor Copland declared that the atmosphere of today is reminiscent of the boom days of the '20s, with the important difference that there is a persistent shortage of labor in all basic industries with little prospect of improvement this year.

Greater Effort Needed

He believes that Australia has never felt the impact of widespread prosperity to a greater extent than at present, but despite all its advantages and its need for great effort the people are working at only about 70 per cent of thir capacity.

The professor said that although exports have risen in value from $480,000,000 in 1939 to $1,280,000,000 last year, actual exports have declined. Only inflated prices for wool, wheat, and dairy produce have increased Australia's export receipts.

Industrial experts claim that the 40-hour week and the tendency of unions to drive a hard industrial bargain while labor is scare, are the main factors contributing to the slowing up of export production.

Further increase in the basic wage are expected. Latest demand by the Australian Council of Trade Unions for an increase of 5.6 is not regarded seriously in some quarters, but it has the solid support of all unions including the more right wing members. Moreover, the director of the Associated Chamber of Manufacturers, Latham Withall, predicts they will get around that amount next August. Such a rise would cost an estimated $800,000,000 annually.

Economists agree that increasing wage scales today will not help prosperity on a permanent basis unless they are accompanied by a corresponding increase in production. They believe that the general adoption of an incentive wage payment system is the only way to increase production sufficiently to allow it to catch up with rising prices.

But the unions are adamant in their refusal to accept incentive payments, and it is considered most unlikely they will change their attitude.

CHINA'S CIVIL WAR has produced a new type of refugee—whole families who crowd into tiny sampans and float down the rivers to safety. At Shanghai, muddy Soochow Creek is jammed with the little craft, below. The able-bodied men and women go ashore, looking for work, while the sick, aged and the children stay aboard, eating what little food is available, right. They're waiting for peace, so they may return to their native villages.

TORONTO, Feb. 16 — (CP)—William Fuduak, 50, jumped into a flooded creek in suburban York township Tuesday and pulled three-year-old Harriet Goodbaum to safety just as the racing waters were about to carry her under a culvert. The girl, unconscious, had fallen into the ditch when her bicycle toppled over.

Raps Hostility Between Ottawa And Provinces

OTTAWA, Feb. 16 — (CP). — External Affairs Minister Pearson Tuesday warned the Commons against what he described as "a very dangerous tendency" to stir up an impression of hostility between the provinces and the Dominion.

"I suggest that there is great danger to national development in that trend and that sort of talk," Mr. Pearson said.

The minister was speaking in debate on the Address to the United Kingdom Parliament asking approval of the union between Canada and Newfoundland and the Progressive Conservative amendment calling for consultation with the provinces.

He said those who voted against the amendment, which the Government opposes, would be accused of being "conspirators against the constitution, wreckers of provincial rights, centralists."

Penalty Paid

That, he said, is "the penalty we have to pay when we talk about a strong central Federal Canadian Government in the interests of Canadian unity and of Canadian nationhood."

He added:

"In this country to-day, and I am not referring to anything that has been said in this debate, there is, I suggest, a tendency—a very dangerous tendency in my view—to stir up the feeling that the provinces and the Dominion are somehow, in some way, hostile to each other.

"That the people of Canada as represented in this Parliament are in some way different from the people of Canada as represented in the Provincial Parliaments.

"That there is, for instance, some inevitable conflict between my duty and loyalty as a resident of this province and my duty and loyalty as a Canadian.

"I suggest that there is great danger to national development in that trend and in that sort of talk."

SOME WEIGHTY ADVICE on a prepared hide is given two trappers by Dr. W. H. Clark of the Lands and Forests Department, Toronto. Listening attentively are Clarence Marshall of Severn Bridge and George St. Denis of Sudbury.

15 Teams Named To Handle Retail Section

With an objective of $75,000 the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund campaign will get under way on February 25 and continue to March 4. Objectives of the various divisions have been increased, with the Industrial Division under Ian F. McRae being asked this year for the top figure of $32,000. This is an increase of $7,000 over campaign of last year. Special Names under Gordon S. Matthews is being asked to raise $22,500; Retail Division under W. C. Hughes $16,500 or $3,500 more than last year, and Women's Division objective is set at $4,000. Mrs. W. E. Fanning is in charge of the latter division.

Suburban Road Expenses Exceed Quota By $3,174

A summary of the work of the Suburban Area Commission last year was given to the finance committee of the council by two of its members, M. H. Gainey and Alex W. Archibald. The chairman, A. E. Middleton, was kept at home by a recent minor injury to his leg.

The Commission bought 11,333 cu. yds. of crushed gravel from the county last year, of which 3,000 yds. went for mulch work and the remaining 8,333 cu. yds. were placed on the suburban roads.

"Some 40 miles of suburban roads were treated with calcium chloride, and the total 72 miles were snow plowed.

Due to a shortage of funds caused mainly by unforeseen expenditure on the Buckhorn Road from our appropiation, we were unable to participate in any payment on the new No. 610 Adams grader and, in fact, will show an overexpenditure in 1948 of $3,-174.29.

The work on the Buckhorn Road continued to the end of December. The expenditure to Dec. 31, 1948, paid by the Department of Highways, was $102,-025. We paid from the Commission's funds a total of $6,070.19 of which $374.23 was for interest at the bank. The remaining $5,695.-96 will be subsidized by the Dept.

The original estimate of expenditure of $90,430 was increased by $33,750 to take care of the additional 1¾ miles of road which was added at the south end to the Buckhorn Road project."

Mr. Gainey explained that the Commission had to buy gravel from the county last year because it could not afford to invest in rock crushing machinery at current costs.

The Buckhorn Road was designated a colonization road, with the Ontario government assuming the entire cost. Mr. Gainey said it should be completed in six or eight weeks and would be a new advantage to the district and tourist traffic this summer.

It was extended southerly from the school house corner, past the cemetery and joining No. 23 highway below the Gill residence. Maintenance will revert to the Commission, after the road building job is finished by the Department.

The Buckhorn Road, Mr. Gainey remarked to the Examiner, was bound to prove a major asset for traffic through the county. It had long been urged first upon the county council and then on the Department. Construction work last year was an unavoidable handicap at times, but that stage was now passed and the benefit would be realized this summer in the improvement for district and tourist traffic.

Mr. Archibald told the Commission that there was nothing he could add to Mr. Gainey review, and that he endorsed in full.

Total expenditure by the Commission last year was $58,916.36 including the previous year's excess in payments of $973.10.

Total maintenance outlay was $26,273.73; construction $15,367.-79; overhead $2,595.42; warehouse and garage maintenance $1,488.20; new machinery (two trucks) $9,121.92; stock on hand at the end of the year $3,466.51. Total $58, 313. 57, less stock on hand at Jan. 1, 1948—$3,201.50; leaving the amount for the government's subsidy at 50% of $55,-112.07.

Items not subsidizable: committee fees and expenses $1,155.25, bank interest $1,675. 94. . . . amounting to $2,831.19.

Total suburban road expenditure last year . . . $57,943.26.

The Commission's revenues were: county appropriation $14,-000; city appropriation $14,000; Ontario government 50% subsidy, estimated, $27,556.03; and 30% gov't subsidy, estimated $186.04 . . .Total $55,742.07. Overdraft for the year $3,174.29.

Mayor Swanston complimented the Commission on the "very fine job they have been doing on our roads leading into the city They have always been very co-operative, and our relations have been most agreeable."

Mayor Swanston said the council regretted that Mr. Middleton was not able to be present, and expressed the hope that he would soon be around again.

90% Of Workers To Be Recalled

OSHAWA, Feb. 16—Assurance that 90 per cent of the 1,500 General Motors Corp. employees, still laid off as a result of retooling for new models, will be back at their jobs within a month, was given by J. B. Highfield, plant manager.

Temporary delays in recalling employees can be attributed to assembly line changes for new models, he said.

Mr. Highfield added that the company will soon be needing all employees still waiting a return to their jobs.

Malcolm Smith, chairman of the United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL) bargaining committee at the plant, said that men are being recalled at a "brisk pace." Every one with prewar seniority has been re-employed, he said. But there were still 404 employees with seniority dating back to 1946 who are still on the waiting list, he said.

Fire On UN Planes

RHODES, Feb. 16—(AP)—Two United Nations planes were fired on Tuesday over the Israeli-Lebanese front lines, but neither was hit, a U.N. spokesman here said. The spokesman said it was not known whether Israeli or Lebanese troops fired the shots. The U.N. planes were searching for another U.N. aircraft missing and presumed lost on a flight from Beyrouth, Lebanon, to Amman, capital of Trans-Jordan.

Climbs Mile a Minute

LONDON—(CP)—The United Kingdom jet fighter, the Beryl Meteor, recently climbed to a height of 7½ miles at the rate of a mile a minute. Only rocket-propelled planes like the American Bell X-1 have been able to surpass this latest performance.

Jury Recommends Regular Inspections

To protect the citizens of the City and County against the hazard of fire, a recommendation was made on Tuesday by the Grand Jury that "the proper authorities" make a safety check on all public institutions.

"Due to the fact there has been so many fires in other communities, with the resulting loss of life and property damage, and the lack of attention paid to proper fire escapes in the buildings inspected, we, the Grand Jury, recommend that the proper authorities make a thorough inspection of all public institutions in the City and County of Peterborough with regard to fire prevention."

The Jury began its report by saying: "We wish to commend the management of St. Joseph's Hospital on the efficient operation, the cleanliness and general condition of the hospital. We recommend that study and consideration be given to more adequate fire escapes on the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th floors, by providing stairs from the balconies of these floors; that doors on these balconies should push out and be fitted with proper panic bolt hardware. We also ask that consideration be given to the replacement of the fire hose on each floor as it appears to have aged to a point where is may be defective."

"One store room had quite an accumulation of cardboard and cartons in an untidy condition and close to an open fuse panel box which constitutes a fire hazard."

Fire Chutes

"We found the operation of the House of Providence very satisfactory, the inmates appeared well cared for and very happy. We wish to commend the management on the plan to install fire chutes."

Civic Hospital appeared to be quite satisfactory, according to the Grand Jury. But the qualification was added: "We noted with regret the inadequacy of the kitchen facilities. No fire extinguishers were noticed in either kitchen. We would respectfully recommend that the front door should open outward and be fitted with panic hardware."

Describing St. Vincent's Orphanage, the Jury reported: "We are pleased to report on the apparent excellent management, and on the decorating now in progress; also on the contentment and even happiness of the children whom we saw. Everything seemed to be in good order."

Want Door Changed

"The County Court House is in good condition, but we recommend that the front door should be changed to open outward to comply with fire regulations."

The Grand Jury also stated "the jail was thoroughly inspected and a check indicated there was only one in 23 persons awaiting trial. Everything was found in very excellent condition with the exception of a hand-operated washing machine which is considered obsolete. We recommend a replacement."

On the Grand Jury were: Ronald Burgess, Wesley V. Dawson, Stewart Daniels, Fred Dearborn, Keith J. Foley, Charles Frankish, J. E. Girven, Joseph Jamieson, William H. Joiner, David A. Kerr, Ralph Plunkett, Herbert Routley, and Gerald A. Wood.

ESKIMO PREXY—R. Murray Montague, president of the Edmonton Eskimos, hopes to lead the new entry in the Western Interprovincial Rugby Football Union to a good year—financially at least. The Esks don't expect to take the Grey Cup in their first year but will be satisfied if their club breaks even at the end of the season. Mr. Montague is well known in Edmonton sport and business circles.

Men No Longer Laugh At Women's Clothes Use Feminine Styles At Male Fashion Show

By MARILYN LAMBORN

TORONTO, Feb. 16 (CP) — May not another man laugh at women's clothes.

At a male fashion show here, men wore the pants all right, but they borrowed a few feminine tricks when they pulled inspiration from the past, adopted the high turned-up collar and—so help us—had fullness pushed to the back.

But with men the style is dubbed "the bold look," or more exactly, "rugged in a dignified way."

"To make business men's leisure a pleasure," the third annual Canadian men's apparel fair last night presented large patch pockets—often as many as four—on the jacket, mustard-yellow vests complete with brass buttons and deep-toned sweaters. There were dashing shirred yokes set in jacket-backs down to a wide half belt and big, floppy collars to sit up for stormy weather.

Plus-fours and posh plus-eights are due for a come-back on gold links.

Another touch borrowed from feminine style books is the "sling coat," a sports number which can be worn somewhat as a cape.

1948 Biggest Christmas

OTTAWA, Feb. 16 — (CP) — Cash registers in Canada's department stores rang up the biggest Christmas business on record and helped boot total sales for 1948 over the $800,000,000 mark. The Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday that December sales totalled $109,638,000 compared with $93,159,000 in the corresponding month of 1947. Total sales for the year were $804,542,000 compared with $706,845,000 in 1947.

ECONOMIC PINCH

Spring Clothes Feature Pleats for New Detail

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 16 (CP). — Get out your "old look" again. Shake out the mothballs. The old styles are about to get a new lease of life.

This will be the reaction of many British women to the recent spring fashion shows. For London's "Big 10" have set their seal on slim classic lines with naturally fitted waist.

The keynote is one of "controlled elegance." Daytime skirts are 13 inches from the ground and there is a spontaneous return to moderately - padded shoulders for coats, suits and coat frocks.

Suits have an air of deceptive simplicity with jackets, mostly of wrist length, having plain classically-moulded lines. Intricacies are confined to lapels, pockets, cuffs and fancy buttoning.

But Fashion's big news is back interest — back flaring jackets, back fullness in skirts. Pleats are used everywhere: in panels on capes and jackets, in groups on skirts, in ruffles at skirt hems. Vandyke tucking or seaming may emphasize the hem of a jacket or skirt.

In fact, pleats are the main detail theme. They are the answer to the simplicity of line with its combined freedom of movement. All types of pleats are used: accordion, sun-ray, crystal, small knife, large and small box.

Designer Hardy Amies used them right through his collection. For instance the skirt of a grey check fine Yorkshire tweed suit has a hip poke, vandyked at the back and rounded in front, from which hang three groups of pleats at back and two in front. He also balances a panel of pleats on the back left-hand side of a jacket with a corresponding fan of pleats on the right-hand side of the skirt.

Variety of Ideas

Creed inserts a diagonal panel of pleats across the front of a coat frock. Peter Russell emphasizes an almost tubular silhouette with flat pleats encircling the hips; Digby Morton pushes them to one side. Victor Stiebel concentrates them at the back into a pigtail — this, like hair, is brushed smoothly round to the back, neatly caught up and then dropped like a pigtail.

There is a hint of the built-up waistline on skirts which gives the peg-top look and many waists have slotted belts of contrasting colors.

With holiday travel in mind Hartnell and Molyneux design some excellent dual-purpose clothes. Beige wool and silk jersey are used by Molyneux for a four-piece ensemble — loose coat, slim wool skirt and cap-sleeved jersey blouse, with the wool skirt interchangeable with a full ground length evening skirt in matching jersey.

Hartnell designs a monkey jacket suit in grey wool that reveals — when the jacket and tie-on skirt are removed — an afternoon dress in grey and white polka dot silk.

The princess line, with moderately flared skirt is most popular for spring coats. To this line Hardy Amies adds the most flattering collar of the season — an attractive face-framing affair, crossed in front and standing well out on the shoulders.

In fitted coats high collars and capes are popular. The tent swagger is confined to country, holiday and yachting ensembles.

With The Girl Guides

The weatherman smiled kindly on St. Andrew's Brownie Pack, and provided a clear night and plenty of snow for the annual sleigh-ride party. After an hour's ride, they returned to the Sunday School, for refreshments prepared by a Brownie mother, who believes in putting the Brownie motto, "Lend a Hand" to work. This week's meeting saw Brownies busily sewing for the annual Valentine Bazaar being held February 19.

It is always a pleasure to welcome visitors to meetings—especially when the visitor is a Brownie Leader from another country. A warm welcome was extended to Mrs. A. Neal, and daughters Karen and Judy, who have come back to Peterborough from Baltimore, Maryland, where Mrs. Neal was a "Brownie Scout" Leader. Karen and Judy have now become members of First St. Andrew's Pack, while the older daughter, Pam, has joined the Guides.

St. Andrew's Guides, who have been without a Lieutenant for several months, were pleased to welcome Miss Phyllis Whyte, who will be an asset to the Company. Phyllis is no stranger to Guiding, having started several years ago as a Brownie. After winning the Brownie First Class, she moved up to Guides, where she won the Guide First Class and All-Round Cords. With almost two years' leadership training acquired while serving in the Cadets, she brings to her new position a wealth of knowledge, and the Guides feel fortunate to have her with them.

"Preparing for Tomorrow—Today". That the slogan which has been adopted for our special Guide and Scout week, which this year will be celebrated Feb. 20 to 27. This is the week when Guides, Scouts, Brownies and Cubs wear their uniforms to school, and do everything they can to spread their ideals and ideas among the public. We hardly think it necessary to say that this week, especially, uniforms should be faultless. This is the way all leaders like to see them, but they are often disappointed. However, we urge all Guides and Brownies to think for a moment of what their uniforms stand for, and wear them with pride during the week.

It is fitting, we think, that on the first Sunday of our special week, we should join together in a service of worship. St. Paul's Scouts and Cubs have planned such a service, and we urge all Guide and Brownie groups to attend. This service is in the evening, and groups attending should be at St. Paul's Sunday School at 6:30, in full uniform. Guide Companies will carry colors.

As a special feature of Guide Week, your district captain is sponsoring an essay contest, in order to find out just what the local Guides think of the movement to which they belong. The official title of the Essay is to be: "Why I am proud to be a Girl Guide," but Guides may change this wording if they desire; providing their essay is along similar lines. No definite word limit has been set, but Guides are reminded a rambling story often loses much of its clarity. Prize for the best essay will a subscrition to the new magazine "The Canadian Guide" and duplicate prizes may be awarded. The contest is open to all companies, and the closing date is Wednesday, Feb. 23. By this time your essay should be in the hands of your own company captain, or the district captain, at 585 Homewood Ave. We are sure you all have some good ideas on this subject—now is the time to write them down.

Of Interest to Women

FOUND ON THE FRONT VERANDAH of St. Joseph's Rectory, Herkimer St., by Rev. Clarence Clark, this baby was abandoned in a shopping bag at Hamilton. She is held by Nurse Dorothy Rilett, superintendent of the children's wing at St. Joseph's Hospital.

DOROTHY DIX

How Can Man Fathom Complexities of Woman?

DEAR MISS DIX: am a man and no authority on the subject; but I think married women with children definitely lose love for their husbands and their affection goes to the children — especially in the teen-age group. This happens even when the husbands are sober, industrious, sensible, not of the nagging type, but who prefer to live with their wives as per the original wedding arrangement.

Dorothy Dix

Women are descendants of Eve and possess a faculty for snaring and tempting men, and when they get one in many cases he becomes nothing but a doormat and they all of their sentimental tactics.

I don't understand women, but I would never expose my wife's faults to anyone because it would reflect on my intelligence in selecting her as a wife. Yet a wife will very often reveal to strangers or friends all of her husband's mistakes and weaknesses. Another thing that I cannot understand about women is that regardless of how big a kitchen is built, it can't be big enough for two women, even though these women graduated from the same college where cooking and Domestic Science were taught.

Why do women act like this?

WILLIE LIVE.

ANSWER: Well, brother, the reason women act like women and think like women is because they are women, and if a man is really clever he doesn't make any attempt to understand them. He just takes them as is.

Answers to Queries

But I don't mind answering to a few of your queries. You are surprised that married women with children seem to lose their love for their husbands and transfer it to their children. There is a twofold reason for that. In the first place, the husband drops his love-making at the altar and thenceforth says it with supporting a family. Probably the average wife would drop dead with surprise if her husband would treat her as a Lady Love instead of a household convenience. And, in the second place, wives make more fuss over their children than they do over their husbands because a baby is more responsive to sweet talk than Papa is, and because children need more care than a husky man does.

I agree with you that one of wives' greatest faults is blabbing home secrets. Yet when the poor things are shut up all day with nobody but a baby to talk to, it is no wonder that they talk too much. Maybe if their husbands would take the trouble to converse with them, they would be more discreet.

As for no kitchen being big enough for two women, that is a freak of nature. Men have the same complex. Did you ever know two men who could mix a drink without getting into a hot argument over it?

DEAR MISS DIX: Why are boys so reticent about taking their girls friends home to meet their parents? In my case I know that it isn't because my boy friends are ashamed of me, because I know that the parents of the boys I go out with not only approve of me but encourage their boys to see me.

These boys often visit my home in the evening and talk with my parents; but whenever I mention their introducing me to their parents, they change the subject. Certainly it would be a gentle manly thing for a boy to let his girl meet his parents. Why do boys act this way?

BEWILDERED.

ANSWER: No reflection on you, my dear. Probably your boy friend thinks you hung the moon and is as proud as Punch at being seen out with you. Boys, however, have a curious trait. Nearly all of them are stricken dumb in the presence of their parents and become awkward and ill at ease.

A lad who is the life of the party abroad becomes a wallflower in his own house if he has company, and treats his mother and father as if they were perfect strangers. Why, nobody knows. Not even the tongue-tied kid.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow with five children. There is a man who wants to marry me, but he will not support my children. I can find good homes for them. Do you think I would be justified in marrying and putting my youngsters in these homes?

PERPLEXED.

ANSWER: If you have no way of providing for your children, it may be better for them to be put in homes where they will have adequate food and clothing and educational advantages, instead of letting them run the streets, half-starved and with no discipline, while you are off at work vainly trying to make enough to support them. But it is a hard decision for a mother to make.

Social Situations

SITUATION: You leave a town in which you have lived only a short time, but during that time several persons had made a real effort to be friendly and hospitable toward you.

WRONG WAY: Feel that there is no point in writing to them since you will probably never see them again, anyhow.

RIGHT WAY; Even though you do not intend to keep up a correspondence, at least write each of the persons once, thanking them for having done so much to make your stay in their town pleasant.

Novelties Printed On Linen Dresses

PARIS, Feb. 15 —(AP)—Hermes, the famous Paris sports house, showed summer dresses which had cake, playing cards and candles embroidered around the skirts.

A sky-blue linen dress had huge birthday cakes complete with candles and pink icing embroidered around it.

Another natural-colored one had a whole deck of playing cards with a daring, low-cut square neckline.

On the sport side, Hermes shows classic tailor-mades with wide padded shoulder lines and pleated skirts.

Box coats of sand-colored suede and mustard leather had gigantic pockets and saddle stitching on all the seams.

A new idea was a large blue and white overcheck wool box jacket which had long dolman sleeves that rolled up into a sausage-shaped cuff hitched to the elbows with tabs.

The usual run of flying panels, stoles and exaggerated hops also took a back seat when Jacques Heim, who runs the only Teen-age fashion house in town, showed spring designs for young people.

He stresses simplicity with tight waists, billowing skirts and huge puritan collars.

Highway Case

vehicle started down the hill. He said the car seemed to be coming up the centre of the road.

He said he was not too sure of the details because "just about the same time as we came over the hill we hit."

"What caused Morrow to go into the ditch?" asked Mr. Carley.

"I'd say he lost control," was the reply.

Buck stated that he and Morrow had been delivering feed to various farms during the afternoon and were coming home to Peterborough from Downeyville when the accident occurred.

He said he did not believe Morrow had been drinking.

Dr. Herbert Young, coroner, described the fatal injuries to Morrow.

'Can you say whether or not alcohol was consumed by the deceased?" queried Mr. Carley.

"I couldn't say," said Dr. Young.

Crown Attorney Bradshaw announced he would not call his last two witnesses as they had no new evidence.

Takes Stand in Defence

Defence called no witnesses and Overholt, a mechanic at Lillico Motors, entered the witness box to give his testimony.

He said he had three pints of beer at a party between 3-4.30 p. m. Christmas Eve.

"Where were you taking the beer and whiskey in your car?" asked Mr. Carley examining him.

"I was taking them home."

"Did you consume any in the car?"

"No sir."

He said he left his place of employment shortly after 5 p.m. driving his 1934 model car and denied that he was under the influence of alcohol.

Overholt attributed his "weaving" to the fact there were patches of ice and snow as well as holes in the road. He said he could tell there was a car behind because he could see the light coming through his frosted rear window, but he was unaware that it wanted to pass.

"Did you hear any horns blowing?"

"No sir."

He gave his version of the crash: "As I was going up the hill I was on the right side of the road, perhaps six inches north of the centre line. I saw the headlights of another car coming from another direction; I saw them shining in the sky. As I approached the brow of the hill a motor vehicle broke over the hill and lights came down and shone in my eyes. Immediately there was a crash."

The accused said the lights blinded him "so that I didn't know what happened."

"Could you tell the kind of vehicle?"

"No, all I could see was two headlights, and then there was a crash."

He said the force of the collision knocked the wind out of him from the force of the steering wheel striking him in the stomach.

Explaining his later conduct of not going down into the ravine where the truck was lying with the injured Morrow nearby, he said, "I was scared and cold. I didn't know what I did."

The Crown Attorney, in cross examination asked him if it were true one of the members of the party he attended earlier had asked him not to drive home.

"Yes," said the accused.

In re-examination Mr. Carley elicited the statement that this member of the party asked the accused to his home for supper, and that was the reason he was urged not to drive home.

Story Differs At Second Trial

SIMCOE, Feb. 16 (CP)—Mrs. Edith Stewart, central figure in Norfolk county's first double slaying, today resumed the stand at the second trial of the man accused of murdering her husband and her brother.

She was cross-examined by G. Arthur Martin, defence counsel for Seth Linton, 41-year-old well digger, on apparent discrepancies in her testimony at this trial and Linton's first trial last November.

Mrs. Stewart said nervousness accounted for any differences in the two court appearances.

Today Mrs. Stewart admitted she liked an occasional drink but said she drank only two glasses of beer the night before the tragedy.

Mr. Martin said Stewart was known as a violent man when he was drinking. Under questioning, Mrs. Stewart said she could not remember having heard Linton call to a neighbor to get the police in order to remove the three from his property.

Coalition Government Formed In Japan

TOKYO, Feb. 16—(Reuters)—Shigeru Yoshida, prime minister of Japan, formed a coalition government today between his own Democratic-Liberal party and the Democratic Party.

An announcement disclosing this indicated the list of ministers has been approved by the Allied Occupation headquarters.

It was believed the entry of two Democrats into the cabinet may precipitate a crisis in the Democratic Party, for the majority of Democratic members of the Diet (parliament) voted against a coalition yesterday.

Yoshida's party gained a majority in the recent general elections.

Police Reporter Dies

MONTREAL, Feb. 16 — (CP) —Edmond (Ed) McMahon, 56, dean of Montreal police reporters died suddenly last night. He wrote his last story during the night at his desk at the Herald and left apparently well. Soon after reaching home he died.

Loses $14,500 To Two Crooks

VICTORIA, BC, Feb. 16 (CP).—A confidence game that touched a retired farmer from Ewart, Man., for $14,500 in life savings was disclosed yesterday to police.

Joseph Lentsch 64, said the whole thing included a trip to Toronto and started when he met a stranger while getting off the boat here January 24.

The stranger produced a second friend after touring the city with him several days, Lentsch said. The second man said he was an employee of a racing association and he could make big money for both.

Lentsch said he and his friend made "gabulous" paper sums but that a telephone call said trouble had developed and he put up $14,500 to cover the winnings. That was lost in betting, he was informed. His friend said he had eastern securities and that the three should meet in Toronto.

A telegram saying "Everything is okay. Go home and wait till you hear further," awaited him there, he said. He came back to Victoria and has not heard a word since.

Born In Bomb Shelter Orphaned To Canada

NIAGARA FALLS, Feb. 16 — (CP)—A little Hungarian boy—born in a Budapest bomb shelter and orphaned by the war — is starting a new life with a new name, "Petey."

George Jules Roman, 4½ years old, ended a lonely flight of more than 3,500 miles from his homeland last night at Buffalo airport.

Waiting to accept him as their own were the family of John Kulperger, Niagara Falls Hydro welder, and other relatives.

"Oh, Petey, we waited so long!" cried Mrs. Kulperger and Mrs. Stephen Serkozy of Niagara Falls, both sisters of the boy's mother.

Also at the airport were three young cousins for "Petey" to play with here; his grandfather, Andrew Previdsa of Brantford, Ont.; and two uncles.

Mrs. Kulperger said the Hungarian government refused to give Mrs. Alex Kiss of Budapest, the boy's great-aunt, a passport to accompany him.

Mrs. Louise Martin of Brooklyn, a cousin of the boy, met him in New York last night and put him on another plane for Buffalo.

Funeral For Infant

Funueral service for infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ashwin of 747 Jane St., was held today at the Comstock Funeral Home. The Rev. E. C. Moore of St. George's Anglican Church officiated and burial was at Little Lake Cemetery. The child died on Monday in hospital.

A PERUVIAN VASE, which probably dates back to 300 AD, is examined by Cleveland Morgan, president of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, and Robert Davies, director of the museum. The gift of Morgan to the museum, this vase is exceedingly rare. Only two others of the same size and preservation are known to exist, one in California and one in Peru. Shown in the new basement galleries, the vase was originally excavated from an ancient tomb.

Five In Taxi Killed In Smash-up

Passenger Train Wrecks Car, Blame Snow Squall

KIRKLAND LAKE, Feb. 17 — (CP).—A level crossing crash with a passenger train in a blinding snow squall last night claimed the lives of five men riding in a taxi.

Provincial Police said they could find no means of identification in the crumpled wreckage of the cab at the scene, about eight miles east of this Northern Ontario gold-mining community.

They identified the driver as Emile St. Louis, owner of Walter's Taxi Stand here. The others were identified as Alec Desrosiers, Wilfrid Frappier, Edward Jones and a man named Jonka.

Police said they believed the driver was momentarily blinded by a snow squall which struck this area about the time of the accident. The train, an Ontario Northland Railway local travelling from Noranda, Que., to meet the ONR Timmins-Toronto mainline train at nearby Swastika, crumpled the large sedan into twisted metal and dragged it more than 500 feet along the right-of-way.

The mangled bodies were removed from the wreckage by workmen using acetylene torches.

Police said the men were picked up by the taxi at a local hotel for the trip back to their jobs at the Kokotow Lumber Company camp east of nearby Larder Lake. Frappier and Jonka signed on at the camp only yesterday.

Railway officials said the crew of the train saw the car approaching and thought it was slowing to a stop as it neared the crossing. They said whistles and bells were sounded by the train crew.

An inquest will be held.

The car was thrown down a steep embankment by the train after being swept along the tracks. The body of St. Louis was tossed clear of the wreckage. One wheel and front fender of the car were found, hundreds of feet away from the main body of the wreck, on a nearby highway.

Fled Burwash Nabbed In U.S.

TORONTO, Feb. 17 —(CP)— Police records showed today that Gerard Denis, 28-year-old former Toronto man arrested in Cleveland, O., is a convict wanted in Ontario for escaping Burwash Reformatory more than 5 years ago.

Denis, when arrested Wednesday, had $18,000 in unset diamonds in his possession.

Cleveland police said Denis, known in Canadian police records as Denis Gerard, alias James Martin, has admitted the diamonds were the loot from thefts in 15 homes in fashionable Westchester County, N.Y.

Denis served five years in St. Vincent De Paul Penitentiary at Montreal before being sentenced to Burwash. He escaped from the prison farm in Northern Ontario on Nov. 20, 1943, police records show.

Police of New Rochelle, N.Y., had been trailing Denis for two years before he was arrested in the jewelery store with the gems, which police allege he ripped from their settings before throwing the settings away. According to Cleveland police, Gerard entered the United States illegally.

He has been charged with the 15 jewel thefts and is also wanted in Buffalo on charges of housebreaking.

Inspector Says Keays' Report Quite Accurate

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 17 (CP)— Inspector T. W. Cousans of the Ontario Provincial Police testified today that he found no inaccuracies in the report Constable J. E. Keays submitted on a double shooting at Navan, Ont., in 1940.

Yesterday, Stg. J. A. Stringer said Const. Keays report was distorted.

Inspector Cousans was the second man accused by Constable Keays to come before the Royal Commission investigating the constable's charges of misconduct by police officers.

The inspector, senior provincial police officer in the Perth district, is accused by Constable Keays of suppressing evidence which might have shown Stringer lied to a Coroner's Inquest about the shooting.

The shooting was the killing of Provincial Constable Harold Dent by John Miki and the subsequent killing of Miki by Sgt. Stringer.

Inspector Cousans said Const. Keays was under his command for seven years.

"What do you know of Keays' record as a police officer?" the constable asked.

Record Good

"Your record is good as far as my district is concerned," the Inspector said. The constable received six commendations while in his district.

Inspector Cousans said he had never known Const. Keays to submit a false report and he had accepted the report of the shooting as accurate.

He said Sgt. Stringer's act in pursuing Miki was one of "the bravest" he had ever seen.

"You probably could have had the same opportunity," he said, pointing at the 44-year-old constable.

He said he had no complaints about Const. Keays service in his district "but I'm very disappointed in you today."

He said he took no action on the constable's investigation because he was so little impressed.

Const. Keays asked if Inspector Cousans had not frequently ordered him to assist in criminal investigations. Inspector Cousans replied they were on matters of a routine nature.

Admits Wound Self-Inflicted

TORONTO, Feb. 17 — (CP). — Arnold Covell, 23-year-old Toronto youth, who was allegedly shot in the leg and robbed of $12 early today, has informed police the bullet wound was accidentally self-inflicted, investigators reported.

The youth told police he wounded himself after taking a gun from one of two men fighting for his sister's affections.

He concocted the bogus holdup, he said, to keep his mother and sister out of the case.

Barrel Roll Saves Pilot Attacked By Passenger

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Feb. 17 —(AP)— Pilot Don Dorothy said today he was forced to battle for his life with a passenger Monday when his plane was 7,000 feet in the air over Alaska's mountains.

The passenger, Lorado Bello, 36, San Francisco Filipino, was taken in custody by the U. S. marshal when the plane landed. He was removed to Providence Hospital for observation.

Dorothy said he had no warning before he was struck a hard blow on the back of the head by Bello, the only other person in the Christensen Airlines plane.

Things happened fast, said Dorothy, giving this picture of the struggle:

He half-turned to fight off the attack, at the same time trying to keep the small, five-place plane in the air. His assailant was "not too big, but awfully wiry."

Once the passenger had Dorothy in a stranglehold and the pilot whipped the plane into a barrel roll to break the hold. Finally Dorothy snatched up a fire extinguisher and knocked Bello cold.

The fight lasted about 15 minutes. Dorothy sent word of the struggle ahead by radio and two men from the marshall's office met the plane.

Bad Storm Drives Vessel Aground, Five Men Drown

SYDNEY, NS, Feb. 17—(CP).—Capt. Abe Miles returned today to the section of craggy Cape Breton shore where his ship was wrecked yesterday to help search for the bodies of three of the five Newfoundlanders who perished in the grounding. A sudden storm drove the 144-ton schooner Marshal Frank onto the dreaded Mary Joseph shoals 22 miles south of here. Water poured through the holed hull and the ship was abandoned in 10 minutes.

Twenty-one seamen reached shore in five dories after rowing 12 miles through darkness, snow and sleet. But five others never made it.

The victims were Leo Blagdon and Conrad Blagdon of Boxey, Nfld., and John S. Glagdon of Coles Cove, Nfld. The bodies of Leo Blagdon and Green were recovered when the sea washed them up on the rocky coast.

Roach married his attractive wife eight years ago. They went to Canada after the war, but returned to England last year.

Clothes Burst Into Flames As Woman Attempts To Kindle Fire In Heater

Companion Returns From Shopping Trip To Find Room Filled With Smoke, Woman Badly Burned Dead On Couch

LINDSAY, Feb. 17—(Special).—Mrs. Mary Jane Waldon, 73, widow of John Waldon, was burned to death in her home here shortly before 11.30 a.m. today, when her clothes ignited as she attempted to start a stove fire. Mrs. Waldon was alone at the time and indications are she had tried to start a wood fire on a Quebec heater in the living room. As her clothes burst into flames she apparently fell back onto a couch. The couch was badly burned, and the wall of the room was afire when the fire department arrived.

Mrs. Addie Wickett, who lives with Mrs. Waldon, had gone downtown to shop at 10.30. When she arrived home shortly before 11.30 she found the doors locked and her knocks went unanswered. She hailed a passerby, Percy C. Silver, 33 St. Paul St., who forced the rear door.

They found the house filled with smoke, and called the fire department.

Woman Found Dead

Fire Chief Clifford Campbell said "When we arrived we found the couch smouldering, and fire burning in the wall. Mrs. Waldon was lying on the couch, badly burned and dead." It appears that only the return of Mrs. Wickett saved the house from destruction.

The two women occupy a two and a half storey house at 20 Queen St. Mrs. Waldon's husband died several years ago. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Tompkins, lives at 16 Queen St., and her sister, Mrs. Moncur, in Peterborough.

Chief Constable Arthur Webster who investigated said there was no fire in the heater, and he agrees with the theory advanced by the Fire Chief as to how the tragedy occurred. The coroner was called and an inquest is unlikely.

Given 2 Months In Road Death

Harley L. Overholt of Omemee on Wednesday was sentenced to two months in jail on a charge of dangerous driving. The jury found him not guilty on a charge of manslaughter but guilty on the lesser charge.

The indictment was caused by a motor accident on Christmas Eve involving a car driven by Overholt and a truck driven by Edwin Morrow of RR 8 Peterborough on Highway No. 7, about a mile and a half east of Fowler's Corners. Morrow died before he could be taken to the hospital.

Maximum sentence for dangerous driving is two years or $1,000 or both.

"While I do not know what evidence the jury considered in the matter on which they reached their verdict," said the Hon. Mr. Justice Smily, "I think I can properly take into account that your actions were not as culpable as they could have been in a situation of this kind."

"Something was said in the evidence about your having been

Boy 15 Dies, Trapped In Blazing House

ROUGE HILL, Feb. 17—Donald Lang, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lang, was burned to death late Wednesday afternoon when a fire swept through the Lang home at nearby Morgan's Park, Rouge Hill is about 20 miles west of Oshawa.

Mrs. Lang had left the house for a few minutes and looked up to see smoke pouring from the windows. She screamed for help, but the fire spread through the house so rapidly no attempt could be made to rescue her son. Two neighbours, Lloyd Cooper and James Gibson, tried to get inside, but were forced back by smoke and flames.

"The whole house seemed to go up in a burst of flames," Cooper said. "There was no hope of rescuing the boy."

Another neighbor, George Stonadge, drove to the nearest telephone, in a grocery store on No. 2 Highway about three-quarters of a mile from the Lang home, and called for help. Pickering Township Fire Department answered the call and managed to save two adjoining houses. Two trees were burned as flames spread out from the blazing building.

Mrs. Lang collapsed at the scene and was placed under a doctor's care. Her husband, Stanley, was away at work; and two other children were still at school. It has not yet been decided whether an inquest will be held.

Siam Declares Emergency State

BANGKOK, Feb. 17 (Reuters) —A state of emergency will be proclaimed in Siam within the next 24 hours "to combat the growing Communist menace in neighboring countries," Prime Minister Pibul Songkram announced today.

Songkram added that Siam has agreed to a British request to seal the Siam-Malayan frontier scene of an anti-Communist drive in the last few days.

The countries bordering Siam are Malaya, Indo-China and Burma. Though there is no common border with China, Chinese territory at one point comes within 100 miles of the Siamese frontier.

Clay Orders Spy Trial Secrecy Lifted

Waiter On Orient Express Sentenced To 20 Years Hard Labor

MUNICH, Feb. 17 (AP)—The United States army, partially lifting a heavy veil of secrecy from a spy trial, today publicly sentenced Frontisek Klecka, 31-year-old waiter on the Orient Express, to 20 years at hard labor.

The eight-man United States military commission, ordered by Gen. Lucius D. Clay to relax its secrecy, made known the name of the first defendant and invited the press to hear the verdict—but it did not reveal the specific charge against Klecka.

Neither would it disclose any details of the testimony taken in the last two days behind locked doors. The proceedings concern a Czechoslovak spy ring case.

The Orient Express is a famous train which threads its way through central Europe and the Balkans between France and Turkey.

Clay, American commander in Germany, last night began an investigation to see if such supersecrecy really was necessary to protect the security of the United States.

Today's order to reveal the names and verdict was given by Maj.-Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chief of staff of army ground forces in Europe. It was to him that Clay directed his request for full information on the trial's secrecy.

Only two of the five trials were to be conducted in secret.

The precautions of secrecy had been announced by Brig.-Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chief of staff of army ground forces in Europe. It was to him that Clay directed his request for full information on the trial's secrecy.

Only two of the five trials were to be conducted in secret.

The precautions of secrecy had been announced by Brig-Gen. John L. McKee, chairman of the military commission. He said army intelligence had asked for secrecy and that identification of witnesses, disclosure of the testimony or even announcement of the verdict might imperil American safety.

Clay, in ordering an investigation, said "I want those trials to be open unless completely convinced that secrecy is absolutely necessary for the protection of United States security or the safety of innocent individuals."

He explained that he was afraid unfriendly persons might seize upon the secrecy of the trial for propaganda purposes.

Report Federal Dept. Kidnaps Sick Indian

TORONTO, Feb. 17—(CP).—A Toronto paper today reported a dispute has arisen between the Roman Catholic Oblate Fathers at Moosonee, Ont., and officials of the Federal Health Department over treatment of sick Indians.

The paper, in a copyright story from Moosonee on James Bay, quotes Bishop Henri Belleau as declaring "bureaucrats" are depriving the Indians of their freedom of choice in hospital treatment.

The story quotes the Bishop as saying that last autumn an Indian girl of 20 suffering from tuberculosis was "spirited" from her home to a sanitarium at Windsor, nearly 1,000 miles away by rail, when she could easily have been treated at the mission hospital at Moosonee.

Israel Names Weizmann 1st President

Expect Ben-Gurion To Form Government For New Jewish State

JERUSALEM, Feb. 17 (AP)—Dr. Chaim Weizmann, 74-year-old Jewish elder statesman, takes office today as the first president of Israel.

He has been provisional head since last May of the first Jewish state in 2,000 years, after Israel proclaimed its independence as Britain gave up her 25-year mandate over Palestine.

Dr. Weizmann, a pro-Westerner and outspokenly anti-Russian, will be formally inaugurated with pomp and ceremony in the Jewish agency building near the old walled city. The old city is still held by Arab Legion forces as an aftermath of the fierce fighting that accompanied the birth pains of the new state.

The swearing in will take place before the 120-man assembly which last night chose Dr. Weizmann on the first ballot, after adopting a new constitution.

To Form Government

Dr. Weizmann is expected to designate David Ben - Gurion, prime minister of the provisional government, to form a new government. Ben-Gurion is the leader of the Mapai Labor party which holds 44 seats, the largest bloc, in the assembly.

Dr. Weizsmann received 83 votes to 15 for the only other candidate, Prof. Yosef Klausner, 73, a retired professor of Hebrew literature, when the assembly voted on a president. Klausner was the candidate of the Herut (Freedom) party, headed by Menachem Beigin, former leader of the extremist Irgun Zvai Leiumi.

An uproar arose when the Herut party nominated Klausner. The Herut spokesman who put Klausner's name before the assembly ended his speech with "we won't argue with collaborators."

This was followed immediately by cries of "Shame! Shame!" from members of the Mapam, a left-wing Labor group. They hurled insults at the Herut group, sitting directly behind them in the assembly.

The new constitution requires a majority of 61 votes for election of president on the first ballot. This was achieved by intense lobbying before the actual voting took place.

House Approves Motion For BNA Act Amendment

OTTAWA, Feb. 17—(CP).—By a count of 140 to 74, the Commons last night approved a motion to ask the United Kingdom Parliament to amend the British North America Act and complete the long-heralded entry of Newfoundland into Canadian confederation. The top-heavy vote crushed a last-ditch rally yesterday by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, to sidetrack the union question until the Dominion had consulted with the provinces on the required constitutional amendment.

While expressing his wholehearted approval of union itself, he objected to the procedural means by which the alliance was being effected and pin-pointed his party's feelings on the matter with these words:

"We do not want them coming in by the back door. We want them coming in the front door."

Before the Commons vote was taken, Prime Minister St. Laurent warned the Chamber that if the Government motion was defeated, there could be no union with Newfoundland on the terms approved last week.

Don't Like Procedure

Mr. Drew said his party disagreed with the procedure being used.

"We want to welcome Newfoundland into Canada under terms that will bring harmony and goodwill in the years to come," he said.

The very time when Canada should be least willing to "tamper" with the Constitution, he felt, was the time when he was extending her hand to the people of Newfoundland and saying "we welcome you and here is the sanctity of our constitution which we respect."

The Chamber had a responsibility to see that it did not "weaken" respect for the Constitution.

U.S. Soon To Outline Truman's Program

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 17—(AP)—The United States will be ready early next week to give the United Nations a broad general picture of President Truman's "bold new program" to aid backward areas.

This was disclosed today by an American delegation spokesman. He said Willard Thorp, assistant secretary of state, now is in Washington drafting a speech which will amplify the program from the economic and social council.

Informed quarters said no concrete program has yet taken shape. But Thorp definitely will give the council a "preliminary" outline of what Truman had in mind.

Decide June 29 Peterborough Grassland Day

Plans for the organization of the first Grassland Day in Central Ontario were laid by a group of its local promoters Wednesday night in the office of the Department of Agriculture.

Wednesday, March 9, was the date set for a general meeting at which committees will be appointed and other details arranged for the preparatory work that will then be undertaken. June 29 was tentatively proposed for this district demonstration of the agricultural and mechanical features of modern pasture practice and knowledge.

The meeting Wednesday night was mainly for the purpose of a general survey of a grassland program based on the experience of the three similar events which were held in Ontario last year.

Douglas Parks of the field husbandry department of the Kemptville Agricultural School provided helpful suggestions from the Grassland Day held on the school estate in 1948.

Incidentally, Mr. Parks said: "I wouldn't be greatly concerned about a big attendance. If you have 1,500 or 2,000 interested farmers your Grassland Day will be well worth while. It would be all right if you have up to 4,000 or 5,000, but 10,000 would be a problem on the average farm."

Those Attending

W. W. Dawson was chairman of this preliminary meeting, and those present were: Mr. Parks, Vern Campbell, Robt. McAdam, Clarence Mann, G. A. Gillespie, Cliff Curtis, Henry Batten, Melville Johnston, Ernie McWilliam, Art McIntyre, Fred McIndoo, Robert Armstrong, Wellington Sutton, Don Milburn and Harold Ball. Frank Paterson acted as secretary.

Three Grassland Days are being held this year, one each in western, central and eastern Ontario. Peterborough was allotted the event in the central section. Executive and financial assistance will be sought from county councils and crop improvement associations. The only decision arrived at Wednesday night was to proceed with the planning. That was the only purpose of the meeting, apart from receiving the practical advice of Mr. Parks.

Details of organization were left to March 9, and it is hoped that most of the counties of the central district will be represented.

Makes Suggestions

Mr. Parks said the grassland program should be both demonstrational and educational. The general purpose is to stimulate interest in the value of pasture as a primary crop with more exact information about land use and capability, crop production, seed mixtures, methods of seeding and harvesting, plant food, nurse crops, together with results in income dollars.

Ideal preparation would select contrasting fields at least three years in advance for the most impressive effects in presenting well managed and established pastures alongside typical poorly fed and mismanaged fields. That cannot be done this year. Peterborough is breaking ground for the district, and the lesson of comparison in plans and costs and returns will not be available to the extent that will be achieved

Oliver Criticizes Dropping Of Gov't Subsidies On Hogs

TORONTO, Feb. 17 — (CP) — The Ontario Legislature today enters its fourth day of a lively throne speech debate after having divided three times since formal opening ceremonies last Thursday.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver and A. A. MacLeod (LPP-Toronto Hellwoods) yesterday criticized government policy on farm markets, Hydro-Electric power development, conservation, housing and public health.

Mr. Oliver moved an amendment to the throne-speech reply to express the legislature's regret that the government had dropped hog subsidies without consulting the house; had failed to give assurance that the report of the Royal Commission on education would be tabled this year and had failed to implement the recommendations of the Royal Commission on forestry.

Subsidies on quality hogs, by the terms of legislation passed last year, should have been continued until March 31, Mr. Oliver said. The subsidies, granted in 1941 to compensate farmers for low prices on the British market, had been renewed each year.

He said the dropping-off of the British market in recent years had made subsidies necessary as a stabilizing influence.

He charged the recent Hydro-Electric power shortage in Ontario could have been averted if the government had carried out an agreement with Quebec for upper Ottawa river development immediately after being elected in 1943. Since that time the agreement had been altered but the terms were not made known. It was possible that Quebec now could demand half of the power developed.

Inspector Says

"During the time of Keays' service under you, have you any recollection of any occasion on which he submitted false reports?" Const. Keays asked.

"No, he did not," Inspector Cousens said.

Inspector Cousins said Const. Keays was in possession of the exhibits when he arrived at the scene of the Navan shooting.

Const. Keays asked if the reports he submitted on the shooting was incorect. The inspector replied that he accepted is at correct.

"Have you since found that it was not so?" the Constable asked. The Inspector replied "No."

Nothing Inaccurate

Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay interjected that the Inspector was not a witness to the shooting and could not hope to know whether the report was correct or not.

"In view of your subsequent investigations did you find any of my report inaccurate?" asked Const. Keays.

"No," replied the Inspector. "I don't think so."

Inspector Cousins said Sgt. Stringer told him about the never had the "courage or the guts" to come to him with his theories about the shooting.

Sgt. Stringer, a husky navy veteran and 22 years on the Provincial force, now is head of the Ottawa Provincial Police detachment. He won the King's Police Medal—highest gallantry award available to commonwealth policemen—after the shooting.

Sgt. Stringer testified yesterday he fired three shots and Miki fired two at him. He said he gave his empty cartridge cases to Const. Keays who arrived in the bush nearly an hour after the shooting.

The late Detective Thomas Stoneman of the Ottawa City Police was the first officer on the scene, Sgt. Stringer said, and introduced Const. Keays to him as a "perjurer in court and a liar out of court."

Lets Remark Stand

Despite Const. Keays' objections, Mr. JuJstice Keiller Mackay the royal commissioner, said he would let the remark stand as an indication that it was actually made, but not as an indication that it was true.

Sgt. Stringer said Detective Stoneman — killed in 1945 by a bandit in downtown Ottawa—made the statement after Sgt. Stringer objected to Const. Keays' shooting "and I congratulated him on the excellent way he had volunteered...pursued the assailant and exterminated him. I considered it one of the finest acts of bravery I had encountered for many years."

Constable Keays asked if Inspector Cousans was present when fingerprints of Miki were taken by Constable Ward Kennedy.

"I'm suggesting to you these prints were taken by Constable Kennedy and you were not there," Const. Keays said.

"I remember very plainly," the Inspector replied. "I was holding Miki's fingers for Constable Kennedy to take the prints."

Poor Memory

Sgt. J. A. Stringer of the Ontario Provincial Police said Keays either has forgotten the details of a 1940 shooting or has come before the commission to perjure himself.

Among Keays' allegations is the charge that Sgt. Stringer lied to a Coroner's Jury investigating the shooting of Constable Harold Dent and John Miki at Navan, 14 miles from Ottawa, in 1940.

Sgt. Stringer called Keays a "contemptible officer" and said he actions in the invesigation.

Looking directly at Const. Keays, Sgt. Stringer said: "...You took it upon yourself to assume full command.

"...You proceeded to turn the body over, go through the man's pockets and take the gun out of his hand. I went over and told you in no uncertain terms to stop it.

"I regarded you with absolute contempt and I showed it."

Cartridge Evidence

Const. Keays asked if Sgt. Stringer had told the inquest of giving empty cartridge cases to him (Keays) and reloading his gun during the pursuit of Miki.

"Perhaps I didn't," Sgt. Stringer replied. "I didn't know I was going to be attacked by a man like you. If I had, I'd have chased you out of the bush before you got in there."

Const. Keays said he did not believe Sgt. Stringer's story because one chamber of revolver used to kill Miki had more powder stains than the other and there was only one spent cartridge in the revolver when he took it from the sergeant.

Sgt. Stringer said there was an interval of at least 10 minutes between each shot and he reloaded after each one. That meant that only one chamber of the cylinder was used.

Const. Keays asked why he reloaded.

"I'll leave it to the Commission whether or not I was in any danger," Sgt. Stringer replied. 'Six bullets were better than five. I did not come here to apologize to you for my actions that day."

There was "not the slightest doubt" that he had fired three shots, Sgt. Stringer said.

He had made a full report of the shooting—including the number of shots fired—to the Deputy Commissioner of the Provincial, the sergeant said.

Tweed Loses Appeal On Liquor Vote

TORONTO, Feb 17 (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal Wednesday dismissed an appeal arising from a liquor plebiscite at the village of Tweed.

Citizens of the village near Belleville were reported by the Returning Officer as voting 495-333 for open sale last Aug. 25. Judge J. C. Anderson of the Hastings Country Court later confirmed in a recount the figures, which fall several votes short of the "three-fifths majority stipulated by the Liquor Licence Act of Ontario.

drinking," said the Justice, addressing the accused. "To what extent that affected your control of the motor car probably only you know; but when people drive cars after drinking they are taking a chance. Very drastic results often happen when people try to operate motor cars after taking drinks."

In sentencing the accused the Justice said he kept two things in mind one, that the sentence must serve as a deterrent to others who might commit a similar offence; two, that the sentence should be appropriate to the offence.

As Overholt had no previous record, had an excellent service record and "showed no indication of the criminal mind," the Justice limited the penalty to two months in jail.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw was conducting his first case in his new office involving an indictable offence. T. J. Carley, K.C., represented Overholt.

Bad Storm

has spent 35 years at sea said of the five who were lost: "They said they wanted to stay and die with the ship."

The survivors were taken to the Sailors' Institute at nearby North Sydney last night. All Newfoundlanders, they said they would be back on the Banks before long. "It's the only life we know," said one.

Capt. Miles, co-owner of the schooner with James Petit of Halifax, returned to Framboise Cove where the Marshall Frank now lies only 20 feet from shore. After she was abandoned the raging sea punched the schooner a quarter of a mile over the shoals.

The storm hit about nightfall when the men were still out in the dories fishing. When the Marshal Frank piled up, waves crashed over her deck and the men held on to anything they could grab.

Take A Chance

Capt. Miles said he felt at the time there was no hope of getting out alive. Even if the men got away in the boats, they could not try to land on the rugged coast at night and the little dories could capsize in the boiling seas at any moment. Then he said:

"I told the men I was going over the side because there was always a chance. Then they decided to follow.

"I had to lead the way and get soundings and then call the men to follow me.

"We rowed out to sea for six miles to wait for daybreak. The five dories were in line. We waited for the sixth dory but it never came.

"The men lost were the last five on the ship. They refused to come off.

"We kept singing and talking in the dories waiting for dawn. We never bothered with life belts. We were scared to move because of the big breakers."

After dawn broke the men rowed toward land. When the first dory got in close it turned over and the men had to swim for it. They helped the others through the surf as the dories piled in one after the other.

Recreation Site Issue In Cobourg Settled

COBOURG, Feb. 17—(ENS)—The site for a recreational centre was settled Wednesday night at a mass meeting in the Town Hall when the people indicated their choice of the Arlington lots. The Arlington lots were once the site of the Arlington Hotel and later became park property leading off King street. Last year the business and Professional Women's Club installed stone entrance gates in memory of those who died in the war and beyond the gates the park streiches to the beach of Lake Ontario.

For more than a year the Recreational Centre Committee has considered site after site only to find objections against locating the building in each chosen, with the view of airing the entire project to the public. Last night's public meeting was called, Mayor Joe Smith, chairman. It was a good-natured meeting in spite of the fact that the people were getting tired waiting for a site to be chosen and before the meeting was over. The audience realized the problems and hard work that the site and building committees had faced.

The recreational centre will run north and south and the entrance will be 116 feet from King St. The front part will be of red brick, the balance to be cement block. The roof will be steel with special cedar lapping in the ceiling to take care of moisture. Dimensions of the front extension part will be 80 feet wide by 24 feet deep and will accommodate ticket office, lounge and cafeteria, etc. The main part of the building will be 115 feet wide and 215 long with an ice surface of at least 180 by 80. Seating capacity will be 1,600 with standing room for at least 600 people more.

Cost of the building is estimated at $97,300 plus artificial ice, one figure for the latter being estimated at $35,000.

Ex-Mayor Jack Burnet explained that a syndicate of five citizens bought the Arlington lots, after the hotel was torn down, in order to safeguard it for future use for park purposes and that later it was turned over to the town for what it cost the syndicate. An outside group who wanted it for an amusement centre offered the syndicate $10,000 for the property, Mr. Burnet said.

The town has guaranteed $50,000 conditional upon a like amount being raised by private subscription. The subscription total to date is around $20,000, but Mayor Smith predicted that the donations would accelerate now that the people knew where the recreation centre was going to be.

Yesterday afternoon at a meeting attended by Mayor Smith, Reeve Dodge and representatives of various local groups, it was decide to hire Robert Cooper as recreational director for Cobourg. Mr. Cooper was the Rotary lifeguar here for the past three summers.

26,136 Books Circulated In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 17—(ENS)—In presenting the annual report of the Campbellford Public Library, the librarian, Miss L. Benor, said that the public library was the fortress of democracy and provided pleasurable and entertaining reading for the public and a reference division for information. She stated that the library was a temple of learning and a cultural centre of the community. "It is the treasure house of our literary heritage wherein the best of the culture and learning of all ages is available."

"We must offer bread," she said, "and not stones to feed the multitude. Today we face conditions of mind as to what is true and what is good. Consequently let our libraries feature the best of our heritage in philosophy, religion, education and social well-being. Let the citizen find on our shelves the best food for the mind. Only in this way will the library become a necessary agent in adult education and in citizenship."

"Our library,' 'Miss Benor said, "has tried in some small way to be a community centre. A second hobby craftsman show has been staged and has attracted wide attention, increasing the use of handicraft books. As a result Vancouver hobby show asked for exhibits from Campbellford and also the headquarters of the Department of Agriculture for our crafts to be shown in Toronto. An art class is also being held twice a month in the basement and plans are on foot for a bigger and better show."

She reported that the library had an active year, the total circulation being 26,136, a slight increase over 1947. Twenty four books per registered borrower and nine books per capita were circulated. There are, she continued, 847 adult and 288 juvenile borrowers on the register.

Miss Benor said that 42 non-residents paid fees amounting to $68.50. Collections amounted to $114.60 and 644 new books had been added at a cost of $1161.67. "There are 8,260 adult books and 3,426 juvenile books on the shelves, making a total of 11,686," she reported.

Why Consult The Provinces About Newfoundland?

Mr. Drew's urgent desire that the Provinces be consulted before the Dominion goes ahead with its plan to include Newfoundland in Canada seems to us to be without logic. Since 1867 five new provinces have been added to the original Confederation, and on each occasion it was the federal government which took full responsibility in that move. And indeed Section XI of the British North America Act specifically provides that this shall be so. Why, then, does Mr. Drew think that the constitution will be weakened if Newfoundland becomes our tenth province without the separate acquiescence of the provinces?

Provincial rights must be preserved, but this appears to be a matter in which the provinces, as such, have no voice. And it is senseless to pretend that every Canadian has two separate and irreconcilable political loyalties—one to his province and another to his country. As Canadians we elect one government to look after our local and provincial affairs, and another government to look after the affairs of the whole country; we most decidedly do not elect our provincial governments to hamstring our federal government in policies which affect us all.

It is true, in the strict sense, that the inclusion of a new province alters our constitution. It means that we must provide for more senators and members of Parliament, and that our laws must be extended to cover Newfoundland conditions. But is this an alteration which causes any real concern to the existing provinces? If so, why did they not protest in the five previous cases in which the same thing has been done?

* * *

If Mr. Drew has entered dominion politics to be champion for the provinces we think that he is putting the cart before the horse; as leader of a national party his concern is with national matters. He will certainly not strengthen himself by currying favour with the provincial governments. His attitude on the Newfoundland question, expressed after every important point had been agreed upon, is inexplicable except as a move to seek support in Quebec, where any appeal to provincial loyalty is eagerly approved. But as national strategy such a move is ineffective.

Is The Cost-Of-Living Index Truthful?

During the last several years we have been eyeing a thing called the Cost-of-Living Index with apprehension and awe. Last week we were dejected to see that it had risen to the peak of two months ago—159.6. The month before we were relieved that it had slipped a fraction. What is this thing on which we place hope and fear and perhaps trust? It is a figure, an abstraction, no more real than any other figure. It is based on a standard of 100. That standard is no more real than the gold standard. The figure 100 represents the average cost of living of an average Canadian family in an average town during the five years from 1935 to 1939.

The standard index of 100 was calculated in this way. Enquiries were made in more than 45,000 homes in the following twelve cities: Charlottetown, Halifax, St. John, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, London, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Vancouver. From these inquiries, 1,439 workingmen's homes were considered to be typical. In them a detailed count of their costs of maintenance was made, from October 1st, 1937, to September 3, 1938. The revenue of the 1,439 selected families varied considerably, but an average was established at about $1,500. It was found that these families spent annually on themselves $1,413.90. This sum was therefore chosen as the base and given the figure 100. That this whole thing is fictional is shown by the statistic that the average family which spent the $1,413.90 a year and has been labelled 100, had 4.6 persons in it. There is, of course, no family composed of four and three-fifths people.

The cost-of-living index may be based as accurately as statistics can be, but there are limitations to its truth, even apart from the fact that it is a fiction. The average family on which it is based is a city family, and a workingman's. What is true for it may not be true for a rural family. It may not be true for a family of only three, or for a family of twelve. It may not give proper indications where the income was $1,000 a year or is now $4,000. The fact that now the average family income is considerably higher than $1,500 on which the index is based may throw deductions from the statistics out of focus. The Index measures the changes occurring in the cost of living and not in the forms of life, and only the average changes in cities and towns across the country. It is apparent that, despite the index, and because of changes in the form of living, that in some families the cost has risen beyond that indicated by the Index, in others it has not risen as much.

These matters are discussed in an article of Jean-Marie Martin which appeared in the current issue of the Bulletin des Relations Industrielles, of Laval University. His final comment about the Cost-of-Living Index is that "the word itself indicates that it is here a question of an index, i.e., of the explanation of a tendency and not of a proof". The Index may not lie, but it cannot tell the whole truth.

Communities For The Aged

The Canadian Welfare Council is beginning a thorough study of modern techniques of caring for aged persons. At last the truth has dawned upon responsible people in Canada that large institutions, combining many of the most uncomfortable features of hospitals and poorhouses, are not the best places for old men and women who have no other homes. Too often our "old folks' homes" are understaffed, handicapped for money, and incapable of providing the degree of comfort which old people may fittingly expect; too often, also, healthy and responsible old people are forced to live with ailing and senile old people. We have a moral obligation to care for the old, as well as the sick, and merely to provide shelter and subsistence is not enough.

The modern opinion is that community living, with a reasonable amount of privacy, is what old people need; a barrack life is not congenial to them. Modern communities for the aged, therefore, usually consist of a central building in which administrative offices, public rooms, and single rooms for single people are provided, with settlements of small cottages around it, in which married old people, or sisters or brothers, may live in semi-privacy, with their own belongings about them. The dwellers in such communities take care of the gardens which are an important part of them.

This seems to be a humane and intelligent way of housing the aged. We are rather amused, however, by its resemblance to the old English system of communities of almshouses—a system which was derided not long ago as uneconomic and unsatisfactory. But we are learning that the cheapest way of doing things is not always the best, and it is obviously far better to have the aged poor living in happy communities, rather than in unhappy barracks, even if the latter do cost less. In old age privacy and a measure of independence are just as dear as they are in youth.

Formidable Russian Names

Russians of the present regime have a fondness for strong names. It is often a deliberate choice since, for example, many of the Russian leaders have taken names other than their family ones, after dedicating themselves to Communism. These names are probably as expressive of the Communist faith as the adopted names of nuns are of Christian piety. Stalin means steel. Molotov means hammer. Gromyko's is equally apt. It means thunder. One is tempted to wonder whether the names are characteristic of the men, or the men are striving to live up to their names.

A change in this sort of nomenclature may now be occurring, or else it is merely another Russian gesture of false appeasement in its present "peace offensive". The change is signified by the arrival of a new Russian delegate to UNESCO at Lake Success, New York. This gentleman's name is Vladimir Vassilievitch Skorobogaty. A hard name to pronounce but ever so intriguing to Americans in its meaning. Skorobogaty means "get rich quick".

A news item tells of a schoolteacher who died, leaving a million dollars. Teacher groups who are thinking of salary increases should do their best to secure a denial of this.

From The Critic's Notebook

DEEPER INTO THE FOREST by Roy Daniells is an outstanding book of verse. The sequence of thirteen sonnets with which it opens deals with a fey character called Anthony, who took possession of his imagination, Dr. Daniells says, as Hans Castorp did with his creator, Thomas Mann. These sonnets do not give up all their secrets in one reading. Yet there is no wilful obsurity here, but clever originality, and humour, pathos and depth of thought.

Also in sonnet form is the title poem:

"So they went 'deeper into the forest', said
Jacob Grimm,
And the child sat listening with all his ears,
While the angry queen passed. And in after years
The voice and the fall of the words came back to him (Though the fish and the faithful pervant were grown dim,
The aproned witch, the door that disappears,
The lovely maid weeping delicious tears,
And the youngest brother, with one bright-feathered limb)—
'Deeper into the forest'. There are oaks and beeches
And green high hollies. The multitudinous tree
Stands on the hill and clothes the valley, reaches
Over long lands, down to a roaring sea.
And the child moved onward, into the heart of the wood,
Unhindered, unresisted, unwithstood."

Which, better than any other single quotation perhaps, conveys the particular quality of Dr. Daniells' work.

The sonnet form predominates, but there are satirical verses, lyrics, and, in "Farewell to Winnipeg", a moving evocation of the spirit of Louis Riel which breathes life into history.

Even where Daniells uses traditional or classical symbols, as in the following quotation, he does not lean on the hackneyed phrase, but fuses the elements of time in his thought with modern idiom, as on page seventy:

"....Hymen with flame of gold
And saffron robe waits; radio augurs tell
Of woes; below on sands there moves the swell
Of restless Neptune and his waters cold."

Thus he helps us to see freshly what is eternal, as the good poet should.

THE STRENGTH OF THE HILLS by Robert Finch. In this collection of over one hundred short poems by the well known Toronto poet, Finch ranges from the witty epigram to a religious essay in poetic form. But mainly he is the master of the delightful and the telling image. Neither as deep nor as difficult as Daniells, Finch is nevertheless a master with his tools.

He seems to love words for their own sake, not only delighting in their sound and colour, but putting them subtly and delicately to work. If Daniells is descended from Donne, Finch at times seems very close to the graceful Elizabethan verse-makers, and the classical poets have influenced him in much the same way. Sometimes he is whimsical, but usually his taste makes a virtue of it as in "The Hole in the Day".

The perception and exactness of his visual images, and his preoccupation with this aspect of the art give the impression that Finch would be a painter were he not a poet.

These two poets are Canadian without being parochial, and the best of their work can take its place without apology with that of the important contemporary poets in England and the United States, a representative portion of whose work is reaching us through our libraries and bookstores.

THE publishers, McClelland and Stewart, present the two volumes reviewed above in a splendid new type of format suitable to their content. Designed by Paul Arthur, who is also responsible for the better than usual typography, they are bound in boards which carry fine Indian motifs in bright colours. With these Indian File books, something new has been added to publishing practice in this country. Congratulations are due to McClelland and Stewart for their innovation. Such books are a pleasure to see and to handle.

IN this reviewer's opinion, poetry holds the dubious distinction of being the branch of the arts most neglected by Canadians. The modern poet is accused of obscurity by people who will spend time and effort in order to understand and enjoy contemporary painting and music, which are not often "easy".

However, even in the atomic age, and in spite of the tenor of our society, the pipes of Pan have not been completely drowned out. Librarians tell us that poetry readers are a comparatively small, but faithful band, and that recently they have been more interested in what fellow Canadians have to say in verse. This strengthens our belief that our poets are saying it more effectively. Also, the writer-reader relationship works in reverse, and where there are good readers there are better writers.

The Canadian poets are tuning up. If there were no ears to hear them, perhaps even the birds would get discouraged. H.T.K.

Official Home

Although a Canadian Prime Minister may not have the obligation of the official entertaining which is expected of the Governor-General, there is a growing public opinion that the country ought to provide an official residence for the use of the First Minister in the government as has been the practice in England, where 10 Downing Street provides a combined home and office for the head of the administration. Canadian Prime Ministers have always provided their own homes and maintained them.

It is understood that in some of the other Dominions an official residence is provided for the Prime Ministers, and many Canadians are coming to the view that the status of Canada as a nation warrants a similar policy here.—Toronto Telegram.

Tricks That Type Plays

(MEDICAL ECONOMICS MAGAZINE)

TYPOGRAPHICAL errors, the plague of editors but the delight of newspaper readers, are no respecters of persons or professions.

In rich harvest of one of the classic examples is this from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "The physician felt the patient's purse and decided that there was no hope."

The Wichita Eagle reported a Kansas surgeon who was quitting active practice: "Dr. S——, one of our most eligible bachelors is retiring from practice. Hale and hearty at 65, the doctor says all he wants is a little peach and quiet."

The Little Rock (Ark.) Gazette was guilty of: "Dr. P—— returned from Baltimore yesterday and will take up his cuties at the hospital."

The renowned Drs. Mayo had plenty of cause to blush at the item in the Fairmount (N.D.) Sentinel, which stated: "Mr. and Mrs. R—— left Wednesday for Rochester, Minn., where Mrs. R—— expects to have a garter removed by the Mayo brothers."

Married bliss was the unintentional butt of an announcement in the Columbus (Ga.) Dispatch: "Recovered from a head injury and shock caused by coming in contact with a live wife, Mr. E—— left Mercy Hospital last Wednesday."

Hospital officials read with raised eyebrows the following statements in the local newspapers. The Albany (N.Y.) Journal said: "Many friends will be pleased to learn of the continued improvement of Mr. T—— at the Memorial Hospital. One of the nurses was discharged last week, and he gains each day."

The second, which appeared in the Franklin (Pa.) News-Herald, read in part: "The donation will be used to purchase new wenches for the hospital, as the old ones are in a dilapidated state."

Patients, also, have had their composure shaken. A routine item in the Morristown (N.D.) News declared: "Miss Dorothy N——, who was injured by a fall from a horse last week, is in St. Joseph's Hospital and is covered sufficiently to have her friends come to see her."

Similarly, the Norfolk (Va.) Virginian-Pilot carried this revealing story: "Miss R——, an attractive young health nurse, was involved in an accident while motoring in the Cumberlands yesterday. The area in which she was injured is spectacularly scenic."—Medical Economics Magazine.

The Sinfulness Of Ambition

(THE OTTAWA JOURNAL)

WHAT we like about the C.C.F. is its capacity for kidding itself, or at least for pretending that it is.

Mr. David Lewis, National Secretary of the C.C.F., unburdened himself of some of the most opulent spoofery the other night in an address in Carnegie Hall sponsored by the local C.C.F. Council.

"The C.C.F.'s quarrel with capitalism", he said, "is not that some people make a profit, but with the profit motive itself; the fact that the controlling motive is not the good of the country, but profit."

So out goes the profit motive as selfish, dastardly and unbecoming a gentleman and C.C.F.'er. The man who works by the sweat of his brow may do so to help the nation but not to buy his wife a coat or himself a pipe. The clever worker who has learned some special skill and cares to risk his savings by starting up a small business—he may do so in the name of Canada but not with any idea that if he succeeds he might send his boys to university and buy himself a comfortable home. The small factory owner who is giving employment to 35 workers may expand his plant and perhaps give work to 135 and incidentally increase the production of his country—but not if he nurses the feeling that by so doing he will increase his income to the point where he may be able to make a trip back to his native homeland or indulge in the small vanity of donating a new wing to the local hospital.

We wonder about the private thoughts of Mr. Lewis' supporters. Are they all of them bereft of profit motive, personal ambition, personal desire? Or is it that desire is right for the worker but not for the employer, right for the little man but not for big, right for the man who gets paid but not for the man who pays him?

Mr. David Lewis is doubtless himself a good man as acquainted as we with the Bible. But it seems to us he is mixing up its message. It shall profit a man nothing if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul. That no one disputes—and Mr. Lewis will surely not contend it is exclusively a C.C.F. principle. But the question is not so much whether a man profit but what he does with his profit. If Mr. Lewis wishes to bring to his political addresses a good degree of preaching against greed and selfishness no one will object. But to leap from there to the assertion that the profit motive is bad for the country is poor preaching, slovenly thinking and cockeyed economics.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place....And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.

And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven....But Peter, standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice, and said unto them, Ye men of Judaea, and all ye that dwell at Jerusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words....Ye men of Israel, hear these words; Jesus of Nazareth, a man aproved of God among you by miracles and wonders and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know: him, being delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain: whom God hath raised up, having loosed the pains of death: because it was not possible that he should be holden of it....

This Jesus let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ. (Acts 2: 1, 4, 5, 14, 22-24, 32, 36.)

Young Mr. Young

The House of Commons is quite right in treating very seriously the action of its newest C.C.F. member, Mr. Rodney Young of Vancouver Centre, in making a speech outside of the House in which he called his fellow-members "a bunch of crooks".

On the other hand the Canadian public would be quite wrong to conclude that Mr. Young is necessarily an unfit person to sit in Parliament. He is merely a person who is accustomed to the debating manners of a very different type of assembly, and has not had time to realize their unsuitability to the assembly he is now in....

In the Commons Mr. Young will find that he has to be more subtle—if he has it in him to be so. The fact that he tried to get away with the old "cap fits" retort does not suggest that his present capacity for wit is very great, but he may learn.

If he does not he will probably join the not unimportant group in the House which votes but takes no other part in the proceedings. Either that, or he will do his party a great deal of damage.—Saturday Night.

Sleep At Night

Dozing in the daytime may be a pleasant form of relaxation, but the boss is apt to object. Every worker needs an adequate amount of sleep to be alert on the job. Lack of sleep is often the cause of industrial accidents. You can't work all day and play all night.

Remember, health is earning power, and sleep combats fatigue.—Chatham News.

Commons Gives Second Reading To Statute Bill

OTTAWA, Feb. 17 (CP)—The House of Commons gave second reading to a general bill amending Canada's statutes to make them applicable to Newfoundland, Wednesday but bogged down in the committee stage on a discussion dealing with its effects on the freight-rate structure in the Maritimes.

In the opening stages, Veterans Minister Gregg said his department has been considering allowing veterans, settled under the Veterans Land Act, to sell some of their land to meet their indebtedness to the government. No decision has been reached.

Trade Minister Howe reiterated that a per-bushel payment on Western wheat will be made before seeding time and Agriculture Minister Gardiner estimated it would be 20 cents a bushel.

Transport Minister Chevrier said negotiations are under way to bring international aviation agreements relating to bases in Newfoundland into conformity with Canada's air policy after union of the two countries.

New Province?

The Senate discussed union and heard Senator W. A. Buchanan (L—Alberta) suggest that Russia's development in Siberia indicates this country may yet welcome her Northwest Territories as a new province. This was his answer to those who contend the Canada-Newfoundland union would mark the last addition of a new province.

Senator L. A. David (L—Quebec) said that as a former member of the Quebec Legislature and a one-time Quebec cabinet minister he could say there was no threat to the rights of the provinces in the proposed alliance.

Plan To Mark Scout Week At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Feb. 17—(ENS)—Under the auspices of the Canadian Council of Churches, February is Boys' and Girls' Sunday and this date is also the start of Boy Scout and Girl Guide Week, including Brownies and Cubs. The theme for the week is: "Preparing for Tomorrow—Today," and since all Guides and Brownies are expected to belong to some church and to attend its services regularly, the wearing of uniforms is imperative for either individuals or groups.

Tuesday, February 22, is Founders' Day and Thinking Day, and is the anniversary of the birthday of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of Scouting and Guiding, and also marks the birthday of Lady Baden-Powell, the World Chief Guide. On this day members of these organizations are invited to give special thought to promoting international friendship and particularly to the Fourth Guide Law: "A Guide is a friend to all, and a sister to every other Guide."

Thursday, February 24, has been chosen by the local Girl Guide Company and Brownie Pack as the date when they will present an interesting program at 7.30 p.m., in the Anglican parish hall, the Cubs also taking part. The Brownies will present a one-act play, "Peace Ceremonial," with every member taking part. The Wolf Cub Pack will sing, and make clear the highlights of their meetings, and brief talks on the aims of Scouting and Guiding will be given. Demonstrations by the Girl Guide Company will include knots, first aid, Guide law, making a camp bed, and finally a camp fire. Badges won by the girls will be presented, and parents and friends will receive personal invitations to show their interest by attending.

Sunday, February 27, is Guide and Scout Sunday, and the local groups will attend divine worship in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, in uniform, in the evening. Leaders in charge of the special program, and the church parade, include Mrs. G. MacKay, Guide Captain; Mrs. H. Perkin, Brownie leader; Mr. J. A. Thompson, and Lyle McMahon, Scouts and Wolf Pack.

IOOF Juniors Take Series Over Oshawa In Two Tilts

Triple Links captured the first round of the OHA Junior B semi-finals as they defeated Oshawa 6-3 at Civic Arena last night to win their best of three series in two straight—while 700 local fans cheered themselves hoarse.

The game was a thriller from start to finish, played on soft ice. There was some doubt at the start but away they went on a wet surface with the speed only youth can supply.

"Chum" Fryia with four goals, two in the final period, to clinch the victory, was the outstanding figure on the ice but not far behind came Jack Byers in the local net with an exhibition of goal-tending, particularly in the third, as nearly perfect as one could wish to see. Following Fryia's third goal in this session to make it 4-3, Byers' work proved a big factor as he stopped shots from point-blank range, less than 10 feet out, from Pankoski, Myles and Burnett, and came out to smother a dozen more in the nick of time as the visitors pressed hard.

Got the First

Oshawa opened the scoring near the half-way mark in the first as Towns fired a 25-footer from right wing on a pass from Trimm that glanced off J. Berwick's elbow to fool Byers by deflection. The Oddfellows, spurred by this fluke, came back with speed that bewildered their opponents till Fryia took a pass 20 feet out from Bill Berwick and slid an ice-cutter to the lower left corner, through a dozen legs, to tie it up.

Etcher put Oshawa one up four minutes later as Byers dove to stop Weddup and the latter passed to his mate who parked the disc into the unguarded cage, on a neat play. Play continued evenly as both teams gave their best for the balance of the first.

Triple Links tied it up early in the second as Truss and Pagett combined nicely with the former passing out to the latter near the blue line on the left side and Pagett skated in a little and drove a long hard one to the corner of the twine. With the score tied, the Motor City boys fought hard but could not penetrate the strong defence of Anderson and the Berwick brothers nor cope with the checking of Fryia, Birch, Wyatt, Truss, O'Heron, Floyd, Pagett and Crowley up front. They all worked like Trojans as Coach Archie Weir looked on with pride. Chum Fryia scored his second goal to put the Links one up in possibly the best effort of the night as he sailed down with John Berwick on a beautiful passing play, took the latter's perfect pass, let fly a bullet drive to the corner of the mesh on an angle from left wing 25 feet out and going at full speed.

Back in Hunt

Pankoski put Oshawa back in the game early in the third as the teams opened fast and the visitors pressed hard, hemming the Links in their own end for a few minutes. Welsh passed to his left wing partner on a fast play in front of the local net and the play clicked as players milled about. Tied again, a battle royal ensued as play switched from end to end with lightning speed despite slow ice and the crowd thrilled as both goalies pulled off some remarkable saves. Byers had the edge on his rival, though Claus was good, too. Following a quick change of players near the three-quarter mark, Truss, Whitnell and Fryia combined on a great rush to score No. 4 as the first two named relayed a pass to Fryia 12 feet in front of the net which the latter fairly flew to snare and flick into the lower right corner. It was a pretty goal — a game winner—on nice combination.

With 58 seconds to go, Oshawa took Claus from the nets in a vain effort to tie the score using six forwards, but Coach Weir sent out Anderson, Fryia, Bill Berwick, Truss and Pagett to hold the fort. Chum Fryia snared the puck at his own blue line seconds later and shot a long one into the open net after outskating his rivals past center.

A few seconds later Pagett scored his second goal of the night with Claus back in as Fryia passed to him on right wing and he lifted a hard one past the Oshawa goalie from close range. Triple Links as a team looked good with every man doing his best in a well deserved victory. For Oshawa—who tried hard all the way, Pankoski, Welsh, Etcher, Weddup, Myles, Towns and Trimm looked good in defeat.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

The team to beat in the 1949 Big Four season will be the Montreal Alouettes, Jimmy McCaffrey, manager of the Ottawa Rough Riders, predicted at Ottawa Wednesday.

A bit chagrined but not the least worried, McCaffrey admitted readily Ottawa wanted flinging Frankie Filchock, Hamilton Tigers' playing-coach who signed up with Lew Hayman's Alouettes for a two-year term.

Now that they've got Filchock, the Alouettes—who were "good" last year—will be the big gun in the 1949 season, McCaffrey said. He would make no predictions for his own Rough Riders—1948 Eastern Canada champions.

"We had negotiations with Filchock to quarterback the Riders this year, but I don't know. . . . negotiations fell through. Guess it was just a matter of terms."

Russ Barko of Hamilton decisioned Hec Charrette of Windsor, in a five-round main bout of an amateur boxing show at Hamilton. The fight was a rematch in which Charrette sought to avenge a defeat he suffered at the hands of Barko here two weeks ago.

Charrette weighed 157 pounds, Barko 154.

In the semi-final, Gordon Wallace of Brantford, Ont., 168 pounds won a five-round decision over Pete Koloski, 159 pounds, Toronto.

From now on, it's the continental style for Betty Mitchell, Canada's lone entry in the World Amateur Speed-skating Championships last week-end.

The Winnipeg stenographer placed 12th out of 20 competitors in the tournament at Kongsberg, Norway. Marie Isakova of Russia won the title.

Betty said at London Wednesday she feels that "if there's another opportunity," she will do better when she develops the skating technique used by the Russians, Norwegians and Finns.

The fourth test cricket match between England and South Africa ended in a draw at Johannesburg Wednesday.

It was the third draw in a row in the series. England's touring Marylebone Cricket Club won the first match. One match remains to be played.

South Africa, left to get 376 runs in their second innings to win, had scored 194 for four wickets when play ended. England declared their second innings closed at 253 for seven wickets.

In the first innings the visitors scored 379 and the home team replied with 257 for nine declared.

At Washington, the Justice Department spiked rumors that the Government will intervene in the $300,000 damage suit Danny Gardella is pressing against organized baseball because of the so-called reserve clause.

Gardella, former New York Giants outfielder, is suing for damages on grounds that organized baseball took away his livelihood by invoking the reserve clause's five-year ban against his playing because he jumped to the Mexican League three years ago.

Hebert A. Bergson, Assistant Attorney-General in charge of the anti-trust division, said there is no government intention to interfere.

Dick Button, of Englewood, N. J., gave a remarkable display of rhythm at Paris Wednesday to take a long lead in defence of his World Men's Figure Skating championship.

The 19-year-old wizard of the flashing blades, holder of both the Olympic and World titles, amassed 638.1 points in skating six compulsory figures to move far in front of the 13-man field. The scoring was unofficial.

The second phase of the competition—free skating, which is Button's specialty—is being held today.

No men's basketball scheduled here this week-end. The group champion Marines "B" cagers meet the winners of Lake Huron-Simcoe district on Feb. 26, probably provincial semi-finals. Marines "A" go to St. Catharines this week-end to tackle Hayes Hellcats of the Niagara area. Al Clark's crew hit into semi-finals on March 12 against the winner of Toronto and the Niagara district. Two girls' games tomorrow eve in the YW: Normals vs. Lockeys, and CGE vs. Collis. Following night at the Collegiate, Bond's belles play Neill's, followed by an exhibition betwixt the Belleville lasses and Towne Togs. Lindsay seniors, juniors and bantams play PCVS boys here Friday p.m. as Port Hope junior "B" lads perform here, too.

* * * * * *

Coach Albert Watkins' local Marines bantams, after winning the first two rounds of their OMHA playdowns, go into provincial "B" semi-finals next week. Don't know the opposition as yet. It's the only Peterborough club left in OMHA competition. Meantime, if there's ice at Civic Arena tonight, Trojans tackle northend bantams, Jaycees have a midget melee with St. Peter's, while northend juveniles go against St. Peter's. This PMHA triple-header is due to commence at seven chimes.

Squeak Is Ace Referee

Bun Morganson writes of Bill Morrison, well-known arbiter in these parts: "Billy Morrison is rated as top referee in the OHA senior and junior A series. He was voted first place by the junior A managers for the playoffs. He hails from Oshawa where he played from midget to senior ranks. Known as Squeak to his pals, Morrison is a successful Oshawa businessman. He has turned down several offers to work in the AHL but President Clarence Campbell of the NHL is reported to have made an attractive offer for the Oshawa official to work in the big time next winter."

* * * * * *

Talking to some of the Petes and Legionnaires lately—the players, not the officials—and they agree that hard feelings are being carried too far between the clubs on the ice. Players are getting hurt through rough tactics and that's not good with playoffs coming up within a week or so. The several from each side we spoke with intend to play hockey and forget the feuding, letting the odd loose party on either team take the penalties and thereby make his buddies work overtime till his return from the penance pew. Sound reasoning. These teams tangle tomorrow night here in a postponed game, Meteors meet the Petes at Civic on Monday and then there's but one more Legion-Petes' postponement to work in before group semi-finals start.

IOOF-ers Come Through

Congrats to the junior "B" Oddfellows. Last night they swept Oshawa into the discard on a 6-3 whisk to go into their OHA group finals against Toronto. Haven't heard where or when yet. Some 700 fans saw a thriller on soft ice, with the battling IOOF-ers having the punch to pull out a decided victory to make it two straight against stiff opposition. A clean, speedy scrap with Chum Fryia sparking the attack with four goals, no less, and an assist. Truss also turned in a good game, but the whole team went okay. Jack Byers is hitting his stride now between the pipes, turning in another stellar performance last e'en for Archie Weir's bunch. Following a slow start this semester, the Triple Links are hitting top form at money time. Good stuff.

After beating Hi Lee here last eve in the main pro mat bout at the Brock—using a "quarterback sneak" under the ring—handsome Mike Sharpe is looking for a crack at Whipper Watson. But he'll have to meet either Fred Atkins or Earl McCready first, as they're now main challengers for the British Empire wrestling title. Hi and Mike staged a swell scrap, though there were more punches thrown than in many a prize fight—and this was supposed to be wrestling. Both were big and young (Hi is 24 and Mike a year older) and they could bounce back fast after a roughing. Ah, youth! Ben Morgan and Abe Yourist went to a semi-final draw, and Bill Stack won the prelim from Mike Mahalakis. A good show.

Records Broken At YMCA Races

Two track records were broken at the second annual mile tournament held at the YMCA on Tuesday evening. In the one-mile run for the Cherney Trophy Jack Brown regained his 1948 title as club indoor mile champion and set a new track record of 5 minutes 19.4 seconds, with the former record at 5 minutes 25.2 seconds. The runners were paired together and Brown was with J. Martin. Brown took the lead from the start and was never headed by Martin who seemed to be having trouble with his stride and pace. Brown ran well and showed better running than in previous races.

W. A. Thistlewaite, second, was paired with McNeil. He ran exceptionally fast at the start but seemed to slow down after the half-mile. This cost him time, but with less than a quarter-mile to go he speeded up and finished in 5 minutes 21.4 seconds, just 2 seconds slower than Brown.

In the 1,000-yard run J. Martin, who failed to place in the mile run, turned the tables and took first place and shattered the track record which was held by Jack McGillis. Martin was forced to run alone due to the fact that an odd number of men had entered the race. He started at a fast pace and held this until the quarter-mile mark; he was timed at 79 seconds, then he broke into his stride and covered the last nine laps in 87 seconds. This was the fastest ever timed for 1,000 yards on the YMCA track. J. Flowers and D. McNeil took second and third places after Thistlewaite and Brown failed to finish after a bad fall, caused the officials to advise them not to run the race.

The next harriers event will be held on Friday, March 4. This is the annual athletic night at which the indoor prizes are presented, as well as displays of athletic skills being carried out.

HALF OF STABLE—Max Bentley, Toronto Maple Leaf forward who has won two race horses for scoring goals against the Detroit Red Wings, is shown here claiming half of his stable. The donor of this horse is Charlie Hemstead, Toronto breeder, who promised the animal if Max scored last Saturday against the Wings. Max, who donned a 10-gallon hat for the occasion, selected Four-Bo from 14 others because "the name was the nearest I could get to tying in those four goals I scored last weekend." The other race horse will be presented to Bentley by George McCullagh, Toronto publisher, for scoring against the Wings in an earlier game.

Mike Sharpe Flattens Lee In Main Pro Grapple Bout

Mike Sharpe, 245-pound mat Adonis from Hamilton, disposed of huge Hi Lee, 297, of Texas, in the main grapple bout at the Brock Arena last night. A big crowd cheered wildly as Mike pulled a "quarterback sneak," going under the ring—after being thrown out—and nailing the villainous Lee from behind for the deciding fall. Hi had been putting the boots to Sharpe and in general giving him a rough going-over, culminating in flips out of the ring when Mike fooled him. They mixed after the bell.

That final fall was in 12 minutes to win the second one. He climbed back into the ring in time to beat the count after they both mixed roughly outside the ropes for the third time. The rumbling Texan, an ex-pug, used his fists frequently to get out of tough spots, and he roughed it plenty, despite warnings from Referee Bert Maxwell, but Mike got in some hard stuff, too. He once tied Hi up in a corner and tackled him several times as the fans cheered. Lee used his great strength to advantage and got away with a lot of kneeing and fisticuffing all through to the disapproval of the customers.

Lee took but nine and half minutes to win the first fall with a terrific crotch hold and body slam after ramming Mike's head into the turnbuckles several times with a full nelson. He clubbed his cleaner opponent frequently and battered him around, even using the ropes for leverage at the last. Mike, who was popular from the first, started off strongly with headlocks and speedy maneuvering, but his powerful foe pulled hair and cashed in on his weight advantage to rough it up in a real lively go. The fall was not popular.

Big Ben Morgan, scaling 312 pounds, and 234-pound Abe Yourist battled to a 30-minute draw in a fine prelim. The crowd pulled for balding Abe, who looked and acted like an oldtimer but who also used modern rough tactics in the pinches. They were both tired out but fighting furiously at the final gong, and it was an exciting scrap for two big men. Fists were used by both, as well as flying tackles, elbows and rope holds. Yourist in retaliation once hung up his bearded rival in the hemp and tackled him hard to the applause of the gathering. Ben's beard cushioned elbow smashes but he took plenty as well as handing out a lot in a rousing tussle.

Prince Loses

Bill Stack, weighing 228, won the prelim in 24 minutes from 224-pound Mike (Prince) Mahalakis, when the latter was disqualified for kneeing Bill on the throat after being warned. They both looked good in this bout with some smart mat work but Mike roughed it up later and kept up an audible but garbled chatter—talking a good scrap—with the fans yelling for Stack. The Bowmanville husky responded with some heated action to draw applause but the Greek drew on a vast store of roguish mat experience to keep Stack in trouble and, finally, after several warnings from Referee Maxwell, Mike was disqualified to the delight of the cash customers.

Rangers Blank Red Wings As Chicago Smites Bruins

By BERT ALLEN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Whether it was the nome-ice atmosphere or the lure of playoff gold, New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks rose up from their low-place spots last night to smite the two top clubs in the National Hockey League.

And both looked like hot stuff in victory. Rangers, behind the superb goal-tending of Chuck Rayner, blanked the league-leading Detroit Red Wings 4-0, and the Black Hawks, with their one-two punch of Doug Bentley and Roy Conacher setting the pace, knocked off the second-spot Boston Bruins 5-1.

The upset triumphs threw the torrid battle for the fourth and last playoff spot wide open. Chicago moved into a tie for fourth with Montreal Canadiens. Each team has 43 points, three more than New York who bring up the rear.

Seventh Shutout

Rayner, in chalking up his seventh shutout, gave the 12,201 fans in Madison Square Garden a great display of puck-stopping. The Ranger goalie kicked them out from all angles, blocking 42 shots compared to the 23 drives Harry Lumley had to stop at the other end.

Alex Kaleta, Buddy O'Connor, Edgar Laprade and Nick Mickoski were the Ranger marksmen.

A crowd of 15,681 Chicago fans turned out to watch the Hawks play one of their best games on home ice this season.

Doug Bentley regained the scoring leadership by collecting one goal and making the plays for two others. Linemate Roy Conacher racked up two assists and now trails 58 to 57 in points.

Mosienko, third member of the League's highest scoring trio, potted two goals to lead the marksmen, while Bentley, Bep Guidolin and Jimmy Conacher garnered the others.

Veteran Jack Crawford scored Boston's lone counter on a solo effort.

Montreal Canadiens get a chance to break their fourth-place deadlock with Chicago when they take on the revived Toronto Maple Leafs in Montreal tonight.

Bill Ezinicki Signs Golf Pro Contract

TORONTO, Feb. 17—(CP)—Wild Bill Ezinicki has realized one of his fondest dreams—and it has nothing to do with hockey.

The Maple Leaf right-winger yesterday signed a contract as golf pro at Toronto's New Uplands Golf and Country Club. The course, closed since 1942, is being reopened this spring and Ezinicki is highly pleased at landing the job.

"This is the job I've been working at golf for," he said.

The National Hockey League star has made a name for himself in the golf world in recent years. Two years ago he reached the Canadian amateur finals, only to be beaten by Frank Stranahan and last summer he turned pro and played in several United States tournaments.

25,000 Involved In Mauling At Stadium Where Wolves Tied

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 17—(CP).—Anything can happen in a world hockey tournament—sticky ice, fist fights, committee-room squabbles and disagreement over rules. But the current 1949 world championship tops them all. Here not even the spectators are exempt. Last night 14 persons were injured—none severely—when a hockey-mad crowd crashed the gates of Stockholm's big Olympic Stadium to watch Canada and Sweden battle to a bitter 2-2 tie.

The draw was a setback to the Canadian hopes of retaining the world crown, won a year ago by RCAF Flyers. It means that Sudbury Wolves, the Dominion representatives, must win their three remaining games to retain an outside chance in the six-country round-robin finals.

Unbeaten Czechoslovakia and Sweden each have three games left while the Wolves have only one point in the tournament to four points for Czechoslovakia, three for Sweden, and two for Switzerland. The Canadians play once-beaten United States tonight, Austria Friday and Switzerland Sunday.

25,000 Push, Trample

An estimated crowd of 25,000 pushed and mauled one another for a view of the Canadians, who were billed in the Swedish press as "dangerous men." The result was a virtual stampede outside the stadium with fences and gates trampled in the rush.

First reports said the scramble started when the crowd tried to stop the Wolves—criticized in Stockholm newspapers for poor sportsmanship—from entering the rink to play the Swedes.

But this was denied by Max Silverman, manager of the Wolves, and police captain Carl Holmberg. Silverman said the demonstration looked to him as if it had been exaggerated. "There was no riot," he said, "or at least if there was any rioting I didn't see it." (The Toronto Globe and Mail quoted Silverman in a telephone interview from Stockholm as saying: "They (the crowd) certainly weren't after us. The trouble was that about 30,000 fans wanted to get into a rink that will hold only abou 14,000. They tore down iron fences to get in and we got caught in the middle of the traffic jam. ("They don't want Canada to win and they're trying to beat us. There's too much politics. We might as well ge through with it now and finish the tournament.

But it would be very foolish to send another Canadian team over under the present circumstances.")

Homberg said the stadium was packed long before game time and 25,000 fans still were outside, pressing against an iron fence. The fence broke along a 35-yard stretch. In the ensuing panic, 14 were hurt and hundreds had their clothing torn.

Rush Police

Normally the stadium seats at least 20,000 but partitions were erected around the ice, leaving seating space for only about 11,000. Most of the huge crowd outside were good-natured and tried to hold back when they saw people being crushed against the fence. gatekeepers estimated 1,000 forced their way into the stadium without tickets although other estimates placed the figure at more than 4,000.

When the panic began, only 28 police—two of them mounted—were on hand to control the overflow. Police then rushed foot, mounted and motor reinforcements to restore order. Mounted police had to force a passage through the crowds for ambulances to take away the injured.

Inside the stadium thousands of fans got a look at the Canadians. But they probably were disappointed that the Transatlantic visitors did not get penalized as severely as they did in the disputed loss to Czechoslovakia.

(Dispatches said the Canadians were given seven penalties compared with one for Sweden. But Silverman was quoted in his telephone interview with the Globe and Mail as saying the Canadians were awarded 14 penalties. "A lot of them were double penalties," he said, "and we do not know what they are for."

(It was not clear what Silverman meant by "double penalties.")

Played Good Game

Despite the manpower differential against the Swedes, the Canadians played one of the best games of the tournament and, Silverman said, they might have won if an unidentified Swedish spectator had not interfered with a Canadian player.

Canada led 2-1 midway through the third period when centre Joe diBastiani of Cobalt, was benched for elbowing and Herb Kewley, 22-year-old defenceman from Toronto, drew his second penalty of the game moments later.

Sweden put on a power play. As the partisan crowd rose to its feet one fan leaned over the boards and held Joe Ergesen's stick. The interference with the Gimli, Man., defenceman went unnoticed in the wild cheering which followed the tying goal by Sweden's Ake Andersson, Silverman said.

The Canadian manager said he would not protest the game, but he complained: "It is hard enough to play the teams without playing the spectators, too."

AS CHAMPIONSHIPS DECIDED — This is the speed skating track at Saskatoon, where the Canadian championships were decided last week-end. The course, six laps to the mile, is believed to be the largest in Canada. This photo was taken as Gene Sanvig, one of two US skaters at the meet, finished well out in front in the intermediate 400-metre event.

Bengals Edge Dutchmen 3-2 In Overtime

By The Canadian Press.

Don't sell the Hamilton Tigers short.

Last night the Bengals showed they are still in the playoff picture by defeating the potent Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 3-2 in overtime play.

The win left both teams deadlocked 1-1 in their best-of-seven esmi-final series games in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A loop.

In three Junior A games last night, lanky Harold Kewley sniped three goals and paced his Guelph Biltmores to a 11-4 victory over the league-leading Windsor Spitfires. The win gave the Biltmores sole possession of sixth and last playoff spot in the league race.

The second-place Barrie Flyers defeated the fourth-place Stratford Kroehlers 4-2 and the third - place Oshawa Generals downed the lowly Toronto St. Michael's College Majors 6-5 in other junior games.

Clinch Game

The Tigers clinched their game when Clare Shillington counted before the overtime session was three minutes old. The game, the roughest seen in Hamilton in years, brought 19 penalties, including one to Hamilton coach, George Redding.

Redding was banished from the bench in the third period for grabbing Referee Percy Allen after Allen had handed Polly Miocinovich his second penalty of the period.

Dick Behling and Art Hurst were first-period scorers for Kitchener with Bobby Laurent counting one for the Bengals. Robinson got the other Hamilton goal.

At Guelph, Kewley got all his goals in the first period as the Biltmores drove in a 5-1 lead. Guelph added two more in the second frame and four more in the third. Windsor got one in the second and two in the third.

Tommy Mouncey also got three goals for the Biltmores, while Lorne Ferguson got two and Bob Palmer, Don Bellringer, and Lenny Speck notched one apiece. Glen Skov, brothers Bert and Bruce Giesebrecht and Doug McGinn tallied for the Spitfires.

Marmora Forms Fire Brigade

MARMORA, Feb. 17 (ENS). — Initial steps towards organizing a volunteer fire brigade were taken at a public meeting held in the Council Chamber Wednesday under the chairmanship of Reeve V. M. Lynch. Because other meetings were held on same evening ther was only a small attendance. The Reeve described the present fire equipmnt. A list of residents fitted for the various departments of a fire brigade was drawn up, but final selection has not yet been made.

Pla-Mors Win 2-1

By The Associated Press.

If Kansas City Pla-More have any hopes of overtaking St. Paul Saints in the United States Hockey League race they haven't any better example than their own little Larry Silvestri. Flat on his back on the ice last night, Silvestri drove in the winning goal as the Pla-Mors won from Tulsa 2-1.

Providence Reds Swamp Lions

By The Canadian Press.

While four teams in the Western Division of the American Hockey League are battling for first position, Providence Reds last night mathematically clinched the Eastern Division championship by snowing under the lowly Washington Lions 12-4.

It is the second consecutive year in which the Providence club has won league honors. Last year, the Reds finished out in front with a 17-point margin over second-place New Haven. With five weeks still remaining this year, Providence has a 22-point lead over Hershey Bears. It is the biggest margin any team has held in league history.

In other games, Indianapolis Capitals defeated Cleveland Barons 6-3, Buffalo Bisons gained a 6-2 victory over St. Louis Flyers, and the Philadelphia Rockets upset Hershey Bears 6-5.

Robbed By Bandits

SIMCOE, Feb. 17—(CP)—Lured from his bed by a ruse, George Theiss of Houghton Township was robbed of $172 Tuesday by two armed bandits. Police said they were notified for the first time Wednesday by a neighbor of Theiss'.

Frankford Gets TVL Win Over Norwood

NORWOOD, Feb. 17—(ENS)—With Goalie Davis turning in a fine effort for the visitors in the net, Frankford pulled out a 4-1 victory over Norwood Combines here last night to wind up their TVL schedule. It was a speedy, fairly clean contest on soft ice, with the victors tallying twice each in the first two frames without a reply. McKee, Schmidt and Hood paced their attack. Hamilton of Norwood served five penalties. Teams:

Otonabee Memorial Rink Will Be Built At Keene

KEENE, Feb. 17—A large and enthusiastic meeting was held in the Keene Town Hall Friday evening to discuss the possibilities of building a rink for entertainment and recreation for both young and old in Otonabee.

Many ideas were put forth and other structures were explained by Arnold Nelson who with some other interested men had been looking over the district rinks during the past few weeks.

It was planned to put up a building with aluminum roof having an ice surface of 170 x 70 and a curling rink at each side. Canvassing for donations will commence in the very near future and it is expected that enough funds and material will be secured through donations and grants.

A five man committee was elected: Char. Nelson, president; Mervin Mather, publicity; Dave McNevan, finance; Robert Keitel, building, and James McCarthy, secretary treasurer.

Built in Village

The rink will be built in Keene village and the general feeling was to build it just east of the ball field on the old fair grounds.

There has been considerable discussion during the past couple of years in favor of this project and considerable groundwork has been laid as a result. The final impetus was given by the gradual return of curling which came to an abrupt halt when the former rink collapsed some ten years ago.

The Keene Curling Club had been a curling power in the Central Ontario District for years up to that time. It was first affiliated with the Ontario body in 1852 and except for the Fergus Club is probably the oldest Curling Club in Canada. It was noted with pleasure that the general meeting was made up of many former curlers who will be back again at the game they enjoyed and played so well.

Canvass Planned

The rink committee met with and district canvassers in the council chamber on Monday evening and went over the canvassing situation in general.

The following is a list of zones and canvassers:

Zone 1—Cons. 1 and 2 and Asphodel Boundary—John Wool and Tom Hope.

Zone 2—Cons. 3, 4 and 5—Harry Reid and Arnold Nelson.

Zone 3—Cons. 6 and 7—North of base line—Harold Weir and Wm. Hope.

Zone 4—Cons. 6 and 7—Rice Lake to base line—Lloyd Wismer, Dave Kempt, Tom Gall and Allan Eason.

Zone 5—Concessions 8, 9, 10 and 11—Base line north — Wm. Chapman.

Zone 6—West of Cons. 7—Rice Lake to base line—Walter McFarlane, Harry McIntyre.

Peterborough City—Fred Nelson, zone captain. More to be appointed.

The objective was set at $15,000, and the canvassers are ready to go. Results will be published from time to time. Application has been made to the District Inspector of Income Tax to have all donations exempt from Income Tax.

RCAF Flying Food For 60 Swans On Ice-Bound Lake

News that the RCAF was adding another chapter to its long record of mercy flights — this time to save Canada's rarest migatory birds from possible extinction—brought praise from Donald Cleghorn, associate in zoology at the Redpath Museum, McGill, Montreal.

The birds, whose lives are at stake due to the severe winter conditions in Western Canada and on the coast, are some 60 to 70 trumpeter swans which winter at Lonesome Bay, some 200 air miles north of Vancouver. The RCAF is flying in bags of barley and dropping them by parachute at the edge of the lake.

Flock of Ten Grows

The McGill ornithologist saw the swans in March 1945, when he was on the gruelling "Exercise Polar Bear." There were only about 10 birds in the flock then, but due to the diligent care given them by Game Inspector Edwards of the Province of British Columbia, the flock has now grown to some 60 or 70.

"The trumpeter swan," Mr. Cleghorn commented, is a truly beautiful bird, rivalling in size and sometimes even larger than the whooping crane, which is even rare. The birds range up to 30 pounds in weight and with their necks outstretched they stand nearly four feet high.

"The Province of British Columbia performed a great service in protecting these birds which were on the point of extinction. They once existed in flocks of thousands but even very numerous birds, such as the famous passenger pigeon, can become extinct if protection is not given at a critical moment."

The Redpath Museum, which is now being re-arranged in order to modernize its teaching exhibits has nine beautiful stuffed passenger pigeons, an example of the nearly extinct whooping crane, and some whistling swans, the same genus as the trumpeter swan but smaller.

Trumpeter swans photographed at Lonesome Lake, B.C., during a visit by Donald Cleghorn, McGill ornithologist, in 1945.

APSLEY, Feb. 17 — (ENS) — Women's Institute February meeting was held at Mrs. C. Smith's home and took the form of a Valentine party. There were 19 members present and several were accompanied by their husbands.

One minute's silence was observed in remembrance of Mrs. Joseph Tucker, a member who died recently.

The meeting was attended by Mr. and Mrs. W. Earnshaw, who celebrated the 51st anniversary of their wedding on February 8.

A committee composed of Mrs. F. Tanner, convener; Mrs. W. Tucker, Mrs. H. McColl and Miss A. Chase, presented a humorous dialogue which was followed by a contest.

The last item was a "Backward Quartette," followed by lunch.

It was decided to purchase a number of Institute blotters to be distributed in schools and homes. Plans were made for a euchre party on Friday in Westwood Hall.

A talk on the motto for the month was given by Mrs. A. Wood and current events of interest were read by Mrs. W. Morris.

A demonstration of rug making was given by Mrs. Hilliard Neilson and many articles of fancy work and fine needlework were displayed by the members.

Mission Circle Presents Play

MILLBROOK, Feb. 17 (ENS)—Golden Links Mission Circle met on Tuesday with Mrs. G. E. and Miss Jean Burnham as joint hostesses and Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, president, in the chair. Mrs. G. C. R. McQuade conducted a worship service, assisted by Mrs. B. E. Ingham. There was an attendance of 30.

The leader read a letter from Miss Constance Wagar, Peterborough, congratulating the circle for entering the winning poster in the Presbyterial contest. Mrs. Lawrence Winslow gave the temperance message.

Welcomed as prospective members were Mrs. J. A. Thompson, Mrs. E. Hindle, Mrs. C. Sanderson, Mrs. Clarence Ball and Mrs. Gordon Might. A letter from Miss Nita Saddler, missionary worker in Winnipeg, and one of the circle prayer partners, was read by Mrs. Ingham. As this is Miss Sadler's furlough year, the members hope to meet her in the summer.

The third act of the play, Straight Furrows, was presented and a quiz on medical work in China was presented by Miss Jean Burnham and Mrs. J. Rowland.

March meeting will be at the parsonage with Mrs. Ingham as worship convener, Mrs. E. J. Powell, Mrs. H. Oullette and Mrs. C. Hubbeard as hostesses. Hostesses for supper on Tuesday were Mrs. Hobbs, Miss E. L. Hetherington and Mrs. E. Ball.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 17 (CP). Statements issued by the Board of Deacons, members of Maitland Street Baptist Church following a well-attended meeting in the church on Wednesday night embodied refusal to consider their pastor's proffered resignation and deplored the "unwarranted publicity" given to him.

Rev. Harold U. Trinier offered his resignation last Sunday, following the arrest of his brother Keith Allan Trinier, by the city police on theft charges.

News Editor Dies

SMITHS FALLS, Feb. 17—(CP)—James J. Johnston, 41-year-old popular News Editor of the Smiths Falls Record-News, a weekly, died in hospital Wednesday. He underwent an operation for appendicitis a week ago. Johnston got his start in the newspaper field as a reporter with the Ottawa Journal. Twenty years ago he came to Smiths Falls and became known locally through his News-Record sports column, "The Baron of Beckwith Street."

Legal Measures Triply Guarded

LONDON, Feb. 17 — (CP) — From a special safe unlocked by three men with different sets of keys careful officials took a gun-metal cask.

From the cask they took a silver-gilt thimble from which they lifted an object in special protective paper. When the paper was removed they had a cylindrical-shaped piece of platinum. They put it under a glass tumbler so none could breathe on it too long.

Then the committeemen solemnly entered, the glass was removed and they looked with respectful eyes at the imperial standard pound on which is based all the legal weigh measures for Great Britain.

This occasion, in a building under authority of the Board of Trade standards department, was unusual. Normally, the imperial standard pound and its companion, the imperial standard yard, are examined officially only once in 10 years at which is called "the decennial comparison of the standards." At intervening "quinquennial comparison of the standards" only five copies of the actual standards are examined.

But a committee appointed to review existing legislation on weights and measures demanded a special showing of the two "imperials." The imperial standard yard is made of a kind of bronze called Bailey's metal. The exact length of the yard—a standard about which there can be no argument—is the distance between two scratches on two gold plugs sunk into a bar of Bailey's metal.

CALVERT 1622 Famous Families ROBINSON 1791

Born at Berthier in 1791, John Beverley Robinson studied law and was appointed acting Attorney General when 21 years old. He was appointed Chief Justice of Upper Canada in 1829 and later Speaker of the Executive Council. In 1850 he was created a baronet.

His brother William Benjamin became Inspector-General in 1844. His son John Beverley, also a lawyer, soldier and statesman, was elected Mayor of Toronto in 1857. In 1880 he was named Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. Truly a distinguished family of Canadian statesmen.

Great Families Create Great Nations

Distinguished English statesman and Secretary of State to King James I, Calvert, head of the famous Calvert family, founded pioneer colonies in Newfoundland and Maryland early in the 17th Century.

Calvert's descendants fostered the principles of democratic freedom and religious tolerance among their New World settlers. They proved their sincerity by granting a greater measure of freedom than had hitherto been enjoyed and by permitting the settlers to inaugurate democratic self-government.

The family is the corner-stone upon which great nations are built. Let each of us strive to promote within the great Canadian family the same concepts of freedom and tolerance pioneered by the Calvert family over three hundred years ago.

The Calvert family present a freedom charter to their seulers.

The Sulners, who described themselves as official handwriting experts of the Hungarian government, fled to Austria recently and now are in the protective custody of American occupation authorities in Western Austria. Heavy Increase In Freight Rates Said Necessary

OTTAWA, Feb. 17 — (CP) — A claim that a Canadian Pacific Railway witness' theories on rail earnings would point to a 50-per-cent freight-rate increase was placed before the Board of Transport Commissioners yesterday.

Saskatchewan counsel M. A. MacPherson contended that that was the purport of evidence given by an economist testifying for the C.P.R.

The railways are presenting evidence to the board in support of an application for a general 20-per-cent increase in freight rates.

Mr. MacPherson was cross-examining Dr. H. P. Dorau, professor of economics at New York University, a C.P.R. witness who had testified the day before that the Canadian Pacific needed rail earnings of $82,000,000 a year to interest investors in its securities so it could go ahead with financing.

The Saskatchewan counsel submitted figures to show that if the company's net rail earnings for 1949 were to be boosted that high, its gross revenues would have to be increased by $73,000,000.

That, said Mr. MacPherson, meant an increase of 50 per cent. in freight rates. He also declared it would be an increase of 81 per cent over the rates in effect a year ago.

Mr. Dorau said he had checked his revenue increase against the rising national income and had found it to be not out of line.

In relation to the soaring national income, he said, freight rates had not really risen, the impact of the charge per ton-mile had declined.

Playful Ultimatum

KITCHENER, Feb. 17 — (CP).—A mayor handed out a playful ultimatum to a magistrate on Wednesday. When Mayor James Washburn found another car in his allotted parking space at the City Hall he left a note on the windshield. The note read: "This space reserved for mayor's car only. If illegal parking continues I will be forced to take it before Magistrate Polson." The car belonged to Magistrate H. R. Polson, and Mayor Washburn knew it.

TEL AVIV— Increases in the price of Israel's daily papers — some only a single sheet—are believed to make them the most expensive in the world. The price was increased by four mils (about two cents) to 30 mils because of a sharp increase in production costs.

TORONTO—George Cook, 30, says he has written 2,149 songs—without having any published. The former Cape Breton coal miner, now working here as a baker, told an interviewer he wrote song No. 2,149 while he was mixing up a batch of flour.

OTTAWA — Bob Swartman Wednesday climbed 322 feet to his work and hit the highest spot in Ottawa. The 23-year-old steeplejack clambered up the flagpole atop the Peace Tower to repair a broken cable. He said when he came down the brass pole safely: "The main thing is to keep a cool head."

OTTAWA — Health Minister Martin said the Food and Drugs Act is being revised to prohibit the use of nitrogen trichloride in flour sold in Canada. The chemical is used to bleach flour.

TORONTO—Contract proposals including $100-a-month pensions at 60 years for 8,000 production workers in Toronto and Brantford were handed to the Massey Harris Company management by the United Auto Workers (CIO). Main Plank

HAMILTON — Development of improved employer-employee relations will be the main plank of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce program for 1949, Henry G. Millbrook Votes In Favor Of Skating Rink

MILLBROOK, Feb. 17 (ENS)—A preliminary meeting was held in the waiting-room Tuesday to discuss the building of a covered rink in Millbrook. More than 40 residents were present.

F. Percy Stinson was appointed chairman and Harry Perkin secretary. Various sections of the community had sent representatives to inspect other rinks and F. E. Hamilton reported on the new rink at Little Britain and G. A. Woods on the Memorial rink at Lakefield.

It was evident from general discussion which took place that the meeting favored the proposal, believing that in this way a fitting memorial to those who lost their lives in the war would be built in the community.

A public meeting will be held in the town hall on Feb. 25 at 8 p.m., when a nominating committee will bring in a slate of officers for permanent standing in connection with the undertaking.

STRANGE PLAYMATES—Polly remains calm even with a traditional enemy of the bird kingdom in her cage. Both pets belong to Mrs. F. B. MacKinnon of Saint John, NB. Polly, who has reached the ripe old age of 53, flutters about the MacKinnon home all day. The 10-weeks-old kitten, a recent addition to the household, does not bother the parrot, but the two do engage in friendly sparring matches.

Raps Treatment Of DP Workers

SARNIA, Feb. 17—(CP) — A tendency on the part of some Canadian employers to treat displaced person domestics and other workers almost as slave labor and pay them virtually starvation wages "just because they're foreigners" was deplored Wednesday by Miss Molly McGee, Canadian journalist and war correspondent.

Speaking to the Women's Canadian Club of Sarnia, Miss McGee noted that many DP girls working as domestics were being paid only $30 or $35 per month and were denied the privilege of going out evenings or having any social life whatsoever.

Similar conditions, if not worse, existed among DP's working as farm hands and laborers, she said.

She pointed out that a large proportion of DP immigrants are highly skilled and well educated persons who have contracted to do domestic or laboring work for at least a year "as payment for the privilege of entering Canada."

Margarine Price Cut

OTTAWA, Feb. 17—(CP)—Canada Packers Limited announced Wednesday that it is reducing the price of margarine five cents a pound. It was expected the retail price would drop from 45 to 40 cents a pound. The company said that because the United States Government had lifted restrictions on export of vegetable oils, larger quantities of cottonseed and peanut oils for the butter substitute now can be obtained.

Ask South Africa Delay Sale Of Gold

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP) —The International Monetary Fund has asked the South African Government to delay, if possible, its scheduled sale of premium-price gold in London.

Fund officials are disturbed at possible repercussions of the sale, such as the drop in the Mexican peso attributed to heavy buying of gold coins. Mexican banks on Tuesday stopped coin sales.

The request to South Africa, it was learned from authoritative fund sources, is intended to give the fund time to check on safeguards erected by that government to prevent the newly-mined gold from reaching the hands of hoarders.

Shot In Leg

TORONTO, Feb. 17—(CP) — Arnold Covell, 24, said he was shot in the leg Wednesday by a man who stopped him on the street and asked him for a cigaret. Covell crawled to his mother's home nearby and was taken to hospital.

Consider Commission

OTTAWA, Feb. 27—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said that representations for appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate the liquor problem will be brought before the Cabinet for consideration "at the earliest opportunity." He was replying to M. J. Coldwell, CCF Leader, who referred to requests for a Commission to deal particularly with highway accidents related to the liquor problem.

You'll make it again and again and, of course with Purity Flour. So scrumptious, such a tangy sweetness atop a feathery cake . . . and per serving so economical.

PURITY "Apple Queen" CAKE

½ teaspoon vanilla extract
¾ cup granulated sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt

Anglican Priest Executive Auto Manufacturing Firm

By ROBERT PHILLIPS
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO, Feb. 17 —(CP)— George Harry Crane-Williams is a soft-spoken Englishman with two jobs on his hands — business and the church.

His business job is vice-president and general manager of Austin Motors of Canada, Limited. He devotes his spare time to the Church of England, in which he is an ordained priest. He is an honorary Canon of St. James Cathedral here.

The 66-year-old Worcestershire man related in an interview how he acquired the two jobs, and how he is able to practise his chosen profession and fulfill clerical duties.

More than 50 years ago when he wanted to enter the ministry — he was a qualified lay reader in his home diocese and a candidate-in-waiting for the foreign mission field — his father, a practical man, advised he first seek "self-sufficiency."

In 1903 he graduated with a mechanical engineer's degrees from the University of Birmingham and the following year went to Japan on an engineering project. From that trip until today — he has never returned to England to live — Mr. Crane-Williams has travelled the globe, engineering man's works and preaching the church's messages.

In the early part of the century he stayed in the Far East. Officially he was an engineer. Unofficially he was a Church of England lay worker, rising to a high position in the council of churches in Japan and to similar leading lay roles in China and India.

In 1919 he joined the firm whose Canadian offices he now heads, and as its export superintendent began crossing and criss-crossing a trans-global beat. Again he combined the two works — business and the church.

In Peace River

When the Second World War broke out he was holidaying on ranchland he owns in Alberta's Peace River district. The company cabled him to "stay put." So on official leave of absence, he began to work in earnest for the church as a layman.

"The diocese of Athabasca is extensive," he said. "There were many places I went — often to six or eight on a single Sunday—where it would have been advantageous to have been an ordained minister."

In 1942, at 60, he was ordained a deacon. In 1943 he became a priest and was stationed at Dimsdale, Alta., near Grand Prairie. Later he was made a canon of the Athabasca diocese.

On hearing of his ordination, a brother Ned, cabled from England: "At long last . . . "

In 1946 with his 65th year and retirement from the company in sight, he and his wife and two daughters looked forward to a quiet life in "some part of Western Canada.

Then his company called him to New York and offered him the job of organizing its Canadian affairs. Now he is its vice-president and managing director. The thought of formal retirement vanished.

"I have my first love here with me — I'm officially accredited at Toronto's Grace Church-on-the-Hill — and I have the company's work . . . "

Mr. Crane-Williams has found time, during his 50 years of work and travel, to become a life fellow of the Royal Society of Arts and to hold senior offices in Canadian Freemasonary, in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Spread Radar Across Europe

LONDON, Feb. (AP)—Western European union allies are spreading an air raid warning network across Europe from the Baltic to the Mediterranean.

First hint of the far-flung radar system was given in the government's white paper on defence Wednesday night.

It said British ground radar equipment is being supplied to France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg "for it integrated early warning system."

An official source disclosed today a central warning control headquarters would be established and that R. F. radar stations in the British occupation zone of Germany would be "tied into" the new [illegible].

Ultimately radar warning stations streched from the Baltic port of Lubeck, in the British zone of Germany, to France's Mediterranean coast will be coordinated under the central control.

Just how much progress had been made remained an official secret.

Bishop Berry Lays Stone Of New School

Church dignitaries citizens and members of the City and Smith township Seperate School Boards, were present at the site of St. Anne's School at Benson St. and Bellevue Ave., on Wednesday afternoon. It was the occasion of the laying of the corner stone by His Excellency Bishop Gerald Berry.

In his dedication speech Bishop Berry welcomed the large gathering. He told them that the project, started less than a year ago, would have a school as a nucleus of a new group of buildings. He stressed the point that no suitable education program was possible without the thread of religion running through it. He told how totalitarian states in Europe first gained their foothold by attacking schools where religion was firmly ingrained in the students and it was through this primary channel that they attempted to destroy men's dignity.

Offers Congratulations

He congratulated the architect and contractor on their work. After blessing the new corner stone, he proceeded to lay it with a silver trowel, while workmen saw to it that the stone was plumb; they found no trouble on this score and congratulated the Bishop on his excellent workman ship.

Among the members of the Separate School Board present were Dr. J. R. Epping, W. H. Toal, Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. J. O Brien, Arthur Primeau, Rev. P. P. Butler, M. F. Doris, M. J. Roche, R. S. Hall, J. C. McCarney, chairman, Victor Mattuci, Fergus O'Connor, W. J. Grady, M. J. Maher, Dr. E. M. Crough and J. S. Black, secretary. His Worship Mayor Max J. Swanston, who was unable to attend on behalf of the city, was represented by Alderman P. J. Anglesly.

W. Bartlett, P. J. Burke and W. Leahy were present to represent Smith township Separate School Board.

Among the clergy present, in addition to those mentioned above were Rt. Rev. Msgr. O'Sullivan, Rev. J. Corkery, CSSR, Rev. V. J. Corkery, Rev. R. J. Garvey and Rev. F. K. Malane.

CORNERSTONE-LAYING CEREMONY at St. Anne's School building project, Benson St. and Bellevue Ave., was performed on Wednesday afternoon by His Excellency Bishop Gerald Berry, above, wielding a handsome silver trowel. Some of the dignitaries taking part in the ceremony shown above were W. A. Hayden, Separate School inspector, and Rt. Rev. Msgr. F. J. O'Sullivan.

New Lights At King George Considered By Committee

Extensive renovations to the lighting layouts of the PCVS stage and gymnasium will commence this year if the property committee of the Board of Education has its way. This was the major item listed under repairs as the property committee on Wednesday night drew up its estimates for the public schools and PCVS. Tentative figure arrived at is $50,075 for 1949, slightly less than $600 over the 1948 disbursement.

Last year the preliminary estimate exceeded actual disbursements.

The committee's budget must be submitted to the finance committee and then accepted by the Board as a whole before it becomes fixed.

Keith S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, explained that present lighting system for the stage of the Collegiate was dangerous and inefficient. And he said the same applied to that of the gymnasium.

He showed the committee two layouts for the gymnasium — either 40 fluorescent fixtures or 30 incandescent ones of 500-watt strength for the high ceiling—and also a suggested illumination for the stage.

Fluorescent fixtures are also suggested for rooms 214, 114, and 11 of the Collegiate.

Chief item for the public schools is new lighting for King George. Extensive painting will be carried on at King George and Confederation. Heating and insulation should be one of the major improvements for South Central.

Tentative estimates as submitted by Mr. Wightman and approved by the property committee for public schools and Collegiate, respectively, are:

Caretakers' supplies, $1,800 and $750; careakers' equipment, $600 and $75; furniture and fixtures, $1,000 and $1,200; workshop materials, $500 and $250; lumber (stock pile, workshop and manual training), $900 and $450; fuel, $14,500 and $6,775; truck maintenance, $200 and $75; repairs, $12,000 and $9,000.

In repairs at PCVS two-thirds is charged to Academic and a third to Vocational.

Health Committee Wants Projecto-Chart

A projecto-chart, regarded as an improvement on the present method of checking school children's vision, is included in the 1949 estimates of the Board of Education Health Committee.

This machine can project alphabetical letters of various sizes on a screen to test the children's eyesight. Keith S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, told the committee he saw one in operation at Belleville, and claimed it was more efficient than the present method.

"Children have a way of memorizing the letters on the card," said the superintendent referring to the Snellen Chart now used.

Dr. R. Matthews, chairman of the committee, described it as "a good thing" but it would have to be set up carefully to derive the full benefit.

Dr. Matthews said he believed the eye and ear examination the most important one given to the child.

The health committee approved $500 as its estimate for the year. Last year's disbursements amounted to $234.67. Chief increase in 1949 will be the intended purchase of the projecto-chart.

Estimates included $150 for medical supplies, $200 for medical equipment, and $150 for dental supplies.

Fish Hatchery To Cost $500,000

OTTAWA, Feb. 17 (CP)—Construction of a $500,000 fish hatchery at Westport, 27 miles from Smiths Falls, in the Rideau Lakes chain, will start this summer, Lands Minister Scott said last night.

The hatchery will concentrate on breeding large-mouth black bass, a favorite species of game fish and one suited to life in the Rideau Lakes.

Mr. Scott said re-stocking of Ontario lakes and streams is of paramount importance to the tourist industry and construction of the Westport project is only one of many moves in aid of the industry.

City Has Entry For First Time Drama Festival

Forty-five members of the Peterborough Little Theatre, and a truck-load of scenery and costumes will travel to Brockville on Friday afternoon to present "The Taming of The Shrew" in the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival. The local group will perform on Saturday afternoon.

This is the first time that a group of Peterborough amateurs have entered a drama contest in more than forty years. The last group to do so was a light opera company, conducted by Richard Devey, which went to Toronto to compete for the Earl Grey Cup. Although the Dominion Drama Festival was established by Lord Bessborough in the early 'thirties, this is the first time that a Peterborough group has competed.

"The Taming of The Shrew," which was seen locally on January 27, 28, and 29, will be the only costume play to be seen at Brockville this year. It will also be the play with the largest cast. There is a belief among Little Theatre groups in Canada that "Shakespeare can't be done in a Festival." It is thought that Shakespearean plays present too many difficulties of staging and acting. The Peterborough group will challenge this belief.

The adjudicator at Brockville will be Robert Speaight, celebrated English actor and man of the theatre, who is chiefly known for the fact that he has played the role of Thomas Becket, in T. S. Eliot's tragedy "Murder In The Cathedral," more than a thousand times. Mr. Speaight was adjudicator at the Dominion Finals in 1948, and the fairness and completeness of his judgments gave great satisfaction to groups from all over Canada. Whatever his opinion of the Peterborough production, the Little Theatre expects to profit from his criticism.

Report From Brockville

From Brockville Canadian Press reported today that although several Little Theatre groups have dropped out of the running, competition will be keen at the Regional Drama Festival opening there tonight.

Since early morning, actors and actresses from Ottawa and other Eastern Ontario points have been flocking into town for the three-day tournament.

Not only does the winning play stand a chance of competing in the Dominion Drama Festival next April, but it also will win either the Davies Trophy or the Fulford Shields offered in this contest.

The latter, given by George Fulford of Brockville, goes to the group with the best one-act presentation. The former, awarded by Senator W. Rupert Davies, publisher of the Kingston Whig-Standard, goes to the best full-length play.

The one-act productions, offered by groups from Lanark county, Ottawa and Brockville, enter the competition tonight.

J. B. Priestley's "The Rose and Crown," will be presented by Brockville Theatre Guild, which this year celebrates its 10th year of festival competition.

The newly - formed Lanark Junior Farmers Group will produce "The Pie in The Oven," by J. J. Bell.

The third play of the evening will be Sydney Box's "Self Made Man." This will be produced by the Civil Service Drama Group of Ottawa, which also will provide the entertainment tomorrow night with a presentation of J. B. Priestley's full-length play, "Music By Night."

The second new group to make its appearance at this year's Festival will be the Peterborough Little Theatre, which Saturday afternoon will produce Shakespeare's "The Taming of The Shrew."

Director of the classic will be Robertson . Davies, well-known Canadian playwright and editor of the Peterborough Examiner.

Mr. Davies' three-act play, "Fortune My Foe," will be produced Saturday night by the Ottawa Drama League, which last year took top honors at the Regional Festival.

Battle With Skunk

ONE little skunk who vanished from sight, but not from smell, partially tied up one of Peterborough's industries this week for two days. A mysterious weekend battle occurred in the shallow two-foot cellar under a Romaine St. factory. It is conjectured that a skunk tangled with a cat on the premises, though no one is quite sure.

When the girls of the office staff arrived at work the beginning of the week, they walked in and walked right out. First floor operations were suspended. There wasn't anything anyone could do about it. Tuesday, part of the staff reported back to work and Wednesday things had improved so operations returned to normal.

JOHN G. ALLAN, prominent member of the Kiwanis Club, is president of the Canadian Cancer Society for 1949. Mr. Allan succeeds J. D. Anderson. Dr. Eldon Ray read the report of the nominating committee which was adopted by the Society.

Cancer Society Elects Officers For '49

"Major problem in the work of the Canadian Cancer Society is to clear the confusion in the people's minds of what the society is," said George Pettinger, newly appointed field director of the Cancer Society, speaking to the local branch of the society in the Public Library auditorium Wednesday night.

"This problem is greater in Ontario than in any other province. There are three distinct organizations concerning cancer in Ontario. They are the Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation, the National Cancer Institute, and the Canadian Cancer Institute. The people have difficulty distinguishing between them."

Mr. Pettinger explained that the Foundation is mainly concerned with existing cancer patients, therefore, being a diognostic and treatment department. The Institute is interested in the research of cancer, while the Canadian Cancer Society tries to educate the public on cancer.

"Funds collected jointly by the Foundation and our Society in 1946 will be spent by April. The fact is our organization is broke. Our main sources of finances is in our membership fee of $1 per member. The membership in Ontario is not large."

Federal grant of $3,500,000, he said, is mainly for the National Cancer Society for research. This money can't be spent on building clinics. He said Ontario's share of the grant is slightly over $1,500,000. The grant is a matching grant.

"Facilities have to be extended. In April we will have our campaign for funds. The quota for Ontario is $550,000. This money will have to be raised by the 24 counties with branches of the Society."

James Dutton, Sr., introduced Mr. Pettinger, who was thanked by J. E. Girvin.

Dr. Eldon Ray gave the report of the nominating committee, which was accepted. President of the local branch will be Jack Allan. Other officers of the Socity are: vice-president, Mrs. Maurice Holt; treasurer, R. E. MacDonald; secretary, Miss E. M. Miller. Directors are Miss M. A. Sargent, Miss Mary Ross, Mrs. H. G. Digweed, James Dutton, Sr., Dr. J. C. Dawson, Allen B. Collis and Dr. Eldon Ray. Honorary president are Judge S. L. Smoke, Mayor M. J. Swanston and Dr. R. A. Kelly.

Miss Sargent gave the president's yearly report in the absence of J. D. Anderson, immediate past president.

After all the business of the meeting was done a question period was held.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Preliminary Budget Sets Total At $36,924; Increase Over '48 Is $7,677

The Board of Health is to ask the Council for an increase of 25 per cent. of last year's expenditure for the next twelve months and will also ask the Council to consider the purchase of a $2,000 fogging machine for pest control. When the Board considered its estimates on Wednesday the 1949 figure was set at $36,924.70, an increase of $7,677.

An increase in salaries of $6,401.10 would absorb the bulk of the extra sum requested and the main reason for the estimated boost for 1949 was the addition four and a half months ago of two public health nurses whose joint salaries during their period of employment by the Board last year amounted to $1,422.96 and are estimated for a full 12 months period at $4,300. Another additional item is the sum of $1,700 for two new nurses which the Board hopes to employ later in the year and salary raises varying from $582 to $150 would require an additional $1,982.

Owing to the large number of babies being attended at the Well Baby Clinic, $1,400 is being requested for extra staff.

The Board was also asking for $400 for a tuberculosis recording system.

The Board's estimates also included the sum of $525 for rental and maintenance of two child hygiene clinics which it is hoped to bring into operation during the course of the year. Small increases are shown in estimates for printing and stationery.

In presenting the estimates to the Board the chairman, James Dutton, explained that an expanding population and more adequate services compared with past years, was the reason for the request for additional funds and he pointed out that the public health service was costing only $1.05 per capita.

Mr. Dutton remarked that the city had been remarkably free from infectious disease which, he thought, reflected credit on the Board. He was proud of the service it was rendering to the community.

Accompanying the budget was a letter from Dr. R. A. Kelly, Medical Officer of Health who urged the amalgamation of the two health services operating in the city. He thought that a community the size of Peterborough should have a generalised health program with a yearly expenditure of $40,000.

Salary Budget Tripled In Nine Years

Fire department expenditure for the year was estimated at $120,860 by the fire and light committee of the council Wednesday.

The council's appropriation last year was $102,677, and the actual payments amounted to $106,000.

Looking back at one of the financial milestones it is rather interesting to note that the fire department cost the ratepayers $49,323 in 1940 and the appropriation for 1941 was $40,625.

The bulk of expenditure is for salaries. The estimate last year was $89,805; expenditure in salaries $93,000; and the salary estimate for this year is $109,435. By comparison the salary item in 1940 was $33,640.

The salary increase at the fire hall in nine years has been considerably more than 300%.

Ald. Doug Miller, chairman, presided at the meeting Wednesday afternoon. With him were Aldermen Burrows, Gillespie, Raine, Mayor Swanston and Chief George Smith.

The overdraft of around $4,000 last year was caused mostly by purchase of a safety chute.

Chief Smith said there were now 45 men on the strength of the department.

"The Chief decided he had enough 2½-in. hose on hand for this year," Ald. Miller said, "and he thought we could get along without buying probably the usual amount. That is an expenditure of $1,800 which is not included in the requisition for this year."

Several superannuations are expected this year on the department. An inter-floor communication system is to be provided.

One item has vanished from the proposed improvements that have been coming before the committee at this time of the year immemorially — a substation in the south end of the city. George Gimblett used to insert that reminder in his annual reports, and maybe his successor will repeat the recommendation, but in so far as the estimates are considered nothing is said this year about the south end depot.

Officers' salaries that were sent on to the executive committee, as a preliminary to the budgeting of the finance committee, were recommended as: Chief $3,600; 1st assistant Stewart Foster $3,200; 2nd assistant chief Virgil Carr.

Ald. Miller said the top three were allowed one day off in seven, but the Captains had two days off in seven. The salary of Captains is $2,700. If the new second assistant chief were paid only $2,900 he would actually be receiving less than the captains, having regard to the number of days off during the year.

The committee made only several minor changes in the appropriations as listed.

THEY WERE CATCHING

Bar Union Man From U.S. Entry

TORONTO, Feb. 17 — (CP).—Robert Battersby of Toronto, an official of the United Rubber Workers of America, has been temporarily barred from entering the United States, Jacob Kershner, United States immigration officer here, said Wednesday.

Battersby is vice-president of Local 136 of the union, at a local rubber company (Gutta Percha). He was barred when he applied for a permit to enter the US to attend a union policy-making conference February 21 at Cleveland.

The action was reported based on an article of the US Immigration Act which permits exclusion of any person whose presence is believed detrimental to the best interests of the country.

For similar reasons, Battersby's local president, Stanley Thornley, was refused permission to cross the border last September.

Little Girl, 8 50,000th DP

OTTAWA, Feb. 17 (CP)—The government Wednesday picked a little Latvian girl, now bound westward on a liner in mid-Atlantic, to mark a milestone in its immigration plan.

When the liner Samaria arrives in Halifax Saturday eight-year-old Ausma Levalds will step ashore to become the 50,000th displaced person to arrive in the Dominion under auspices of the International Refugee Organization

The little Latvian will walk into the midst of a dockside ceremony in which Inspector A. G. Christie, immigration inspector at Halifax, will make her a presentation on behalf of Resources Minister MacKinnon, who is responsible for immigration.

From a European camp, Ausma is travelling with her mother and sister to join her father on a farm at New Hamburg, Ont.

Inspector Christie will present her with a book, Taverner's "Birds of Canada."

The Resources Department said in a statement that although Canada has admitted more than 58,000 DP's, by far the largest number have been brought in under IRO auspices.

Daisy D School Presents Concert

NORWOOD, Feb. 17—(ENS)—Daisy D school recently presented a concert which opened with a Valentine song by the pupils followed by recitations by grade 1, a humorous recitation by Michael Cain, a piano duet by Ruth Andrews and Gayle Kennedy and a step dance by Ruth to Gayle's piano accompaniment.

Grade 11 recited and Mr. William Hefferman, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Torpey played the mouth organ. The story of St. Valentine's Day was told by Morene Kennedy and John Bernier and Gerald Johnston sang.

Eight pupils in yellow and green costumes danced three changes of the Square Dance. Two pupils, John Bernier and Eddie Hefferman took turns at calling.

Results of a draw were as follows: first, Mrs. Michael Cain; second, Mrs. John Loughton; third, Mrs. Horace Brown.

The last number was a chorus by the pupils, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Coughlin.

Mr. Ronald Webster was chairman and helped Mr. Stanley Andrews auction.

Harry and Harold Fife provided music for dancing.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 17—(CP)—The sixth annual convention of the North American Indian Brotherhood will be held at Ottawa March 25-27, Frank Assu, Brotherhood President, said Wednesday. He said main request to the Government will be a revolving loan of $2,500,000 for Canada's 150,000 Indians. The money would be used to assist tribes to set up industries such as lumber mills and enable them to become self-supporting.

Ontario Cities Consider 8 Months Daylight Saving

TORONTO, Feb. 17 — (CP)—At least a dozen Ontario Cities and towns are toying with the idea of an eight-month period of daylight saving time this year to save electric power.

Toronto's Board of Control gave birth to the plan this week with a recommendation for a two-month extension of daylight saving next fall to help cope with the province's power situation.

S. W. Canniff, Ottawa manager of the Hydro Commission, said last night the capital will get on the bandwagon if the Toronto scheme goes through.

Other centres indicated cautious interest, a Canadian Press survey showed today. Practically all the city and town councils are scheduled to discuss the matter.

Belleville, Woodstock, Kitchener, Waterloo, Brantford, Kingston, Galt and Stratford expressed most interest in the scheme. Galt was said to be considering the elimination of a stumbling block in the shape of a city by-law if the Toronto proposal is adopted.

Kingston, Niagara Falls, London and other centres were keeping an eye on developments.

Hamilton led a band of cities and towns which expressed little immediate interest. These included Peterborough, Guelph, Chatham, St. Thomas, Owen Sound, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie and Windsor.

Nearly all parts of the province normally go on fast time from late in April to late in September.

To Use Minesweeper For Summer Training

OTTAWA, Feb. 17 (CP) —The salty minesweeper Portage will sail in fresh water again this summer when she leaves Halifax May 18 to train naval reserve personnel on the Great Lakes for the second successive year.

The Navy announced Wednesday that the sweeper, on North Atlantic convoy runs during the war, will be commissioned for the 1949 reserve-training program next month.

Addition of Portage will bring the 1949 reserve-training fleet to eight vessels, including the aircraft carrier Magnificent, the destroyers Nootka and Haida and the frigate Swansea on the east coast.

Portage will be used for training personnel of naval divisions at Kingston, Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, London and Port Arthur. In addition, the divisions will use motor launches for training.

Surrey Migrants Planning Farm Community

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GOLDSTONE, Surrey, England, Feb. 17—(CP)—Like most emigrants, Ian Hale's chief regret at the prospect of going abroad was leaving old neighbors and friends.

So Hale, 33-year-old Surrey farmer, got busy among his neighbors in the village of Goldstone. The result is that 20 of them are sailing with Hale, his wife and three sons, for South Africa.

Sixty miles up country from Salisbury, Rhodesia, they will pioneer a farming colony and, says Hale use modern agricultural equipment to wrest record crops of tobacco, maize, barley and potatoes from the veldt.

"We shall build our own homes and manufacture the materials out of what is at hand, even to making a couple million bricks. The result will be a new English colony—a small town, in fact."

Two of the villagers are stock men who plan to take a small herd of high-bred cattle with them. Special sheds will be erected to protect them from the tropical sun until they are acclimatized.

Roads Come First

"As the nearest railway station is 15 miles from our estate, new roads will be a priority," Hale said, "and we shall plant trees to cool the atmosphere and attract rain.

"Ultimately there will be a school, church, hotel, movie theatre, houses with modern conveniences and, perhaps, a brewery."

The idea was born last year when Hale managed to leave his three farms for a holiday in South Africa. There he met millionaire farmer and stockbreeder J. F. Kapnek who had for years admired the herd of Friesian cattle bred by the Hale family in Britain.

Kapnek invited Hale to take over an undeveloped area of 12,000 acres of his holdings and farm it by the late agricultural methods. Back home, Hale was surprised to find that people for miles around wanted to join him.

"For weeks I've been flooded with telegrams, letters and phone calls for men and women who would give their ears to go to South Africa. One fellow trampled 30 miles to ask if we wanted a baker to go with the party."

Hale's herd of cattle sold recently for £70,000 (280,000) and the last of his three farms is up for sale.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

Rover Moot

At least one Rover from Peterborough will attend the World Moot but no further word has been received from provincial headquarters regarding other applications. It was reported at the provincial meeting that only Quebec and Ontario had replied to the request as to the numbers desiring to attend.

The Commission reported that 10 Peterborough boys will probably attend the Jamboree in Ottawa this summer.

Commissioner Albert Hope has been requested to take action and contact the Scouters to consider the possibility of holding the annual Camporee. The former committee is unable to continue this year, but Commissioner Groombridge reported that several requests had been received for this activity to be repeated this year.

Craft Show

A special meeting will be called, probably this week, to discuss plans for a craft show to be held this year. District Clubleader reported that about 75 per cent of the groups had stated their willingness to support a show.

The Scouts have agreed to assist where needed in the collection of books for overseas. Mr. Graff of the Public Library reports the situation well in hand.

No action is to be taken regarding a scout headquarters until the location of lot is determined.

Around Town

Church Parade—Scout Week is nearly here and next Sunday evening should find every Scout and Cub attending the joint Church parade at St. Paul's Church. Invitations have been sent to every pack and troop in the city.

St. Luke's will be holding a joint banquet of Scouts Cubs, Guides, Brownies and parents.

St. Paul's has planned a father and son banquet on Friday evening.

Park Hill is holding a father and son banquet on Tuesday evening.

St. John's annual father and son banquet will be on Feb. 25.

Knox Church will hold a special service for the dedication of Colours on Sunday Feb. 27. It is understood that others are planning similar activities.

Provincial Conference

A recomendation is being sent to Dominion Headquarters for the establishment of depicting the year the King Scout badge is awarded and that similar numerals be presented each year the tests have been repassed. This it is felt, would give an incentive for the Scout to let everyone know he is up to date.

Miniature badges to be attached to the patrol flag to which a King Scout is attached are also being requested. It was suggested that the miniature could be worn by Scouters who have attained that rank as a Scout.

Patrol System

One of the greatest advocates of the patrol system pointed out at the Provincial conference that the success of men like Hitler and others was through a system of small gangs and that in the patrol system we have a very potent method of fighting evil. It was stressed that any Scout master who is not running his troop by the patrol system through the Court of Honour, at which the Scouter is merely a counsellor, is missing the real Scout Spirit.

Uniform

While it was generally conceded that shorts were not for Canadian winter weather, it was unaminous that full uniform should be the order of the day on every ocassion. The present winter uniform is rather expensive, yet is not out of reach of keen Scouts.

St. Paul's

Three more members were added at an investiture in which Teddy Coulson, Barry Foster and Douglas Hemphill made their Cub promise before the Council Rock. Parents attended this ceremony.

Trinity Pack

Is still reporting progress. David Ross, Dick Burgess, Bob Perry, and Peter Ballantine passed knotting, Jim Robinson passing book-balancing and time. The game of battering rams gave vent to a lot of energy and the quiet Kim's game followed in which the Black Six were victors.

All Saints'

This group will be holding a joint church parade on Sunday evening, Feb. 27 with the Cubs, Scouts, Guides and Brownies and Rovers taking part. On Thursday evening, February 24, the troop will hold their annual parents' night.

All Saints' Crew held a sleigh ride on Saturday evening with about 24 members and their girl friends and, wives out for the big time. After the outing they were guests of Rover Len Wall and Mrs. Wall for refreshments and dancing.

After the monthly Communion and breakfast the Crew had as guests ASM Len Fockett and TL Fred Jay, from the Troop. Guest speaker was Skipper G. H. Cutmore, who told of experiences on his trip to England.

Another district paper collection is being planned for the first week in April. It is understood that the price of paper has dropped considerably but this should not deter the national effort.

DISPUTE SETTLED

CALGARY — Settlement of a wage dispute between mine owners and some 3,500 miners employed in Alberta's domestic coal fields was announced. In a joint statement, the Domestic Coal Operators' Association of Western Canada and District 18, United Mine Workers, said a new one-year agreement had been signed. It provides for an increase for the miner's welfare fund from the present five cents a ton to 15 cents a ton. The union had sought a 20-cent-a-ton contribution by the owners and the owners had asked that the fund be abolished.

That's why I urge you to care for all your skin with Woodbury.

I Must Confess that occasionally I "eavesdrop" on street cars. One conversation that I listened to was about the new, improved TENDER LEAF TEA BALLS. The ladies were enthusiastic! Lady No. 1 said she was worried about her husband's attitude toward the tea she served. "He's fussy about his tea—he likes good Orange Pekoe," she said, "but I can't seem to find the right brand". "We recently switched to Tender Leaf Tea Balls!", said Lady No. 2, "and we think the flavour is simply grand!" Lady No. 1 said, "Oh, that's the Orange Pekoe that's made from the little top leaves, isn't it? I've read about it." And Lady No. 2 said, "Just try it! The flavour is out-of-this-world. We're glad we switched to Tender Leaf Tea Balls and I'm sure you'll like them too!"

I'm Sure You'll want to roll out the "Welcome" mat for one of your favourite products back again on your grocer's shelves! It's SHIRRIFF'S GINGERBREAD MIX . . . combines in one package all the good ingredients that made Grandma's gingerbread a "masterpiece". Sugar, shortening, molasses, flour, eggs, baking powder, ginger and all the different kinds of spices are prepared in a mix and packed in moisture-proof bags. Ready for you to add water—beat and pop into the oven! That's all there is to it . . . and such truly delicious results! Yes, Shirriff's Gingerbread Mix rivals grandma's best!

Says Ukrainian Bishop Tortured By Reds

WINNIPEG, Feb. 17 (CP). — A Winnipeg priest said Wednesday he had received word that His Excellency Bishop Nykyta Budka, Canada's first Ukrainian Bishop, was mentally ill due to moral and physical tortures inflicted on him by Communists in Europe. He was arrested by the Communists in Lwow, Poland, in 1945.

Rev. Mark Dyrda of St. Nicholas Parish in Winnipeg said he received this information from a clergyman in Belgium.

"I have credentials to prove the bishop was tortured to force him to relinquish the Catholic religion and accept that of Stalin," Rev. Dyrda added.

Bishop Budka was in Canada from 1912 until 1927, when he returned to Poland. The Communists charged the bishop with collaborating with Hitler when they arrested him and six other bishops.

Promise Western Civilization For 15,600 Guiana Amerindians

By BURCHELL O. WILLS

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Feb. 17—(CP)—"Western civilization"—radios, penicillin, safety razors and four-speed tractors— soon may remove the bonds of segregation from British Guiana's 15,600 Amerindians. For years the Amerindians, aboriginal Guianese, have lived on government-sponsored reservation as protection against disease and inter-tribal warfare. Given reservation rights they were extended general protection in dealings with other residents of the colony.

Government officials say they realize segregation can not be terminated overnight. It will take years. However, their long-range plan is to introduce western ways to the primitive natives scattered along the Brazilian and Venezuelan borders.

The seven Amerindian tribes, speaking seven distinct languages and dialects, are located in 14 reservations ranging in size from one to 4,500 square miles.

Reduce Reservations

As the plan to remove segregation progresses, authorities intend reducing the number of reservations to three.

So far, the government has not released details of the modernization scheme. However, reliable sources believe it includes introduction of suitable cultural and local administrative facilities. Under this policy, the colony's reservations will be regarded as temporary sanctuaries.

Eventually, Amerindians on reservations and their tribal brothers will take their places in the general life of the community.

Manitoba House Has First Switch

By The Canadian Press.

From now on Edmond Prefontaine, Liberal-Progressive member of the Manitoba Legislature for Carillon since 1935, sits as a "straight Liberal."

His switch from Premier D. L. Campbell's Coalition Government at Winnipeg yesterday was the first since the CCF left the coalition in 1942 to form the official said he was leaving the Coalition Opposition. Mr. Prefontaine because he felt it had served its purpose and that there should be a return to the party system of government.

He said he would support a CCF motion which "represented a mild criticism of the government's tardiness in effecting social reforms in Manitoba."

The change leaves the Liberal-Progressives, largest group supporting Coalition, with 25 members in the 55-seat Legislature. Also in the Coalition are 14 Progressive Conservative supporters and two Social Crediters. In Opposition are 10 CCF members, three Independents, and Mr. Prefontaine.

In Quebec's Legislative Assembly, Premier Maurice Duplessis criticized persons who "create a revolutionary mentality" while calling for social improvement. Speaking during a debate on industrial hygiene, he warned that his government did not intend to tolerate "appeals to prejudice from any quarter."

Says Hollywood Has Place In Television

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17 (AP) —Will Hollywood have a place in the television picture?

Hal Roach, Jr., says definitely yes. Edgar Bergen says maybe not.

The Roach studio, famed in Hollywood history, has cast its lot with the new medium. The Roaches see it as bonanza for the film industry.

"I believe that 60 per cent of television programs will be on film," Roach, Jr., commented. "Hollywood is the natural tele-film capital."

Bergen Says No

Taking the negative view is ventriloquist Bergen, one of the first star performers to become interested in video. He has just returned from a survey of the industry in New York.

"That's the big league of television back there," he said. "They seem to think that they don't need Hollywood."

Odds And End

Bing Crosby failed to show up for the photoplay dinner, having found some excuse to beg off. He may be the most popular star with the magazine's readers, but not with its editors. Only Bing could get away with it.

June Allyson was telling me at the dinner about her harrowing return from Sun Valley. She said the train was stuck in a blizzard for four days with no heat and little food. Always optimistic, she commented: "never had so much fun in my life."

Samson Wins Election To Quebec Legislature

LEVIS, Que., Feb. 17—(CP)—Albert Samson won election to the Quebec Legislature Wednesday, retaining the constituency of Levis County for the Union Nationale Government in a by-election with a majority of 9,389 votes over Abel Paradis, Union of Electors candidate.

Complete returns from the 124 polls gave Mr. Samson, a commercial traveller of Levis, 12,330 votes compared with 2,941 for Mr. Paradis, a jeweler also of Levis, a city across the St. Lawrence River from Quebec.

Decide Change In Bread Flour

BELLEVILLE, N. J., Feb. 17—(AP)—Bread in the United States is taking a revolutionary chemical change without anyone realizing it.

The agene, as gas used for a quarter of a century to age white flour, is coming out. Substituting is an entirely new gas for aging, known as chlorine dioxide.

The change is good for dogs, cats, rabbits and ferrets. It will not give them the running fits they occasionally got from the agene-treated flour.

But this new white flour doesn't do a thing for human beings as far as science has been able to discover.

British millers, who discovered the running fits in dogs more than two years ago, have taken no such action. Their medical advisers say maybe taking out the agene gas is a bit hasty.

However, British authorities now are considering whether to give the British flour-makers two years to make the alterations.

This change cannot be made overnight. It requires new machines.

Sisco Sees Little Aid For Clergy Under Reds

TORONTO, Feb. 17—(CP) — Dr. Gordon A. Sisco, Secretary of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, said Wednesday night that western churches and governments cannot help clergymen behind the iron curtain by addressing Communist leaders on behalf of religious freedom.

Just back from the first meeting of the World Council of Churches in Switzerland, he told an interviewer that such representations would only endanger the position of church leaders, many of whom may be suspected by the Communists of having influential relationships with the western world.

"We must trust and pray for these churches, supporting them in every constructive way possible."

Serving Potatoes to Catch The Interest of Your Family

By MARY MOORE

A French girl who is a friend of our family, once claimed in my hearing that she never served potatoes the same way twice.

At the time I wondered if she were a three-meal-a-day, 365-days-per-year cook.

For my part, I'd hate to think I was never going to eat a plain baked potato, split and saturated with creamy Canadian butter and sprinkled with salt and black pepper, ever again.

In other words, she goes too far...but these are the months when you have to prove your worth as a cook—for all of the food we eat is winter stored or imported.

It behooves the cooks who take pride in their profession to give serious thought to the nutrition-content and eye-appeal of the meals they prepare this month.

I have chosen the methods of preparing potatoes that are not common. They will spur your family's interest in your offerings.

Potato Rods

To 2 cups cooked potatoes which have been finely chopped or forced through food chopper, add 3 tablespoon cornstarch, 1½ tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, shake of nutmeg, 1 beaten egg, and ½ cup flour. Mix with the hands, working in flour on hands to make the dough firm. Shape in rods 3 inches long and size of broomstick. Drop in boiling water and cook until they come to surface OR roll in crushed shredded wheat crumbs, and bake on buttered pan in hot oven until brown and very hot through.

Broiled Diced Potatoes With Cheese Sauce (Delmonico)

Cook potatoes with skins on until about three-quarters tender. Drain and peel. Cut in ½-inch cubes. Place on shallow baking dish or broiler pan. Cover with thin cheese sauce.

For enough potatoes to serve six heat ½ cup evaporated milk with 1 cup water, to scalding. Mix together two tablespoons each flour and fat or butter or oil, then stir in the milk and water mixture until thick. Add ¼-lb. sliced or grated processed cheese, salt and white pepper and paprika and stir until heated through and cheese is melted. Pour over the potatoes on pan. Pass under very hot broiler until sauce bubbles and browns in spots and potatoes are very hot.

Lyonnaise Potatoes

Use freshly boiled hot potatoes for this. Pare and slice four cups potatoes, cook in boiling salted water until almost tender and drain. Chop 2 tablespoons onion (preferably the green shoots from sprouted onions) and cook in 3 tablespoons butter until transparent. Push onions to one side of pan, and add 2 more tablespoons butter. When melted add the potatoes, sprinkle with salt and pepper, sprinkle the cooked onion over them and cook until butter is absorbed, shaking pan occasionally. Sprinkle with chopped parsley just before serving.

Stuffed Baked Potatoes

Bake six medium-large potatoes in very hot oven until soft. Cut a cross on flat side of each potato. Turn back the corners. Scoop our centre without breaking skins. Mix potatoes with ¼ cup boiling hot milk, 2 tablespoons butter or chicken fat, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ⅛ teaspoon paprika. Mash and beat well. Fill potato skin with mixture. Dot with butter. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until heated through and browned on top. Cheese may be grated on top for a variation—or for a semi-vegetable plate add small amount of leftover cooked ham or bacon or chicken to the filling.

Plan 60th Anniversary

The Woman's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church met in the church parlours Tuesday with M. T. Kerr Group in charge. There was much discussion of plans for the 60th anniversary on March 15.

Mrs. W. Stacey voiced the appreciation of those who attended the Presbyterial meeting held in Trinity Church.

Mrs. M. J. Aiken read a paper on the first printing press set up in China and the wonderful help it was.

Mrs. Pilling read an article. Mrs. T. H. K. Harris reported that Bay of Quinte branch of the WMS contributed $90,000 to missions in 1948.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Harris. A Social cup of tea was enjoyed by all.

Fraser Auxiliary Tea, Sale Lovely Event at St. Paul's

Red was the color keynote of a lovely Valentine Tea held Wednesday afternoon by the Fraser Auxiliary of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Highlight of the tea table setting in the Guild Room was a flower bowl of red glass which held red tulips, arranged in charming fashion with baby narcissus. On either side there were pairs of red candles in silver holders, and their flames made pretty reflections of the centrepiece on the silver tea service. The cloth was of fine Chinese linen and net.

At the candy booth, red was again featured in candles and tiny baskets and the tablecloth was in pretty red and white design. Miss A. Bowles and Miss B. Ross were attendants.

Mrs. F. Rowan, Auxiliary president, received guests, assisted by Mrs. C. G. Boyd. Miss V. Walsh was at the treasurer's table.

Home cooking, displayed on a table where Mrs. L. Monk and Miss E. Allan were in charge was the first stopping point for everyone. Delicacies specially prepared for such affairs never fail to attract buyers.

Tea cups were filled by Miss Lillian Hall, Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, Mrs. F. D. Weir, and Mrs. James Dutton.

Assisting to serve were Mrs. J. Anderson, Mrs. H. McKenzie, Mrs. T. McArthur, Mrs. N. McCuaig, and Miss A. Davidson.

Mrs. W. Jackson and Mrs. A. Cranfield convened the tea which proved a pleasing success.

Westlake-Moore Nuptials

In George St. United Church the marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Dr. J. Semple of Betty Jean Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Moore of Sudbury, and Donald Westlake, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Westlake, Peterborough.

Wedding music was played by Mr. Charles Allen and the soloist was Mrs. Bain. Snapdregon, daffodils and fern decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white brocaded organza with full length veil of tulle illusion, held by a coronet of seed pearls and carried American Beauty roses.

Attendants were Miss Pearl Robertson, maid of honor, in blue taffeta, and Miss Joyce Westlake, bridesmaid, in pink taffeta. Each carried a nosegay of pink roses and carnations. Mr. Oswald Westlake was groomsman for his brother, and ushers were Melville McCartney and Gerald Westlake.

Receiving afterward at the future home of the couple, 172 Antrim St., the bride's mother was gowned in black sheer with corsage of pink roses. Also receiving was the groom's mother, wearing blue crepe with corsage of pink roses.

For a wedding trip to Montreal the bride changed to a gray suit with black accessories and black topcoat.

The average African ostrich weighs approximately 300 pounds.

Seeks in Vain for Answer To Daughter's Arrogance

Dorothy Dix

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a 17-year-old girl who says I have no right to dictate to her; that she is old enough to do what she likes, and who questions me as to why I do this and don't do that, and who insults me and is very impudent to me.

I have always made a perfect slave of myself for her and have tried to win her love and respect; but, alas, I have neither. What is your advice? A MOTHER.

ANSWER: There are untold numbers of other women who face the same problem that you do, and who do not know what to do with headstrong young girls who do not show their mothers the respect or consideration that they would show to a servant. And nobody knows how to deal with these egotistic, arrogant young upstarts.

They are too old to be given the spanking they so richly deserve. You cannot reason with them because their conceit is so colossal that they think they know it all, and they consider their parents doddering imbeciles whose views are too antiquated and senile to even be worth listening to.

You cannot appeal to their hearts because they have none. They are as hard as rocks, and the only human being for whom they have the slightest affection is themselves. You cannot tell them that unless they show you proper respect and speak civilly to you that you will no longer feed and clothe them, because you dare not throw a young girl out on the streets.

Mother Is Powerless

So your love and tenderness and the poor, silly, young creature's helplessness render you powerless to defend yourself against her. You know, if she doesn't, what would happen to her if she were left without the protection of the home she so despises, without the help of her mother whom she holds in such contempt.

The only thing you can do is to stage a sit-down strike. Refuse to do another hand's turn of work for your daughter. If her meals were not cooked, her room not cleaned and her clothes not laundered, it might bring her to her senses, and make her realize how much you mean to her. But the time to teach a girl to treat her mother with respect and deference is in the cradle. After she is grown, it is too late.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What do you think of married men who run around with young girls?

A TEEN-AGER.

ANSWER: If I should tell you what I really think about married men who have affairs with young girls, you would need to put on asbestos earmuffs. I think there is no other such cad in the world as the married man who makes love to a girl whom he knows he cannot marry and to whom he can offer nothing but a disgraceful liaison.

To gratify his vanity and minister to his sensuality, such a man is willing to ruin a girl's whole life and to bring disgrace upon her, because he knows the girl will be sent to Coventry and people will believe the worst of her, while they will only shrug their shoulders at him and say that he is a devil of a fellow among the women.

Certainly man's inhumanity to women is never more fitly illustrated than by the married men who run around with girls, for theirs is a double crime—against the girls and against their wives. They wreck the girls' lives and break the hearts of their wives. No man is so yellow as the married man who makes love to young girls.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Our only daughter is engaged to a man who will not come to see her when her father and I are at home. We have met him only twice. We have invited him on various occasions to have dinner with us, but he always refuses. What do you think of this attitude on his part?

WORRIED PARENTS.

ANSWER: I think that his unwillingness to come to see your daughter in her own home when her parents are there is most unusual, and I should be suspicious of his having sinister designs. A decent, honorable young man would prefer to visit a girl in her own home, where she has the proper background, and to get acquainted with her parents.

My advice to your husband is to make a thorough investigation of this young man's past life before he gives him his daughter in marriage.

Social Situations

SITUATION: You are curious to know how much a friend paid for a new purchase.

WRONG WAY: Say: "Do you mind telling me how much you had to pay for it?"

RIGHT WAY: If you really much know, ask where it was purchased, and find out from the store.

Prefer Farm Clubs To Private Enterprise

NORWOOD, Feb. 17—(ENS)—Trent West Farm Forum met on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warden Garden, when the topic for discussion was 'Food Takes a Ride.'

It was decided that shipping stock and produce through local farm rules was more profitable than by private enterprise. The sinking fund in local clubs pays damages such as loss or injury to stock during transportation. It was thought that freight rates should vary with the prices of the produce.

High freight rates were said to be due to rates of wages paid to employees, this being controlled by unions. The only decision agreed on was to ship stock in fully loaded cars.

Local dairy and creamery trucks with overlapping routes were discussed, and were considered a benefit to the producer by stabilizing prices.

Farm Forum will meet again on Feb. 2 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Rigby.

Members played cards after the meeting, and the men entertained with a hat game. The hostess, Mrs. Gardner, served lunch.

U.S. Senate Calls Acheson To Draft Wording Of Atlantic Defence Pact

Report Biggest Problem What To Promise If Member States Attacked; Americans Don't Want Automatic War Clause

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP).—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today called in State Secretary Acheson for a study of just how to word the proposed Atlantic defence treaty. Acheson's testimony was sought in a closed session called by chairman Tom Connally (Dem., Tex.) for 3 p.m. EST. If the committee approves the wording, the treaty proposal is expected to be submitted at once to other countries in on the negotiations. These include Canada, Britain and four western European countries — France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

By far the most important and, thus far, unsettled issue is the wording of a defence clause—the problem of what to promise if one of the member states of the security system is attacked.

President Truman reaffirmed at a press conference yesterday that American policy calls for the agreement to provide: "unmistakable proof of the joint determination of the free countries to resist armed attack from any quarter."

The attitudes of the various Senate leaders were sharply brought out in debate last Monday. Senators Connolly and Arthur Vandenburg (Rep. Mich.) agreed then that the United States should not make any commitment to go to war automatically.

State Dept. Agrees

This is also basically the State Department's feeling about the defence clause. Authorites say that it is one of the limitations which makes it difficult to draft a treaty which would at once be acceptable here and at the same time provide the western Europeans with the sense of security they want in respect to any possible aggression by Russia.

Some of the western European negotiators have urged the United States to make the strongest possible promise of intention to act in the event of an attack. However, the State Department has, in general, based its negotiations on the provisions of the Inter-American Security Treaty which provides first that all the signatory countries agree that an attack on one of them would be considered an attack on all. It then leaves up to each member the decision as to what steps it should take to meet the attack. It thus sidesteps any commitment to go to war automatically.

Arrest Reporter In Fracas At Paris Plant

PARIS, Feb. 18 (CP)—A Union organizer and a Toronto newspaper reporter were arrested Thursday during a textile strike demonstration outside the plant of Penmans Limited.

The organizer, William Stewart of the United Textile Workers of America (AFL), was charged with being part of an unlawful assembly and was taken to county jail at Brantford. He was refused bail.

The reporter, Jim Hunt of the Toronto Star, was charged with obstructing police and was put in the same cell with Stewart. He was later released on $50 bail and will appear in court Tuesday.

The demonstration, which started late Thursday afternoon, was said to be one of the noisiest since the wage strike started five weeks ago.

The action began when workers at the plant left at 5 p.m. The picket line followed them along the street, jeering at the non-striking workers and at the police who cruised alongside the workers.

Reports said the pickets formed a circle around the police and Stewart was arrested when police broke out the circle.

Hunt and another reporter were said to have run after the car in which Stewart was placed. He was seized and put into the car.

Husband Saves Invalid Woman

TIMMINS, Feb. 18 (CP)—Clad only in underwear in 44-below-zero weather, 68-year-old Thomas Bucknell walked a mile through snow to obtain aid for his invalid wife when their log cabin farm home burned to the ground.

The fire broke out in the cabin a week ago from an over-heated stove, and Bucknell carried his 80-year-old wife to the barn. He then wrapped his feet in rags and walked through drifts to the nearest farm, a mile away.

The story came to light here Thursday when Ralph Rowlandson of Porquis Junction, 30 miles east of here, came to Timmins to enlist aid for the couple.

Rowlandson said the couple lost their clothing, furniture and $180 —their life savings, which had been kept in a tin can.

Not Much A-Defence

LONDON, Feb. 18 (Reuters)—British Army officers were advised to-day that the best defence against the atomic bomb is "not to be there when it goes off."

British Army Journal, a new War Office publication, said the problem of defence against the bomb is "the most awesome of all."

It said that in an atom bomb raid 99 per cent may be casualties, and continued: "The use of rockets to carry the bomb makes the picture even worse. Whether we shall succeed in designing an effective active defence for a long time is most problematical."

Fire On Main Street

WHITBY, Feb. 18 — (CP). —One of this town's main business blocks was threatened with destruction last night when fire from an overheated stove caused $15,000 damage to buildings and equipment. The blaze started in a shed at the rear of the Whitby home appliance store, which suffered an estimated $9,000 loss in stock and equipment. One family, living in an upstairs suite, was forced to flee when smoke seeped into their apartment.

Police Claim Husband Wounds Self

Terrific Struggle Believed Waged In Windsor Dwelling

WINDSOR, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Mrs. Pauline Stancek, 56-year-old mother of three grown children, was murdered in her east side home at about 10 a.m. today and her husband, Michael John, 63, is in critical condition at hospital with what police say was a self-inflicted bullet wound in his head.

Mrs. Stancek's body was found by a neighbor in the kitchen of her home after smoke was noticed pouring from the house.

Fires had been set in three closets, one downstairs and two on the second floor of the small dwelling.

Mrs. Stancek was found in a pool of blood which led from the basement, where there were indications that a terrific struggle had occurred. Her face and head were cut in numerous places. Found on the scene were a blood-stained butcher knife, axe and hammer.

Found In Field

Michael Stancek, the husband, was found in a field across the street with a bullet wound in his right temple. Several witnesses said they heard two shots. Police found a 25 calibre automatic revolver in the right pocket of his coat.

In the operating room he talked incoherently of a fight, but hospital officials failed to catch any details.

Stancek's condition is "not very good," according to hospital authorities.

Smash Window

There were indications that Stancek had been in a struggle. The doors and windows of the house were locked when neighbors were attracted to the scene by smoke. The person who telephoned firemen and police was forced to smash a window to gain entry to the house.

Despite the multiple cuts on her head, which was almost unrecognizable, it is believed Mrs. Stancek managed to crawl from the basement to the kitchen.

The basement floor, furnace and stairs leading to the kitchen were like a shambles.

A son, Julius Stancek, 25, told a Roman Catholic priest that the family squabbles had been going on "for years."

"We went down to the police station about a year ago to get them to do something about him, but they said they could not."

"I'll kill him," was all Julius muttered after he was led from the home. A brother, Victor, uttered the same threat when he was told what had happened.

Julius described his mother as "an angel" who never missed a Communion on Sunday

Neighbors said the brothers worked to pay for the house in which they lived. The father worked intermittently as a laborer.

Life In Hungary Defies Words

PARIS, Feb. 18.—(AP).—Selden Chapin, United States minister to Hungary, said today life in that country "is beyond imagination and defies description."

En route home to report to the United States government on the case of Cardinal Mindszenty, Chapin told reporters last night the arrest of Roman Catholics in Hungary is continuing. He gave no details. The Hungarian government has asked Chapin's recall.

"I can say—and you may quote me on this—that unless a person has actually lived in Hungary or any of the curtain countries and learned from personal observation the facts of life, he or she cannot possibly conceive what life is like."

Regarding the trial and life sentencing of Cardinal Mindszenty on treason charges, the United States minister said: 'You have all seen President Truman's full endorsement of (State) Secretary Acheson's statement. I consider that the secretary's characterization of the trial was stated in measured and restrained terms."

Call RCMP Inspector In Trial

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 18—(CP).—Inspector R. W. Wonnacott, head of the RCMP identification bureau, today testified before the Mackay commission, probing alleged misconduct by eight Crown and police officials. The commission, headed by Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay of the Ontario Supreme Court is investigating the allegations of Provincial Constable J. E. Keays.

Before questioning the inspector, Constable Keays said commission counsel C. P. Hope had issued a summons for Inspector Wonnacott as a witness only after the hearings started.

The constable said the Inspector's evidence might reflect on his credibility and in defence he might have to bring in the names of people not directly concerned with the inquiry.

"If that happens it will be unfortunate, but the Commission is determined to get the facts," Mr. Justice MacKay said.

Ask About Fingerprints

Mr. Hope asked the inspector about fingerprints in connection with the suicide of Jean Badgley in 1947. The prints were found on a rifle near the girl's body by Const. Keays who believed she had been murdered.

The constable sent him the fingerprints of Jean Badgley and those of a "suspect, Harold Hagerman," Inspector Wonnacott said.

He also sent a print, "lifted" from the gun but it was too smudged for identification.

Later, the inspector said, Const. Keays came to Ottawa and was told nothing further could be done.

Inspector Wonnacott said the RCMP preferred prints from the original article, or a photograph rather than a print "lifted" on a rubber impression.

Technical Questions

He said they used "lifted" prints only as a last resort.

Under questioning by Constable Keays, the inspector said lifted finger prints had been used in court work by the R.C.M.P.

For more than an hour, the constable questioned Inspector Wonnacott about technical finger print operations.

Then Constable Keays asked for the inspector's opinion of him.

"I'm overly cautious because I'm dealing with you," the inspector said. "You're known as a smart investigator, I believe it . . . but some of the inferences you made this morning . . ."

He said Constable Keays had been "trustworthy" in all his dealings with him

Constable Keays claimed it would be possible for a police officer to "frame" a suspect with fingerprints and that the Bureau of Identification was forced to rely on the trustworthiness of police officers taking the prints.

Two 'Muscle Men' Attack Toronto Constable Battle Five Policemen Before Capture

TORONTO, Feb. 18—(CP)—Constable Gordon Burgon of the Toronto Police Department was attacked by two men early today, beaten about the head with a stick and kicked.

The two assailants, described by police as powerfully-built "muscle men," continued the battle against four other officers who went to Burgon's rescue.

Arrested on a charge of wounding Burgon were Allan McDaniels, 28, and Frank Branecetti, 23.

Constable Burgon, treated in hospital for head and facial injuries, was returning home from work when the men attacked him.

He said the attack was unprovoked.

Toronto Chinese Protest Police Invasion of Homes

TORONTO, Feb. 18—(CP). —Chinatown is seething with resentment today over a charge of police invasion of privacy which came on the heels of a judge's assertion that colorful Elizabeth Street is made up only of "eating houses and gambling joints."

Dr. H. W. Lore, head of the Chinese community centre, charged last night in a letter to Mayor Hiram McCallum that a city detective carried out an investigation in stores and homes on Elizabeth Street last Wednesday without producing a search warrant. Dr. Lore said the officer was Detective Walter Jarman of the anti-gambling squad.

But Detective Jarman said in a message relayed by his wife:

"There has been no search of any premises. Dr. Lore has made a false statement. They have been trying to get rid of me and Sutton down there for a long time."

Sgt. Harry Sutton is head of the police anti-gambling squad.

Dr. Lore said in his letter that the policeman forced his way into a bedroom in which Mrs. Lee King was dressing, thereby exposing her to embarrassment.

Remarks Rankle

Still rankling among the 3,500 members of Toronto's Chinese community who live in downtown Toronto just west of the City Hall is Judge T. H. Barton's remark about eating houses and gambling joints.

Chinese citizens feel that they suffered loss of face. They say Judge Barton overlooked the hundreds of persons engaged in useful, gainful employment in Chintown.

Gambling? Yes, they say, but it is confined to six or seven establishments, private clubs closed to non-Chinese. Anyway, among the Chinese, fantan and poker are considered pastimes.

General Tries Shanghai Graft

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—(CP).—A New York paper said today in a Shanghai dispatch that Gen. Tang En-Po, the Shanghai-Nanking-Hangkow garrison commander, has been 'putting the squeeze' on the city "on an unprecedented scale."

Quoting Shanghai business men, the paper said the General has asked merchants for 300,000,000 gold yuan a month for distribution to his troops.

"This would place British and United States concerns, if not exempted, in the position of subsidizing one of China's contending armies," the dispatch added.

The problem had been causing concern to foreign Consuls in Shanghai, who learned of the situation yesterday for the first time.

Mediterranean Defence Bloc Outlined By Italy

ROME, Feb. 18 (Reuters)—Dr. Enrico Insabato, 70-year-old Italian journalist, has outlined a plan for a Mediterranean defence bloc stretching "from Spain to the Persian Gulf."

Dr. Insabato, president of a "Mediterranean centre" established to form a group complementary to the proposed Atlantic pact, said last night "the very fact that our movement has aroused such bitter opposition from Soviet Russia shows its necessity."

The organization, now comprising an honorary committee including Italian ministers, would form an executive committee in the next three weeks to organize its first Mediterranean conference in Rome next September or October, he added.

Unofficial representatives from all countries with "Mediterranean civilizations" will be invited. These include Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Romania, the Ukraine, Israel, Greece, Turkey, Syria, the Lebanon, France, Spain, Egypt and North Africa.

Dr. Insabato was secretary of the Italian Peasant Party from 1922 to 1924 and was at one time a member of the Italian Fascist Party but claims he was never active. Centres also are being formed in Spain, Egypt, Turkey and Greece, Dr. Insabato said.

Countries such as France and Italy would be able to belong to both the Atlantic pact and the Mediterranean bloc.

The centre also aims to bring closer the three great Mediterranean religions — Christianity, Judaism and Islam.

McNaughton Stresses National Defence Must Be Given Priority

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Feb. 18—(CP)—The United Nations today tackles anew the deadlocked question of international control of atomic energy.

This warning, issued last night by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada, faces the UN Atomic Energy Commission which meets this afternoon:

The survival of civilization depends on setting up international control of atomic energy.

McNaughton, a top member of the 11-country commission, said that in all matters of atomic energy, national defence must be the first consideration.

The beneficial peacetime uses of atomic energy were limitless, he said, but even minute quantities of fissionably materials in unscrupulous hands, would be a "terrible menace."

The former Canadian Defence Minister spoke before the International Relations Club of Mount Holyoke College at South Hadley, Mass.

McNaughton expressed hope that the "peoples of the Soviet" will finally agree with the majority plan of the Atomic Energy Commission.

In his address, McNaughton boiled western objections to Russia's counter-proposal down to these two points:

1. Russia would not lift "the veil of secrecy in the Soviet territories."

2. Russia would not give adequate control authority to an international agency.

McNaughton said agreement might come through a meeting Canada and the Big Five later this year—as proposed by the General Assembly.

Canada Defeats Austria 8 to 2

STOCKHOLD, Feb. 18—(CP)—Canada today handed Austria an 8-2 defeat in the World Amateur Hockey Tournament to hold on to their slim hope of retaining the world title they gained last year.

Sudbury Wolves, the Canadian entry in the tournament, outscored Austria in all three periods. In the preliminary stage of the tournament, the Canadians trounced Austria 7-0.

Canada rang up a three-goal lead in the first period and then added another three in the second. Austria retaliated with single tallies in the second and third while the Canadians garnered their last two points in the last frame.

Canada Has Two Wins

The victory left Canada with two wins, one tie and a loss so far in the round-robin final portion of the championship play. Czechoslovakia defeated Canada 3-2 on the first day of the finals and Sweden held the Canadians to a 2-2 draw in the second game Last night Canada outclassed the United States 7-2.

Canada meets Switzerland tomorrow in the last game of the tournament.

Czechoslovakia and Sweden are still unbeaten in the play and rule as co-favorites. United States and Austria now are out of the running.

Army Tries To Get Rid Of President's Wife

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(CP).—The New York Times says today in a Buenos Aires dispatch that diplomats there are "convinced that the army within the last week has increased its pressure upon President Juan Peron to get his wife out of public life."

Peron's answer to the army appears so far to have been "no," the dispatch said. He was understood to have threatened to resign if the army continued in its determination to force Senora Peron into the background.

'Since the military apparently has no appetite for a group," the dispatch added, "the situation has reached a deadlock with each side trying to stare the other down."

Uncover Canadian's $100,000 Jewel Loot

$20,000 Worth Of Furs Also Hidden In California Apartment

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Feb 18— (CP) — Dicovery of jewels estimated at more than $100,000 in value and $20,000 worth of furs in the apartment here of a Canadian under arrest in Cleveland was announced by police today. Police Chief Clinton Anderson said the find was made at an address given Cleveland officers by Gerard Graham Dennis, alias Jerry McKay.

Dennis, being questioned in Cleveland by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, also is wanted by Toronto and Montreal police, and by officers in New York State.

Montreal police want him for a series of jewel robberies, while in Toronto, police said Dennis escaped from Burwash Reformatory in Northern Ontario.

Beverly Hills police last night arrested a woman occupant of the apartment, Anderson said, who gave her name as Betty V. Ritchie, 24. She was booked on suspicion of burglary. They also took into custody the occupant of an adjacent apartment and booked him on suspicion of receiving stolen property. He was identified as Julius Bruck, 24, a jeweler.

Anderson said the trunkful of jewelry was in an apartment equipped with a reinforced door and in a closet similarly strengthened. In addition there was $1,000 in cash and extensive equipment for the reconstruction of jewelry.

Also in the partment, Anderson said, was found a scrapbook of clippings from newspaper society pages picturing bejewelled women prominent in Southern California society and movie circles.

Innocent Helper

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y., Feb. 18.—(AP).—Information supplied by a 22-year-old brunette, Gloria Horowitz, was said by police today to have helped in Dennis' arrest.

Police said Miss Horowitz had supplied a description and picture of Dennis which helped authorities in tracing him.

Described by police as a one-time friend of Dennis, Miss Horowitz was said to have met him in a Manhattan cocktail lounge in July, 1947.

Police said she told them that Dennis informed her he was wealthy, and had converted Canadian real estate into jewelry to avoid currency regulations.

He asked her to pawn some jewelry, police said. She tried to do so in July, 1947, in Philadelphia, and was arrested when the jewelry was identified as part of the loot stolen in New Rochelle.

Will Meet All Power Needs Soon Challies Says; Use $10,000,000 Monthly

New Des Joachims Plant To Be In Service By Summer Of 1950; To Have Capacity Of 480,000 Horse Power

TORONTO, Feb. 18—(CP).—Hon. G. H. Challies says Ontario soon will be able to meet all its electric power needs. As vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and the Cabinet Minister responsible for Hydro, he told the Ontario Legislature yesterday that the commission, working on a $10,000,000 monthly budget in 1949, is extending and improving service throughout the province.

Speaking in Throne-Speech debate, he said the new Des Joachims plant on the Ottawa River northwest of Pembroke will have a capacity of 480,000 horsepower, ranking second only to the big Queenstown plant. Four or five of the eight generating units there might be in service by the summer of 1950.

Other plants expected to be in full-time or part-time service next year are those at Thessalon, 60 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie, providing 56,500 horsepower, and on the Nipigon river in the Thunder Bay district, with an ultimate capacity of 160,000 horsepower.

Mr. Challies said wartime controls prevented the Commission from going ahead with major developments between 1943 and 1945.

Need Two Years

Mr. Challies told E. B. Jolliffe, leader of the CCF Opposition, that the Shipshaw power development in Quebec's Saguenay River Valley required two years and seven months to complete, despite "the combined strength of Ottawa and Washington" in obtaining prorities. The first Shipshaw generator was completed in 1940 and the last in 1943.

Recent hydro shortages had been brought about by a combination of unprecedented power demands and water shortages, he asserted. Critics of hydro policies had not only alarmed the public unnecessarily concerning the cause and effect of the recent shortage but also had tried "to paint a sombre picture regarding the future of the entire hydro system."

Following Mr. Challies in the throne-speech debate were G. B. Ellis (CCF-Essex North) who described Ontario Labor legislation as "A Taft-Hartley Act under a new name" and Charles W. Cox (Lib.-Fort William) who called for an embargo on crown timber export from Ontario.

Trying to Cut Rights

Mr. Ellis said the Ontario Labor Code, an adoption of Federal Labor legislation, represented an "attempt to curtail the hard-won rights of organized labor."

The government "might well study the political history of the Taft-Hartley Act in the United States Congress and what happened to the Congressmen and the party who sponsored and legislated it."

Mr. Cox called for an embargo on export of crown timber from Ontario. The province annually exported some 300,000 cords of this wood—enough to keep five "reasonably large" Ontario mills and 2,500 men employed. A timber merchant, Mr. Cox said the government did not impose sufficiently high timber stumpage dues. An additional $1,000,000 in dues could be collected in the Lakehead area.

Power Peak Off 200 hp. During Month of January

Peterborough's power peak in January was off 200 h.p. from the 22,200 level of a year ago, R. L. Dobbin reported to the Utilities Commission Thursday. "During January work continued on the circuits to take power from the new Ashburnham substation. This station is not yet in service due to delay in erection of the outdoor switching.

New primary and secondary circuits to supply the housing project on Rose and Wilson Avenues were under construction. We added 38 flat rate water heaters to the system, making a total of 4,118 with a load of 3,000 h.p.; seventy-six three-wire services and four 2-wire were constructed.

Pumpage for January at the waterworks was 126,608,000 gallons as compared with 115,072,000 last January. This is an increase of more than 400,000 gals. a day.

During the month there was almost continual trouble from frazil ice. This was due to the fact that the river above the dam was free of board ice for the greater part of the month. This allowed the frazil ice to form in large amounts. Men were called out for ten nights to keep the racks open to allow water to operate the wheels which drive the pumps.

The steam turbine was ready at all times to supply water to the city if needed. Work progressed on the 8-in. main on Simcoe St., from Bethune St. to the east of Aylmer St.

Gas production in January was 4,718,000 cu. ft. A years ago, 7,500,000 cu. ft. of gas were made. It was the old type, 450 BTU per cu. ft. This would be the equivalent to 3,000,000 cu. ft. of the 710 BTU gas, showing there is a considerable increase in the amount of gas sold.

The alleged offence took place last Dec. 12.

Fear Crop Damage

TORONTO, Feb. 18 (CP) — Recent thaws followed by freezing temperatures may damage Southern Ontario crops, a spokesman for the Provincial Agricultural Department said Thursday. Water which has frozen during the last 24 hours may smother seedling over large areas of farmland, he said. The spokesman said normal conditions from now until Spring would improve the agricultural situation.

Gives Union Bill Final Reading

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Parliament today will see Royal assent given to the historic bills to bring Newfoundland into the Canadian family of Provinces.

Yesterday, the Commons gave third and final reading to the Newfoundland "omnibus" bill, which will bring Canadian laws into force in the new, 10th province after the formal joining of the countries takes place March 31.

The Senate approved the terms of union and the "address" which asks the King to have the United Kingdom Parliament endorse union by amending the British North America Act. Both already have passed the Commons.

Swift Passage

The "omnibus" bill has to be approved by the Senate, but its passage is expected to be swift.

The Governor-General will then go to the Senate Chamber and give the three measures the Royal assent.

As the bills went through the Upper Chamber, Senator Wishart Robertson, Government Leader, expressed belief Newfoundland was making a wise decision while Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative Leader, urged anti-confederate Newfoundlanders to take their place in the confederation.

In the Commons, the membership completed two days of close-checking study of the "omnibus" bill, a 53-clause measure made up largely of insertions of the name "Newfoundland" into existing Canadian laws to make them applicable to the new province.

Say Immigrants Spreading Red Propaganda

QUEBEC, Feb. 18 — (CP). — Premier Duplessis said last night he had drawn the Federal Government's attention to a "well-prepared, hypocritical campaign" of bring pro-Soviet immigrants to the United States, Canada and to Quebec.

"I am not accusing anybody," said the Premier, "but I definitely am drawing attention of a known fact which anyone can see for himself by use of a little observation."

He said he had observed the activities of pro-Soviet propagandists in his own hotel in Quebec City and added:

"It is clear some of the immigrants coming here are carrying out pro-Soviet propaganda."

He blamed faulty selection for the situation and suggested that some immigrants possibly were unwitting spokesmen of subversive ideas.

Some Influenced

The Premier said some of the Europeans brought to Canada had been "displaced, disoriented, and disorganized" by war and evidently had been influenced by their surroundings in Europe.

But he said he did not understand why the Federal Government permitted "militant Communists to move about freely."

"These people can even go to Moscow to get their instructions and complete and perfect their Communist propaganda courses, and then return here to continue their nefarious work."

Rene Chaloult (Nat.-Quebec) said Canadian immigration policies are partly "racist," designed to upset the Canadian population balance, and 'not sufficiently selective."

He said French, Belgian, and Italian immigrants, carefully selected, should be encouraged to come to Canada and he proposed "moral as well as medical examinations" for prospective immigrants.

Base Metals And Oils Easier On Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 18—(CP) — Prices slipped downhill from yesterday's moderate gains here today. Industrials tended fractionally lower to lose almost all of yesterday's advances. Base metals and western oils were quietly easier and golds moved narrowly on a steady note.

Volume for the first three months at 546,000 shares, was about 8,000 shares more than yesterday's similar period.

A wide list of industrials dipped on losses ranging from fractions to a point.

Senior golds were quiet while juniors showed losses ranging to five cents. New Jason, a feature of recent markets, dipped two cents under pressure of profit-taking.

Torbrit Silver spotlighted a quiet base metals group, adding two cents in a brisk action for a gain of 14 cents in two days.

First PC Voice In Sask. House

REGINA, Feb. 18—(CP).—The Saskatchewan Legislature last night heard the first Conservative voice raised in the House since 1934.

A. McDonald (PC—Moosomin), whose election last June gave the House its first Progressive Conservative member in 14 years, said his election had not constituted any marriage "between the Grits and Tories."

Prior to last June's general election, the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives had met to choose a candidate, he said. The two "old parties" had placed one objective above all others, and that was to oust the Socialist CCF government from Saskatchewan.

Supporting the Liberal Opposition's want-of-confidence vote, the 29-year-old Mr. McDonald charged the Government with failing to remove a "crushing" tax burden on land. He suggested the setting up of an independent commission to build highways, a province-wide wage scale for teachers and action to supply the credit needs of farmers.

Rubber-booted, Pike Pole Wielding Men Steer Ice Blocks In Spring-like Weather

Not the rolling but the possible rolling of Grady's Creek made enviable jobs for three men along its course west of Monaghan Road at Romaine St. this morning.

If you like burning leaves in the twilight of late October, you could go for one of those pike poles and puddle in the creek, to say nothing of slow motion in the sunshine. Maybe after an hour or two, all the allure of keeping the narrow and swollen course free of ice might depart over the Monaghan fields leaving only just another job after the magic had vanished.

City Engineer Chalmers said it was routine—patrolling creeks to prevent recurrence of the original backlogs.

All week the water level has been inching up toward the elm tree and its indelible records of floods that came and went with some local flurry of perturbation. Actually it was only a creek flood, but it was the best you can ever expect in these parts, what with the unblinking vigilance of Tom Ryan on the Trent and Jim Burgess on its Peterborough tributaries.

Those pike pole jobs this morning in the sparkling effulgence of spring, the winding flow of the water, almost level with the brim, and a soft breeze from the south, stirred some coveting spirit to the sensory pleasure that was abroad in hip-rubber boots.

Perhaps it was delusory, that yearning for the fields and streams luminous in the sunshine Possibly to the pikemen, sometimes sloshing across the stream, it was sheer monotony, but, if that be so, they were missing the heady intoxicant of the air blowing with all the tonic freshness of the new spring.

Soviet Plugs Loopholes In Blockade

Increase Patrols Along US Zone To Halt Smuggling

BERLIN, Feb. 18 — (CP). — German police in the Soviet sector began building street barricades to-day to plug loopholes in the Russian blockade of Western Berlin. The work was being carried out near the border between the Russian and American sectors. Police units have been maintaining traffic controls in the area for several weeks to halt "smuggling of contraband" into the blockaded Western districts.

The new road blocks are designed to prevent vehicular traffic from running through police control points.

Iron stanchions were driven into the roadbed of a bridge at the boundary. Paving bricks were torn up at another point and used to build a barricade. Police were stationed at both obstacles.

Thursday night a German who tried to drive a Soviet sector policeman over the Soviet boundary into the American sector was shot and killed by the policeman, Western police headquarters reported.

The Grman, Hrman Aylih, was stopped by the Soviet sector policeman at a control point, headquarters said, and was accused of being drunk. The policeman entered the car and ordered Aylih to drive to the nearest sector police station.

Allyh ignored the order and drove over the American sector boundary. The policeman fired two shots, and the car smashed against a light standard.

Elsewhere in Germany: The Western Allies clamped down on exports from Western Germany to Russian satellite nations.

Feed 300,000 Cattle

FALLON, Nev., Feb. 18 (AP)—The United States Air Force hay lift ended Thursday after feeding 300,000 sheep and cattle starving in Nevada snowdrifts. Since start of the program Jan. 24, air force transports have flown 270,000 miles to drop 1,800 tons of hay to the snowbound stock.

TURNING THE PAGES OF "CANADA UNLIMITED"

Canadian mining industry started with the "Compagnie des Forges" which built the St. Maurice Forges in 1737. For 150 years they processed iron which lay in great deposits along the St. Maurice River.

Mining discoveries grow, making Canada richer. Gold was found in British Columbia in 1858. And when, in 1889, Sudbury Miner revealed a fabulous wealth of copper, nickel and platinum, mining became a major industry and a leading world producer of alloys and precious metals.

The great iron deposits of Northern Quebec and Labrador give far-seeing men faith in the future of Canadian mining. They know there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.

And mining is only one phase of Canada's development. The full story is told in "Canada Unlimited", an illustrated 144-page book published by the O'Keefe Foundation. Two Anglicans Have Served Church 20 and 15 Years

MILLBROOK, Feb. 18—(ENS)—Two members of St. Thomas' Anglican Church who have served as officers for 20 and 15 years, were honored at the annual vestry meeting in the parish hall on Tuesday.

Miss Muriel Smith, who has been secretary-treasurer of the church for 15 years, was voted an honorarium of $100 after the rector, the Rev. C. M. MacLean, church wardens and G. F. Harrington had expressed appreciation of her long service and regret at her resignation. R. I. Fallis, who tendered his resignation after 20 years as rector's warden, was presented with a gift from the rector, who said he had received co-operation and courtesy from Mr. Fallis during his three years in the parish.

Charles Farr acted as vestry clerk, having been appointed to that office by the church wardens immediately before the meeting.

Mr. MacLean thanked the various members and organizations for their co-operation in repairing the fabric of the church and also voiced his personal appreciation of the kindly and helpful reception accorded him during his visits in the parish since coming here three years ago.

One minute's silence was observed for members of the church who had died during the year.

L. H. Winslow, people's warden, presented the financial report showing total receipts of $2,589.78; expenditures $2,266.02; balance, Dec. 31, 1948, $303.76. The allotment for missions had been exceeded, the church has $2,500 invested in Dominion of Canada bonds; receipts for the trust account were $1,907.04, and pledges to the Anglican Advance Appeal have been coming in regularly. St. Paul's Cemetery Board, of which T. H. Collins is treasurer, had receipts of $603.68; expenses, $204.40; and investments amounting to $5,700.

All organizations reported an active and successful year, with satisfactory finances. Generous contributions had been made towards the renovation of the parish hall and the Guild had donated more than $350. to the church wardens.

Finance Problem Looms At Cobourg

COBOURG, Feb. 18—(ENS)—Now that the site of the recreational centre has been finally settled attention has turned to raising the money required.

The town will grant $50,000 but that is contingent upon an equal amount being raised by public subscription. To date about $20,000 has been collected but with the site settled, interest in raising the money has accelerated greatly.

A group of local performers has organized an aggregation which has been called the Legion "Rec" troupe and they will present weekly variety shows to raise funds.

Groups are springing into existence all over town to assist in the drive for money.

Unregistered Gun Brings $15 Fine

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 18 — (ENS)—John Stocker of Seymour who pleaded guilty in police court on Thursday to the charge of unlawfully having a 7-m.m. pistol in his possession was fined $15 and the weapon was confiscated. Stocker said that he had brought the gun from overseas and had neglected to have it registered. The magistrate reminded him that such an offensive weapon was a danger to others populated residential area. H. K. Deyman of Cobourg represented the crown.

Charles Ellis appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter for the third time, regarding two breaches of the building bylaw. The town solicitor, N. A. MacColl said that he had been instructed by the town council to ask the court to give Ellis more time to remove his house outside the town limits. Ellis stated that he expected to have his house removed by the end of next week. The court granted two weeks' extension.

Mr. Drew And Centralized Authority

Yesterday we offered some comment on Mr. Drew's championship of provincial rights in the matter of taking Newfoundland into the Dominion. In this instance we think that Mr. Drew is trying to create an issue which has no real existence, for apparently no province thought it should be consulted in the matter before Mr. Drew raised his point. What is more, the dispute between the provinces and the federal government seems to be dwindling, for seven provinces have completed satisfactory agreements with Ottawa. Only Ontario and Quebec refuse to come to terms. In the approaching general election it will be in Ontario and Quebec that Mr. Drew will look for the bulk of his support. In raising a cry of provincial rights at this time he appears to be appealing to them, and not to the country as a whole.

At various times we have expressed sympathy and partial agreement with Mr. Drew in his battle for provincial rights. We think, as he does, that too great a concentration of power at Ottawa is bad for the country. Nevertheless the trend of the times is toward concentrations of power, and that trend is nowhere more plainly to be seen than in Ontario. Since long before the war the government at Queen's Park has sought to limit the power of municipal governments, restricting their use of the tax-money which they collect, insisting on approving of the buildings which they erect, making regulations for their schools and hospitals and, to be brief, poking its nose into every branch of municipal affairs. When Mr. Drew was in power at Queen's Park he did not appear to object to this concentration of power in the provincial government; indeed, he encouraged it. Yet the principle involved was the same one for which he professes such a great regard in the larger sphere of dominion-provincial relations. Again, we draw attention to the fact the municipal government is a mirror in which the political complexion of a country is clearly reflected; when municipalities are robbed of power, provinces may expect to be pillaged in their turn.

The Irresponsible Press

Premier Duplessis of Quebec is a clever politician, but he does not appear to know much about newspapers. Recently he appealed to businessmen "to force newspapermen to be sensible, to realize their responsibilities and not be friends of disorder"; the press, he thought, should be disciplined "because it is dangerous and shameful to give publicity to disorderly strikes, radical people, Communists, which they do not give to honest, orderly people".

We repeat, Premier Duplessis is a clever politician, but he has a rather hazy idea of democracy. Strikers, radicals and even Communists are God's creatures, even as are the "honest, orderly people" whom he admires, and what they do is news—sometimes very important and significant news. It is a democratic theory that the free distribution of news and ideas is healthier than suppression of these things. Does Mr. Duplessis think that Communism would cease to be if the newspapers stopped printing news about it?

What is this discipline which businessmen are to exercise over the press? Is it the withdrawal of their advertising? If that is so, we must point out that advertisers use newspapers which are widely read for their news and opinions —not tame papers which accept dictation from advertisers or politicians. Businessmen do not attempt to influence papers; they are not such fools.

Mr. Duplessis would like to control the press, no doubt. But he overlooks the fact that the great controller of the press is public opinion; newspapers exist not by the grace of their advertisers, but by the grace of their readers. Public opinion is against the sort of muzzled press which the Premier of Quebec professes to admire.

Canadian Hockey Abroad

A Sudbury hockey team is now on tour in Europe. It is accredited to foreign sports courts as Canada's champion team. People crowd to see what hockey really is like when played as it should be played by a representative team from the country where hockey is as natural as teething. Our touring Sudbury team has played in Britain, and on the continent as far east as Finland. This week it performed in that nation's capital, Helsinki.

It defeated the Finns by only one goal, and Finnish sports writers gathered in the capital to witness the wonders of Canadians on skates have been sharp in their criticism of the Canadian team's performance. They have been asking publicly: "Are these Canadians being merely polite, that they win against us by only one goal? We did not go to the game to see politeness. We went to see hockey. If that is the best hockey Canada can produce, why should Finns spend money to see them play, or Canada money to permit them to play abroad?"

Such remarks cut us to the quick, and must take the ice from under the players abroad. Such a game as the Finnish sportswriters saw makes us at home weep into our skates. Is this Sudbury team staining our national escutcheon? It has lost games in Britain, it has been defeated in Scandinavia. When it reaches Tahiti, must we expect to see the islanders there skating rings around the Sudburians? Come home, O wanderers, before you are utterly lost in European hotels, European politeness and European rinks. Come home and sharpen your skates. Perhaps the next team Canada sends abroad should be a team of dominoes players approved by the Public Relations Officer of the Department of External Affairs. The loss of a dominoes game does not cut as much ice is a poor show in hockey.

Trials Of Czechs

Two major series of trials are taking place this week. One set is in Prague, being conducted by Communist Czech officials. The other is in Munich, before an American military court. In the Prague trials the accused are charged with acting as spies, conspiring to overthrow the Government and giving information to foreign authorities — to men like Sir Bruce Lockhart, a celebrated British agent during the Bolshevik revolution and still an active man. In the Munich trials people of several nationalities are accused of selling important information to the Communist-dominated Czech government. The Americans view the matter so seriously that the trials are secret and even the names of the accused may not be made public.

Coinciding as they do, the two sets of trials seem like tit-for-tat affairs, counter actions at court level. They are not. They do indicate that all is not easy in the state of Czechoslovakia, nor in southern Germany where Americans stand at the Czech border. It must be a remunerative part of Europe for spies, and also a dangerous one. Death penalties may be exacted by both the Czech and American courts. We regret that the Americans find it necessary to keep the trials so secret. Cardinal Mindszenty was tried in public by even a Communist-dominated Hungarian court. It is perhaps a mark of how little peace we have that the trials in the American zone of Germany are being conducted with the secrecy of treason trials in wartime.

Metropolitan Of Ontario

Bishop John Lyons of Kingston has been elected by the House of Bishops of the Church of England in Canada to succeed Archbishop Seager as Metropolitan of Ontario. He is already the head of the diocese of Ontario, but his new office makes him Archbishop of the ecclesiastical province of Ontario—a much wider field.

The new Archbishop was born in Portland, and his whole life as a priest has been spent in Eastern Ontario; he began his career as a missioner in North Frontenac, and before his appointment to his bishopric was vicar of St. Thomas Church, Belleville; it was in 1932 that he became Bishop of Ontario. He is particularly admired as an able administrator.

Archbishop Lyons is well known to the Anglican communities on this side of Toronto and we are sure that they, as well as many of his admirers who are not of his Church, offer him their good wishes and their prayers as he takes his new high office.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A woman columnist suggests a special tax of $1,000 a year on bachelors. To be called the Liberty Tax, perhaps?

There are 20,000,000 unsold pounds of honey in Canada. Enough, almost, to sweeten the international situation.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column, particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

DEAR ALPHA: What is the proper adjective to describe residents of Peterborough?

ANSWER: Your question is open to a variety of spiced answers. However, I assume that you mean an adjective to replace the circumlocution "Peterborough person". "Peterboroughite" is clumsy and looks like a furrow ploughed by a drunken farmer and a knock-kneed horse. "Peterborovian" is too long and the 'v' sound is difficult for the tongue after the burr. "Peterboronian" is easier. "Petroburgian" is linguistically good, but too academic for us in this unlaurelled, fortressless place. I have put your question to Professor Henry Alexander, Associate Professor of English at Queen's University, and an outstanding philologist. He says that such things depend on local usage and is reluctant to approve or disapprove any one adjective. He does suggest "Peterburian" as convenient and not offensive to linguist laws. Since inhabitants of Edinburgh are sometimes called Edinburians, and since Professor Alexander finds nothing against it, it commends itself to me, if not to you.

SIR: Is it true that the first Peterborough teacher who was discovered smoking a cigarette in public was discharged?

ANSWER: No. The members of the Boards of Education have usually been more broad-minded than many of the citizens who elected them to office. The first teacher who ever smoked inside the Prince of Wales School carried on his noisome practice at recess periods in the janitors' boiler-room. One day at noon he became bold. On invitation from the women teachers he took a cup of tea in the sacred Lady Teachers' Room. He lit a cigarette, to the admiration and wonderment of the teachers present. The door into the hall was closed of course. Nevertheless, to make certain that the affair would not become a public whiff, the ladies put an electric fan at the door to blow the smoke out through a secluded window. This teacher has told me that, despite his daring on that day and other occasions, he never ventured to smoke on the way to or from school. That was fifteen years ago.

As long ago as eight years, I saw an Inspector of School (a rural school inspector) in an out-of-town beverage room. He had discreetly come in through the front door, not the beverage-room door, of the hotel. It was his bad luck that I happened to be there to recognize him. However, he pretended not to see me, and I pretended not to see him, and neither of us has mentioned the horrible incident. It is time that our teachers were venerated not as plaster saints, but as teachers and ordinary citizens, who have private lives which they ought to be allowed to lead. The excellent Peterborough Little Theatre, which is at the moment restricted to teachers, shows how many-sided and talented our teachers are. Their dramatic productions are proof that there is for them a reality beyond the young barbarians whom we as parents send to them five days in the week.

WHICH is the proper spelling: cigaret or cigarette?

ANSWER: In the United States, cigaret is often used although American cigarette manufacturers themselves spell out their product in the longer fashion. In Canada, except for some newspapers who think their space is too valuable for the extra -te, the spelling is cigarette.

The suffix -ette is a French diminutive. As a statuette is a small statue, a wagonette a small wagon, a dinette (a horrible coinage) is something small by way of dining-rooms or dining-room furniture, so a cigarette is a small cigar. A suffragette is not a small sufferer, nor leatherette small leather. The latter is not leather at all, and the -ette is intended to indicate an imitation of the real thing.

Cigarette is a French word, but cigar is derived from Spanish ('segar')—hence, probably the not uncommon American pronunciation 'ceegar'. It is supposed that the cigars were so-named for their fancied resemblance to the body of a grasshopper which in Spanish is called 'cigarra'.

THERE have been so many Cabinet changes lately, that I am confused. Who are the present Cabinet?

ANSWER: There are twenty members: Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent (P.M. and President of the Privy Council); Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe (Trade and Commerce); Rt. Hon. J. G. Gardiner (Agriculture); Hon. J. A. MacKinnon (Mines and Resources); Hon. Colin Gibson (Secretary of State); Hon. Humphrey Mitchell (Labour); Hon. Alphonse Fournier (Public Works); Hon. Ernest Bertrand (Postmaster General); Hon. Brooke Claxton (National Defence); Hon. Joseph Jean (Solicitor General); Hon. Lionel Chevrier (Transport); Hon. Paul Martin (Health and Welfare); Hon. D. C. Abbott (Finance and Receiver General); Hon. J. J. McCann (National Revenue); Hon. Wishart McL. Robertson (Minister without Portfolio....he is Government Leader in the Senate); Hon. Milton Gregg (Veterans' Affairs); Hon. Robert W. Mayhew (Fisheries); Hon. L. B. Pearson (External Affairs); Hon. Stuart Garson (Justice and Attorney General); Hon. R. H. Winters (Reconstruction and Supply).

FOR THE RECORD: Men's haircuts in Peterborough now cost 60 cents. That price has been standard for a year and more. It is higher in Victoria (where men, in English fashion, tend to wear their hair long), but cheaper in Montreal. Except for the posh hotel and down-town barber-shops, in Montreal the charge is 50 cents, even though the cost-of-living index in Montreal is usually the highest in Canada. Peterborough barbers take a full day's holiday each Wednesday. Barbers, as a group are remarkable for three things. (1) None ever becomes wealthy. (2) There are remarkably few standard jokes about barbers—possibly because barbers are often the confidants of millionaires and governors, and the friends of hoi polloi. (3) They never seem to become insane—except for the fellow in the Sherlock Holmes story who nearly cut a customer's jugular vein while shaving him, because he had a part-time occupation as official hangman. Barbers are perhaps the only philosophers left in Canada.

Letters To The Editor

SUGGESTION FOR ALDERMANIC ELECTION

Sir: As part of their yearly program, the Triangle Club of the Y.M.C.A. are studying City Administration. In a recent discussion the question of aldermanic representation by wards was mentioned. This brought forth many conflicting views with the result that a compromise, agreeable to all, was reached. We offer this suggestion for what it is worth.

Ultimately there would be elected one alderman from each of the six wards and four city-wide representatives. Five aldermen would be elected each alternate year as at present. Three would be elected by a ward vote and two would be elected by all voters.

By this plan the voters of each ward would have representation on the council and yet there would be four men to represent the interests of the city as a whole. This, we believe, would make for greater interest in the affairs of our city, ensuring a larger municipal vote.

Thanking you, sir, for your valued space, we remain,

THE TRIANGLE CLUB,
Y.M.C.A.

DO FARM READERS LIKE "FARM NOTES"?

Sir: I have been told that you are discontinuing the part of the back page of the Saturday Examiner devoted to Farm Notes, and was asked to get the opinion of our Farm Forum on the subject. The majority hoped that farmers would be given that much space once a week but thought an improvement could be made in the material.

Just as a doctor could not be expected to criticize and advise store-keepers how to run a business or a farmer tell lawyers every day how to attend to legal matters, so those who are not farmers should refrain from daily criticism of farmers. I refer to radio addresses, press articles, or speeches which we hear or read about every day and oftener if we turn on the radio. And along the same line, it is very difficult for a city reporter, even one as capable as Mr. Theobald, to know what farmers want to read, and to see their viewpoints on the matter of prices of goods from the farms vs. prices of city-produced goods and services. Some one at the Forum said that he wasn't interested in a long story about a big herd of cattle or accounts of farm meetings with urban speakers. So much seems to be propaganda to gain higher production and lower prices from farmers.

Perhaps it is a matter of advertising but if city people will not pay high enough prices for farm produce, butter for example, how can farmers advertise?

The editorials on margarine were all in favour of removing a ban on that article, but to be fair, why not write several articles on the high duties on farm machinery which have been in existence for years? Every farmer has to pay out hundreds of dollars extra in his life time just to help the city manufacturer and his employees.

Another editorial pointed out the high total income of farmers, which means little when prices of what the farmers buy, have gone up so high. Even a city man should know that net income or profit is all that matters. Too many farm 'experts' are city men wanting cheap food.

I know your attitude toward liquor, but was that a good enough reason to refuse to publish our account of a Farm Forum meeting in which reference was made to the comparative amounts spent on food and alcoholic beverages and other unessentials? Enclosed is a pamphlet from which quotations were made and which will help you to understand the farm situation.

Recently an article bore a title referring to coal-oil lamps being used many years ago. Do you know that in hundreds of farm homes in Peterborough County, they still have coal-oil lamps, not through choice, but because there never was enough money to install electric power? How do you think farm readers would like that title for a story?

Personally, I do not care whether you keep the Farm Notes or not because I think farmers should not be singled out for attention more than those of any other occupation, but it isn't good policy to think only of your urban readers. I do not know what per cent. of the subscribers live in rural districts, but please understand that we are not the peasants of European countries and we dislike city smugness.

Yours truly,
MRS. L. B. BARRIE.

R.R. 2, Norwood.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While we appreciate the difficulties under which farmers work, we must consider them against the background of the country as a whole. No other group in the Canadian people has been so expensively encouraged and subsidized as the farm group during the past eighty years. Regarding the $800 million spent on liquor in 1946 as compared with $200 million spent on fluid milk, we must point out that more than half the sum spent on liquor was tax, of which some must have gone to pay the subsidy on milk and other farm produce. Regarding electric power, we must point out that when cities were undergoing blackouts, the Ontario Hydro never for a moment ceased its rural electrification work. As for city smugness, we feel that it is at least equalled by rural self-righteousness; farm criticism of urban labour groups is not unknown or unheeded.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and robber. But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out.... And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers....

Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep....

I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture.

The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly. (John 10: 1-5, 9, 7, 9, 10.)

Fine Examples

Field secretary of the Ontario Temperance Federation, Mr. Royal Moulton, offers the names of outstanding athletes who refrain from use of liquor. These include Miss Barbara Ann Scott, skating champion, and Coach Hap Day, former Captain Syl Apps and Captain Teeter Kennedy of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

These indeed are outstanding examples. We believe the Ontario Temperance Federation might make more headway by such positive arguments against the use of liquor than by mere negative condemnation of liquor. At the same time, these athletes are to be commended. Their example can be a fine influence on boys and girls.—Windsor Star.

Newfoundland's Capital Has One-Sixth Of Island's Population

By DAVE McINTOSH

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Feb. 18 (CP)—In the generally accepted meaning of the words, Newfoundland is neither urban nor rural. Canada's 10th province-to-be might be referred to as a "sea - lane" country. With a land area of 152,000 square miles, including Labrador, its seven times as large as Nova Scotia. It has a population of 320,000.

Of this number, 60,000, or more than one-sixth, live in St. John's the capital and only city.

There are only two island towns of any size, Grand Falls, a pulp and paper centre, and Buchans, a zinc-and-copper-mining town. Even Grand Falls depends on a seacoast town for its existance for all its produce must move through Botwood, once-famed seaplane base.

Vast sections of the interior, in both Newfoundland and Labrador, are uninhabited. In fact, there are many sections where no man has set foot.

The bulk of the population is scattered around 3,000 miles of craggy coastline. There are about 5,000 permanent residents of Labrador of which about 1,000 are Eskimos.

St. John's is the oldest city in North America. Though Cape Bretoners question it, some historians say that John Cabot sailed into the harbor June 24, St. John's Day, 1479. It was first settled by Devonshire fishermen in the 16th century.

Sacked by French

The city was twice sacked by the French during the Seven Years' War. It was captured by them in 1762 and retaken by the English in the same year. In the American Revolution and the War of 1812 St. John's was headquarters for the British fleet.

The capital has been destroyed three times by fire—in 1817, 1846 and 1892. Built almost entirely of wood — it still is — it fell easy prey to flames.

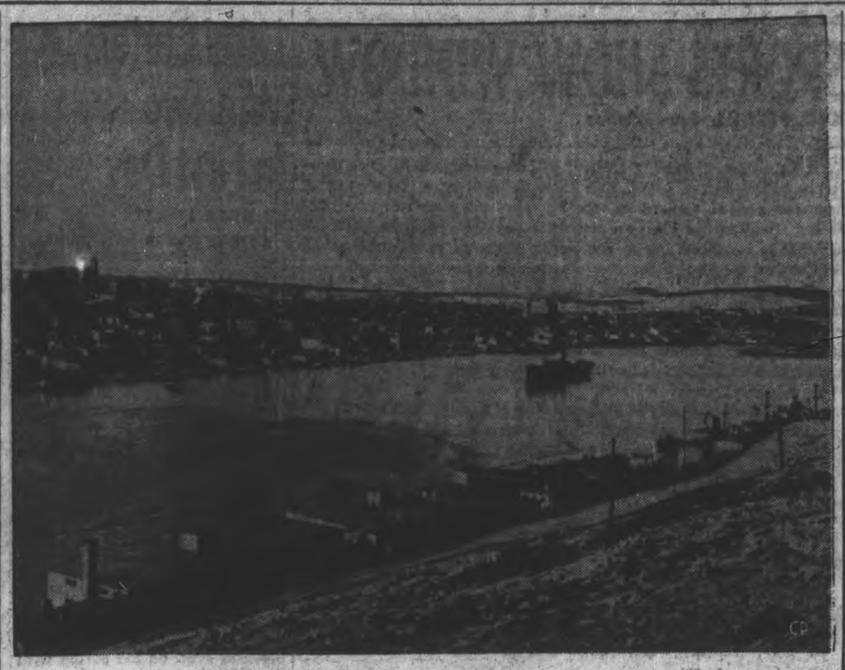
Main town on the west coast is Corner Brook, near the mouth of the Humber River. It is almost entirely owned by Bowaters Pulp and Paper Limited, a British company. The company has taken considerable pains in recent years to lay out the town for its employees and it is probably the most modern in the country.

Both Corner Brook and Grand Falls have a population of about 5,000. Grand Falls is the centre for another pulp and paper industry, Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company. One of its subsidiaries runs the town of Buchans. These three towns are all serviced by the trans-island Newfoundland Railway.

Western extremity of the railway is at Port Aux Basques, southwestern corner of the island. St. John's is on the other end. There is no highway across the country.

Another large town is Wabana, on Bell Island in Conception Bay near St. John's. Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation has taken iron ore from Bell Island for years. The mines employ about 2,000 men. The island is serviced by a ferry from Portugal Cove, nine miles from the capital.

There are half a dozen major fishing centres around the ragged coast, excluding St. John's. These include Carbonear, Burin, Bay Roberts, Harbor Grace, Trinity and Bonavista on the east coast; Grand Bank, Harbor Breton and Ramea on the south; St. Anthony, Twillingate and Englee on the north; St. Barbe, Bonne Bay and Port au Port on the west, and Battle Harbor in Labrador.



THE POPULATION OF Newfoundland is sparsely scattered throughout the island. Only one centre can be called a city and that is St. John's, capital of the island and the oldest city in North America. With a population of 60,000, St. John's has one of the finest harbors in Newfoundland. This photo shows St. John's and the harbor from southside. In the left background cutting the skyline is the Roman Catholic Cathedral.

THIS IS ALSO the centre of much of the commercial trade. The photo shows the storage and paper sheds along the harbor. Nearby the Newfoundland Railway operates large drydock facilities.

Awards Young Widow $3,062 In Damages

TORONTO, Feb. 18 —(CP)— Because Mary Bentley, a widow and mother of a 16-months-old child is "young and attractive and there is every possibility she may re-marry," Magistrate F. H. Barlow awarded her $3,062 when he assessed damages for the death of Mrs. Bentley's husband at $12,000. Her husband was killed in an automobile accident.

Three actions resulted from a collision between an automobile driven by Roy Merlo and a car driven by John Homer Lyons. Thomas Jennings Bentley was killed when he was in the Lyons car. Joseph T. Crothers was a passenger in the Merlo car.

At the court hearing Wednesday negligence of 75 per cent was placed against Lyons. The Judge allowed George W. Crothers Ltd., owners of the car Merlo operated, $1,062 against Lyons and Joseph Crothers received $375. Lyons was awarded $550 in a counter claim.

Queen's Drama Guild Presents 'The Vise'

KINGSTON, Feb. 18 —(CP)— "The Vise" prize-winning Canadian play by William R. Digby, was given its premier performance by Queen's Drama Guild last night.

"The Vise" written by a fifth year collegiate student of London, Ont., was awarded first place in a nation wide contest held last year to mark 50 years of operation of Queen's Drama Guild. Its presentation last night was the first of a series of special events in connection with the Guild's anniversary this week.

Friday a banquet will be held in the great hall of the Students Union with Leonard Brockington, rector of Queen's and Raymond Massey, internationally known actor, as guest speakers. Massey will receive an honorary LL.D., at a special convocation Saturday and will address the student body. In the evening the Queen's Drama Guild will present a fashion show features theatrical costumes some of which date back one hundred years.

Keene News

The Adult Education meeting was held in the Senior Public School, Keene, with a good attendance. Motion pictures were shown "How to modernize our kitchens" and "Crafts and Arts". These were followed by discussions presided over by Allan Eason. An enjoyable social time was spent at the close with refreshments. Much credit for this meeting goes to the school teachers, Mrs. Agnes Walton and Miss Mary Miller. Next meeting will be on March 14 and is open to all parents in the school section.

The intermediate girls' and boys' classes held a Valentine Party in the Sunday School of the United Church when many games were played with lots of fun and laughter. Refreshments took the form of a box social. This well-attended party was in charge of Mrs. A. Fletcher, Mi Mary Gall, Eileen Brown and Tom Gall.

The choir held a skating party last week, followed with a social held in the club room in honor of Muriel Humphries who enters Toronto General Hospital to train as a nurse. Rev. Geo. Murray and Harold Mather, president of the choir, extended good wishes to Muriel who has been a faithful member of the choir and teacher in Sunday School primary class. She suitably replied with thanks for the good wishes.

Ovaltine, the popular food beverage, is an original product It is prepared from an exclusive food combination by a process invented and perfected by its makers.

Ovaltine is much more than just a food drink. It is made from malt, milk and eggs, with added vitamins and minerals, and is easily digested and readily assimilated. It is used as a food supplement and as a relaxing bed-time drink for children and adults.

The world-wide success of Ovaltine has led to the appearance of imitations. But Ovaltine is widely different—in the ingredients used and the method of manufacture. The supreme quality of Ovaltine is the result of long experience and continued research.

Canadiens Breathe Easier Blank Toronto Leafs 3-0

By The Canadian Press.

Back in sole possession of the fourth place— the last National Hockey League playoff berth — Montreal Canadiens breathed a little easier to-day.

The Habitants Thursday night came through with a 3-0 shutout over the haughty Toronto Maple Leafs to move within one point of the third-place Queen City crew.

Prior to Thursday night's contest the Montrealers were tied with the Chicago Black Hawks. Montreal has another chance to widen the gap between them and the Windy City crew Saturday night when they tangle with New York in Montreal.

Centre Kenny Mosdell was the main spark plug for Canadiens as he potted two goals. Rookie Gerry Plamondon, who was brought up from Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior Hockey League last month, notched the other.

Leafs lacked the fight and the color they usually bring with them when they appear in Montreal. Any flashes of scoring power displayed by the Leafs were easily turned away by veteran Bill Durnan who chalked up his fifth shutout of the season.

Wild Bill Ezinicki was given a misconduct penalty by Referee Bill Chadwick after he protested a minor tripping penalty too hotly.

On another front on Thursday night, the condition of Don Raleigh's injured knee was in the news at New York. The New York Daily News said in an exclusive story that Raleigh is through for the season. But Stan Saplin, Ranger publicity director, said no decision has yet been taken by the club on whether or not the lanky centre will play again this season.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A Tely item, discussing senior "A" lacrosse prospects, goes thusly: "Hamilton Tigers, Mann Cup champions, Mimico, Owen Sound, Brampton and St. Catharines, the big five, are sure starters. The Weston situation has been on and off all winter, but the odds are they'll take another fling in the senior boxla game. Peterborough and Oshawa are also senior possibilities and, of course, Fergus can't be counted out of the top flight until the deadline for entries." Yes, Mick Magee and Red Creighton have been busy lately and have seven or eight new senior "A" players promised for the Petes. Meantime, the local minor lacrosse association has its annual meeting tonight at eight at Ken Kingston's house, 21 Manning Ave.

Sports editor of the Sudbury Star is sending a questionnaire around the province. That town supplied the name, the coach and some of the players for Canada's rather disappointing team in world amateur playoffs over in Stockholm. Doug Free, who had been signed with Legion—he's a Campbellford boy—went with the Sudbury Wolves but is out with an injury. The Canucks' style of play is frowned upon by European fans and referees — they don't like our rugged tactics. Personally, we feel any hockey world's championships should be staged in Canada, the home of hockey, and under our rules. With a good team representing this country, there'd be nothing to it.

Forget Such Tourneys

Anyway, in reply to question No. 1 on the Sudbury list—asking if the Wolves should have been assembled earlier for longer play together—we say yes. Should the CAHA have built on the assumption that United Kingdom hockey has improved? Definitely. Did Coach Max Silverman do what he could with his material? Yes. Will Canadian losses be used there as propaganda? Yes, to some extent. Was Canada's sporting rep impaired by English accusations of "rough play"? Probably, but our style is considered okay in North America. Is it worth while to enter such tourneys? No, not under present circs.

Senior "B" group semi-finals up this way should be starting next week. It'll be Toronto Bells vs. Legionnaires in one bracket and Toronto Meteors vs. Petes in the other. These and the finals are all best-of-three series. Legion plays the Petes at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena, while Meteors meet the Petes here Monday. Then, there's one more postponed Legion-Petes' tussle to work in ere the playoffs commence. Meantime, the junior "B" Oddfellows, who ousted Oshawa in group semi-finals, await word on their finals with Toronto. These aswoffs are three out of five.

Ye Olde Curling Centre

Keene canvassers are set to go out after $15,000 in donations for their new skating and curling rink. It'll be erected — probably in time for next winter — just east of the ball field on the old fair grounds. Aluminum roofed, the ice surface will be 170 by 70 feet with a curling ice on each side. Along with Fergus, the Keene Curling Club is thought to be the oldest such club in Canada, having first affiliated with the Ontario body back in 1852. Some memorable competitions were staged there in the past and will be again. Also, district hockey will flourish once more in Keene, with the success of this project.

Shockey's banged their way into top spot in the City Bowling League last gloaming, riding on a six-point win o'er Fashion-Crafts. And Riley's took over second place. Charlotte Jewellers smeared the maples for a 3707 team total and best single effort of 1325. Ross Hopkins led individual trundlers witha threesome of 896, followed by Alf Mattucci, Dick Martyn and Joe Gatfield. Top single try went to Ralph Kitchen with 344, followed closely by Tony White. No less than 14 others hit over the 300 mark, which is respectable batting in any league. Rounding the turn and heading for the stretch, these male bowlers are powdering the pins in fine fashion.

Local Curlers Win Two In First Day

By HERB MARTIN

Curling true to form Thursday in the first day of the two-day Warne Trophy bonspiel for ladies here, Mrs. M. C. Code's Toronto High Park rink and Mrs. Vern Selkirk's local quartette were two-game winners Mrs Code had won the Ontario Ladies' Tankard a week ago and Mrs. Selkirk was Tankard runner-up.

Other two-game winning skips were: Mrs. J. Kearns of Toronto Granite, Mrs. M. Holt of Peterborough (her first time as skip in an open bonspiel), Mrs. R. G. Scott of Lindsay, and Mrs. D. McKenzie of Toronto High Park.

Probably the best shots of the day, the ones counting most, were noticed in the morning game between Mrs. McKenzie and Mrs. G. Wood. A fine out-turn draw through a post to chip out Mrs. Wood's shot won the game. Another occurred when Mrs. S. Livingstone drew on the button with the last stone to win her game. The first extra end was handed in when Mrs. J. Medland had to go overtime to win from Mrs J. Thomas.

The gallery was filled all day with interested spectators, coming and going, as the 28 rinks—21 from outside Peterborough—competed. The Warne Trophy winner will be declared by late afternoon to-day. Thursday results:

Marlboros Lose Heartbreaker To Windsor 7-6

By The Canadian Press

Toronto's battling Marlboros may yet fight through to the promised land—the playoffs of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league.

Still languishing in seventh-place, two points behind Guelph Biltmores who hold the sixth and last playoff spot in the loop, Syl Apps' young charges came close Thursday night when they lost a heart-breaker to the league-leading Windsor Spitfires 7-6.

Windsor took a three-goal lead in the opening period, with Bruce Giesebrecht, Bob Rawlyk and Gerry Lavergne striking for goals. Marlies came back with two more in the same period by Hugh Bolton and George Armstrong.

Spitfires again outscored Toronto 2-1, in the second stanza as John Wilson and Marcel Pronovost tallied for Windsor with Lawrence Regan providing Duke's only goal.

The Marlboros gave Windsor a scare when they tied the score in the third period on goals by Lorne Pirie and Bill McMurray but John Wilson relieved the pressure, scoring his second and third goals for Windsor. Bobby Hassard scored Dukes' last desperate goal in the dying seconds of the game.

Remember When—

Eight years ago tonight Boston Bruins ran an unbeaten streak to 22 games by holding the Toronto Maple Leafs to a 2-2 draw. This improved a National Hockey League record they established five days earlier when they broke New York Rangers' mark of 19 undefeated games set in the 1939-40 season. Bruins extended the streak another game before being stopped by Rangers.

Things gone wrong this whole day long
'Cause mother's gone to curl.

Marmora Victors

LAKEHEAD, Feb. 18 (ENS)—Marmora defeated Lakefield 5-2 in the first of their home-and-home OMHA midget "C" playdowns, the return game being in Lakefield tonight. It was a speedy and fairly clean tilt, though roughing up some in the third when seven of the 10 penalties were handed out.

Brooks scored in the first for Marmora, aided by Mantle, as McCracken counted for Lakefield. Brooks and Mantle each added one in the second, with the latter and Brown earning assists. Calberry tallied in the third for Lakefield from McCracken, as Brown and Darrah scored for Marmora, Hickey assisting on the last one.

PROFESSIONAL NOW—Mary Rose Thacker Baer who was Canada's top woman figure skater in 1940-41 is now a professional at the Vancouver Skating Club. She is the instructor of Jeanne Matthews of Vancouver who is a leading contender for the Canadian senior title to be decided at Ottawa this week. This photo is by Athol.

Believes Pupil Next Ice Queen

By ED ROMAINE

VANCOUVER, Feb 18 (CP)—Mary Rose Thacker Baer, who missed her chance to win the Olympic Figure-Skating Crown because of the war, believes she is training the next holder of the title that eluded her.

Miss Thacker, now a professional at the Vancouver figure skating club, selects 19-year-old Jeanne Matthews to succeed Barbara Ann Scott.

The pretty Vancouver girl is the prize pupil among Miss Thacker's more than 600 students. Runner-up to Barbara Ann in the Canadian championships, she is a favorite to take the title in the meet opening in Ottawa today.

"Jeanne has what it takes and will go a long way in world competition," said the 26-year-old Winnipeg-born queen of the blades, who held both the Canadian and North American titles for four years.

Miss Thacker, wife of a construction engineer and mother of a four-year-old daughter, has lost none of the sparkle and ability that saw her voted Canada's outstanding woman athlete in the 1941 Canadian Press poll of sports writers. From morning until night, she trains young skaters.

With her dreams of attaining the world title gone with outbreak of war she returned to Dominion and North American competition until 1942 before leaving the amateur ice lanes.

Providence Reds Bow To New Haven 6-3

By the Canadian Press.

Providence Reds ran up against the old number 13 jinx last night, and they couldn't match it. The Eastern Division leaders, undefeated in their last 12 starts and who clinched the divisional championship Wednesday night, went down 6-3 before the New Haven Ramblers.

In the only other American League game, Indianapolis Capitals boosted their first place lead in the Western loop over Cleveland to five points by coming from behind twice to beat Buffalo Bisons 3-2 before a hometown crowd.

Sudbury Wolves Outclass U.S. Team 7-2

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 18 (CP) — Canada's fate in the world amateur hockey tournament may well be decided today as the 1949 championships neared a climax.

Canada, the defending champion, held a slim chance of retaining the world crown won by RCAF Flyers a year ago. Sweden and Czechoslovakia, both unbeaten in the round-robin finals, ruled co-favorites. The United States and Austria were out of the running.

Thursday night Canada outclassed the United States 7-2 while Sweden bested Switzerland 3-1.

Against the Americans the Canadians never were behind. Perhaps mindful of the combination of circumstances which had deprived them of victory against Czechoslovakia and Sweden, they scored twice in the first period, once in the second and climaxed the scoring spree with four goals in less than eight minutes of the final period.

Equally Divided

The scoring was equally divided between seven Canadians—Tom Russell, Jim Russell, Joe Tergesen, Don Munro, Bill Dimock, Ray Bauer and Don Stanley. Bruce Mather and Prince Johnson scored the United States goals in the second period.

The game was delayed for 45 minutes at the request of Stockholm police so they could clear crowds away from outside Olympic Stadium. Police took no chances of a repetition of Wednesday night's gate-crashing disturbances which resulted in injury to 14 persons. Thousands had tried to get into the Stadium to see Canada and Sweden play a 2-2 draw.

The United States drew the only penalty of the game—one of the most cleanly played of the tournament. It was a marked contrast to the contests with the Czechs and Swedes during which the Canadians were heavily penalized for "roughness."

Max Silverman, manager of the Wolves, exulted over the victory, asked: "Why didn't they referee the other games like this?"

Chuck Rayner, goalie of the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, spent several hours in a New York hospital Thursday after having suffered a painful reaction to an injection for prevention of hay fever.

Rayner received the injection before Wednesday night's game in which he blanked the Detroit Red Wings, 4-0. After the game his face swelled alarmingly, his temperature rose and he spent a sleepless night.

Taken to a hospital Thursday morning, Rayner was attended by Dr. Vincent Nardiello, Madison Square Garden staff physician. After several hours Dr. Nardiello reported Rayner's condition greatly improved and said he would be able to play against Montreal Saturday night at Montreal.

At Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., a $750,000 arena and recreation centre will be opened Sunday.

Started three years ago, the city-owned project will bring the Soo district's first artificial ice arena, and hockey enthusiasts hope to see the city recapture its previous position in the game. Seating capacity is 4,000 with room for another 1,500 standing customers.

At Rochester, N. Y., Johnny Graham, 133¾, Paterson N. J., gained a technical knockout victory over Joe McPhee, 133½, Oshawa, at the end of the fifth round of a boxing bout here Thursday night. In another bout scheduled for four rounds, Harry Goulding of Oshawa knocked out Bobby Smith of Williamsport, Pa., in 2:21 of the third round.

At Valleyfield, Que., Andre Charest, fleet centreman with the University of Montreal Carabins in the Senior Intercollegiate Circuit, Thursday signed a contract with Valleyfield Braves of the Quebec Senior Hockey League. Charest will be ineligible to play any more games with University of Montreal, who only need one more victory to clinch the college crown.

Two figures in the pro football gambling scandal which led to the barring of former New York Giant stars Frank Filchock and Merle Hapes Thursday asked the United States Supreme Court to review their convictions for bribery it was announced at Washington. The men, Harvey Stemmer and David Krakower, were convicted of offering bribes to the Giant players to throw a crucial game between the Giants and Chicago Bears during the 1946 national professional football league season. Stemmer and Krakower were given five to 10-year prison terms.

At Miami, the once-mighty Armed made the second start in his current comeback attempt Thursday, and as in his recent return to competition, finished third in the $3,500 seven-furlong race. Consistent Gray won the dash by three lengths. Armed, third greatest money-winner in turf history, added a mere $350 to his earnings, which now total $774,000.

Won't Press Issue

TEL AVIV, Feb. 18—(Reuters)—Moshe Shertok, Israeli Foreign Minister, said Thursday night his government will not press the issue of Jerusalem as capital of the new Jewish State as long as negotiations for peace are being carried. Shertok said he believes armistice negotiations with Egypt will succeed and that talks with Trans-Jordan will start shortly afterwards.

Tax Rate Up One Mill At Village of Havelock

HAVELOCK, Feb. 18—(ENS)—Tax rate for the Village of Havelock for 1949 was set at 56 mills at a special meeting of the town council, Wednesday. This is an increase of 1 mill over the 1948 rate.

The county rate is up one mill.

Increases in the village rate is due to funds being required for extra fire fighting apparatus.

The Ministry of Interior said 30 persons were wounded, some by gunfire, as Isola Liri, a town of 10,000 population 50 miles south of Rome. The workers had occupied a paper mill in an attempt to halt the dismissal of 50 employees.

Judy Garland May Be Next Astaire Partner

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18 (AP)—Fred Astaire is spending these days watching his nags run at Santa Anita, but he won't be idle long.

M.G.M. is whipping up a vehicle for Fred and he expects to be back at work. The new picture will not be with Ginger Rogers, with whom Fred makes a return appearance in "Barkleys of Broadway." Judy Garland may be starred.

Meanwhile, the deal for "White Christmas" with Fred and Bing Crosby has bogged down temporarily. Paramount and Irving Berlin can't agree on terms.

A Marx or Two

The Marx brothers were called back for retakes on "Love Happy," but Chico couldn't answer the call. He's playing in England. So Harpo will double for him in the scenes.

Groucho Marx may join the march to CBS with his quiz show. He's still amazed at the success of the program. It's his first air hit after many tries.

Bob Hope was miffed at George Jessel, who narrated the photoplay awards. Bob was ready to reel off some gags, but Jessel cut him out with a "thank you." Jessel's boss, Darryl Zanuck, spoke later.

Oscar?

Jean Hersholt would like to discourage the use of "Oscar" in reference to the Academy Award statuette. But he fears that the name is too deeply imbedded in the national jargon.

Director Robert Siodmak is under contract to Universal-International, but spends most of his time at other lots. He was traded to MGM for Eva Gardner. Now He's doing "Thelma Jordon" for Hal Wallis in exchange for two Burt Lancaster pictures.

"The Lawton Story" will be premiered April 1 in Lawton and Fort Sill, Oklahoma. It's a film-ing of the life of Christ Pageant presented on a hillside near Lawton every Easter. Residents of the two towns act in the picture.

Labor's Plans For New Forest Will Hit The Gypsy Residents

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW FOREST, Hampshire, England, Feb. 18 (CP)—In the House of Lords in London there's fine talk about what they'll do to make more useful the 93,000 acres in the New Forest.

But here, among the trees, Granny Hughes, 80, stirs her supper in an iron pot and mutters gypsy curses on men who would turn her out of her forest home.

This is an old quarrel. Among these trees kings hunted and outlaws took their toll. The common folk had right to graze their beasts in the forest and in time they formed their own government, the Court of Verderers, to which they elected good men to see the forest laws were kept.

For nearly 1,000 years the New Forest trees sheltered the gypsies, the grazing cattle and pigs, the fleet deer. When the trees became old, they were cut down and used to build the ships that defended Britain's coasts.

The feudal rulers vanished, but the commoners remained and the Court of Verderers held its power. The First World War opened the forest for military training and the Court of Verderers took its fee for damage done. It happened again in 1939, and now the Lords say that only these payments saved the ancient court from insolvency.

Time Moves On

In London they say time has moved on and the Court of Verderers now must have representation on government organizations, a further 8,000 acres must be enclosed for forestry and other purposes, and fees charged for grazing must be changed.

The Lords have given second reading to the necessary legislation and soon it will be before the Commons.

Here, these handsome plans seem more difficult than they do in London.

Granny Hughes and more than 100 of her people live in forest glades where there have been gypsies as long as there has been a forest.

"My people have been here longer than the squires and I don't want to leave," said Granny.

In the Lords, they had heard of the gypsies and a peer asked Lord Chancellor Jowitt what he proposed to do about them when the forest changes are made.

Jowitt said it was "an awful problem. . .Unless and until we have found some method of housing these people and some place to send them to, it is very difficult to see what we can do.

"It is fair to say these gypsies have been in the forest for centuries and they have nowhere else to go."

Hope For U.S. Promise Of Military Support

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—Western European countries were reported still hopeful Thursday of obtaining American agreement to some open promise of military support in the proposed North Atlantic Security Treaty.

Diplomatic informants predicted that when the Europeans next meet with State Secretary Acheson they will again press on this point.

They are seeking to include in the defence clause of the treaty the clearest possible statement on unity of the forces of the West against any future aggression.

Warsaw Man F. Crowe Head Cheesman

Fred Crowe of Warsaw was elected president of Peterborough Cheese Producers Association at their annual meeting here Thursday. He succeds George Elliott of Norwood who retired after twelve years as head of the country association.

Stewart Clysdale of Dummer was elected vice-president in the vacancy caused by the death a year ago of Gilbert McIlmoyl.

Frank C. Paterson continues as secretary-treasurer, and the directors are: Arthur Andrews of Norwood; Harold VanVolkenburg, Norwood RR-2; Ralph Garbutt; R. E. Thurston, Bobcaygeon, Charles Lobb, Stewart Tedford and Gordon Fitzgerald.

Ernie Batten and Harry Garbutt were elected auditors.

Mr. Elliott has been annually urging election of some younger member in his place. He said today he had come to the stage of retirement, advised by the consideration of health, and because he felt it was time to place the affairs of the cheese producers in younger hands.

Mr. Crowe paid a little tribute to the service of Mr. Paterson as secretary-treasurer. "I doubt if the organization would have lived if Frank Paterson hadn't been kind enough to be our secretary".

Mr. Paterson suggested that for the good of the industry the directors should arrange to hold three or four meetings during the year.

In regard to margarine, Mr. Crowe said the dairy industry was justified in objecting to its sale as butter.

"I think we are entitled to know whether we are eating margarine or butter," he said. "I am not sure that I could tell the difference between the two when they are both of the same color. But, butter is our color. Some of the States must have laws pertaining to the handling and manufacture of margarine, because I have read that there were 3,890 convictions in the United States on charge of breaking the existing laws."

Cheese Output Down

W. H. Moore, Campbellford, district dairy instructor, said 5,600 fewer cheese were manufactured in the district last year, but dairy farmers generally realized that the cheese industry was one of its important branches and should be maintained against an uncertain future. It had been the support of the dairy industry in the past.

Hector Arnold of Campbellford, president of the Northumberland Cheese Producers and a member of the executive of the provincial association, said there had been recently many evidences of a powerful lobby to keep margarine color the same as butter.

It was decided to request the Hon. H. R. Scott to represent the wishes of the farmers on Ontario that the color they had established for their butter, and the reputation it had attained through the years, should be protected against the substitute margarine.

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP) — Resources Minister MacKinnon Thursday told the Commons he had received British Columbia's recommendation that the Trans-Canada Highway section in that province follow the Banff-Big Bend route through the Rocky Mountains. Predict Baldwin Will Keep Job

LONDON, Feb. 18 (Reuters)—Political circles said Thursday night that Earl Baldwin probably will return to the Leeward islands as Governor. The Socialist son of the former Conservative Prime Minister has been recalled to London for "consultations" after a speech in the Leward Islands Legislature critical of Colonial Office policies.

After a two-hour conference with Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones Thursday night, Lord Baldwin said "there is a lot of good news for the islanders."

Asked if he would return to his duties as Governor, he said: "Well, I hope so."

His remark about "good news" was taken to mean the Colonial Office is sympathetic to reforms he has urged in handling the islanders' problems.

The Colonial Office has all along insisted that Lord Baldwin was recalled merely for consultations on administration, but as he sailed back to Britain last week on a banana boat reports flew thick and fast that he was in trouble over his speech criticizing London authorities. It was said he had offended the West Indies sugar barons by a "too friendly" native policy.

Will Stand Trial

TORONTO, Feb. 18 (CP) — Charged with murder in the Jan. 29 paring-knife slaying of her husband, Mrs. Grace McDonald, 25, was committed for trial Thursday. George McDonald, 27, died in hospital from a 2½-inch neck wound inflicted at a nearby York Township rooming house.

RAINMAKER—Vancouver city officials haven't given him the go-ahead but Donald Johnson of Regina has offered them his services. He says with the help of his little rainmaking machine—a Universcope, he calls it—he can bring rain, lack of which has caused an acute power shortage in lower British Columbia mainland. Johnson claims the revolving magnets of his machine draw clouds, condense the air moisture and produce rain.

Fine Two Men $50 On Assault Charge

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Feb. 18 (CP)—Two Niagara Falls men Thursday were fined $50 and costs on charges of assult causing bodily harm to an 18-year-old girl. The pair—Clair Rusk, 20, and John Kerr, 19—have been in jail since their arrest in Toronto four weeks ago just after the incident.

Kerr pleaded guilty and Rusk was convicted after a hearing at their trial two weeks ago. Today Magistrate John B. Hopkins told Rusk that "if you have made certain threats, you or your family, I suggest you quit."

Kerr testified at the trial that the two drank 23 glasses of beer in Niagara Falls, N.Y., and discussed robbing the girl. They made the attempt in this city, Kerr striking her over the head with an empty wine bottle. When she screamed they fled.

Lid To Come Off Mardi Gras Most Colorful Pageantry Yet

By KRIS KREEGER

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18—(AP)— The lid comes off the Mardi Gras season this Sunday, letting loose the biggest program of public pageantry in the colorful history of this city's ancient pre-lenten carnival.

Just a week from next Tuesday is Mardi Gras, and if anybody acts sane around here by then, he must be crazy.

A New Orleans Mardi Gras is the wackiest binge in North America. New Year's Eve seems like a garden club meeting in comparison.

There'll be 10 days of delirious fun for everybody except the police. More street processions than ever before are scheduled. Except for Monday, there'll be at least one every night or day through Mardi Gras itself, Shrove Tuesday, March 1.

About a hundred thousand people—there's no way to count them — will "mask for Mardi Gras."

No Rules

There are no rules or limits to the masking, allowed from sunrise to sunset, except the legal requirements of decency.

Close to 500,000 people will try to crowd into a few block on Canal Street, the main business thoroughfare, and the lower reaches in intersecting St. Charles Street.

Theoretically they go there to hail Rex, King of Carnival and Lord of Misrule, but the celebrants spend some very pleasant hours before Rex's arrival, entertaining themselves and each other, getting rid of energy and inhibitions.

The day highlight for the city's negroes is the barbaric parade of the Zulus, who ride and march in paint and skins reminiscent of savage Africa. Band leader Louis Armstrong, a native of New Orleans, will be King of the Zulus this year.

Then comes Ash Wednesday, ushering in the quiet of Lent. By then New Orleans will be able to use all the quiet it can get.

Canadian Farmers Assured Of Good Market For Hogs For Several Years To Come

Canadian farmers producing hogs are assured of "a good market for several years to come," said W. E. Tummon of Foxboro, secretary of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association, at the annual meeting of the local producers Thursday at the YMCA. A widespread impression has got abroad that the industry lacks adequate market outlets, Mr. Tummon said, and then quoted export and domestic statistics and estimates on which he said he based his prediction that the market held out encouragement for at least this year and next.

Reeve M. H. Johnston, president of the Peterborough producers, was chairman of the largely attended meeting. R. H. Graham of the livestock branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and Reeve James Gifford, head of the Ontario Cream Producers, followed Mr. Tummon in the afternoon program of concentrated facts relating to their special agricultural interests.

Co-Operation Sought

"We are trying to build up a dependable hog industry in this province," Mr. Tummon said. "It is nothing more than fair that the people most interested should have as much as possible to say how their business should be conducted. We are not trying arbitrarily to force our opinions on others. We have been watching market conditions and costs. Whenever we thought we could help a situation, we stepped in. When we believed at times that prices were going down unnecessarily, we met representatives of the packers and presented our case to them. Many times the price of our product was held up in Ontario because of that co-operation."

Mr. Tummon said that after the interprovincial agricultural conference this year, the metropolitan daily press "came out with reports of a reduced amount of the British contract. The impression was given out that there would be a market for our hogs. That got abroad from one end of the country to the other."

The British price of $36 per 100 lbs., f.o.b. the Canadian seaboard for Wiltshire sides was the minimum in the contract of 1948 continuing to the end of this year.

"The 200-pound hog dressed to about 150 lbs. and that makes approximately 115 lbs. of Wiltshire sides," Mr. Tummon explained. "So, the $36 price is paid on that quantity of pork. Allowance must be made out of it for the cost of processing and transportation. We began 1947 with the price of $25 f.o.b. the seaboard. That was increased to $27 on January 11. On March 18 the government provided a subsidy of 25 cents a bus. on barley and 10 cents on oats, in order that the price of pork to the consumer would be kept at the existing level. It appeared to be a subsidy to the producers Actually it was a subsidy to the consumer. The price advanced to $29 at September 1, but the strike of packinghouse employees closed 70% of all the exporting plants. It continued until October 23rd".

"At the same time the government withdrew the grain subsidy, and the producer had to assume it out of his receipts. He was then assuming it for the consumer. Farmers began to liquidate their breeding stock, and you could hardly give weanlings away."

"In November and December 1947 the average marketing of hogs in Canada was 167,000 a week, and for the first four months of 1948 the average was 116,000. About May, marketing began to decrease, and the Canadian market began to feel the effect of the liquidating of stock that set in at the time the grain bonuses were taken off."

Decline in Production

"Marketings in November and December last year were 67,000 less per week than they had been during the same period in 1947. I have only the figures for January to compare with 1948. Marketings last month were 50,000 less per week than in January 1948. Total number of hogs marketed in January last year was 589,945 as compared with 332,047 last month, a decrease of more than one-quarter of a million."

"During the war, packing plants were on quotas. The average number of hogs consumed in the home market was from 45,000 to 50,000 a week. That was all the government allowed for domestic consumption. When the quotas were lifted September 1, 1947, the domestic demand jumped from 45,000 to 70,000 hogs a week. During the latter part of 1948 down to the present, the domestic market has been taking form 75,000 to 85,000 a week."

Important Factor in Trade

"I wish to point out that our domestic market is an important factor in our trade. Population has increased 1,500,000 since 1939, and of that number 1,000,000 are in Ontario and Quebec. From 1921 to 1931 our per capita consumption was 79 lbs. as compared with 46 to 50 lbs. at resent. If our consumption increased to anywhere near the estimates of 1921-31, we would lack 1,000,000 hogs to feed our own people. That is the situation in regard to our domestic market at present.

During the war Canadian bacon obtained a "toe-hold" on the Old Country market, Mr. Tummon said, but its retailing in Britain "is not what we would like." Ownership, according to the contract, passes into the control of the British Ministry of Food at the Canadian seaboard. "We made certain representations to them, but we were told, to a certain extent, that it was none of our business. We feel that it is our responsibility to see that our products get to the consumer in the Old Country in good condition."

Mr. Tummon explained that if a British retailer orders 300 lbs. of bacon from the government distributors, the order is made up of bacon from various import countries in proportion to the total amounts of those imports. If Canada had supplied 50%, Poland 20%, and Denmark 20%, that retailer was supplied on that basis.

British Consumer Fooled

"Our difficulty is that the British consumers think they are getting all Canadian bacon, whereas they would be actually getting in that example 50% Canadian, 20% Polish and 20% Danish. We are helpless in that regard."

"Only during the war, and on the quota basis, did we come near our contracts. During 1947, we supplied 258,000,000 lbs. of the minimum contract of 260,000,000 and the target of 350,000,000."

"Last year the contract with Britain was for 195,000,000 lbs., and could have been 224,000,000. We exported 158,000,000, or 37,000,000 lbs. less than the contract."

"This year the contract calls for 160,000,000 lbs. our estimate has been that we would get 30,000,000 pounds for the first three quarters of the year, and 70,000,000 for the last quarter."

"I am beginning to doubt that we'll get 15,000,000 lbs. for the first quarter, although I may be wrong. Somehow the impression has got abroad that we haven't a market for our pork, and that must be corrected."

"We have a domestic market for 70,000 to 80,000 hogs a week, apart from the British contract."

East-West Agreement

GENEVA, Feb. 18, Feb. 18 — (AP)—An east-west agreement was reached Thursday on exchange of information to spur trade on both sides of the iron curtain. This was accomplished at the 25-nation European Trade Conference sponsored by the United Nations. The Communist bloc agreed to use import estimates on the organization for European economic co-operation as a basis for discussing what the Communist countries could sell to the west.

Fines Are $250 Punch Board Pin Ball Cases

Defending counsel spent nearly five hours at the city police court on Thursday putting in a defence in gambling charges which the Crown laid against four Peterborough men. Magistrate W. R. Philp convicted the accused, imposed fines totalling $250 and granted an application by the Crown for permission to confiscate a machine which had been used for gambling.

Leonard Girard, 497 Murray St. was found guilty of inducing persons to stake money on the result of a punch board at Leo Girard's barber's shop and was find $100 with $5 costs. Jack Dormer, 654 Charlotte St. was found guilty of a similar offence involving a pin ball table at Jack Dormer's lunch room, 124 Rubidge St. and was also fined $100 with $3.75 costs. Hymie Smith, 348 Burham St. who pleaded not guilty to a similar offence with a punch board at Hycees lunch room, was fined $50 with $5 costs and a case involving Leonard Parliament, 13 Edgewater St., an employee of Jack Dormer who pleaded guilty, was adjourned for a week to allow the court time to investigate a legal technicality.

Magistrate Philp also convicted Charles Griffin, 477 Rubidge St. whose case was heard last week, of keeping a common gaming house at Glen lunch room, 186 King St., and find him $100 with $5 costs and an order was made to confiscate a pin ball machine which has been used at the lunch room.

Magistrate must see Machine

When the Crown Attorney was seeking permission for confiscation of a horse race machine which Leonard Parliament had admitted was used for gambling, T. J. Carley K. C. pointed out that the law did not give the magistrate jurisdiction to deal with the matter until he had seen the particular machine in question. Even if the magistrate was satisfied that it was a gambling machine, or one which could be used for gambling, he could not order its confiscation unless he had seen it, Mr. Carley claimed. Crown Attorney John Bradshaw did not dispute this, but stated facilities were offered to the magistrate to see the machine.

W. J. A. Fair K. C., who was defending Leonard Girard and Hymie Smith, contended in both cases that answers to questions addressed to the accused men by the police when they produced their warrent to search the premises, could not be regarded as voluntary statements.

Prov. Constables John Cronin and D. L. McLachlen, who gave evidence in all the cases, told the court that the accused had been told at the time, that any statement they made might be used as evidence against them. Defending counsel cited previous county court cases in which it had been ruled that statements, made in question and answer conversations with the accused and the police could not be accepted as voluntary statements and the magistrate quoted other instances where it had been ruled that, providing no threats, inducements or promises had been made by the police, such statements could be accepted as having been made voluntarily.

The machine which was ordered to be confiscated was a pin ball machine at Glen lunch room.

Public Opinion Polls Fail When 'Judgment' Needed

Public opinion polls in the United States wrongly predicted the presidential election because the element of "pure judgment" entered the picture. That was the reason given to the Kiwanis Club on Thursday by Wilfrid Sanders, director of the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion, in explaining the pollsters much - publicized miscue.

"Up to a point, in election forecasting, the polls can use their sampling devices which have been proven, mathematically, to be reliable," he said. "But at some point, science goes out the window, and we have to resort to pure judgment."

Three of the most important doubtful elements requiring use of judgment are: what to do with the "undecided" vote; how big the turnout will be on election day; and will a certain pronounced trend for a particular candidate continue between the time polling ceases and election day.

These questions only arise when the polls have to be used for election forecasting, he stated.

Not Found in Surveys

"They do not occur in our between-election surveys of public opinion, in which we are dealing with all the adult population, and are measuring how they feel today about an issue—not what they will do about it in some future date."

"It was in these areas of judgment—what we pollsters refer to as 'twilight areas' that the mistake in the 1948 election forecast occurred."

The Gallup Poll published the day before the election gave Truman 44.5 per cent of the popular vote and Dewey 49.5 per cent. Compared with the outcome these figures were 5.5 per cent too low on Truman and 3.7. per cent too high on Dewey.

As a result of this miscalculation radio comedians and amateur morticians had a field day, he said.

Certain Margin of Error

"Polls are based on sampling and all sampling is open to a certain margin of error," he said. "We have managed to keep this margin within around four per centage points. This means in a close election, it is quite possible

The geranium to beat all other genaniums is a fine, healthy looking plant standing 82 inches above the surface of the soil with five beautiful blooms and four buds. It is a champion plant grown by Mrs. A. J. Campbell at Roseneath, dwarfing all others as it carried away first prize at Roseneath Fair last fall. Mrs. William Platt of Havelock claimed there was nothing striking about Mrs. H. Fine Griffin $100 Confiscate Game

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, ordered the police to confiscate a pin ball machine from Glen Lunch room, 186 King St. and fined Charles Griffin of 477 Rubidge St. $100 and $5 costs for keeping a common gaming-house at 186 King St., at the city police court.

When the magistrate convicted Griffin on Feb. 10, an application for permission to confiscate the machine was made on behalf of the Crown and judgment was reserved until today.

Division Heads Plan Campaign To Raise $75,000

Final Plans for the Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign to raise $75,000 were drawn up on Thursday at a meeting of Division leaders and about 50 members of the Womens' Division at Grafton's.

Ross L. Dobbin, campaign chairman, told the gathering there were two chief reasons for the 25 per cent increase in the objective. The first, and most important, was the $5,000 boost given to the local Red Cross Society to help compensate for the free blood donor service undertaken by that body.

(On Thursday night the Civic Hospital Board of Governors agreed to enter into a contract with the Red Cross to take advantage of that preferred service. The management of St. Joseph's Hospital has also agreed to the proposal).

Last year the Red Cross received $15,000 from the Community Fund, but in 1949 that figure has been increased to $20,000 to cover this extra expenditure.

Rising Costs

The second reason for the larger objective is the rising costs which face the public institutions included in the Community Fund list.

A dinner will mark the official opening on Friday, February 25, in the cafeteria of the Canadian General Electric Co. All team captains and canvassers are requested to attend. W. Earle Gordon, assistant to the president of a Toronto milling firm, will be the guest speaker.

Division leaders and their respective objectives are: G. S. Matthews, Special Names, $22,500; W. C. Hughes, Retail Division, $16,500; I. F. McRae, Industrial Division, $32,000, and Mrs. W. E. Fanning, Women's Division, $4,000.

In addition to these, J. E. Sullivan has been appointed to take care of the donations of the clergy and others in religious orders.

Agencies that will participate in the $75,000 fund are the Canadian Red Cross, Humane Society, Navy League, Salvation Army (local work), St. Vincent's Orphanage, Children's Aid, YMCA and YWCA (local work), Canadian National Institute for the Blind, the Victorian Order of Nurses, Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation, and other agencies officially included by the Executive.

Through this united drive the individual soliciting of these various agencies is eliminated. All are carefully scrutinized by the executive to see that the money allocated to them is spent within the community and of direct benefit to the city and district.

Donors are permitted to indicate which agency they would like their money to help. All donations are deductible from income tax.

Trade Union Officers And Shop Stewards Study Problems Of Collective Bargaining

A two-day school designed to familiarize UE officers and shop stewards with collective bargaining problems, will be held in Peterborough on Saturday and Sunday. It is the first time such a school has been held here.

The week-end project, which is sponsored by the UE Locals 524 and 527 and directed by the Workers' Educational Association, is expected to attract about 125 unionists. Shop stewards, union officers and interested rank-and-file union members sponsored by an officer or steward will be eligible.

Lecturers will be Professor J. F. Finkleman, Professor of Law, University of Toronto, C. L. Dubin, labor lawyer; J. Shapiro, Research Director of the WEA, and Drummond Wren, general secretary of the WEA.

Class will be in the Knights of Columbus Hall, with morning sessions 9.30 to 12, and the afternoon 1.30 to 4.30.

Subjects to be studied at the school will be on contract issues, including: What is an agreement? What is arbitration? Results of Arbitration. How to deal with Management on Grievances and Negotiations. How to write and process a Grievance.

UE officials say this is the first step in an extensive educational program for stewards and officers of the two locals.

Blood Plasma To Be Supplied By Red Cross

Civic Hospital Board of Governors on Thursday night unanimously decided to purchase all their blood plasma through Canadian Red Cross. A contract will be entered into with the Red Gross making it the sole source of supply.

This dovetails with a national plan of the Red Cross to maintain a volunteer blood donor service and supply plasma to patients in hospital without charge.

According to the terms of the contract the hospital will have to absorb the cost of cross-checking blood and the laboratory examination. Some hospitals have found this provision objectionable but the Civic Board of Governors agreed to it unanimously.

T. T. Rodger, treasurer, said "I think it is an excellent agreement ... and I would like to recommend the acceptance of this contract."

"I think it would guarantee healthy blood," said Ian McRae. "With a direct transfusion it might not be so. I understand that all the blood is taken to Toronto and the bad is thrown away."

Dr. S. Y. Walsh approached the subject from a slightly different aspect. "It is a very excellent agreement as far as the service to the community is concerned," he said. "The supply is quite sufficient and we are getting a lot of plasma which formerly was very expensive for the patient."

In reply to a question from another member of the Board he said there was little risk of doctors being prodigal in their use of the blood because it was free. "There's always an element of risk involved, and doctors are pretty careful."

Because of the expensiveness of plasma doctors sometimes hesitated to use it previously, it was stated.

Mrs. E. A. Breckenridge said she thought Red Cross officials would soon check with local doctors if the normal quota of plasma was being exceeded.

John R. Marshall, chairman, explained that up until now the hospital has been charging for transfusions and that as soon as the contract was signed it would have to be free. "It will have to be absorbed in overhead costs," he said.

Brockville Guild Praised At Drama Festival Opening

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 18—(CP)—Three Little Theatre groups got the Eastern Ontario Regional Drama Festival under way Thursday night with plays which adjudicator Robert Speaight described as "honorably done, although at varying levels of accomplishment."

He singled out the Brockville Theatre Guild's production of J. B. Priestley's "The Rose and Crown" as the best performance of the evening.

"The best play of evening elicited the best performance," he said.

The performance as a whole was very well played, but he said the timing "was much too slow." The acting of J. R. Radford as the English plumber was "extremely good," and Mr. Radford had attained a "good" cockney accent.

In an evening in which most of the actors in the three competing groups used either cockney or Scottish accents, Mr. Speaight was not always as complimentary.

"I am amazed at the audacity with which Canadians attempt the most difficult and inexplicable of our provincial accents," he said at the beginning of his remarks about "The Pie in the Oven," produced by Lanark County Junior Farmers.

He praised the Lanark Group for a stage set which was "exceedingly good." The play is set in the interior of a Scottish cottage.

The Sydney box play "Self-made Man," produced by the Civil Service Drama Group of Ottawa, was criticized by Mr. Speaight as a "very crude piece of theatrical writing."

"This is a play that needs treating in a thoroughly imaginative way because it is not a realistic play," he said.

He complimented Anthony Tyler for a "good performance" in the role of the Cockney newsboy who became a millionaire.

Storms Batter Wyoming Anew

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 —(AP)— Colder weather helped check the rash of floods and snow slides in parts of the Pacific northwest states today as a new blast of snow and winds punched weather-groggy Wyoming.

But floods threatened the coastal area where temperatures were higher.

Wyoming, pounded almost daily by snow and wind storms for weeks, was in the path of the fresh mass of cold air which spread into the northern plains and reblocked newly - cleared roads. The mercury fell rapidly after yesterday's readings of above freezing.

The storm moved into Montana and North Dakota and the mercury plunged to below zero in some areas. It fell to five below at Lewiston, Mont., and dropped 29 degrees in six hours at Minot, N.D. The cold wave was headed for the north central states and the weather bureau said temperatures would drop to 15 below in northern Minnesota tonight.

Temperatures were much higher over the central states and seasonable in most other sections of the country.

Rains in western Washington and Oregon left many highways flooded. But transcontinental trains resumed service through the Washington mountains. The colder weather in northern Idaho temporarily halted the slides that threatened the mountainous area.

Fit To Stand Trial

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que., Feb. 18 (CP) — The Maurice Lebel murder-trial jury Thursday night found the 28-year-old trucker from St. Guy, Que., mentally fit to stand trial for the bludgeon-slaying of two men. The jury's verdict ended the trial within a trial opened two days ago when Lebel's counsel pleaded that Lebel was insane. Lebel's trial on a double-murder indictment, arising from the violent death near here last July of L. P. Breton and Wilfrid Dumais of Trois Pistoles, Que., will resume today.

Dr. G. Trueman Dies In Hospital

SACKVILLE, N.B., Feb. 18 — (CP)—Dr. George J. Trueman, president emeritus of Mount Allison University and noted Canadian educationalist, died in hospital today. He was 76.

Elected mayor of this college town by acclamation only a few weeks ago, Dr. Trueman suffered a stroke last Friday and had been unconscious since.

Native of Point de Bute, N.B., he was born Jan. 31, 1872, the son of the late Howard Thompson Trueman and the late Mary (Main) Trueman. His ancestors from Yorkshire settled in Nova Scotia in 1774.

After attending common school he attended the provincial normal school at Fredericton and received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Mount Allison in 1902 and 1904.

Later he studied in Berlin, Heidelberg and New York where he received his Ph.D. degree in 1919. At a special convocation on the centenary of Acadia University in 1938 he received the degree of D.C.L.

Living Endowment Planned By McGill Alma Mater Fund

Graduates of McGill University, residing in Belleville, Oshawa, Peterborough and district are scheduled to meet here on Tuesday night next. The meeting and dinner which will be in the Empress Hotel is being held under the McGill Society of Ontario and at least 80 are expected to attend.

Need for financial support of McGill University is two-fold: first a campaign is being conducted by the governors of the university for over $9,000,000 for capital improvements. These funds are being solicited from Canadian industries. In the second place the McGill Graduate Society is endeavoring to make a contribution through the establishment of a living endowment.

Fees cover no more than a minor part of the cost of a student's education. In times past the remainder of this cost has been provided out of revenue from endowments given to the university by its benefactors. The rate of interest on these endowment has declined greatly, while the costs of educations are steadily increasing.

Through gifts to the McGill Alma Master Fund the graduates and past students are assuming a real part of the responsibility the development of the university.

In attendance at the dinner will be A. H. Galley, chairman and R. T. Payton vice chairman of the fund and also Gordon Nairn of Toronto.

Gordon Munro of Peterborough is the district chairman and extends an invitation to all McGill graudates and former students to attend the dinner.

Praise Private Agencies Helping Released Convicts

OTTAWA, Feb. 18—(CP).—Private agencies are co-operating with Federal penal authorities in establishing a complete and efficient organization to help released convicts, it is disclosed in the annual report of the Penitentiaries Commissioner. "It has been truly said," writes Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson, commissioner, in his 1947-48 report, "that for most prisoners the real punishment begins when the individual is released from the institution. . . ."

The report, tabled yesterday in the Commons, paid tribute to the work of private agencies, notably the Canadian Penal Association which had undertaken establishment of local prisoners' aid committees in all parts of the country. Most of the associations are known as "John Howard Societies," named after a great penal reformer of the 18th century. The Salvation Army was also lauded for similar work.

The report dealt with all phases of the treatment of the 3,851 prisoners of Canada's seven federal penitentiaries.

The Federal government had established grants to aid societies undertaking rehabilitation of prisoners and was co-operating with them wherever possible. Prisoners were urged on discharge to visit the local offices of these societies.

Most difficult time was immediately following a prisoner's release. At the same time, the prisoner normally wished to avoid contact with official representatives of the law or of government, thus the services of private agencies were being utilized.

Good Foundation

"A good foundation in this work has been laid during the current (1947-48) year and it is hoped that as techniques are improved . . . .and as the public generally shows an increasing readiness to assist the released prisoner, that there may be developed a type of prisoners' aid which will be in many respects unique."

Summing up the penitentiaries program generally, the report said:

"The present program lays emphasis on the importance of utilizing the period of imprisonment to assist the prisoner who desires to profit by the opportunities available to acquire knowledge, habits and skills that will assist him in returning to normal life as a law-abiding and self-sustaining citizen."

Senate Studies Bill For Rail Act Changes

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Senator J. A. McDonald (L-Nova Scotia) piloted in the Senate Thursday a bill making three amendments to the 1895 Act incorporating the Dominion Atlantic Railway Company which operates in Nova Scotia.

It would raise from five to 10 the number of directors to give representation to more people in the area, repeal a section governing automatic retirement of directors, and change the date of the Board's annual meeting from the second Friday in October to the second Friday in April.

The bill was given second reading and sent to committee.

The Senate gave final approval to bills revising the lending powers of the Industrial Development Bank, incorporating the Canadian Home Assurance Company of Montreal and ratifying the agreement under which the City of Ottawa took over the Ottawa Electric Railway Company.

Consider Citizenship

OTTAWA, Feb. 18—(CP)—State Secretary Gibson said Thursday night in the Commons the Government is considering amendments to the Canadian Citizenship Act to iron out difficulties which have developed since it was passed in 1947. One of these proposed changes deals with a provision which deprives Canadian women who married foreigners before Jan. 1, 1947, of their Canadian rights and citizenship.

Ask Compulsory Venereal Test

TORONTO, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Compulsory examination of pregnant women for venereal disease is advocated in a CCF amendment given first reading Thursday in the Ontario Legislature.

The amendment, inroduced by W. H. Temple (Toronto High Park), would put responsibility for the examination on the attending physician.

A second amendment to, the Venereal Disease Prevention Act would require hospital and sanatoria doctors to report names of all VD cases coming into his charge for the first time. Mr. Temple's third amendment would require persons about to be married to take a blood test.

Legislature To Air Ballot Controversy

TORONTO, Feb. 18 — (CP) — The ballot-counting controversy which arose following last June's provincial election in Toronto St. George riding will get an official airing next Tuesday when the Legislature's committee on privileges and elections holds its first meeting of the present session.

Following the election, in which Education Minister Dana Porter was returned in the riding, the CCF party alleged that Mr. Porter's plurality was increased through irregularities in compiling results. The number of challenged votes, however, is not sufficient to unseat Mr. Porter even if the CCF charges are proved.

SACRED HEART SCHOOL

The Rev. G. F. Sullivan opened the general meeting Tuesday evening of Sacred Heart Home and School Association.

Mr. T. A. Lister, safety engineer of the CGE, was guest speaker, His address was under two headings. On the first, "Are factories as dangerous as is popularly believed," he said the answer is simple. "Factories in Ontario are, generally speaking, safer than the streets or highways and probably three times safer than the home."

"What chance has my child of escaping injury if, in time, he is employed in a factory?" Dealing with this question, Mr. Lister said: "His chances of escaping injury are governed to a very great degree by you, his parents and teachers. It is a fact that relatively few people think seriously of their own safety. Men and women who are extremely safety conscious where others are concerned will themselves take some most hair-raising chances.

"Women who forbid their small children to cross a street unattended will blithely start a fire in their kitchen range with coal-oil. Men who are in every other respect careful will expose their families to instant death on the highway by driving at excessive speed. In such cases no thought of safety is given until the kitchen range blows up or until a body-shattering crash robs the lives of all or part of the family.

"How much more important then that children be taught safe thinking?" said Mr. Lister. "Then when they grow up perhaps they will escape such fates.

"You help is needed in other places, too," the speaker said in conclusion. "Careless people, whether of your immediate family or friends, must be taught to think of their own safety and the place where this should begin is among you. With the help of parents and teachers everywhere, accidents on the highway, in the home, and in factories may be greatly reduced." He added that the creed of accident prevention is thus expressed, "And the end shall be."

Mr. J. Reil thanked Mr. Lister for the educational talk and assured him it was taken to heart.

Lunch was served by Mrs. M. McDougall and her committee.

MR. AND MRS. DON WESTLAKE of Peterborough, the bride formerly Betty Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moore of Sudbury. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Westlake of Peterborough.

Better Deal for Women Leading Party Policy

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 18 (CP)—The father of seven who earns £6 ($24) weekly and gives his wife £1. 7s 6d. ($7.50) to pay household expenses and rent won't get away with it any more, if Liberals have their way.

Liberal strategists, hopeful of substantial gains in the 1950 general election, are making a drive for a better deal for British women.

A resolution demanding equality of treament for women, in pay and other respects, will be a leading subject of discussion at the party annual conference in March.

The discussion will be buttressed by the support of a report entitled "The Great Partnership," prepared by an inquiry committee of seven women and issued by the Liberal Party.

Mrs. Doreen Gorsky, honorary secretary, a doctor's wife and a mother, said that since publication of a report she has been told of the case of a selfish husband.

When the unfortunate wife found it impossible to make ends meet she looked for work. When she went to the National Assistance Board for help, the only advice this government organization could give her was that she should seek a legal separation and make her husband pay her maintenance.

Suggested Solutions

"It is anti-social to suggest that a legal separation is the only way of solving the problem," said Mrs. Gorsky.

The committee proposals are:

1. A new Married Persons Property Bill which would give a wife an enforceable right to be maintained with her children in accordance with the means of her husband.

2. Special courts to deal with defaulting husbands.

3. Complete legal equality of wives and protection of children in broken marriages by legislation for "adequate maintenance allowances with greater safeguards against evasion."

4. Family allowances, now payable at the rate of 5s. weekly for each child after the first, should be payable for all children.

5. More encouragement to private enterprise to build homes, with better planned kitchens and co-operative marketing to bring down food distribution costs.

The committee said there must be "real partnership" in marriage.

"Although the war is over, there has been little relief to be mothers of the country from the complete absorption of their energies in running of their homes.

"If this continues, women cannot be the sympathetic companions and colleagues which their husbands need."

Younger Girls' Fashions Displayed By Y Juniors

Models were as pretty and sweet as the most charming outfits they wore in the YWCA Junior Council fashion show Thursday evening. Clothes were chosen to present the picture of the well-dressed teen-ager this spring. Hats were particularly charming in design and trim and were well-suited to the new short style of the girls' naturally shining hair.

The revue opened with the schoolgirls' favorite twosome—the skirt and blouse. Skirt variations included the new pencil slim silhouette with wide pleats and button trim, single and double fly-front treatments, kick pleats and triple and full pleated styles. A grey flannel had saddle pockets with zipper top to keep locker keys ever handy. Materials were grey flannel and navy wool and checks, one of red, brown and white.

A brown, long-sleeve blouse was featured with latter skirt, and black jersey made the new classic with goes with grey and a bright scarf for sophisticates. Pretty as a blush and feminine as a sachet, a pink crepe blouse with navy skirt, and others in white with alluring lace trim.

To protect from April showers, one raincoat was modelled, a navy gabardine styled with removable hood, and with it was shown a helmet hat or corded silk. Turtle neck sweaters were featured with slacks. Suits for Easter Sunday and so many occasions were charming on the youthful models. Navy, the important spring color, made a young-timer's outfit of gabardine with pencil-slim skirt highlighted with tiers at each side. The bonnet half-hat, tied at the side, was a flamingo beau-catcher. Gloves matched her hat in color, and the shoes were navy with white piping. Grey flannel, next in high style, appeared in two versions. The belted back jacket of one was open to show a white pique blouse with removable emerald studs and a high neckline, and this was complimented with grey straw hat topped with paddy green flowers and tied with a side bow of grey veiling. A double-breasted style with self-buttons and slash pockets was terribly smart with red stitched-brim casual having quill trim and red accessories. Paddy green was shown with a washable yellow blouse with jewel studs.

Fire-box red wool jersey, studded with silver nail-heads makes a smart teener's all-occasion dress especially when she has a jaunty red hat to match. Fine wool crepe in metallic blue had a collar designed for the knotted pearl necklace, so popular now.

Graduating teas and special afternoons in the spring will see the teener just as dressed up as Mother crepe dresses with unusual draping of the skirts and becoming necklines. With a lovely dress of sky-way blue the model wore cute pink hat and gloves. Back-treatment of cameo blue resembled an old-fashioned cartridge belt and specially suited the petit figure. Navy Printed silk was shown in a sentimental pattern of hearts and flowers and had a quaint portrait neckline.

For glamorous evenings, there was a sophisticated creation of Chinese cherry taffeta, fashioned with a tiny strap over the left shoulder, and a frill with peak-a-boo flowers on the right, balanced by a pouch pocket and flower on the skirt. First party dress for younger sister was suggested by a heavenly blue taffeta with demure neckline and fly-away sleeves. Another party-goer was of sunny yellow taffeta with peplum effect and the floating-type evening dress was in deep turquoise with paler blue net bouffant skirt.

Models were Edith Miller, Melva Lee Doxsee, Margaret Ingram, Lorraine Derry, Wilma Watson and Eleanor White.

Comments were by Ann Winterbottom and Mary Braund, and music was by Eleanor McGee and Margaret Jane Loucks.

Miss Nancy Rowell, Council president, conducted door prize draws and handsome gifts were presented.

Dr. Hitschmanova Pleads For Clothing and Food Aid

A story of war-shocked and war-mutilated children of Europe, to whom a warm garment means life itself, deeply moved every listener to Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova Thursday afternoon. Wearing khaki uniform of the Unitarian Service Committee, she addressed a well-attended meeting of the Local Council of Women in the YWCA Green Room.

"Please, when you go home today, look into your drawers and closets and take out all the used garments you can spare," she pleaded. "If there is no local organization through which they can be shipped, send them to our Toronto address from which we can ship them without cost to some countries, and to others at special rates."

Conditions Better

Speaking as a social and welfare worker who recently spent three months travelling in eight war-ravished countries, on a third inspection tour, Dr. Hitschmanova stressed a statement that conditions had greatly improved during her 12 months absence, especially in England. There had been good crops on the continent last summer which would mean enough grain for black or yellow bread but other staple foods are still very scarce. She herself lost ten pounds and was desperately hungry so that she felt even one egg would help her feel better, but that could not be gotten at the best hotel in Prague.

No Trousers

A model home in Warsaw, housing 128 children, could secure only 13 quarts of milk per day for them. Everywhere there was a lack of underwear, and no layettes were available, even in hospitals, for expected babies. Warm woollen things and particularly men's trousers are so badly needed she said and told of an old man's tragic appeal for trousers to whom she could give only the satisfaction that she would make his story known in Canada.

Shoes are worn by the minority in Europe and as a result many little children have had feet amputated. All UNRAA stocks are completely used up she said and there is nowhere to get them but from used clothing parcels.

"So many other shortages are keenly felt," the speaker said and mentioned soap and thread. Material that has been sent to people over there cannot be made up because no one has thread.

Tragic Children

Dr. Hitschmanova told about thousands of children kept in homes whose vital statistics are unknown, instinctively craving for affection and someone who belongs to them. A staggering figure, 230 million, is the number of children in the world needing help she said. Perhaps most unfortunate of them all she feels are the vagrants who are continually running away and being caught with their pockets full of money and cigarettes. They have been systematically trained by the Nazis to behave like this.

In France there are two homes, one for the war-shocked children who suffer horror memories and diseases brought on by their life in the war years. Many of these have been adopted by Canadians who pay $45 to supply food for three months and clothing textiles. Each donor receives a case history and picture of the child and can write to them.

Second home is for the war-mutilated who have lost limbs, sight, hearing, etc. in bombing raids. Dr. Hitschmanova found that for $150 each of the "amps" could be fitted with an artificial limb at Rowampton Hospital. She returned to Canada and made a radio appeal for enough money to have 58 of them sent there but as yet only sufficient money for 12 has been raised.

Demonstrate Faith

"Our world is sick today, very sick" Dr. Hitschmanova said, but she expressed the opinion that another war will be avoided. For this reason she feels we must give help to Europe.

"I'm appealing to you, not only for a humanitarian reason but for egotistical reasons" she said. "Those children are the coming generation of Europe and it is for our own good to build them into worthwhile citizens. This is a challenge which is open to us to demonstrate that we have faith."

Dr. Hitschmanova showed pictures on the screen with explanations of each and it was evident that children and adults alike have no living comforts left to them in Europe. The smallest parcel that could be sent would mean joy and relief, and the great comfort that comes from knowing someone cares.

Mrs. A. Mason in thanking the speaker, expressed the thoughts of many when she said "I hardly feel I can go home to supper knowing that so many people are without food or clothing." Mrs. G. Rutherford introduced Dr. Hitschmanova.

President, Mrs. Wm. Addyman, also thanked the speaker and promised some form of aid would come from Local Council. Members decided to consider the matter and be prepared to do what they could by next meeting.

Cheerful Workers Celebrate 38th Birthday

Cheerful Workers' Group of St. James United Church was 38 years old this week and members honored the occasion with a delightful birthday tea.

Prettily decorated tables were arranged in the dining room of Wesley Hall Thursday evening to accommodate more than 50 members of the class and their guests. Truly realistic bouquets of pink roses were the centrepieces, flanked with tall pink and white tapers with frills of blue at their base. Place cards were in delicate pink with rose centres.

The Rev. F. W. Craik spoke briefly extending wishes for good success. "Steadfast, spiritual and sacrificial members go together for a good life in the church" he said. "Your class represents a high spiritual tone, your workers are willing to sacrifice their time and they have been steadfast in attendance."

Superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. R. Heard, said there are 25 to 35 members of this large class on hand each Sunday, and all give help willingly.

Mrs. A. E. Prest, class president, welcomed the guests. Also at head table were Mrs. W. Atkinson who has served as president for 21 years, Mrs. R. B. English, a teacher of the class for 20 years, and Miss M. Bowers who is entering a second year as teacher.

Mrs. M. Drysdale, first vice-president, and Mrs. Carter, social convener, were in charge of the tea arrangements. Flowers were made by Mrs. T. Glover.

Mrs. E. Engelbrecht of Toronto, daughter of Mrs. Prest, was guest speaker. She told the day to day details of arranging and making a trip to New Zealand, where she and a seven-year old son spent last year with her husband's family. She encountered many difficulties in obtaining entry into the United States, but finally was able to reach San Francisco, by train. The 7,500 mile trip to port in North Island, N.Z., took 17 days in a small ship that provided few luxuries and an un-co-operative staff.

Natives at port-of-call, Pango (Pago Pago) had become quite Americanized in dress since she had seen them 10 years before she said. Those at the second island stop, Souva, are identified by their extremely wide and long feet, but the men are well-built and otherwise handsome. She displayed samples of their handiwork which they sell on the ships.

A long trip to her destination awaited Mrs. Engelbrecht after disembarkation and this too was filled with reservation difficulties. Hotels in that country are closed at six o'clock each evening and no one is allowed in without a key. Railways are of the Disney type and offer limited accomodation.

Visitors to Auckland are struck by wonderful glass porch fronts on all downtown business places she said. Another amazing thing is the way babies travel in New Zealand. When the mother wishes to board a street car, the conductor helps lift the baby on, steps down and fastens her pram to a hook on the front for this purpose, and returns to his seat with an air of being pleased to render such a service. He also assists when she wishes to leave the car.

Mrs. Engelbrech gave her impressions of the Labor government, and the school system, which she feels is excellent. Salaries of office workers are about half those of Canadians in the same position, so the peonle live on a lower standard. Everyoone indulges in some sport on weekends since all business is closed Saturday.

An immensely interesting film of pictures, taken by the speaker, illustrated her talk.

PRINCESS MARGARET ROSE appears at London's Royal Opera House with Julian Fane, 21, son of the Earl of Westmoreland. Having had several different escorts in recent weeks, the Princess has London newspapers speculating about her romance.

Wife Advised Help Husband Conquer Homesickness

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: We have recently moved 90 miles away from our old home and I am very unhappy. I want to go back and be with my folks and my old friends, but my husband says he has too good a job to give up, which I realize is true. Yet I am very lonesome, although I have a good husband of whom I am very fond and two fine half-grown children.

Do you think I should keep urging my husband to give up his present occupation and move back to our old home in which he would have less opportunity of success, but where I would be happy and contented.

M. M. M.

ANSWER: I have been deluged so often with the tears of homesick wives that I have sometimes thought that a law should be passed that would prevent women from marrying any man who would take them more than ten miles away from Mama. Of course, that is mere wishful thinking, impossible of realization, for by some curious quirk of Fate strangers have a fatal attraction for each other, and men and women are more apt to fall in love with somebody they hardly know by sight than they are with their next-door neighbors.

In all life there are few things more pitiful than the bride who starts off with the husband she scarcely knows to the new home in which she will be a stranger among strangers. Her husband will be at work all day. In a little bird-nest of a house she will have little to do. She will have nobody to gossip with and, no matter how much she loves her husband, there will be times when she would almost give her soul to be back with Mother and the girls.

Older Women Too

And it is not only the brides who suffer from homesickness. There are thousands of middle-aged women who cannot bear transplanting, and who wreck their husband's business rather than move away from Mother or break up their bridge foursome.

It takes a lot of love and a lot of courage for a wife to break all of her old ties and stand shoulder to shoulder with her husband in seeking his fortune in far places, but it is what the worthwhile women of all time have done It is what the pioneer women did when they settled the wilderness It is what every woman does who helps her husband, instead of being a millstone around his neck. Try it, and you will be too busy to be homesick.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: We hear a lot about being Good Neighbors. Fine. But why, in a big city full of organizations giving lectures on How to Live, don't we lay more stress on the little things that would make us more agreeable to have next door? Why, for instance, should it not be de rigeur to wear soft-soled slippers on linoleum and hardwood floors? Why should we not take two hands to close a door instead of slamming it and making everyone within earshot jump?

Why should not able-bodied men and women lift chairs instead of dragging them over the floors? Why not keep radios down to a soft pitch? And why, oh why, take baths at one o'clock in the morning and wake up all the light sleepers? The whole world is struggling to get the Good Neighbor spirit, but how can it succeed when the majority of people think that it doesn't mean them, but YOU?

THE FLOOR SUFFERER

ANSWER: And why should people, who are really not bent on crippling their neighbors, let their children leave their darling little wagons on the steps where everybody is bound to fall over them? Why should your friends borrow your books and never return them? Why should the people who live above you in an apartment have a mania for giving parties that keep everybody awake and threaten to bring down the ceiling on your head?

Why do parents let their children howl and scream at their play instead of being taught to at least moderate their voices? When practically everyone has a telephone, why do self-invited guests never take the trouble to warn you that they are going to drop in for dinner? Why should—oh, but what's the use? We don't even know why we do what we do ourselves.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a boy of 15. I can't do my school work no matter how hard I try, so I want to quit school; but my father won't permit me to do so. Can you advise me what to do?

A. C

ANSWER: I think what you need is to change schools. What you need is not to leave school, but to have some sympathetic teacher study your case and find out why you do not understand what you are trying to do. Can't you talk this over with your father and get him to help you?

Oshawa Asks Tracks Be Moved From Street

OTTAWA, Feb. 18—(CP)—Removal of Canadian National Railways tracks from Oshawa's main street was asked Thursday in brief presented to Transport Minister Chevrier by the city's Chamber of Commerce.

The Minister promised to take under consideration representations of the group who contended that trains being shunted along King street three or four times daily were a menace to safety.

The 41-page brief contended that rail traffic sometimes held up auto traffic on the thoroughfare which forms part of Ontario Provincial Highway No. 2 and that movement of fire apparatus sometimes was impeded.

It contained letters asking for removal of the tracks from the city's businessmen's association and police and fire departments as well as photographs showing holes in the street.

One letter, from P. N. Heritage of Toronto said that on a visit to Oshawa he had damaged his car in the street and "what happened to me shouldn't happen to a dog."

Wants To Know How To Say Newfoundland

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Note to Newfoundlanders:

Some Canadian parliamentarians confessed in Commons Thursday night they are baffled on the correct pronunciation of your country's name.

F. D. Shaw (SC-Red Deer) said during the debate on legislation providing for Newfoundland's union with Canada he heard no less than seven different pronunciation of the island's name. He asked help from the government benches to put members straight.

Defence Minister Claxton, who had a great deal to do with the union negotiations, said he has ben equally concerned about the pronunciation when meetings started with Newfoundland delegates.

However, as time went on he found even the Newfoundlanders used three of four different pronunciations.

"It might be wise to ask for an official submission from Newfoundland to this parliament," said Mr. Shaw.

CAROL WILLIAMS AND BUD JOHNSON, window-shopping after a date in Detroit, Mich., make a purchase through a device which transforms after-hours window-shoppers into cash customers. It's installed in a men's store window. The window-shopper drops a quarter in the slot, speaks his order, name, address and telephone number into a microphone, which is connected to a tape recorder. Each morning a store employee plays back the orders, verifies them by telephone, and then they're filled.

Expect Report On Prices Before End of February

OTTAWA, Feb. 18—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent told the House of Commons, Thursday, the government expected to receive the report of the Royal Commission on Prices which sat during the off-season period, before the month-end.

Trade Minister Howe said the government does not expect any action by the United Kingdom to reduce an unfavorable trade balance with this country by restricting Canadian imports.

The chamber gave first reading to a private bill, introduced by George Cruickshank (L-Fraser Valley), to prevent manufacturers of margarine from giving the substitute the color of butter.

Mr. St. Laurent assured Maritime members that Newfoundland's entry into Confederation will in no way change the application of the Maritime Freight Rates Act, which gives that section of the country preferential treatment on rail hauls.

Old Age Pension

Health Minister Martin said the Federal Government will be prepared to make its old age pension legislation applicable to Newfoundland as from the date of union, dating the payments from that period if that is agreeable to the Newfoundland Provincial Government when it is established in office.

He reported also that family allowance payments in the new Province will total about $8,400,000 a year. The payments will start as soon after March 31 as possible.

John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) brought in the case of the four alleged French traitors, charging that they had been admitted to Canada under "secret" and "illegal" government orders.

Mr. St. Laurent replied heatedly that there had been no secret or illegal orders and suggested to the western member that this was not the time to discuss that case.

Veterans Minister Gregg said Newfoundlanders will get every benefit of veterans legislation that other Canadian ex-servicemen receive.

Union Representative Allowed In U.S.

TORONTO, Feb. 18 — (CP) — The United Rubber Workers of America (CIO-CCL) Thursday succeeded in its third attempt to send a representative to a policy conference at Cleveland Feb. 21-22.

United States immigration officials turned back two union officers previously because they weren't the "right kind" of delegate. Thursday they issued a visa to Percy R. Hyndman, a union member.

President Stanley Thornley and vice-president Arthur J. Battersby of the Toronto union local were denied entry.

Alberta Seeking To Retain Privy Council

By The Canadian Press

Alberta may seek to have the Privy Council retained as Canada's final court of appeal until a special court is set up to take its place.

The Throne Speech at the opening of parliament in Edmonton said the Federal Government planned to make the Supreme Court of Canada the final court of appeal. The Alberta proposal was put forward yesterday in a notice of motion tabled by Attorney-General Lucien Maynard.

The notice said the Privy Council appeal should be retained "until such time as arrangements have been worked out for the setting up of a special court with judges appointed by the Dominion Government and the provnices to act as final court of appeal in all constitutional cases."

The Alberta Throne Speech forecast legislation to augment financial help to municipalities to spend more for highways and to increase the province's health services. It said other legislation would provide for increased pensions, power and irrigation development.

Study of budget estimates for the Trade and Commerce department led Quebe's legislative assembly into discussion of immigration and prompted Rene Chalout, Nationalist member for Quebec City, to assert that more French, Belgian and Italian immigrants, well-selected, should be encouraged to come to Canada.

13 Motorists Fined In Stop Sign Cases

Thirteen motorists were each fined $3 with $2.50 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp K. C. at the city police court on Thursday for failing to obey stop signs.

All the accused pleaded guilty. They were Wallace Donahue, 585 Aylmer St.; William J. Charlton, Regent St., Lakefield; Belle Beverages, 10 Gordon St., Belleville; Leonard Pulver, 205 O'Carroll Ave.; G. L. Woodruff, 17 Anne St.; Donald Barringer, 491 Bolivar St.; Bell Telephone Co., Toronto; Donald Revoy, 21 Bethune St.; Cameron Bennett, 759 Donegal St.; R. Wallace and Sons Canada Ltd., Toronto; Peterboroough Lumber Co., 163 Hunter St. W.; Henry Maloney, Peterborough and Frederick Bruce, Bowmanville.

Thomas J. Gall, Otonabee Township, was fined $3 for not obeying a No Left sign at the corner of Charlotte and George Sts.

A fine of $3 was imposed on S. J. Whitehouse, 198 Park Hill Rd. for a parking offence.

Tax Feud Fizzles Out

PEMBROKE, Feb. 18 (CP) — A purchase-tax feud between a Pembroke jeweller and the government fizzled out Thursday night. George J. Simpson said he has decided not to appeal court convictions on 10 counts of refusing to collect or pay the 25-per-cent luxury tax on retail sales. Simpson has been sentenced to pay fines totalling $2,177 plus $100 court costs. He also had to pay the government approximately $2,000 in tax assessments.

Starts Investigation

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP) — Health Minister Martin said on Thursday night that a report of a dispute between the Roman Catholic Oblate Fathers at Moosonee, and officials of his department over treatment of sick Indians had been drawn to his attention and he had started an investigation. The report was that Bishop Henri Belleau at Moosonee on James Bay had complained that Indians were being deprived of their freedom of choice in hospital treatment.

2-Hour Strike Called In Rome

ROME, Feb. 18—(AP)—Rome's Communist-led Chamber of Labor called a two-hour general strike in the capital today in protest against bloody fighting between police and strikers yesterday.

About 30 persons were wounded in yesterday's clash between police and paper mill workers at Isola Liri, 50 miles south of Rome.

The Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor has called a national 24-hour strike of typographical workers to begin tonight. The stoppage would prevent printing of Toronto's newspapers.

The union has also called a 12-hour general strike in Sicily on Feb. 21 to protest collapse of negotiations in a miner's strike which started 45 days ago.

Police used tanks and armored cars to drive out about 1,000 workers and supporters who seized a paper mill plant in protest against the dismissal of 50 employees. The police had to break through street barricades, wire fences charged with high voltage and a barrage of rocks, hand grenades, chunks of iron and gunfire.

Public Opinion

for this sampling error to fall in such a way that the polls put the wrong man ahead."

In 12 years, covering 403 elections 12 different countries, the average error of 3.9 per cent has been maintained, said Mr. Sanders.

What to do about the "undecided" vote was a big problem to the samplers of public opinion. He claimed there were three possible decisions: If they have not made up their minds by the 12 days before the polling date, they will not vote at all; if they vote they will divide on party lines similar to the rest of the electorate; or finally, they "will d i v i d e between the various parties differently from the rest of the voters, the bulk of them supporting one or other of the parties."

Error in Judgment

Dr. Gallup's experts made the second of these choices using their knowledge of past elections as a guide. They concluded they could safely eliminate the undecided or allocate them on the same basis as the decided people.

"This was a fatal error in judgment," said Mr. Sanders.

The speaker stated that the amassing and co-relating of public opinion is a desirable thing. "(They) provide governments, statesmen, business men, editors, and observers with a tool or gauge, more accurate than the old impressionistic, hunch method of gauging public opinion."

'We feel that the democratic process works more efficiently with such a tool, than it would if the pressure groups, the lobbyists, the fanatics, all of whom claim to mirror public opinion, have free rein."

As an illustration of "an organized lobby on a gigantic scale," he said the United Press made a survey that 90 per cent of letters sent to Congressmen on the subject of compulsory military training opposed the issue. A subsequent poll showed that a majority of the people in the United States were in favor of the bill, concluded the speaker.

Mr. Sanders was introduced by James Fraser and thanked by Ralph Standish. Vincent McCabe, Kiwanis president, was in the chair.

Police Fire At Trio Of Break-in Suspects

TORONTO, Feb. 18 — (CP)— Residents of Toronto's Bloor-Manning district were awakened by gunfire early today when police chased three suspected shopbreakers through the area.

Charged with shopbreaking were John Martin, 17, Robert Schofield, 16, an Albert Shannon, 17. They were arrested two hours after the store of William Pullan had been entered. The youths were spotted by a police officer after they forced a rear window of the store. Several warning shots were fired.

World News In Brief

Taken from Wires of Canadian Press

OTTAWA — Finance Minister Abbott said it was necessary to take steps to prevent Newfoundland dealers or merchants from shipping to Canada after union goods now banned from Canada import restrictions. He was replying to questions by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

EDMONTON.—Alberta will be the first Province in Canada to offer free hospital accommodation and treatment for Arthritis sufferers. The Social Credit Government announced its intention to introduce legislation to "give children and young people" such treatment in the speech from the throne. The speech was ready at the opening of the first session of the 11th Alberta Legislature.

STRATFORD.—Gas consumers were warned to turn off all gas appliances and pilot lights before going to bed as workmen tried to find a break in one of the downtown mains. A. B. Manson, Public Utilities Commission Manager, said there "wasn't much chance of fire breaking out" but that families might be asphyxiated if pilot lights went out and then came on again.

TORONTO.—A request for a special committee to review Ontario's legal education system was made by the County of York Law Association to the convocation of benchers by the Law Society of Upper Canada. The resolution, which asked that lawyers who are not benchers be included on the committee, was submitted before the convocation met in closed session.

TIMMINS. — The body of 54-year-old William Fulford, Timmins bushman, was found beside a trail leading into the bush camp where he worked. Police who investigated said the man died of exposure. Employees of the camp had sought Fulford for three days.

MONCTON, N. B.—Female blood will be used in another of the many efforts made to save the life of a seven-year-old boy suffering from an obscure blood disease. Doctors admit the ailment which has kept Alderie Dionne unconscious for nearly two weeks has them puzzled. So far transfusions, all from male donors, have not been effective.

LOS ANGELES.—William T. (Big Bill) Tilden, 56-year-old former world tennis champion, was sentenced to a concurrent one year term in the County jail. Volunteers Finish Gowns For Choir

OMEMEE, Feb. 17 —(ENS)— Trinity United Church Women's Association enjoyed the hospitality of Miss O. Wilton at their February meeting Wednesday afternoon.

The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. V. Lang, and Mrs J. Hayes sang a solo. The president, Mrs. H. Deyell quoted Mrs. Inglehart, Dominion President, in her message to the Elgin Presbytery WA, where she challenged WA members to line up to their creed and give depth to the church organization. It is the personal touch to young and old, that women can give, that counts." She emphasized individual responsibility and the development of the individual.

The topic, The Poor Widow—The Largest Giver" was presented by Mrs. S. D. Vaughan, featuring the magnanimous judgment of God in the appreciation of one's faithfulness in the use of talents whether large or small, and worthwhile living.

The choir gown committee reported progress in making gown collars, and enough volunteers came forward for their completion. On motions of Miss Wilton and Mrs. V. Lang, it was decided that the treasurer give each member 50 cents for talent money, to be returned with multiple gains at the end of the year. Final arrangements were made for sponsoring a play which is to be put on by Queen St. United Church Y.P.U, Lindsay, in Coronation Hall Omemee. March 17. The play is "Mr. Beane From Lima."

Fists Fly As Labor Reds Defeated On Resolution Backing Russ Peace Offer

Textile Union Delegate Attacks Jackson For Favoring Soviet Plan; Pro-Russians Denounce Atlantic Pact

TORONTO, Feb. 19—(CP).—A meeting of the Canadian Congress of Labor executive council March 24 will decide whether to suspend the Red-tinged Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union from the CCL indefinitely. This was announced by C. H. Millard, a CCL vice-president and the Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), at the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Labor, a CCL affiliate.

Mr. Millard indicated that the CCL is committed to a policy of weeding out Communist leadership from unions affiliated with the Congress. His address was interrupted several times by boos and jeers from Communists among the 200 delegates.

Disagreements over Communist views provoked a mild flurry of fist-swinging after the convention defeated a leftist bid for endorsement of Russian peace offers and for a motion criticizing the North Atlantic security pact.

War Charges Hurled

Pro-Russian speakers, shouting to be heard over comments by hecklers, argued that the North Atlantic pact was aimed at fostering war with Russia. Anti-Communist speakers said the western countries were being forced into the Atlantic pact by the eastern blocs formed by Russia and her satellites.

Joe Bellis, a textile union delegate who said he is of Lithuanian origin, told the convention:

"Since the Russians took over Lithuania, I have not heard from my cousins, aunts or uncles. One woman who got out of the country before she left, 'What's the use of going to Canada? Russia will take it over, too.'

"If any one of us today went to Russia and spoke like Jackson (C. S. Jackson, a pro-Russian speaker) did, they would pick us up in the middle of the night and put us in a concentration camp."

Favors Russ Resolution

Mr. Jackson, Canadian director of the United Electrical Workers (CIO), was one of the principal speakers in favor of the pro-Russian resolution.

The fist fight started near the rear of the hall when the meeting adjourned. Fellow unionists separated the battling delegates.

14 People Killed In Coventry Plane Crash

COVENTRY, England, Feb. 19—(Reuters)—Fourteen persons were killed today when two planes collided in mid-air near here.

One of the planes was a twin-engined Dakota transport of British European Airways, en route from London to Renfrew, Scotland. The other was an RAF Anson Trainer.

Airways officials said the Dakota carried a crew of four and six passengers. The passenger list was temporarily withheld. The RAF plane carried a crew of four. Two of the victims, presumably from the RAF plane, were wearing parachutes which appeared to have opened only partially. There were no survivors.

The Coventry Fire Brigade recovered the bodies from the burning wreckage which was spread over a wide area. Eleven ambulances and nurses from a nearby hospital were rushed to the scene.

The two planes were said to have "disintegrated" in the air after a head-on collision. One eye-witness said that after the crash he saw a "tremendous mass of black smoke out of which a plane fell, twirling like a sycamore seed."

Other bystanders saw a wing fall off one of the aircraft.

Today's disaster was the worst air crash in Britain since last October 22 when 40 persons were killed in the crash of a Royal Dutch Airlines plane at Prestwick, Scotland.

Osgoode Course Left Unchanged

TORONTO, Feb. 19 — (CP) — The system of legal education at Osgoode Hall Law School here will not be changed at present and the Law Society of Upper Canada will give further emphasis at the school from classroom to law office training.

In a statement released Friday following a closed session of the Society's convocation Thursday, Secretary W. Earl Smith said that the convocation, which includes all Benchers of the Society, is willing to study the question again.

The convocation also deferred action on the resignations of Cecil A. Wright, Osgoode's dean, and three other professors who resigned in protest against the recommendations made a month ago by the Society's Legal Education Committee.

Woman Charges Husband Shot Her

BRANTFORD, Feb. 19 (CP)—"Harry shot me" Mrs. Harry Connop told police officers Friday after they learned a shotgun blast had ripped through her left arm shattering one bone.

Her 38-year-old husband is being held in connection with the shooting at his four-room cottage which police found littered with broken beer bottles. There was a smashed window in the kitchen and two holes in the ceiling and wall of the living-room caused by discharges from a 20 gauge shotgun.

At hospital, following emergency treatment by Doctors J. A. Lind and Victor Kleider, Mrs. Connop told Provincial Constable Stern Welsh: "He took the gun all of a sudden, fired a shot into the ceiling and then shot me."

A PETERBOROUGH RINK skipped by Mrs. Vern Selkirk missed the Warne Trophy by the narrow margin of one point in the Ladies' District Bonspiel which ended on Friday. The local team scored three wins and a plus of 33, while a Toronto rink had three wins and a plus of 34. The Peterborough rink is shown at Top, Left to Right: Mrs. Selkirk (skip), Mrs. George Greene, Mrs. Jack Watts, and Mrs. Arthur Malby. Keep A-Energy Discussion Alive

LAKE SUCCES, NY, Feb. 19—(CP). — The Western Powers and Russia to-day are making another attempt in the United Nations to reach agreement on the tough problem of international control of atomic energy.

Yesterday the UN Atomic Energy Commission unanimously accepted Caanda's proposal to ease further work on the subject by setting down the Soviet and the Western views in simplified form.

Western delegates expressed little hope that Russia would be won over to the majority's control plan.

But the proposal made by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada at least kept the talks alive. At the previous meeting of the Council in May, 1948, the majority urged that further discussion was useless because of Russia's refusal to yield an inch.

The General Assembly last fall endorsed the majority reports by a vite of 40 to 6 But it refused to allow the Commission to stop work.

Besides helping any further work by the Commission, the exemplified and clarified material would help in the coming meeting of the Big Five and Canada on the question.

LEAVES CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—(AP) — Argentina Friday officially pulled out of the 56-country international wheat conference, but wants to keep the status of an observer. Juan Scarpati, Argentina's chief delegate to the talks, said he had received instructions from Buenos Aires to withdraw from further discussions.

Preliminary Talks To Begin With Mao

NANKING, Feb. 19 (Reuters). —Preliminary peace talks between Communist Leader Mao Tse-Tung and Shao Li-Tze, member of the Shanghai Non-Party Peace Mission, are expected to start within a few days, messages from Peiping said to-day.

The talks will be held at Shihchichuang, about 160 miles south-west of Peiping, and present administrative centre of Communist - occupied North China.

Meanwhile 30,000 Chinese Nationalist troops are undergoing training on Formosa Island along the lines of United States Army forces, the New York Times says to-day in a dispatch from Kaohsiung on Formosa.

Promise Government Aid For Community Centres

TORONTO, Feb. 19—(CP).—All Ontario municipalities are eligible for government help in building community centres by a bill given second reading in the Ontario Legislature. The Legislature met yesterday at 1.30 p.m. instead of the usual three o'clock to let out-of-town members leave early for the week-end at home. Premier Kennedy said he hoped this would be the custom each Friday.

Mr. Kennedy said the Community Centres Act is designed to "build character" and reduce the number of "ganster youngsters." The bill will extend to all municipalities the provisions of the Community Halls Act which now applies only to townships, villages and, in certain cases, towns. It provided grants of up to $5,000 for construction of the centres and an additional $10,000 for skating arenas. The Premier said the bill would likely be amended in the committee stage to provide for swimming pools.

Discussion of a routine amendment to the Crown Attorneys Act brought from CCF Leader E. B. Jolliffe the suggestion that the attorney-general's department appoint full-time crown attorneys rather than part-time men who must divide their attention between crown cases and private practice.

Unable To Prosecute

Some crown attorneys are unable to prosecute criminal cases because the accused is a former client, a partner's client, or a relative of the crown attorney, the official opposition leader said.

Attorney - General Blackwell said his department "wherever practicable" appointed permanent full-time crown attorneys. This was possible in communities such as Oshawa and Welland which were large enough to keep a competent man busy and could afford to pay him "a decent salary."

To appoint full-time crown attorneys in all Ontario communities, however, would mean a "tremendous raise" in the department estimates and would not be justified by amount of work available for the attorneys to do.

Cardinal Sends Peace Letter

BUDAPEST, Feb. 19—(AP)—A usually well-informed source said today Hungary's Roman Catholic Bishops have received a letter from Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty urging state-church peace.

The Bishops met privately yesterday, the informant said, but adjourned without making a decision on the letter.

The letter was said to have been written after Cardinal Mindszenty's trial earlier this month. The Cardinal was convicted Feb. 8 of treason, espionage and black-market money dealings and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Yesterday's meeting was the third the bishops have held since the cardinal was sentenced. The bishops left Budapest for their church residences in the country without making any statement.

The informant said Cardinal Mindszenty advised the bishops "to come to an agreement with the government." The imprisoned Roman Catholic primate was said to have added that he would work in the interests of such a compromise (with the Communist-controlled regime) if he were meeting with the bishops.

The bishops, the source continued, made a "profound study" of the letter without announcing any decision. It was reported that some bishops believe they cannot act without previous consent of the Vatican.

Others were said to have suggested that Cardinal Mindszenty should write directly to the Holy See instead of to the bench of bishops.

Ask For Increase

OTTAWA, Feb. 19. — (CP).—A suggestion that the Canadian National Railways be given enough revenues to cover its $44,000,000-a-year debt charges was made to the Board of Transport Commissioners yesterday. Testifying in support of a general 20-per-cent freight-rate increase for the railways, T. J. Gracey, C.N.R. comptroller, told the Board the National line at current traffic levels should be able to earn "considerably more" than $44,000,000 a year.

Gets 8-Year Sentence

SIMCOE, Ont., Feb. 19—(CP) —Tried twice on a charge of murdering his housekeeper's husband, 44-year-old Seth Linton now faces an eight-year term for manslaughter.

An Assize Court jury yesterday found Linton guilty of manslaughter, but not guilty of murder in the rifle-butt slaying of Lew Stewart, 44. Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier, in passing sentence, said Linton had "fair trial."

Conciliation Board Fails In Deep-Sea Union Dispute

OTTAWA, Feb. 19 — (CP) —A conciliation board, hearing a dispute between deep-sea ship owners and the Canadian Seamen's Union (TLC) reported today it had "failed at conciliation" but recommended that the companies hire seamen either through union offices or through the seamen's section of the National Employment Service.

The board reported that the principal issue in dispute was a demand of ship owners that the practice of obtaining unlicensed seamen through a CSU-operated hiring hall be abandoned.

It recommended "on this fundamental question" that the companies agree that all unlicensed personnel engaged by them in Canada be hired either through the union office or through the seamen's section of N.E.S. "without discrimination against union members."

The board's recommendations came in the form of draft terms of an agreement which it said "should be embodied in the new agreement to be made between the union and the ship owners."

It recommended no change in current wage rates of $170 a month for able seamen, overtime rates or basic hours of work at sea or in port.

The board, presided over by Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, Theodore Meighen of Montreal, company nominee, and John Kerry, Montreal, union nominee, began sittings last November.

Ex-Teacher Hiding Part Of Loot

"Just Can't Imagine It's Our Betty," Shocked Parents Say

FENELON FALLS, Feb. 19—(CP)—Mrs. John Ritchie of Fenelon Falls said Friday "I just can't imagine how it could be our Betty" who was arrested Friday at Beverly Hills, Calif., on suspicion of receiving stolen property. Betty Ritchie, former Toronto school teacher, was arrested in connection with $600,000 jewel robberies attributed to Gerald G. Dennis, a 29-year-old native of Homer, a small community 40 miles east of Timmins.

Friends in this community 15 miles north of Lindsay said Betty was a "heavenly" beauty and were astonished at news of her arrest. She had visited her parents just before Christmas.

In a Beverly Hills apartment, which Dennis gave as his address, police Thursday night said they found behind heavily reinforced doors a trunk containing rubies, diamonds, pearls, loose gold, silver and platinum valued at $100,000.

In the apartment in Beverly Hills where the jewels were found police arrested Miss Ritchie on suspicion of burglary. She said she entered the United States illegally about 18 months ago.

Beverly Hills police said Miss Ritchie undoubtedly will be deported to Canada no matter what disposition is made of charges against her.

Terrible Shock

"This is all a terrible shock." Miss Ritchie said when arrested. "I didn't know what he was doing. He told me he made his money during the war and said he was going to open his own business, manufacturing an invention of his own for an automobile.

"I thought I loved him but I don't love him any more."

Westchester authorities said they did not expect to bring Miss Ritchie to New Rochelle, N.Y., where Dennis was arrested because of the expense and because they did not think she would be able to offer much help in the case against Dennis.

At New Rochelle, Dennis, described by authorities as one of the greatest jewellery burglars on record, is said to have admitted Hollywood notables were his next intended victims.

Once of Toronto and Montreal, he is suspected of looting wealthy homes of the east and west coast and in Canada of $600,000 in jewels and furs.

He was arraigned here yesterday on charges of first-degree burglary and felonious assault, and held without bail for a grand jury.

District Attorney George M. Fanelli, of Westchester county, NY, said Dennis told him he had been planning his next forays at homes of various screen figures, including:

Jack Benny, Bette Davis, Eddie Cantor, Edgar Bergen, Olivia de Haviland, Dorothy Lamour, Harold Lloyd, Mary Pickford.

Passenger Train Derailed In Mountains

BANFF, Alta., Feb. 19.—(CP). —An investigation was launched by railway officials today into the derailment yesterday of a Canadian Pacific Railway transcontinental passenger train. Only one of the 150-odd passengers aboard the train suffered serious injuries.

The main line No. 3 train, westbound for Vancouver from Toronto, was derailed on a sharp curve three miles east of here near the site of a ghost town known as Old Bankhead.

The accident was believed due to a split rail, possibly a result of the intensely cold weather prevailing in Alberta.

Seriously injured in the accident was 71-year-old Mrs. Mary Bunting of Winnipeg who was en route to Vancouver. She suffered severe head injuries and shock, but was reported in "satisfactory" condition in Banff hospital today.

T. Wood, superintendent of the Calgary division and other C.P.R. officials went to the scene to investigate.

More than a dozen passengers suffered minor cuts and bruises. Scores escaped with nothing more than a shaking-up as nine coaches of 13-coach train hurtled off the rails.

Four of the nine cars turned over on their sides—three of them baggage and mail coaches—while the rest remained up-right although thrown off the tracks. The passenger cars were jackknifed together in a snow-filled creek bed beneath towering Cascade Mountain. More than 500 feet of trackage was torn up. The two locomotives remained on the track.

Doctors and nurses went from Banff to attend to the injured. A wrecking train was sent from Calgary and by evening was clearing the wreckage and laying temporary track.

F. W. Adams of Glen Ewen, Sask., said if it hadn't been for the steel coaches, it would have been far worse.

26 Killed, 33 Hurt In French Rail Crash

PARIS, Feb. 19.—(Reuters) — Death toll from last night's express-train crash near Port d'Atelier in southern France today rose to 26, with 33 gravely injured.

Altogether 59 persons including women and children, were reported injured in the collision between the Metz-Dijon Express and a locomotive.

The accident occurred shortly before midnight when the express hit a lone locomotive travelling in the opposite driection.

Top Mercy Search Station Will Continue After Union

GOOSE BAY, Labrador, Feb. 19.—(CP).—This big base, assuming an ever-increasing importance on commercial airline and interior development and defence routes, retains the role of No. 1 mercy and search station of the north country.

When the multi-million dollar base becomes Canadian in territory as well as accomplishment following the March 31 Confederation deadline, there will be little noticeable change in its activities.

The RCAF represented by Group Capt. Jim Verner of Ottawa and his staff, will continue as landlords. The United States Air Force will continue as chief tenants.

Some of these problems have just been discussed by Verner and his immediate chief, Air Commodore Frank White, eastern air chief, who with Wing Cmdr. Broadie Searle, second in command, has just visited the base.

Looking after the wilderness city that has its own power, telephone, bus and public works utilities and its own school, bakery, post office, bank, stores and theatres, is possibly secondary to its main mission of mercy.

Accessible only by air most of the year and never connected with civilization by a land link, Goose Goose gets tired explaining to grounded casual travellers that the local telephone can't handle calls to Washington and there is no way of making alternate rail reservations as the nearest rail head is nearly 1,000 miles away.

Goose is the end of the line for Canada's search and rescue contribution to the international civil aviation organization and its RCAF unit, working closely with the American Air Force, has everything from dog sleds to a hospital at its disposal.

Car Crash Ends Race With Police

Const. O'Donoghue Arrests Driver In House Lane

After a 60 mph chase through the city streets at 1.30 a.m. today which resulted in two cars being completely wrecked, Arthur Stewart, 500 Park St. was arrested.

Stewart led the police a long chase around town before his car crashed with another car driven by Morgan Crough of Omemee at the corner of Reid and London Sts. and then he was followed four blocks along streets and through side alleys, and was finally arrested after the police had fired two warning shots.

Stewart is now on remand on two liquor charges.

It all started, according to reports when Constable V. J. O'Donoghue, who was covering his beat along Charlotte St. saw a car swerving along the road at a fast speed. When the constable signalled the driver to stop, the car forced him off the road onto the sidewalk and continued at high speed east along Charlotte St.

The constable took over another car driven by George Sullivan, Roger St., and chased Stewart through the city. They went along Charlotte to Aylmer St. north on Aylmer to London St., along London St. to George St., north on George to Parkhill Rd., on to Water St. south and along Water and London Sts. to Reid St. when Stewart's and Morgan Crough's cars crashed and were completely wrecked.

Stewart then ran and was chased four blocks on foot, through streets and side alleys and was arrested only after the police had fired two warning shots.

After Stewart's car had crashed it skidded onto the sidewalk, through a thick cedar hedge, coming to rest on the lawn in front of a house.

Constable O'Donoghue reports that Stewart was under the influence of drink. One empty and two full bottles of beer were found in the car.

Divide Money Among Charities

OTTAWA, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Defense Minister Claxton said Friday it was felt that the great majority of men concerned would approve the decision to turn wartime navy prize money over to the navy and RCAF benevolent funds.

He gave to the Commons a statement which apparently was prompted by objections which have arisen in some parts to a step which, for the first time in centuries, denies the men who sailed the wartime seas the fruits of their captures.

A navy magazine said recently $3,000,000 will come to Canada as its share of the Commonwealth pool arising from captured enemy ships. Two-thirds of it will go to the Navy Benvolent Fund, the rest to its RCAF counterpart, since the air force took a major part in sea battles. Both funds are meant to aid financially distressed veterans and servicemen.

Blast Part Of Plot To Kill U.S. Doctors

BEVERLEY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 19. (AP) — A shattering blast rocked a fashionable residential district Friday. Police said it was a part of a plot to dynamite doctors and members of the Industrial Accident Commission.

Booked on suspicion at the time of the blast was the man police identified as responsible. He had been picked up when an officer found him lighting a fuse outside the home of a commission doctor.

In custody in hospital, where he was taken after a diabetic attack, is William J. Ward, 51, former shipyard worker and prospector. Authorities said enough dynamite to "blow up half the town" was found in Ward's pick-up truck.

Three Children Die In Fire As Neighbors Hold Mother Back From House

Believe Sparks From Cookstove Started Blaze In Tar-Paper Shack While Mother 19 Out Getting Some Water

WOODSTOCK, Feb. 19—(CP).—Three small children died in a flaming one-storey house while their 19-year-old mother had to be restrained by friends from rushing into her tar-paper home here yesterday. The victims, Michael, three; Larry, two, and Judy, two months, children of Mr. and Mrs. David Stephenson were in bed when fire levelled the dwelling on the outskirts of this city.

"My babies are in there—all three of them," Mrs. Stephenson screamed when she was called from her mother-in-law's house next door where she had gone to get some water.

Believed caused by sparks from the cookstove, the fire spread rapidly through the cardboard-walled house. The mother-in-law caught the frantic mother as she was about to plunge into the blaze in a rescue attempt.

Pulled Away

"She got to the door which already was on fire," said the elder Mrs. Stephenson. "I got hold of her skirt and managed to pull her away. But I saw that her head, arms and face had been singed by the flames."

Three other neighbors threw the young mother to the ground and sat on her to keep her from dashing into the fire after her children. The father, a factory worker who was unemployed until recently, reached the scene only after the home was in ashes. The mother was later taken to hospital where her condition is reported as "not serious."

The house was a blazing inferno when firemen arrived a few minutes after the alarm was received. No decision has been reached regarding an inquest.

Say Economic Outlook Not At All Alarming

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—(AP)—Two high government officials said Friday they see no reason for alarm over the United States economic outlook.

But one cautioned against "quitters:" the other acknowledged that the latest figure of nearly 3,000,000 jobless represents more than just seasonal unemployment.

Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, top economic adviser to President Truman said the United States is going through a period of "healthy disinflation," but warned that any trend toward panic might lead to a recession.

Ewan Clague, the government's chief labor statistician, said that despite increases in unemployment, he couldn't see any cause for worry unless the number jumps to 5,000,000 jobless and stays there.

Control Policies Attacked By Two Groups

OTTAWA, Feb. 19—(CP)—The government's control policies came under two-way attack in the Commons yesterday, with CCF members demanding that the restrictions be continued and Progressive Conservatives urging they be modified.

It was a repetition of debates which have taken place in the Chamber in each session since the war as the government has asked for power to continue wartime controls which it feels should be continued in this peacetime period.

It developed this time on legislation preliminary to a bill to continue for another year controls in rentals, steel, timber and the prices oof such foods as butter, bread, sugar, canned fruits and other dinner-table staples.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner stepped into the debate to defend the government's control policies and report that butter for example had been brought under control because speculators had purchased it at low prices and sold it for high prices.

Need Control on Butter

He favored some kind of continuing, permanent control to regulate the price of butter, but said the government did not nave the authority to exercise such control.

In the Senate Chamber the Deputy Governor-General gave Royal assent to Canada's legislative instruments to cement the approaching union of this country and Newfoundland.

Possibly 60 members of Parliament, all those in the Commons at the time, answered the summons to the Senate in the late afternoon to attend the historic ceremony which marked the end of Canada's part in the union negotiations.

Assent was given to the terms of union, another measure to make Canada's laws applicable to Newfoundland after union and an address asking the King to have the United Kingdom Parliament amend the British North America Act to make union effective.

In the Commons, Solon Low, Social Credit Leader, sharply criticized the government as the "main culprit" in the high cost of living through its taxation policies and said its attitude had been "tyrannical." It had over-taxed the people by $600,000,000 through indirect and hidden levies.

Mr. Low said the Canadian Congress of Labor, encouraged by the CCF party, was partly to blame for high prices because of its "blind and determined" drive for high wages which had the effect of causing prices to rise.

The Government, he went on, had boosted living costs by collecting $600,000,000 more in taxes than it needed. Another price stimulent had been its action in imposing taxes on machines which had resulted in lower production costs.

P. Towns, Rochester Buried In Douro

Paul Towns, a Douro resident for most of his life, was buried at St. Joseph's Cemetery, Douro, on Friday. Requiem Mass was celebrated in St. Joseph's Church, and the Rev. J. J. McCarthy said the graveside prayers.

He leaves three daughters, Mrs. George Brown, (Catharine), Mrs. Walter Ingham (Lillian) and Miss Treasa; two sons, Emmet and Raymond; a brother Joseph, all of Rochester; a sister, Mrs. Alfred O'Connor of Detroit. His wife, the former Catharine Hutchinson, also lives in Rochester.

Many relatives and friends attended from Toronto and Rochester.

Drew Launches Press Sessions

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

OTTAWA, Feb. 19 — (CP) — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader Friday launched a weekly series of press conferences and the opener was more than an hour's discussion ranging from constitutional amendments to sartorial splendor of political leaders.

Mr. Drew told reporters that he wanted immediate dominion-provincial action to permanently determine the method by which Canada should obtain amendments to the British North America Act.

He claimed that this could be done before March 31, the day on which Newfoundland is scheduled to become the 10th province of Canada.

That was why, he said, he opposed the joint parliamentary petition to the crown for B.N.A. act amendments necessary to confirm the union, without prior consultation with the provinces.

Defeated In House

His efforts to that end were defeated by house votes earlier this week. Prime Minister St. Laurent has claimed that if Mr. Drew's efforts had succeeded it would have delayed union beyond the March 31 deadline on which terms of union were based and thus nullified all the long negotiations leading to agreement on the terms.

Mr. Drew declined to say what his attitude would have been if one or more of the provinces had opposed the union legislation.

But he said he had no doubt that by "consultation" a "satisfactory result" would have been achieved.

Mr. Drew exchanged lengthy arguments on this point with press gallery constitutional "experts" but parried all efforts to pin him down to a detailed explanation of what he had meant by "consultation" and "satisfactory result."

He told the correspondents, as he has already told the House of Commons, that he fears the use of Gander Airport as an international cross-roads of the air will be prejudiced when Newfoundland becomes a province of Canada.

Another Uproar

A storm blew up over the report of the credentials committee against seating delegates from the Port Colborne local of the smelter workers. It was stated the delegates were not seated because of failure to pay the per capita tax. The Sudbury local of the union—both embrace International Nickel Company works—said the tax was unpaid because it is held in escrow in a jurisdictional dispute with the workers and the Canadian Congress of Labor.

"It is a strange thing that the people who are questioning the credentials committee's report are the very people who refused to take their part in the last provincial election," said Mr. Millard, a C.C.F. member of the Ontario Legislature.

The convention by resolution demanded repeal of the new Ontario Labor Code and its replacement by other labor laws.

George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers Union (CIO), charged that management already is using certain clauses of the act to "smash unions." He said one provision permits the Ontario Labor Board to decertify unions.

Mr. Jackson, speaking on the labor code resolution, predicted that in 1949 employer resistance to union demands will be greater than at any other period during the war.

"You can be certain that in 1949 the government and employers are going to invoke every penalty in the books for illegal strike action," he said.

The convention in other resolutions demanded that the Ontario government:

Goodfellow Lauds Liberals In Legislature

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 19—The bill to bring Newfoundland into the Dominion of Canada as the tenth province has been passed by both houses of parliament, R. E. Drope, Federal Member of Northumberland County, told the local Conservative Association at the annual meeting on Friday. It will cost Canada $30,000,000 annually for the next five years to give the new province the same educational advantages and social services as are found in the other provinces," he said.

He stated that the opposition had challenged the right of the government to amend he BNA Act regarding the entry of Newfoundland into the Dominion without consulting the provinces Some of our best constitutional lawyers were in agreement with the opposition on this point of procedure, he said.

"The island will send seven elected members to the House of Commons," Mr. Drope said, "and six appointees to the Senate but as Newfoundland has no government it is a problem to work out satisfactory representation. These additional members will raise the membership of the House of Commons to 262.

"There will be a real battle when the budget is presented as the opposition along with several Liberal members believe that the present high tax level curtails production," he commented. "The finance minister claims that the extra taxes are necessary to retire the public debt but many members think the money is being used for other purposes. However, he said, we can expect relief in the tax burden during the present session."

The Hon. W. A. Goodfellow gave a brief resume of provincial legislature now in session. He said that the Liberal party was represented in parliament by excellent men who had a high sense of duty.

He could not say the same about the Socialists, he said. He stated that they appeared to him as a bunch of idlers who made their living out of the toil of the workers. They advocated extravagant social services without reckoning the cost,

He said that in 1943 the Department of Welfare had spent $9,000,000 and during the last financial year it had expended $19,000,000. "This substantial increase for social services has done much to alleviate suffering among the less fortunate of our people," he reported.

R. E. Drope presided over the election of the following officers: vice president, R. J. Locke; secretary, A. K. Loucks; treasurer, C. H. Davidson; ward chairman, one, George Moore; two, Free Clark; three, Earl Gillespie; four, Walter Burgess.

E. Irwin, vice-president of Seymour Township spoke briefly. Mr. and Mrs. George Nicholls gave several piano selections and Mrs. Frank De Carrol sang "Friend of Mine," and "Annie Laurie". C. H. Calver acted as secretary and K. J. Locke was in the chair.

Fanelli said Dennis readily admitted robbing 16 Westchester county homes of $140,000 in jewels and furs, and took officers on a tour, pointing out as many of the places as he could remember.

No statement was obtained from Dennis concerning recent alleged thefts of $250,000 in the Beverly Hills, Calif., area, and $170,000 in robberies in Canada.

Montreal police said they want Dennis in connection with a $150,000 jewel and fur robbery. Ontario Provincial Police want him for escaping from Burwash Reformatory in 1943.

Police said Dennis served sentences in Ontario for shop-breaking and administering a drug to procure an abortion.

Municipal Board Frowns On Grant For City Hall Site

City Trust Commission funds for the purchase of a site for the new City Hall are not going to be the immediate and convenient resource which the council has been hoping.

Nor can there be any mortgaging of municipal property for any purpose, including assisted funding of the cost of the Memorial Community Centre.

This was information obtained from the Ontario Municipal Board in Toronto Thursday by a deputation composed of Mayor Swanston, Ald. Hugh Waddell, chairman of the finance committee, Mr. Vincent Eastwood, chairman of the City Trust, City Clerk Outram and City Auditor Edward Humpage.

City Trust Commission has been willing to co-operate with the council in providing money for the purchase of the private properties in the site block bounded by George, McDonnel, Water and Murray Streets. The suggested method of payment considered in negotiations between representatives of the council and the Commission was to use available City Trust sinking fund money, plus expected revenue from the sale of certain municipal properties.

Before proceeding further with that plan, it was decided to consult the Municipal Board.

The attitude of the Board was opposed to depleting the City Trust funds on hand. That is a cautionary position, at least for the present, to ensure the retention of ample funds by the City Trus to cover its obligations in the event of any emergency that might arise.

Actually, the City Trust has authority under the act which established it to make a contribution to the council, in this case for the purchase of the city hall site. But, the Municipal Board requires assurance that the Trust shall continue to have ample reserves to meet interest and sinking fund payments on the outstanding debentures.

Gave $300,000

"Assisting the city hall site purchase would be on all fours with the Trust's grant of $300,000 to the Civic Hospital," Mr. Eastwood said. "We had sufficient funds and we were prepared to make the grant, but we had to obtain the permission of the Municipal Board. That was done."

Mayor Swanston said this morning there did not seem to be any doubt about the City Trust having authority to provide the financial aid. He suggested that Mr. Eastwood be interviewed.

Mr. Eastwood was asked whether eventually the City Trust could apply part of its funds for the purchase of the site. His answer was an opinion that it could be done, but with the assent of the Municipal Board.

In a few years the City Trust Commission's financial function comes to an end, as reported from time to time, and the effect of the word "eventually" means that Trust funds would then be distributed between the bodies for whom debentures have been issued and interest and principal payments provided for. Council and Utilities Commission are those bodies.

So, there is an eventual and substantial credit in sight for the council from that source, but the Municipal Board frowns on any present Trust grant to the council.

As for the borrowing by the council on the basis of a mortgage on the site property or on any other municipally owned property, the reply of the Board was that it is not permitted.

Mr. Eastwood hesitated about making a suggestion to the council, by way of an interview.

"I have been thinking of this problem today, and the only course that I can imagine so far is to ask the Legislature for a private bill authorizing the corporation of the city to borrow money on the market block for the purchase of the city hall site," Mr. Eastwood said. "I don't know whether that is the way."

On the other hand the ratepayers have sanctioned by their vote use of money, up to $75,000, which may possibly be obtained from sale of the market property.

That, in brief, appears to be the present aspect of the council's pondering of "ways and means" to buy the property required for the city hall.

And the time has passed for a private bill in the present sessions of the Legislature.

Unemployed Transient Injured In Car Crash

BRANTFORD, Feb. 19 (CP)—A 69-year-old unemployed wanderer landed in hospital with back injuries and multiple bruises after an automobile in which a well-wisher was taking him to his home for the night overturned.

Police said Alfred Smith was "a lucky old boy."

The homeless man, Wednesday left a Guelph refuge for old men and came here with no place to stay. He met William Martin of Woodstock and Charles White of Brantford in a downtown cafe last night and White offered him a bed for the night.

En route to White's home, the car driven by Martin struck a manhole cover at an intersection and overturned.

Smith was pinned in the back seat and police had to pry the rear door open to release him. Neither of the other two was injured.

Police said Martin was charged with reckless driving.

Plan To Have Inquest Into Twin Fatality

WINDSOR, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Crown officials have ordered an inquest into twin fatality Thursday in which Harvey Dishman, 51, and his wife, Mary, were killed when struck by an automobile as they crossed a midtown street.

Deputy Police Chief W. H. Neale said if any charges are laid against the driver of the vehicle, Reginald Herbert Morrison, 39, of Windsor, they will be drawn after the inquest. No date for the inquest has been set.

Morrison was taken into custody by police but released on his own recognizance to appear in magistrate's court Friday.

The deaths of the two Windsor persons bring the total of traffic fatalities here this year to seven.

The Dishman's are natives of London, Ont., coming to Windsor in 1929.

May Visit Canada

LONDON, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, may visit Canada next month, it was learned Friday. It is understood that tentative plans call for an extensive Dominion-wide tour. Wilson's objective would be to discuss expansion of United Kingdom exports to Canada.

Major Surgery Shows Increase During January

A substantial increase in the number of major operations during January was reported by John Hornal, superintendent of the Civic Hospital, at the monthly meeting of the Board of Governors.

During January there were 85 major operations as compared with 49 in December and a monthly average of 61 during 1948. Minor opecations, however, fell below the average. The average in 1948 was 153, but in January there were only 145.

A drop of 21 was recorded in the number of patients treated but the daily average number of patients rose from 116 to 127. Patient-days were also up—3944 compared to 3594. Fifty-two patients were refused admission, 11 more than last month but two below the 1948 average.

Two people were treated for communicable diseases in Queen Mary Hospital and 21 for other conditions, said Mr. Hornal. Average number of daily patients was eight.

Dr. S. Y. Walsh gave the medical report. Of the 334 patients discharged during the month 192 were recovered, 119 improved, two transferred to Queen Mary, one not improved, five for diagnosis, seven for deaths under 48 hours and eight over 48 hours, no stillborn babies.

Laboratory examinations, X-ray examinations and physiotherapy treatments were all higher than last year's average. Compared with 1948 the figures were, respectively, 1576 and 1339 (last year), 302 and 295, and 57 and 33.

Total receipts from patients at both hospitals (Queen Mary and Civic), United Counties grant, Peterborough Counties grant, and miscellaneous revenue, amounted to $28,905.26. Salaries and other expenses came to $34,385.13.

Th Board approved payment of the January account of $32,355.58 for Civic Hospital and $1,280.78 for Queen Mary. This includes salaries. The December accounts amounting to $565.41 at Civic and $32.34 at Queen Mary were also approved for payment.

For Christian And Jewish Brotherhood

The Canadian Council of Christians and Jews is sponsoring a "Brotherhood Week" across Canada. It begins tomorrow. Its purpose is to promote better understanding and co-operation between Jews and Christians, both Roman Catholic and Protestant. The Most Reverend Gerald Berry, Bishop of Peterborough, has written that:

"The proposal to hold a Brotherhood Week in Canada in the month of February is one that should carry its own recommendation to our Canadian people. I am sure that they are not without a full participation in the generous impulses of human nature and I feel that their life in a vast country such as ours is, lends some added influence to such impulses. In our day when hatreds are even cultivated among men and between nations, there is a necessity to emphasize the facts of common humanity and the dignity granted to the human being by the Almighty Creator. Actually your campaign is directed at bettering human souls, the character of man, his spirit. All of us who know what strong religious conviction can contribute to that end will hope that your campaign will be a success in bringing our Canadian people up the long hill toward a more ideal observance of the great commandment to love one's neighbour as oneself".

Other major religious communions of Canada are giving similar support to the Council of Christians and Jews in its campaign to promote the brotherhood of man under the fathership of the one God of all. This support is manifested in statements made by the Primate of the Church of England in Canada, the Moderator of the United Church, the Rabbi of Temple Emmanuel in Montreal, and by prominent businessmen, educators and legislators. The Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, founded in 1947, does not aim at any sort of union or amalgamation of religious bodies or any modification of the distinctive beliefs of their members. An official statement of its aims is the following:

"Believing in a spiritual interpretation of the universe and deriving its inspiration therefrom, the Canadian Council exists to promote justice, amity, understanding and co-operation among Protestants, Catholics and Jews in Canada and to analyze, moderate and finally eliminate intergroup prejudices which disfigure and distort religious, business, social and political relations, with a view to the establishment of a social order in which the religious ideals of brotherhood and justice shall become the standards of human relationship".

Unhesitatingly, and with full heart and will, we endorse the aims of the Council and call the attention of our readers to this "Brotherhood Week". Anything which mitigates unwarrranted intolerance and religious or racial prejudice will always have our zealous support.

Bertrand Russell On The Security State

During December and January Bertrand Russell delivered the Reith Lectures on the theme Authority and the Individual. The six lectures were carried by both the Home Service and the Third Program of the B.B.C. They attracted a large audience and have occasioned widespread comment. The reasons are that this great philosopher and Socialist peer (he is the 3rd Earl Russell) who is noted for his liberal and radical views, spoke against, and not for, the trend towards what he termed the "security state". We can do little here but direct our readers' attention to the lectures. To summarize his profound arguments, even to outline their nature, would be impossible within the compass of an editorial.

Although he does not directly discuss the present Russian Communistic state nor the British Labour Government's economic and social policies, his thesis puts strictures on both. The conflict between authority and individual freedom has always resulted in compromise. The danger now is that authority has the whip hand, because of scientific advances (e.g. wireless, high explosives, speed in movement) and because sincere social workers have extended the power of the state in the name of social justice and equality. Thus there is the danger of a "new prison" being created for the individual.

Individual initiative must be rescued from unduly simplified schemes of communists, socialists and capitalists. He includes capitalism in his strictures, believing that the capitalistic system as practised today allows too little opportunity for too few people to work creatively. People need outlets for their competitive instincts, which he recognizes. "I do not think that ordinary human beings can be happy without competition, for competition has been, ever since the origin of man, the spur to most serious activities". Although he does not extend his praise of individual enterprise to the economic sphere, he does not limit it to sport and other innocuous diversions.

Here are two paragraphs central to his theme:

"If life is to be saved from boredom relieved only by disaster, means must be found of restoring individual initiative, not only in things that are trivial, but in the things that really matter.

"I do not mean that we should destroy those parts of modern organization upon which the very existence of large populations depends, but I do mean that the organization should be much more flexible, more relieved by local autonomy, and less oppressive to the human spirit through its impersonal vastness, than it has become through its unbearably rapid growth and centralization, with which our ways of thought and feeling have been unable to keep pace".

Bertrand Russell's Reith lectures may prove to be the most important yet given on that foundation. They have come at a time when the British people are faced by more and more government-ordered social security and state control of British industry. Although he believes that key industries should be socially owned, his warning against bureaucracy is clear. Implicit to his theme is the belief that social ownership can be justified by expediency but not by principle. Ultimate values must be sought in the individuals, not in the society as a planned organism.

Princess Margaret At Church

Last Sunday Princess Margaret, who was staying at the country home of friends, attended a village church in Sussex. Crowds flocked to stare and gossip, because the family with whom the Princess attended the service have a 31-year-old bachelor son, Captain Thomas Egerton. Newspaper reporters, gabbing contorted romantic guff, said that everyone in the little church spent most of the time looking at the Princess and her party. Perhaps they did. If so, we can but hope that those who came to stare remained to pray. What kind of Christian charity are people showing the Princess if she cannot even attend church without being ogled as if she were on a Hollywood screen set rather than at prayer?

The reporters said that "London gossips" (including themselves, of course) "are wagering even money that Captain Tom would be sitting next to Princess Margaret next Monday night at the Royal Opera House". Princess Elizabeth, the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret did attend Covent Gardens last Monday. The fourth seat was occupied by another gentleman, not by Captain Tom. Confound these gossipy reporters, and may Princess Margaret continue to frustrate their knavish tricks.

Diary Of An Armchair Sleeper

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SATURDAY: My cold has changed its character, developing into an extraordinary cough which so expands my neck as to place great strain on my collar-button. Whenever I give a whoop the larger tubes of my throat fill with wind and noise, swelling up like balloons, and causing my neck to spill over the top of my collar; it takes four or five minutes for this swelling to subside if I do not undo my collar, in which case the debris of my cough quickly slithers down into my lungs again, allowing me to go on making noises like a sleeping cat. But I cannot go about with my collar unbuttoned; it looks so messy ....Removed several score of war books from my shelves today. Could not remember what was in any of them, though when they were published each one was touted as the most significant book on the war yet written, and of guaranteed lasting value. I shall sell them tomorrow as waste paper.

MONDAY: Doesn't anyone dance any more? So far as I can learn, there has not been a new dance since the Lambeth Walk, which made its appearance in 1938 or '39. I have long thought that modern dancing would perish of its own dreariness, and now it appears to have done so....See in the paper that a dog has been destroyed because it knocked down and frightened an old woman. In the Middle Ages such a dog might have received a full-dress trial; animals were often tried for serious offences. The court records before the Reformation are full of cases in which a dog was tried for preventing someone from going to church, or for biting somebody important, or for barking during a political speech. The animal was provided with a defence lawyer, and if he lost his case his client was likely to be hanged, or even tortured. Many a young barrister in those days got his start defending animals, and a court would as soon subpoena a herd of sheep or a couple of oxen as anybody else. This was because animals were thought to be easy hideouts for evil spirits—an opinion which I think modern jurisprudence has abandoned without sufficient thought.

TUESDAY: Every February I am seized with the notion that my life would be transformed if I had a new hobby, and I passed an hour tonight considering the possible consequences of my learning to play the guitar. Nobody plays it much nowadays except radio cowboys, and they use it only to accompany themselves while they sing miserable songs about their mothers' graves or their own imminent (but too long deferred) deaths. The guitar has slipped sadly in the social scale. During the nineteenth century it was a favourite instrument of the nobility and gentry, and no picnic was complete without at least one girl who could play the thing. Of course, that was the Spanish guitar, an instrument of some artistic respectability. The present guitar is likely to be the Hawaiian model. The Spanish plunks, the Hawaiian yowls. Tunes can be played on the Spanish guitar if you have long, strong fingers and immense concentration; the Hawaiian guitar will yield nothing but shuddering wails. The mandolin (which did not so much plunk as plink) has also fallen into disrepute, though Mozart and Schubert thought well of it.

WEDNESDAY: A letter from a man today expressing disappointment that I paid no attention to the centenary of the birth of August Strindberg, the Swedish dramatist, which occurred on January 22. I have the centenary habit rather badly, but this one escaped my attention. The fact is, I have never been able to admire Strindberg since I made the acquaintance some years ago of a Swedish girl whose grandfather had been his near neighbour. She said that the neighbourhood was made intolerable by the noise of his quarrels with his three wives, and that his hatred of Ibsen bordered on the demoniacal. He invariably referred to Ibsen as "Gammal Snorije", meaning "Old Grouchy", whereas Ibsen spoke of Strindberg, even in his public speeches, as "Gammal Nutsje", meaning "Old Nutsy", which was a sly reference to Strindberg's frequent spells of violent insanity. Coldness between dramatists is not unknown, even in our day, but it seems to me that the affair between Strindberg and Ibsen had got out of hand, and as the younger man, it was Strindberg's job to patch it up. The girl also told me that Strindberg's genius defied translation, and I can well believe this.

THURSDAY: Having two or three dollar bills in my pocket today, I examined them curiously; they were all disgustingly dirty. A few years ago the banks of Canada would have been ashamed to circulate such bills. But much of the paper money we receive today gives a new dimension to the term "filthy lucre".

FRIDAY: After a dull evening at last persuaded myself to go to bed. This is a nightly struggle for me, for although I like bed well enough as a place to lie in when I am ill, I infinitely prefer an armchair for sleeping. In bed I am a tosser and a turner, a bad dreamer, a leaper-up with screams. But in a good big armchair, with my feet on an ottoman of convenient height, I can sleep like a little child. I can, and often do, sleep all night in this way, and in the morning I wake refreshed, and ask for pie and doughnuts with my breakfast. Why, then, do I go to bed at all? Sheer spineless conformity to custom, nothing else. Years ago, in an extravagant fit, I bought a bed, and knowing that people expect me to use it, I do so. But when I am completely fagged, and need real rest, I seek the comfort of my armchair, and abandon myself to Morpheus.

SATURDAY: Began my half-yearly seance with my dentist this afternoon and, as usual, cost him a fortune in cotton wads. It is my good fortune to have splendidly robust salivary glands, and at the mere sight of a dentist my mouth waters as though he were a steak or Hedy Lamarr. Before he can begin his work he has to make a kind of Holland of my mouth, draining elaborately and erecting dikes of cotton wads to stem the sea which threatens to engulf him. He must then work quickly before my levels rise to the point where all his work is washed away, his tools rusted beyond reclaim, and his hands drenched to the elbow. Most of my dentists have been very nice about this peculiarity of mine. They understand that I do not do it to vex them, but because I cannot help it. Nevertheless, there are times when I can see a shadow crossing the dentist's face and I know that he is wishing—without malice—that I would drown in my own spit. Little does he know how near, sometimes, his wish is to being granted.

DON'T LOOK NOW, BUT ARE WE BEING FOLLOWED?

The New American Revolution

(CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR)

AMERICAN technology is carrying a revolution into the far corners of the earth. Some people call it American materialism and fear its effects. But there is a matching American idealism whose effects have been widespread and could be equally revolutionary.

Until quite recently the United States has been idealized in Asia as a country which successfully rebelled against colonialism. The American Declaration of Independence still furnishes inspiration to Asian nationalist movements. The Wilsonian doctrine of self-determination, the Atlantic Charter, the granting of independence to the Philippines have all served to keep up the reputation of the United States as a champion of freedom.

American sentiments, too, have traditionally been anti-imperialist—even irresponsibly so, at times. The British in times past have legitimately complained that Americans failed to recognize the burdens as well as the profits of empire, the very real educational benefits represented by the introduction of British law and philanthropy into colonial areas, the very considerable difficulties of transferring power without inviting chaos.

Yet a changing world and a free India show that history is developing in the direction in which American sympathies naturally lie. The disconcerting fact is that, as a new world force engaged in a great power struggle, the United States is now being manoeuvred—actually or apparently—into a "reactionary" position.

The Indonesian Republic, for instance, finds itself subjugated by Dutch troops carrying American arms, wearing American uniforms, eating American K rations. The whole military operation is made possible by American aid to the Netherlands, which releases other Dutch funds for the overseas adventure. This naturally makes more impression on the Indonesians than mild American resolutions in the United Nations or the sopamoric ravings of a Chicago newspaper calling for the hanging of Queen Juliana as a war criminal.

Here, in fact, is ineptness on both sides of American policy. For Americans, not being dependent on overseas colonies for their economic existence, can afford the moral luxury of giving sympathy to Indonesian nationalism without taking account of the staggeringly heavy problems it sets honest and earnest Dutch policy makers. Yet virtually to underwrite the extremist Dutch view on Indonesia (which is now yielding a little to pressure) is to accept the cynical Realpolitik of those Europeans who defended the original Netherlands action simply as "economically necessary."

Likewise, American support of reaction in Japan and clumsy intervention in China's civil war against the wish of the Chinese people have jeopardized American reputation for liberalism in the Far East, a reputation already tarnished by charges of dollar diplomacy in past decades. Though certain compromises with liberal principles have seemed necessary in order to build defences against Soviet aggression, such compromises, carried beyond a certain point, give Soviet anti-American propaganda in Asia an advantage which far outweighs any strategic advantage gained.

Two things are necessary: (1) A firmer moral stand for the "liberal revolution" stemming from 1776 and described by Walter Lippmann as "the only true rival of the totalitarian revolutions of this epoch." (2) A more mature understanding of the burdens placed on liberal western nations by the loss of their colonies—and a willingness to share those burdens.

Yet neither of these developments is likely to take place until Americans see both emergent Asian nationalism and declining European imperialism as facets of a worldwide social revolution in which they, too, are involved.

Strasser To Talk

Otto Strasser, one-time associate of Herr Hitler, will be allowed to speak in Canada as long as he remains within laws applicable to all residents of Canada, rules the Department of External Affairs. It does not think any of his speeches have been embarrassing to Canada.

Well, some of his speeches have been. And it is up to the R.C.M.P. to cover every address he makes to ensure that his speeches do not contain Nazi propaganda. Communists are not the only people who can be subversive. Strasser got one pro-German speech off his chest last summer. When the R.C.M.P. went around afterwards to check up, they seemed interested only in whether there had been any Communist hecklers.—Windsor Star.

And he said, It is a light thing that thou shouldest be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to restore the preserved of Israel: I will also give thee for a light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the earth. And he came by the Spirit into the temple: and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him after the customs of the law, then took he him up in his arms, and blessed God, and said, Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word: for mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people; a light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel. LIKES "FARM NOTES"

Sir: Your page "County Farm Notes" at the back of Saturday's Examiner has been greatly appreciated by this Forum. It has in the past provided us with news of coming events, dates and places, in the farm world which we would not otherwise have, along with interesting accounts of farm happenings in nearby communities.

We would very much like to see its publication continued if it were at all possible. If it could not be put on the usual place perhaps you could find some other corner in the Examiner for this interesting and instructive column. Yours truly,

(Pres.) MRS. EARL HUSTON,
(Sec.) MR. H. SUTTON.

DISTRICT STREAMS are becoming a bit boisterous with an out of season melody indicating unusual activity. Even the well-behaved Otonabee river has a higher pitch to its winter murmur as it moves majestically along. These overtones in nature's setting are caused by the vagaries of this winter, vagaries that have produced a succession of February thaws, instead of a month-long blast of sub-zero weather. A sparrow was seen this week toying with a bit of dead grass, and whether it was habit, or an early urge of the mating season is unknown. At any rate, the weather is topsy-turvy, and while the hockey fans moan, the housewives rejoice, and count their fuel savings. Evening grosbeaks, pine grosbeaks, a few cardinals and even some cowbirds have been reported by the bird watchers, all signs that spring is almost here — in February. Indian trappers say that a wintry blast will soon shock the urban dwellers back into a sense of reality that old man Frost is far from dead, but on the other hand the optimistic gardeners are scanning the flower beds with southern exposure expecting a crocus to poke its colorful head into view.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

THIS WEEK the Kawartha Conservation Association held its election of officers. A membership of 70 was reported, and after listening to these men, I feel their membership roll should be 700. Certainly they are doing a splendid public service. For three years, they have struggled to have a portion of Crown Land set aside as a recreation area, for urban and rural picnickers. No hope of personal gain in this effort, just a healthy and commendable desire to serve their fellowmen. They don't want a large area, but insist on waterfront, which would be set aside in perpetuity for public use, and pleasure. Anyone who has started off on a Sunday afternoon seeking a waterfront spot for a picnic, knows how difficult it is to find one. Of course they can always park along the east bank of the river above Nassau, but on the lakes, the land is all private. As years go by, and the population grows, more land will be purchased, and within a decade, a person will have to drive 40 or 50 miles to find a public picnic spot. There are a few highway parks, and the picnic ground at Wallace Point, but few others.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

THEY HAVE ASSURANCE from the Minister of Lands and Forests, the Hon. Harold R. Scott, that the land selected will be held until an organization is in existence to handle such a proposal. The Association can't do it alone. They haven't the membership, the money, nor the facilities. All are men of moderate means, but bound together by the ideals of conservation and public service. Would it not be a good idea, for the Association to name a committee, to work with a committee of the Chamber of Commerce to complete the preparatory work? If the plan worked, then the city council, the county council, the township council concerned, and perhaps the Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Chamber could each make a donation toward developing the area as a picnic grounds. The work entails building a road, trimming out some timber, and burning the brush, erection of a couple of stone fireplaces, signs, and perhaps a bit of work on the shoreline, and that's all. It could be reached by bus in a short time, and the hundreds of people who used the area would spend money in the district north of here.

SOME QUESTIONS come to mind in connection with this venture. In whose name would the title be vested? Would it be the county council? What sort of a trust or commission would have to be set up to manage and develop it? Would it require a private bill to set aside such an area, tax-free in perpetuity for park purposes? Would it also serve as a sanctuary for game, game birds, songbirds and fur-bearers? These are just a few of the things that will have to be settled. They are only minor problems, far from being insurmountable. The salient point to me, is that this group of men has foresight enough to see the possibilities of such an area, and the courage to carry it as far as they have. Of course the man who is wealthy enough to own a summer cottage isn't interested. He has a place to go. But, how about all these people who won't ever be able to afford such a luxury. They are important too, and this is a chance to provide them with a summer spot at a nominal cost.

WOMEN, GIRLS, MEN AND BOYS will thrill to the displays of tackle, guns, boats, clothing, cameras, skis, camping equipment, dogs, cats, fish, Eskimos, and a whirlwind vaudeville show at the second annual Sportsmen's Show at Toronto. The show will be held from March 18 to 26, both days inclusive, and it is expected more than a quarter of a million people will attend. Last year 110,000 paid admission, and were amazed at the tank show, and the scope of the exhibits. Sharkey, the famous seal will be there, with many other topnotch attractions, famous in the United States. It is expected that a special train or two will be run from Peterborough, with Peterborough Fish and Game Association, Kawartha Conservation Association, Peterborough Ski Club, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce interested. The report from Toronto is that clubs are reserving sections of reserved seats, for specific nights to ensure being accommodated. Last year many motored from here for the show, and then spent weeks talking about it.

CAMERA FANS should be interested in the first International Competition of outdoor photography sponsored by the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show, Toronto. First prize is $100 with $50 for second, $25 for third and seven other prizes of $10 each. Prints must be submitted mounted on light colored mounts, 16 by 20. All prints will be returned, and the closing date is Feb. 25. Four prints can be submitted and subject matter includes forest and stream pictorial shots, animal, bird, or fish life, both wild and domesticated. Landscapes portraying beauty out of doors are acceptable, as is any sporting subject such as fishing, hunting, boating, golf or tennis. Members of the Peterborough Camera Club, and the other keen camera fans have an opportunity to cash in on their hobby. I have a supply of entry blanks and these can be obtained any time. The important thing is to act at once as the deadline is just one week away.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

THREE YEARS AGO, this column came into existence to supply news and comment to that vast army of people who like the outdoors. It was kindly received, and its popularity has grown steadily, judging from the reader comments. In this department, the Examiner was a pioneer, and since the column started, interest in the subjects covered has quickened, and other newspapers have added similar columns. It is with a feeling of regret, that I announce my retirement as a columnist for the Examiner. I have accepted a position as outdoor editor for the Telegram, Toronto, and the work involves writing two columns a week. The puggwuzzies will get a taste of life in the big city, and their comments on the change will probably be interesting. I am advised that the Examiner plans to continue an outdoor column, and while a few weeks may pass before it appears, nevertheless it will be in the paper soon for the many subscribers who enjoyed it in the past.

New Outlook For Incorrigible Girls Provided At Cobourg Training School

Delinquent and incorrigible girls have a chance! The Ontario Training School for Girls at Cobourg operates under the "Ontario Plan," a system inaugurated over two years ago to return to society youthful offenders with a new mental and moral outlook. Achievement of this goal is sought through physical and vocational education, positive training and employment.

Girls under age 16 are committed to the school. Incorrigibility is the main reason for commitment. The majority of the children, according to the records, come from broken homes, and as a result few have enjoyed normal living. Happy, contented families seldom produce a delinquent child. The Cobourg School closely resembles a well-run boarding school, and is not a place for punishment.

The Cobourg School is comprised of two large homes, formerly summer estates. Strathmore House, where girls are first received, is a white, mansion-like building, built on the southern colonial style, with great white pillars and balconies, situated on the eastern outskirts of Coburg. A winding driveway leads up to the house. Rolling green terraces and always-open wrought iron gates contribute to the appearance of ease and comfort.

McCook House is also set in comfortable surroundings, not far from Strathmore House. Its architecture is pseudo-Tudor, with turrets and balconies. Most of the dormitories in both houses contain five or six beds, with individual bureaus for each girl, where there is room. Gay curtains, dresser scarves and pictures, often movie star pin-ups, decorate each room. Some of the girls have demonstrated their talents by painting their own pictures.

Upon arrival, each girl is treated as an individual, with understanding and kindness. The purpose of the school is explained to the new ward. After initial documentation, a medical check-up is given. The child is segregated from the rest until it is ascertained that she is disease-free. She then is enrolled at McCook House, with other of short attendance. There she is kept under close observation. Her aptitudes, possibilities and reactions are noted and are added to the case history, which is a guide to handling the ward.

According to school custom a new girl has achieved a noteworthy honour when she is considered "good" enough to be transferred to Strathmore House. Some girls reach this happy state sooner than others. Strathmore House is, of the two residences, more luxurious and comfortable, and a desired reward for effort.

The day begins at 7.30, with breakfast at 8. The girls residing at Strathmore House then form a double line, and accompanied by their teachers, walk down the road to McCook for chapel. Joyous spirits are not dampened in any way; if the girls feel like bursting into song or walking arm-in-arm, four abreast, they are allowed to do so.

The girls enjoy chapel. When the superintendent enters the common room they rise in a body wish her good morning. During the opening hymn they sing with evident enjoyment. They are attentive during the reading of prayer. The singing of Our Father is one of their accomplishments, being rendered reverently and beautifully. Before the group is dismissed, representatives of each class group read a report of the previous day's work, a long list of the girls conducting themselves well being given. Few of the 100 pupils are omitted from the commentary.

With the adjournment of chapel, the pupils go to their classrooms. Dinner is at 12, with classes resuming at 1.30. Later in the afternoon games and walks are held, or else the girls do their various jobs of sewing or laundry. Supper is at 5.30. The entire evening is supervised, until bedtime, 8 p. m. for juniors girls, with lights out at 9. Senior girls retire at 9, with lights out at 9.30.

At both houses instruction in grades from II on through high school is given. Competent teachers handle the classes. At McCook the grade VIII pupils are divided into two groups, those who are slow in learning segregated for closer attention.

McCook houses a sewing room, where the girls get practical experience in making clothes for themselves, such as pyjamas, dresses, skirts and blouses. Ten regular sewing machines are in use. On the latter the girls receive experience which may assist them in obtaining a job in sewing in a factor if they so desire. The typing room is a favourite of the pupils. Shorthand is also taught.

A hobby shop holds much interest for the girls, and hairdressing classes are given. Many of the girl show a keen interest in music, willingly practicing their piano lessons. Each year several girls take the examination of the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto. A library with a good selection of books provides reading material for the girls.

Health and dental offices are maintained at McCook House, with a nurse in charge. Routine toxoidsare administered here. A visiting doctor and dentist attend to the needs of the school. Some of the girls who act as assistants in the health office may find employment upon graduation as nurses' aids or dental assistant.

Both houses are kept clean and neat by the girls. They also look after all the washing for the school, under supervision, and assist in the kitchen. Practical experience, useful in later life, is thus gained. Laundry and kitchen machines and utensils are all of the home type, to give the girls experience for homemaking in the future.

The laundry is done in a separate building behind Strathmore House. Home washing machines, ironing boards and an ironer are used by the girls. When the pupils assigned to the laundry reach the stage of doing staff linen, they have "graduated" from that job. Five girls assist in the spotlessly clean kitchen. If any of them show keen interest in preparation of food, they are encouraged to develop it.

The kitchens at both houses are remarkable in their cleanliness and tidyness. This is commendable, considering that over 150 meal are prepared three times a day. The menu could serve as a criterion for many eating establishments; they are wholesome, attractively served, varied and ample.

Strathmore House pupils eat their meals in a large dining room at tables for four, unsupervised. The staff dine in the common room, which is furnished comfortably and tastefuly. This room is also used for relaxation and games by the girls in the evenings. Large ornamental fireplaces in these rooms add to the homelike atmosphere, as does the impressive winding staircase which leads from the entrance hall.

Sports are encouraged at the school. At times basketball games are played against students of the Cobourg College Institute, at that school. Badminton, volley ball, ping pong and baseball are all enjoyed by the girls. Some of the students have brought honour to their school by winning trophies at sport competitions. Special privileges are sometimes extended, such as Saturday trips to the movies or visits to homes.

Near Strathmore House is a building set aside for the staff residence. A gymnasium is also housed there. In the school storeroom is a supply of good dresses and new coats for the pupils. They are given to them when needed. At present the girls during the day wear navy jumpers and white blouses, or if on work duty cotton dresses, but the superintendent is considering the adoption of an individual school uniform.

Under the "Ontario plan" repressive types of discipline are believed to accomplish nothing. Hence a programme replete with interesting and useful activities is in daily operation. Sportsmanship, fair play and good citizenship are stressed through academic and vocational training, sports and hobbies.

The girls are trusted to respect the freedom and privileges they enjoy. Supervision is not so strong that escape is difficult. No high fences or locked gates hold them in. Very few have taken advantage of the freedom allowed. Most of the girls resent the few trouble makers, who stir up the others with their discontent and rudeness. It is believed that if the girls themselves object to the minority's breach of faith and build up an aversion to such actions, better results are achieved than if iron-bound rules were enforced.

Some of the girls have a history of frequent truancy, or absence from school due to illness. All girls at all receptive to education are given academic training. Laundry work, kitchen and sewing training are available vocations supplementing academic studies. Some particular field of training is sought to interest each girl.

On the whole, the girls appear well satisfied and happy at the school.

The length of time spent at the school is decided by the girl's reaction to training. The average length of stay is 11 months.

Once a girl reaches the point where she is considered ready to leave the school, she is put out into a foster home of good repute, or returns to her own home, if the environment is considered satisfactory, but remains a ward of the school until she becomes of age, or until it is deemed wise to release wardship.

Regardless of how poorly run a girl's home may have been, she usually desires to return to it. Home and family seem dear to the wards once they are taken from them. Often, in the opinion of the official, a girl is better off when put into a foster home with a wholesome environment. This fact is usually realized by the girls, but they persist in longing for their own homes and families, even though a return to their home might mean a drifting back into old habits and associations.

Superintendent of the Cobourg School, Miss Isabel J. Macneill, O. B. E., is well qualified for her position. During the war she held the rank of Commander of H. M. C. S. "Conestoga" at Galt in the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service Training Establishment. She was the only woman ever to hold to position of Captain of one of His Majesty's ships. Miss Macneill assumed her position at the Cobourg School early in January, 1948.

POSITIVE TRAINING, education and employment help mould a new outlook for incorrigible girls at the Cobourg Training School. Known as the Ontario Plan its aim is to rehabilitate to society young delinquent girls. At (Top) is Strathmore House, one of the residence, showing south side facing Lake Ontario. The greenhouse, (CENTRE) is not very spacious, but large enough to supply plants for the school and instruction for members of the garden group and at (BOTTOM) girls relax on the McCook House steps, the second home of the school. For Bad Winter Cough, Mix This Syrup Yourself

If you want a splendid cough medicine, mix it at home. It costs very little, yet the way it takes hold of distressing coughs, giving quick relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill up with granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) It's no trouble at all and gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money—a family supply. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps to clear the air passages. This three-fold action explains why it relieves an annoying cough in a hurry.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a very reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

Pinex Is Quick Acting!

Penalty Helps Barrie Whip Biltmores 8-2

By the Canadian Press

A third period penalty to Eddie Bolan probably squashed any hope Guelph Biltmores had of making the playoffs.

While Bolan was sitting out a two-minute sentence last night, Barrie Flyers garnered four goals in 55 seconds to take an 8-2 decision over the Biltmores in their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game.

In a Senior A game, Toronto Marlboros went up 2-0 in their best-of-seven semi-final playoff series by defeating Owen Sound Mercurys 9-2 in Toronto.

At Barrie the loss left Guelph in the sixth and last playoff spot with a two-point lead over their nearest rivals, Toronto Marlboros. The Dukes have a good chance of overcoming the margin when they play a four-point game against Toronto St. Michael's College Majors today.

Bolan's penalty set off a chain of disturbances that resulted in seven penalties, including two match misconducts. The misconducts went to Barrie's Johnny Shedde and Guelph's Ron Ferguson, who continued a fight in the penalty box after receiving minors.

The Flyers went up 2-0 in the first period and held a 4-2 edge at the end of the second. Sid McNabney, Don Ashbee and Stan Long each scored twice for Barrie. Rick Hog and Stan Long followed up with one apiece. Ron Plumb and Ferguson counted for Guelph.

US Host For Tourney

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 19. — (AP).—The 1950 amateur world ice hockey championships will probably be held in the United States. The International Ice Hockey Federation decided to accept an American invitation if the United States will put up part of the money required to send European teams to North America. The Americans will study the proposition and announce their verdict after May 30. In case the United States agrees to help with the finances, the championship will be held at St. Paul, Minn., or Lake Placid, N.Y.

Annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Association will be held in Peterborough on April 9, the executive meeting here the day before. Nominations for the executive and amendments to the constitution must be sent to Secretary Bill Snyder of Hamilton by March 26. Alex Kay is calling an open baseball meeting for this Monday at seven p.m in the. YMCA to make plans for the big convention here. Officers of the Petes' senior ball club and the City League, as well as service clubs, business men, city council and all others interested are urged to attend this session. The last OBA convention held here was away back in 1931 when Bill Kay was on the executive.

Jake Wade wound up the Cape Breton senior puck loop schedule for Glace Bay Miners by leading his club in scoring with 61 points and being third in the loop standings. He was just nosed out of second spot in the final game. His team is now in league semi-finals. His buddies tried to get him in there, leaving Jake on the ice for the last seven minutes of play along with four other forwards feeding him passes, but he missed out by a single point. They draw large crowds in Maritime hockey and pay hefty wages to the players. The Glace Bay Forum drew 64,983 paid customers during the schedule, and will pack 'em in during playoffs. Jake returns to Peterborough each summer.

About Those Referees

Listing the nine referees picked for OHA junior "A" playoffs, the St. Kitts' scribe says: "To those worthies, in the hope they live up to that, goes the delicate sum of $30 per game (apiece that is) plus mileage we infer, which is darned good picking. A chappie only has to get three games a week to salt down $90 and car travel. For that 30, any club has the right to expect service and merit with a capital 'S' and 'M', and they can also be excused if they run riot a bit when a referee skids. Rest assured, the packed arenas will tell the refs in no uncertain way."

* * * * * *

Yeah, puck referees come high. Even here, it costs $22 for a referee and $5 for a linesman (if the former comes from Toronto) in group games. Probably in playoffs, the OHA will send a couple of referees from Toronto, Markham or some equally distant point and the cost will be around $45 for officiating at a single game. Most of these refs roam around handling several tilts a week and make a good thing out of it. It's true that players and fans have a right to expect competent work for that kind of money—and we don't always get our money's worth. But, one supposes, hockey referees are but human, too.

* * * * * *

Ref Finally Said "No"

No puck game here last eve, the Legion-Petes' tilt being called off. A wishy-washy referee (same one as acted so undecided here earlier in the season when the Petes kicked at soft ice) changed his mind twice and, listening to Legion kicks at wet ice, finally called it off. We've seen both clubs play on worse ice. There was water on it, yes—and isn't it time they built a trench outside that west arena door so the water won't pour back in?—but the ice was good underneath and 10 minutes of skating followed by a scraping, with what the kids did with shovels and brooms beforehand, would have fixed it up pretty good.

* * * * * *

As it was, a lot of fans were disappointed—and that's not good for hockey in this borough. It just shoved back the playoffs as Meteors are here with the Petes Monday, the Legion and Petes play here or in Lindsay on Wednesday, and the Petes will insist on playing this postponement with Legion next Friday—when the group playoffs should be on. Each club in turn has kicked on soft ice (when the other squad had the home game) and each club is simply hurting itself. And making the fans sore. It's not smart—it's strictly stupid, and we don't care in the slightestewhat either club thinks of us for saying so. Our interest is in sports for the public, and the Legion and Petes had better snap out of their silly feud if they expect any support from anyone.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Coach Punch Scherer of Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen of the Senior O.H.A. said last night at Kitchener that league officials would take action regarding playing conditions at Hamilton arena.

After the Dutchmen's 3-2 overtime defeat at Hamilton Wednesday, they complained about watery conditions of the ice.

Scherer said an O.H.A. official told him that Toronto Marlboros made a similar complaint during the playoffs last season.

Canada's High school curling championships will be decided at a bonspiel opening at Edmonton Tuesday. Seven teams have entered the bonspiel, first ever given official authorization by the Dominion Curling Association. The teams will play a round-robin series, a competition similar to the Dominion final for the men's national title. Ontario is represented by Dryden High school.

Jean Paul Denis of New Haven Ramblers yesterday was fined $50 and suspended for one game as a result of a fight in an American Hockey League game between New Haven and Springfield Indians, League President Maurice Podoloff announced in New York. Denis' game suspension will be in March 5 game between New Haven and Springfield.

Arrest of every bookmaker in Florida was ordered yesterday by Governor Fuller Warren who said at Tallahasee, Fla., the State is being robbed of millions in tax money on illegal racing bets. "Tax stealing by bookies must stop in the state," he said in the strongest crackdown order any recent governor has issued. The state loses $8 in racing taxes on every $100 bet with bookies, he declared.

A heavy rain cancelled yesterday's second round of the $10,000 Houston open golf tournament and washed out a nine-under-par 63 scored by Bob Hamilton, Landover, Md. The former United States P.G.A. champion and 44 others who managed to complete their rounds saw their scores erased as 97 other players were caught in the downpour.

Warne Trophy Bonspiel A Big Success

By HERB MARTIN

Mrs. Code's Toronto High Park rink, winner of The Ontario Ladies' Tankard, a week ago in Toronto, again triumphed yesterday taking first place and the Warne Trophy at the Peterborough Ladies' Curling Club open bonspiel—Mrs. V. Selkirk's local rink was runner up, as it was in the Ontario Tankard.

Mrs. Alexander's Hamilton Thistles' rink was the other three game winner.

Mrs. Gooch's Hamilton Victorias Rink received the high two-win prize; and the high single game winner was Mrs. J. Fanning of the local club.

The ladies' two-day bonspiel that came to a successful conclusion around 2.30 o'clock on Friday will probably be recognized as one of the outstanding events of the curling season.

Close Games

The ladies commenced around 9 o'clock on Thursday morning and the games were not long under way before it was seen that they were all in dead earnest—true there were one or two one sided scores, but the majority were real close and interesting.

The final game between Mrs. Code and Mrs. Holt was really good—and while we are not finding fault with anybody we believe the two point margin was just about the difference in experience betwen th two skips—Mrs. Code had all seasoned players while Mrs. Holt had a regular rink—however there is always another day coming up.

Mrs. Holt's rink made a wonderful effort, they'll do better next time.

It was unfortunate that Mrs. Gregory, playing vice for Mrs. Scott had to retire early in the last game, owing to illness.

The committee of Mrs. J. Green, Mrs. G. Wood, Mrs. G. Tollington and Mrs A. Jones in charge of the bonspiel did a swell job—the games were played on time—and that is a big help to any bonspiel.

The new idea of playing two complete rounds the first day went over big.

Served Tea

At the conclusion of the bonspiel on Friday, tea was served in the club parlors and after the prizes had been distributed, the ladies open bonspiel for 1949 passed with history.

Maureen Senior Captures Title

OTTAWA, Feb. 19—(CP)—The Junior Canadian Men's and Women's Figure-skating Championships were decided early today after a 16-hour marathon of ice capers, but only the officials know the final point markings. And they aren't telling—yet.

Maureen Senior, a tall 14-year-old blonde from the Toronto Skating Club, won the junior women's title, held last year by Marlene Smith, of Niagara Falls, Ont., who has graduated into senior ranks. Donald Tobin of Ottawa took the men's singles. But no point-totals have been issued to show the margin of their victories.

Officials of the Canadian Figure Skating Association, said early today these "would take hours to compile" but added that placings by the five judges, in the final analysis, determined the winners Officials these were available but it "would take too long" to give to the press.

Remember When—

Fred Matieshin, 22-year-old Quebec miner, was taken to hospital after being knocked out in Toronto's "white hope" boxing tournament 13 years ago tonight. He died in hospital three day later. Sponsored by Jack Dempsey, the tournament failed to unearth a serious challenger for Joe Louis.

CITY CARPETBALL

The hopes of an early spring seems to be slowing up the games rather than pushing them ahead with the aim to get out in the gardens early. Only the schedule games were played this week, all these were one sided. It appears that the Fighting Parsons will have to take some spring training if they want to stay in money for in their last games they slipped considerably and have now dropped into third position in the standing. Their last encounter was with King Billie and his Orange Squeezers who used the squeeze method to take the Fighters 12-11 and 16-5. The other Orange team the Bell Ringers also rang up a double win when they set the bells ringing in the Bouncers ears to the tune of 13-12 and 13-6, 13 apparently being unlucky for the Bouncers.

The Treasurers got a firmer grip on first place as they took all the change from the pockets of the Glengarry's 11-9, 10-7 Better check up on some of those poker hands, Joe.

Two games were played in the President's Cup, bringing play into the semi-finals. Both were won in the two straight. The Treasurers put out the Spark Plugs 8-3., 8-7, with Garsides gang getting their seven points of the second game in two frames

In the other game, the Thistles ousted the Bouncers 11-3., 8-5. The Treasurers will now meet Bell Ringers for the final spot to playoff with the winners of the Thistles versus the Glengarry's.

Hockey Cancelled At Marmora, Lakefield

MARMORA, Feb. 19.—(ENS).—Last hour postponement of the opening play-off Trent Valley League game between Campbellfordo and Marmora on Friday was due to a surface of water covering the ice. Marmora juveniles are scheduled to play Stirling in the OMHA playoffs here on Saturday, but the possibility of that fixture being played looks remote.

There was no hockey at Lakefield on Friday.

TO TEST MIKE SHARPE—Fred Atkins, the Australian wrestling champion, shown above, who will meet Mike Sharpe next Wednesday in the main bout at the Brock Arena. Sharpe has been gunning for a crack at Whipper Watson's title but before he gets that chance he will have to hurdle a couple of tough obstacles, Fred Atkins and Earl McCready. That Mike Sharpe is ready for his big chance was proven in his two recent victories over John Katan and Hi Lee, both topnotchers in the mat game. The remainder of the card will be announced Monday.

How Did Jesus Choose His Board Of Apostles?

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Of the 12 men whom Jesus called to special discipleship, He said, "Ye have not chosen Me, but I have chosen you."

These, whom we call "Apostles," and worthily, so, were not Apostles at first. They were men from ordinary walks of life. There is no evidence that they were men of special education or training, though it is a great mistake to think of them as simple, or unlearned men.

The Jewish system of education, with schools attached to the synagogues and with the responsibility resting upon parents, assured the Jewish boy an education for his time and environment as sound as the average boy receives today. Their future work in the founding and leading of the Christian church made evident the training the disciples had in the Master's school and in His companionship. But they undoubtedly had some education when they responded to the Master's call.

Why, out of the many, did Jesus choose these particular men? We cannot answer that with full knowledge, but we can get some rather definite impressions, from the nature of the men, and the nature of the task to which Jesus called them.

It was not enough that they should be good men and well-intentioned. They must be good for the purpose for which Jesus chose them. They must be men of adventurous spirit, capable of endurance, men of ambition, willing to sacrifice everything for a cause and a worthwhile goal.

Their spirit was manifest in the bold declaration of James and John, "We are able." Their rivalry about who should be first, though it was the hardest thing that Jesus had to break down, was in itself an evidence of their ambitious and determined spirit. And it became their strength of character and devotion when they learned the better way of love and service.

Jesus undoubtedly saw in them the makings of what they really became, and their achievement in the founding of the church justified His vision and His faith in them.

But what about Judas? Was Jesus deceived in him? Or did Judas himself change? Of one thing we can be sure. The failure was not the Master's, but the failure of Judas. Jesus called him for what he might have been. But Judas failed to rise to the vision.

Jesus calls us all for what we may be. How much do we rise to His vision of us?

Prospects Bright For Peace New Order Taking Place

WINNIPEG, Feb. 19 (CP).—David Lamb of London, England, veteran commissioner of the Salvation Army, believes a new order is beginning to take shape in the world.

Commissioner Lamb is on an unofficial goodwill tour of the United States and Canada. In an interview here he voiced his belief that a permanent world peace will emerge as the spiritual ties among all people are deepened and strengthened.

Commissioner Lamb is 82. He began his goodwill mission in 1941 when he crossed the Atlantic to talk with leaders in all walks of life on the establishment of a lasting peace. Since then he has visited the United States, Canada, the Bahamas, the Union of South Africa and Southern Rhodesia.

"I've retired from full time service with the Salvation Army and I am having a grand time airing two or three of my ideas in all parts of the world," he said.

"Of course, the world is getting better all the time. Take the United Kingdom. In my lifetime the population has doubled, but in the same time 30 prisons have been closed; the average population of all prisons has been reduced from 30,000 to 12,000.

"Consumption of hard spirits has been reduced by 70 per cent, and consumption of beer by 40 per cent."

Seven-League Steps

The Atlantic Charter, the San Francisco conference, the Western European alliance and the proposed North Atlantic pact have all been seven-league steps to permanent peace, Commissioner Lamb feels.

Big wars now are out of style. Disputes are being localized. Marxian Communism, based on materialistic concepts is dead, in the commissioner's opinion. But a spiritual communism in which men share everything in common is "bound to come."

"We're all Socialists now, and soon we'll all be communist — but a special brand." Commissioner Lamb instances the Salvation Army as an example of true spiritual communism. In all the years it had been active, there had been no private profits.

Commissioner Lamb was confident Britain would come successfully through her period of trial. In 1934 he received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of Aberdeen. He also has been made a companion of the order of St. Michael and St. George for "services to the British Empire."

On the eve of her retirement in 1939, General Evangeline Booth bestowed on him the Salvation Army's highest honor — the Order of the Founder.

Offering Personal Prayers

Jesus said unto His Disciples: Bring them hither to me.—St. Matthew 14:18.

Just five barley loaves and two small fishes. Only in the spirit of obedience are they placed in His hands. The Lord offered thanks for the plain, every day bread. He broke and gave to His disciples and they fed the multitude. This is the only miracle repeated by the four evangelists, who saw deep thoughts in the sign, as St. John calls it. It was the outward and visible sign of what the Lord would do for His disciples when they faced multitudes hungry for spiritual bread, all through the generations. As often as they told this story of feeding they were reminded of the Master's command "Bring them hither to Me."

The Lord was asking plain every day people to offer their one or two talents to Him and He would work His wonders with their gifts, no matter how small they were. They must be offered denial and devotion to Him. Then in the spirit of complete self would follow His wonderful multiplication.

We are living in an age of great unrest and anxiety. Communism offers "a new order" which spells slavery to every Christian and it determines to overthrow the Christian faith as being done for the unlearned multitudes.

We believe that God Almighty reigneth. He has brought us terribly dark days—our children will realize it better than we do—and probably darker days are before us. The same Lord says to us: "Bring your prayers hither to Me". Are you shocked? Your prayers, your every day petitions, so feeble, so selfish. In that Upper Room, before His death, He said: "Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in My Name He will give it to you". "In My Name" means according to the principles He taught in The Lord's Prayer. "After this manner pray ye". Let us think upon these fundamental thoughts.

God is to be put first. We honor and reverance His Name by word and example. We pray for the extension of His Kingdom which is to be essentially a Kingdom of righteousness. In that Kingdom there will be devout obedience to His will. Then only are we to ask for ourselves. On our lips are placed the word: "Give us this day our daily bread". The necessities of life, not the luxuries. And only for tomorrow, for such is the meaning of "daily". "Give us today tomorrow's bread".

As sinful children we ask next for forgiveness of our sins and deliverance from evil. As our experience of His love and goodness is sensed and revealed there will follow the natural hatred of sin. Our eyes are being opened to see the beauty of goodness and the ugliness of sin. Sin is being revealed to us in all its horrible hideousness. This is the meaning of the petition "Deliver us from evil". You will come to hate the evil and love the good. Your old sins will have lost their attractiveness.

We are priests of a Holy Priesthood. Let us offer our prayers and supplications in His Name. We have His promise: "Open your mouth wide and I will fill it. You may be moved to bring this ancient prayer, hot with the breath of countless saints. "ALMIGHTY GOD, unto Whom all hearts be open, all desires known, and from Whom no secrets are hid: Cleanse the thoughts of our hearts by the inspiration of Thy Holy Spirit, that we may perfectly love Thee, and worthily magnify Thy Holy Name; through Jesus Christ Our Lord.

THE LORD SAITH: I WILL OPEN THE WINDOWS OF HEAVEN AND POUR YOU OUT A BLESSING THAT THERE SHALL NOT BE ROOM ENOUGH TO RECEIVE IT.

START OF SPRING FLOODING CONDITIONS are a month ahead of time. In some sections of the city ice-plugged street drains are causing pools of melting water as shown in the Left photo; Board of Works employees Jim Cummiskey and John Freeman stand aside on Jane Street to allow a car to wallow past their portable pump. They estimated it would take half a day to drain off six inches of water more than half a block long in this area. Right photo shows fast water breaking through melting snow banks of Jackson Park creek just south of Parkhill Road, a portent of flood to come.

96 Fox Bounties Paid Thursday; Record Total

When the County Council decided to give $3 bounty for each fox pelt brought into the County Clerk and Treasurer's office, it really started something. Since the beginning of the year 520 foxes have fallen victim to hunters eager to rid the countryside of the pests, and equally eager to pick up some spare cash.

The majority of them have been shot by hunters who believe in combining business with pleasure. Many more have fallen to trappers, and this week one met an ignoble end by being beaten to death with a stick.

Anyone who thinks that the fox pelt pastime is hardly worth occupying a man's attention should consider the case of Wesley Little, of Dummer. He trapped 17 right in his own barnyard; and after dressing and drying the hides he brought them in to the Treasurer's office, collected $51 in bounty and then sold the furs for about a dollar a piece.

As one wag remarked: "He certainly seems to be raising a good crop of foxes this year." And nobody felt disposed to argue the point.

The number seems to be increasing, week by week. Three weeks ago 85 were brought in, on the next 91, and this week a record 96.

Bag Wolf

Wesley Dunford of Dummer brought in not only a fox but also a wolf which he shot near his home.

Those claiming fox bounties on Thursday were: J. D. Tully, Peterborough, one shot in Otonabee; Fred Mann, Anstruther, one trapped in Anstruther; W. J. McLain, North Monaghan, one shot in North Monaghan; Garfield Dunford, Douro, two trapped in Douro; H. Kennedy, Havelock, five shot in Belmont; M. J. Bertrand, Dummer, two trapped in Dummer; Duncan Keitel, Otonabee, five shot in Otonabee; Charles Kincaid, Cavan, one shot in North Monaghan; Arthur Hancock, Smith, one trapped in Smith; Clarence Renoir, Belmont, six shot in Belmont near the Trent River; Ross English, Smith, one shot in Smith; Wesley Little, Dummer, 17 trapped in Dummer; Wellington Tate, Harvey, five trapped in Harvey; M. R. Harrison, Peterborough, two shot in Otonabee; Richard McMahon, Otonabee, one shot in Otonabee; Kenneth Esson, Otonabee, two shot in Otonabee; Clive Edwards, Otonabee, two shot in Otonabee; Thomas Ephgrave, Peterborough, one shot in Douro; William Emmory, Hastings, one shot in Asphodel; Ronald Mahood, Smith, one wounded fox killed with a stick; George McColl, Asphodel, three trapped and one shot in Asphodel; Howard Hill, Peterborough, five shot in Douro; Lloyd Sucee, Peterborough, two shot in Otonabee; Fred Twomey, Ennismore, one trapped in Ennismore; Nelson Davis, Peterborough, nine shot in Douro; Max Humphries, Asphodel, one shot in Asphodel; E. G. Wagar, Peterborough, one shot in Smith; Wesley Dunford, Dummer, one shot in Dummer; Charles Forsyth, Smith, six shot in Smith; Joseph Robertson, Cavendish, four in Cavendish; and Sampson Taylor, Peterborough, four shot in Otonabee

Welfare Committee Budget Shows $7,000 Increase; Total Amounts To One Mill

First chapter of the 1949 municipal budget, the welfare committee's estimates contemplated an increase in expenditure of more than $7,000. This department's total requisition is for approximately $52,000, of which the Provincial Government will contribute $17,177, leaving around $34,500 to be paid out of the city treasury. Welfare will cost this year just about the equivalent of one mill in the tax rate.

Estimated expenditure last year was $27,000; total expenditure $42,590.52, of which the government assumed $15,350.61, leaving $27,239.91 paid by the city. Expense exceeded the estimates by $239.91.

The statement from A. G. Metheral, welfare officer, was reviewed by the committee and sent on to the finance committee.

Ald. P. J. Anglesey presided with Ald. Dick Raine and Mayor Swanston present.

The estimate for administration cost last year was $6,886, payments amounted to $6,338, and the proposed expenditure this year is $7,661.

Salaries Up

Salaries in the new welfare budget total $6,130 as against $5,380 for 1948, and actual expenditure of $5,163.33.

Transportation, office supplies, fuel, telephone, etc. are set at $1,506, and expenditure $1,174.67.

Shareable relief is estimated at $34,355.20 for 1949, as compared with the estimate of $28,628 last year and total payments of $31,023.47.

The major item of increase in the welfare department's requisition for the new year lies in that bulk of welfare needs. Mr. Metheral's provision for a prospective accentuation of the welfare position in 1949 was accepted by the committee. January's total of shareable relief (shared by the government) was several hundred dollars more than in the first month of last year. The committee was inclined to take a reasonably bright view of the trend of employment and living costs, but it was felt safer to "put a little more in the budget" for some increase in the welfare requirements before next Dec. 31.

The estimate for miscellaneous relief last year was $5,800; payments amounted to $5,229.05, and the estimate for this year is $9,500. That sum will probably be increased by $500 to $10,000 to cover the item of sanatoria aftercare. It was estimated at $1,200 last year; payments were $2,329.59; and Mr. Metheral suggested $2,500 for this year, but the committee was inclined to increase the item to $3,000.

Ambulance service is unchanged at $200; expenditure last year was $119.75; funerals: $1,000 last year; payments $1,112.33; this year $1,200.

Transportation: estimated last year $150; spent $566.05; new estimate $400.

Non-shareable items, rents, etc. estimate last year $2,950; spent $1,068; new estimate $5,000.

Sundry items, debentures, etc., estimate last year $300; spent $32.40; this year's estimate $200.

Those two categories of expenditure, miscellaneous and shareable relief, brought the total relief figures to: estimated last year $34,428; payments $36,252.52; 1949 estimate $43,855.20.

The department's totals are an addition of relief and administration costs as quoted above.

January Report

Mr. Metheral's relief report for January totalled $3,305.15 as compared with $2,716.26 for the same month last year. The items were: food $1.860 (up from $1,546.43); fuel $661.77 (up from $567.93); clothing $113.50; shelter $409.77; doctors $106.96; household sundries $73.15; special home care $80.

The number of heads of families on the relief list last month was 46 as against 40 a year ago; their dependents 120 (91 last year); single men 10, single women 51. Total number of individuals 227 as compared with 182 in January, 1948.

TO ADDRESS ALUMNI: Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto who will address the Varsity Alumni and their friends in the Empress hotel on Monday evening. Main purpose of dinner will be to organize a branch of the University of Toronto Alumni Association in Peterborough.

Defence Dept. Seeks Site In Haliburton

The Department of National Defence is looking around the wilds of Haliburton County for a new artillery range. This means that Petawawa must be abandoned as an artillery area. The firing is disturbing the atoms at Deep River.

For more than half a century the Petawawa artillery range has served it purpose. Long range heavy explosives could be fired there without any trouble, the virtue of this section being that such a shot would hit nothing hurt nothing, and that the sand had a generally deadening effect on missiles. But the area is now more crowded than it was, civilization and the tourist have encroached on the Department of National Defence.

Haliburton, one of the least settled counties in Ontario, is regarded as ideal for such a purpose. One might fire a projectile 20 miles in some parts of Haliburton and not do any damage.

Haliburton County lies north of Peterborough, northwest of Belleville, and the main road through Algonquin Park west from Eganville cuts a northern corner of Haliburton.

Ronald Curry, former reeve of Dysart township, and immediate past president of the Haliburton Tourist Association, was reached by telephone today for comment on this proposal. He said; "I doubt very much if an area suitable can be obtained in the county. After all, it is only 20 miles from Haliburton to Algonquin Park from the village, and there are several resorts and logging camps in that area."

Mr. Curry said too that so far as he knows, no person in the county has any knowledge of his proposal. He expressed surprise when told the Department of National Defence was looking to Haliburton County for an artillery range.

Haliburton is one of the fastest developing summer areas in the province, and while there is a hinterland of lakes and forest, only a road is needed to make this as attractive to the resort operator, tourist and fisherman as the developed portion is now.

Gas Department Loss $10,621 On '48 Operation

Peterborough's gas department operated by the Utilities Commission showed an operating loss of $10,62165 last year according to the published financial statement today. In 1947 the loss was $3,294.75.

Expenses for the year amounted to $125,581.52, an increase of of 11½ per cent, while revenue was $115,959.55, an increase of 10 per cent over 1947. This total includes investment and bank interest of $999.78 which reduced the net deficit to $9,621.87.

Change Over Made

During the year 1947 and the early part of 1948, the Commission found that the existing method of manufacture of gas was increasing rapidly in cost. The materials used, coal, coke and fuel oil, were difficult to obtain and prices were rising every day. It was therefore decided to install apparatus for the use of propane gas mixed with air. This mixture would have a heating content of 710 B. T. U's per cubic foot as compared with 450 B. T. U's in the former gas. The necessary apparatus was ordered in January, and most of it was delivered and erected by July 1, 1948, when use of the new gas was started.

Since that date delivery of the gas to the consumers has continued.

COCKROACHES?

Mayor R. I. Moore isn't worried about cockroaches in Lindsay hospital because "they been there for 25 years." He made the observation when the board of health was discussing the inspector's report that "there are cockroaches in every room of Lindsay's Ross Memorial Hospital." The board passed the problem on to the Ontario Health Department in Toronto.

Exhibition Board To Spend $10,000 On Buildings

Directors of the Exhibition approved last night of expenditure of $10,000 this year on further improvement of its plant.

The major item is around $7,000 for a building 150 ft. by 50 ft. to be used as dining room and exhibits. The dining section will be 50 by 50, and the exhibits part 100 by 50. Three windows of the main building will be open on each side, there is to be some change in wiring, painting of roofs is also on the agenda.

The board contemplated the outlay of $30,000 over five years. Half that amount is to be received from the federal government.

The money is to be spent on the construction and maintenance of buildings. Mr. Gillespie has said that this co-operative arrangement of the government will be extended for another five years at the conclusion of the first period, making altogether grants of $3,000 a year for ten years. The only condition is that the board must show equal expenditure either for maintenance or new building.

Mark Brotherhood Week Starting Next Monday

The declared purpose of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, founded in 1947, is to form "a civic organization of religiously motivated persons to promote justice, amity, understanding and co-operation among Protestants, Catholics and Jews."

Brotherhood Week beginning February 20 will mark the officials observance of this aim. On that date Mayor Swanston will issue a proclamation of fellowship, and it will be the re-current theme throughout the week at public meetings.

A special program has been planned for public and secondary schools, with three women from the United States giving the chief addresses. They are Mrs. Ellen O. Gorman Duffy, president of Barnard College Alumnae; Mrs. Everett Clinch, New York, wife of the president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews; and Mrs. Stella Counselbaum of Chicago.

Members of the Council state they do not seek uniformity of religious belief nor any common multiple of faith. There is no attempt to achieve its goal by weakening the distinctive loyalties and beliefs of those of any faith.

Co-operation Is Aim

They state they do not aim at any sort of union or merger of religious groups, nor do they seek to represent official religious bodies. "Co-operation, not union," is the watchword.

According to an official statement issued by the Council, "Both Christianity and Judaism stand bodly and clearly for their mutual teachings of respect for every child of God."

Democracy grew out of these religious traditions, the Council contends.

IN BETH-ISRAEL SYNANOGUE on Reid Street near Charlotte, Rabbi J. Mayer in formal vestments stands before the traditional seven-branched candelabrum, the Menorah, reading from sacred writings. The Reverend Mr. Mayer along with other religious leaders in the city is taking a prominent part in "Brotherhood Week" sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

Farthing; Cub booth display, William Danahy; Scout booth display, Bernard Jones; Finance, Edward McDonald; Judging and Prizes, Bruce Baker; Booth construction, John Crowe; Scout Craft display, Thomas Taylor; Entertainment, Quirt McKinney and the General Committee, Arthur Balby, B. BURNS HOLE IN WALL

The McAnerin family of Wellington St. is quite willing to believe that a blow torch can be a dangerous thing. Workmen employed on a nearby construction job on Thursday afternoon needed some water for mixing with their concrete. An outside water pipe, against the side of the McAnerin house and used by them for watering the lawn, was decided upon as the source of supply. To thaw the pipe the blow torch was brought into play. A short time later Mrs. McAnerin came out of her house and requested them to desist as they had started a fire inside. Like gentlemen, they did so, and promptly. Apparently the heat travelled along the pipe igniting the inside wall. By the time the Fire Department had coped with the situation the McAnerin's had a hole of about six square feet in the side of their house... Spring can't come too soon for them.

PLAYING WITH "FIRE"

Playing innocently on the edge of the ice covering the Otonabee River near Inverlea Bridge on Friday afternoon, two youngsters aged five and eight did not realize the danger of the swift current which would have claimed them had they taken a step or two in the wrong direction. Before they came to any harm, however, a passing motorist saw them on the ice with a sleigh, busy trying to break off chunks of the ice on which they were standing, and brought them to safety. Happily the result of the escapade, far from being unpleasant, was a ride in a police cruiser for the youngsters, who were taken home by Constable C. McGillen. The motorist who rescued them from the ice was Fred C. Marshall.—H.M.P.

PRACTICAL PLANS FOR THE HOME YOU WANT AND HOW TO PLAN IT

Light Experts Answer Fluorescent Question

The use of fluorescent lighting in the home is ringed with a big question mark by many women who are drawing up spring redecorating plans. The following answers to frequently asked questions about this type of lighting are based on interviews with lighting engineers.

Q. Which source gives off more light—fluorescent or incandescent?

A. A fluorescent lamp produces about two and a half times as much light as an incandescent lamp of comparable size.

Q. Is it harmful to the eyes to mix the two type of lights in one room?

A. No. A mixture usually gives a room better illumination. Concealed fluorescent strips provide general illumination and incandescent lamps serve as accent lighting for specific visual tasks.

Q. Do fluorescent fixture have to be permanently installed?

A. Not necessarily. There are portable fixtures which can be attached to a wall and plugged into any electric outlet. Some table and floor lamps are equipped with fluorescent light.

Q. How about ceiling fixtures or cove or valance-concealed lighting?

A. Any lighting installation that requires cutting into wall surfaces to connect wires to a household electric system should be done by a competent electrician. Fluorescent fixtures do not require any complicated renewing of an electric system.

Q. Are fluorescent fixture expensive?

A. Fluorescent fixtures are usually more expensive than average unadorned incandescent fixtures. Fluorescent lamps for replacements cost more but will burn four or five times longer than incandescent bulbs.

Q. Can I replace a burned-out lamp myself?

A. Certainly. The lamp fits into slots in the holder and can be twisted in or out. Starter mechanisms are as easy to replace.

Q. What causes fluorescent lamp to flicker?

A. A pronounced flicker usually means lamp or starter is wearing out and should be replaced.

Q. What are the practical advantages of fluorescent light?

A. Fluorescent lamps are low in surface brightness which results in little direct or reflected glare. Even distribution of light over a wider area, plus efficient use of current, makes a "cool" light. These qualities enhance its value in homework centers.

Q. What are decorative uses for fluorescent light?

A Fluorescence plays up colors and textures of furnishings. It provides "plus" illumination to make a room more cheerful. Lamps range in length from a few inches to several feet which permits flexible arrangements. Short strips may be recessed in niches or under shelves. Longer strips may be mounted above windows or along ceiling coves.

Q. Does all fluorescence cast a blue light?

A. No. Five standard degrees of fluorescent "whiteness" range from daylight of bluish tones to soft pinkish white to warm tones similar to incandescence.

Q. How do I choose the color?

A. In general, warm-toned lights can be used with the widest variety of colors and will blend well with incandescence. Color tests also indicate that pink and some tan shades look clearest under soft white lights; green and blue shades under daylight-type.

PINK-PAINTED ALCOVE for sewing and planning is lighted for both tasks. For sewing, fluorescent ceiling fixture plus strips concealed by scalloped cornice turn on bright illumination with minimum of shadows on work surface. Cornice lights are all that are needed for writing at small desk.

Teachers Get Bonus Of $165 At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 19—(ENS)—Public School Board voted cost of living bonuses of $165 for members of the public school teaching staff, after principal E. G. Sloan made a request on behalf of the staff. The bonuses are to be paid this month as a lump sum.

The Board approved the use of the school by the Home and School Association for the annual school fair and also approved of the Association's public speaking course and decided to refund $2 to every pupil of the course attending at least 80 per cent of the classes.

Mr. Sloan reported January attendance as 279, which was an average of 79.38.

Secretary was authorized to pay $100 for the use of the rink at Lakefield.

George Davy was nominated to Lakefield Citizens' Recreation Committee.

Frank Payne proposed a new liability insurance which would cover accidents in the school and school grounds. This was held over for another meeting.

Messrs. Tweed and Morris of Peterborough, electrical contractors, discussed with the Board their electrical account sent some time ago. Eventually it was moved by Trustees Jakins and Hunter, that the account of $287.85 be paid in full.

High school is to pay rental of $3,500 for the year 1949.

The finance committee submitted the following accounts:

W. Murray, $10.45; T. W. Chaplin $3; Bell Telephone Co. $2.20; LHEC, $34.41; Leonard's Hardware, $5.70; Neil C. Wood, $18.25; Miller and Hudson, $24.50; Green Lantern Shop, $2; Porter Co., $4.75; Turner Bros., $7.40; Boosey and Hawkes, $6.54; C. Duff, $36.40; Larry Electric Service, $7.50; Clara Webster, $13.50; Review Printing Co., $5.76; N. A. Moore, $4.28; Tweedy and Morris, $287.85; Dr. L. O. Bailey, $10; E. H. Northey, $116.28; Kawartha Hardware, $3.56.

THIS LIVING-DINING ROOM decorated in shades of yellow, terra-cotta and aqua blue combines flourescent and incandescent light for better illumination and decorative effects. Warm-toned fluorescent strips are concealed in ceiling cove, under bookcase shelves, and at edge of yellow-painted china cabinets flanking window. Miniature six watt warm-toned fluorescent strips illuminate six inches above loveseat and blend with incandescent table lamps.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 19—(CP)—Battered rail and telephone communications hamstrung British Columbia today as snow slides and floods followed the province's first big rain since December.

Eight box cars were swept from Canadian Pacific rail lines near Grandforks, B.C., near Nelson last night, dropping 200 feet into deep snow. No one was injured.

Both Canadian Pacific and Canadian National lines reported troubles. Slides in the Fraser Canyon, 100 miles east of Vancouver, caused delays on the CN line. One train, snowbound since Wednesday with 50 passengers, was due this morning.

Owen Sound Expects 48-Mill Tax Rate

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 19—(CP)—The tax rate for this city in 1949, on its new 66 2-3 per cent assessment increase, will be at least 48 mills, quite possibly higher. This was revealed after the city council's finance committee had covered all the estimates, and done considerable paring, in a series of lengthy meetings this week.

The tax rate here last year was 67 mills, but since that time the entire city has been re-assessed. The new assessment is approximately $15,000,000.

Army Admits Blunder

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—(AP)—The United States Army, under criticism for issuing its recent report on wartime Soviet espionage in Japan, virtually admitted Friday that it had blundered. Col. George S. Eyster, deputy chief of the army's public information division, said among other things that the division had no proof at hand to back up the charge that Miss Agnes Smedley, American writer on Far East affairs, was a Russian spy.

Planning Statement

OTTAWA, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott said Friday in the Commons he may be able to make a statement early next week on what the government plans to do about a recent Ontario Supreme Court decision on prices-board regulations. The court ruled ultra vires a section of the Prices Board regulations permitting the prosecution of persons charging more than a "fair and reasonable" price for their goods.

Czechoslovak Skater Wins Skating Crown

PARIS, Feb. 19.—(AP).—Alena Vrzanova, pretty 17-year-old Czechoslovakian, won the women's world figure skating championship last night but half the drama of the event was played in a dressing room within earshot of the crowd's roar.

It was there that European champion Eva Pawlik sat crying because a skate runner had torn loose from her shoe. She could not get it repaired in time to compete.

It is unlikely that Miss Pawlik could have won the championship left open when Barbara Ann Scott of Canada turned professional. Miss Vrzanova had proved her superiority the first day in compulsory figures. And she got exceptionally high marks from the judges for her free skating.

Westwood Blanks Norwood Team 5-0

NORWOOD, Feb. 19—Westwood blanked Norwood 5-0 in a game which was full of fight and without a dull moment on the Thursday night at the local arena in the Rural Hockey League. In the first period both teams failed to score then at the 14-minute mark in the second the puck was deflected into the Norwood net from the skate of a Norwood player, Thompson was given credit for the goal. Thompson two minutes later scored and this was immediately followed by a goal by Starke which saw Westwood going into the third period three goals up.

Tempers flared early in the third with Renwick and Brown mixing it up then all the players joined in with sticks and gloves flying all over the ice. Penalties were given to Renwick, Brown, Thompson and Weir.

Finally with both teams at full strength Starke scored at 17.30 mark and again at 19.55 seconds before the close to put Westwood on top 5-0.

The line ups were:
Norwood: Alfred, goal; Spring and Stackhouse, defence; Rusaw, centre; Brown and Martin, wings and Kelly, Webb, Cuthbertson, Robson and Kumph, alternates.

Westwood — Renwick, goal; Shearer and Sargent, defence; Starke, centre; Woods and Thompson, wings; B. Warr, Andrews, B. Humphries, Morris, and P. Elmhirst, alternates.

Referee—Budd Webb; linesman, Bruce Goodfellow.

How Much Is Your Eyesight Worth?

In Peterborough City and County there are 72 persons who would pay almost any amount of money if it were possible that their sight be restored; as well as others whose sight has been impaired by accident.

These people or a number of them, have become useful citizens through the teachings and help of the Canadian Institute for the Blind

In Peterborough an association called the Peterborough Advisory Board to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind maintains a Braile Library and a "Talking Book Library", books which have been recorded being played on a specially adapted machine.

The Association maintains contact with all people registered with the Association — Services practically all those who are registered with them — Administers concessions employment and maintains a "Home Teaching Service". At present there are five blind people employed in industrial firms in this city.

The Association also provides at least one picnic a year, sends Christmas boxes. The I.O.D.E. supplies a lunch at the Blind picnic — and the people at Fee's Landing do much to help at this affair.

Green, Mrs. Jack Watt and Mrs. Art Malby, presented by Mrs. E. Metcalfe, Ladies' Curling Club president, who announced the winners.

Prizes were given by the club to the rink in third place on three games, that of Mrs. Alexander from Hamilton Thistle Club. Mrs. C. B. Westbrook presented each member with a lovely table centre. TO RESTORE FLUFFY FRESHNESS to her hair as pictured (centre) without wetting her head, this model uses two-step treatment. Quick-drying witch hazel is used on cotton pad to swab strands clean (left) and to dampen ends for setting pin curls (right).

Quick-Dry Treatment Used To Freshen Hair Safely

When winter sniffles rule out shampoos, it's good to know that you can restore fulffy freshness to hair by quicker-drying methods.

One trick of freshening up hair thoroughly without wetting the head is to swab scalp and locks clean with a wad of cotton dampened with quick-drying witch hazel. This lotion can be used to cleanse hair and at the same time to impart to it a flattering luster.

The test of cleanliness of each strand that you pull through your damp swab is the absence of any trace of soil on the cottton. So plan to have a roll of fresh cotton ready for frequent renewals of the cleansing pad. If the swab used is damp, not wet, one strand of hair will be dry and fluffily fresh before you go on to the next.

When locks are swabbed clean, you can give yourself a fresh set of curls, using witch hazel as a setting lotion. Use it to barely dampen the ends of each strand of hair that you wind up into a pin curl.

Eyster, deputy chief of the army's public information division, said among other things that the division had no proof at hand to back up the charge that Miss Agnes Smedley, American writer on Far East affairs, was a Russian spy.

Czechoslovak Skater Wins Skating Crown

PARIS, Feb. 19.—(AP).—Alena Vrzanova, pretty 17-year-old Czechoslovakian, won the women's world figure skating championship last night but half the drama of the event was played in a dressing room within earshot of the crowd's roar.

It was there that European champion Eva Pawlik sat crying because a skate runner had torn loose from her shoe. She could not get it repaired in time to compete.

It is unlikely that Miss Pawlik could have won the championship left open when Barbara Ann Scott of Canada turned professional. Miss Vrzanova had proved her superiority the first day in compulsory figures. And she got exceptionally high marks from the judges for her free skating.

Westwood Blanks Norwood Team 5-0

NORWOOD, Feb. 19—Westwood blanked Norwood 5-0 in a game which was full of fight and without a dull moment on the Thursday night at the local arena in the Rural Hockey League. In the first period both teams failed to score then at the 14-minute mark in the second the puck was deflected into the Norwood net from the skate of a Norwood player. Thompson was given credit for the goal. Thompson two minutes later scored and this was immediately followed by a goal by Starke which saw Westwood going into the third period three goals up.

Tempers flared early in the third with Renwick and Brown mixing it up then all the players joined in with sticks and gloves flying all over the ice. Penalties were given to Renwick, Brown, Thompson and Weir.

Finally with both teams at full strength Starke scored at 17.30 mark and again at 19.55 seconds before the close to put Westwood on top 5-0.

The line ups were:
Norwood: Alfred, goal; Spring and Stackhouse, defence; Rusaw, centre; Brown and Martin, wings and Kelly, Webb, Cuthbertson, Robson and Kumph, alternates.

Westwood — Renwick, goal; Shearer and Sargent, defence; Starke, centre; Woods and Thompson, wings; B. Warr, Andrews, B. Humphries, Morris, and P. Elmhirst, alternates.

Referee—Budd Webb; linesman, Bruce Goodfellow.

How Much Is Your Eyesight Worth?

In Peterborough City and County there are 72 persons who would pay almost any amount of money if it were possible that their sight be restored; as well as others whose sight has been impaired by accident.

These people or a number of them, have become useful citizens through the teachings and help of the Canadian Institute for the Blind

In Peterborough an association called the Peterborough Advisory Board to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind maintains a Braile Library and a "Talking Book Library", books which have been recorded being played on a specially adapted machine.

The Association maintains contact with all people registered with the Association — Services practically all those who are registered with them — Administers concessions employment and maintains a "Home Teaching Service". At present there are five blind people employed in industrial firms in this city.

The Association also provides at least one picnic a year, sends Christmas boxes. The I.O.D.E. supplies a lunch at the Blind picnic — and the people at Fee's Landing do much to help at this affair.

DOROTHY DIX

Widows Told Keep Busy Cherish Your Independence

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a woman 56 years old, in good health. A few months ago my husband died. We were very fond of each other. Knowing that he would not live long, he advised me to sell my home and go to live with my married son, but I just can't see that. I am afraid he and his wife would get tired of me. I have a small rooming house—nine rooms—and if I can keep it going, I would like to do so, as I have a lot of time on my hands.

I feel that if I had something to look forward to every day that I would be happier, for I want to be independent. What is your advice?

ANSWER—My earnest advice to every woman who is left a widow is to cherish her independence as the most precious possession she has left to her. Keep to yourself. Don't let your children persuade you to come and live with them. Keep your money, whether it is much or little, in your own hands. Go to some reliable banker for advice, instead of Cousin Jim or Uncle Sam who probably would mean well but lose you everything you have.

Dorothy Dix

And keep busy. The only antidote for grief is to keep so occupied that you will not have time to dwell upon your sorrow. You will not wet your pillow with your tears at night if you have worked so hard that you fall asleep through sheer exhaustion as soon as you have touched your bed.

It is sweet and dear of your children to ask you to come and make your home with them now that poor Papa has gone. They think you will be so lonesome and they are so sorry for you, and they feel that it will be such a comfort to you to sell the old home and not have to work any more, but just to sit with folded hands and be taken care of.

Don't do it. Thank your children for their kind thought, but don't become a pensioner on them if it is possible to avoid it. Don't go to live with them unless it is the last resort of desperation.

Keep your own home. Live your own life. Find some work to do that will keep you on your toes. Keeping a rooming house—like the one you have—where something interesting and exciting and aggravating is happening every day, will do more to keep you young and happy than sponging on your children will.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — We are four girls in our teens and we go to night clubs and dance. When we come home we sit out in front of the house and talk to our boy friends until three o'clock. This makes our neighbors give us a terrible reputation and they scold our mothers for letting us do it.

But don't you think it is all right for us to act this way as long as we know we are nice?

FOUR GIRLS.

ANSWER—Well, girls, it isn't enough to be nice. You have to act nice, and certainly no nice girl would sit out in the street until three o'clock in the morning spooning with some lad. Her heart may be pure, but her reputation is bedraggled; and we judge a girl by what we see of her conduct, not by what she tells us about how innocent she is.

Nothing is more pitiful than to see little teen-age girls, too young and ignorant of the world to know what they are doing, throw their caps over the windmill. They think it is smart and daring to show how sophisticated they are, and they do not know that the reputations they are building up will be a disgrace to them as long as they live.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a girl of 12 with a terrible problem that I do not know how to solve. My mother and father are always fighting, so we hardly ever have a minute's peace at home. Daddy curses and Mama cries and I am so unhappy that I am thinking of running away.

Is there any way that I can stop them?

WORRIED DAUGHTER.

ANSWER—I am afraid not, for family brawls seem to be a chronic disease in many households, and I have never known a husband and wife who were always in each other's hair who ever gave up their favorite indoor sport of spatting with each other. The battling husband and wife call for no sympathy, because they know that they accomplish nothing by reviling and insulting each other. Either one of them could stop it if they would. But it is hard on the poor children who are reared in an atmosphere of strife and whose minds and bodies are often wrecked by the scenes they are forced to endure.

Movie Stars Active In Church Work

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19 (AP)—Hollywood is by no means the godless place some of its critics claim it to be.

There are 50 churches in the Hollywood area alone, and many more in the residential areas of Beverly Hills, Westwood and San Fernando Valley. Many a star who shines glamorously on other days is just another woshipper on Sunday.

Many film personalities attend the large First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood and take active parts in its activities. Among them: Virginia Mayo, Michael O'Shea, and Dennis Morgan, a mainstay of the choir.

Roman Catholic form a large segment of the film colony. Active church people include Bing Crosby, Rosalind Russell, Don Ameche, George Murphy, Loretta Young, Jeanne Crain, and Jane Wyatt.

Honors to Irene

Roman Catholic Irene Dunne was recently cited for honors by the National Conference of Christians and Jews for her work in promoting understanding among faiths.

Christian Scientists among the film personalities include Mary Pickford, Alan Ladd, Ginger Roger, and Frank Veloz (and Yolanda).

Edward G. Robinson, Eddie Cantor, Al Jolson, Jack Benny, Louis B. Mayer, Hal Wallis, the Warner Brothers and John Garfield are among those in the Jewish faith. Walter Wanger and Joan Bennett are prominent members of the All Saint's Episcopal Church, which Van Johnson has attended. The Hollywood Beverly Christian Church congregation lists Ronald Regan and Gale Storm.

And Others

In addition to their churches, Hollywood people have been active in other religious pursuits. Charles Laughton is noted for his Bible readings in churches and on records. Doré Schary, Joe E. Brown and Lew Ayers are among those who have been interested in University Religious Conference, interfaith group at the University of California.

HandcraftGroupsExhibition Suggest Sparetime Hobbies

Such an exhibit of handwork as presented Friday by Guild of Arts and Crafts and Home Arts Guild gave to some onlookers a feeling of inadequacy. Members of the groups of the Women's Art Association are all homemakers and keep up other interests such as church and clubwork as well.

Do they neglect homes and families in favor of their hobbies? Not a bit of it. Which proves truth in the saying, "The more you have to do, the more you will accomplish."

Superior quality of materials and careful workmanship was evident in every piece displayed in the YWCA Green Room. Some of the women have been working at these pastimes for years while others are just starting. Not all have had qualified instructors to show the way things are done. An example, three oil paintings by Mrs. R. G. Manlece who had re-created views from her Stony Lake cottage last summer and from her East City home this winter with marvelous perspective and color blending for an untutored painter.

Indian bead craft, recognized the world over as the peer of all handicrafts, but not a familiar one of today, was included. In fact, Mrs. Chas. Stanton may have given some granddaughter an incentive to make belts, necklaces and fob designs for herself by her demonstration. She had two looms set up, one home-made and one recently purchased in the city. Articles rare in design can be produced with only tiny colored beads, white cotton thread and a needle.

Work in progress on a small weaving loom showed how Miss Linden Hall makes the exquisite place mats, table mats, scarves and towels that are becoming synonomous with her name. Her exhibits included plain and fancy patterns in pastel shades and tweed effects.

"Blueprints" made by Mrs. F. C. Anderson presented a novel way of having "something different" in greeting card design. She collects ferns, odd leaves and small plants which are pressed and processed in such a way as to leave their form in white on the blue paper.

A handsome example of chip carving by Mrs. Jas. Turnbull was her walnut serving tray. At least two members of the Guild are going in for furniture manufacturing. Mrs. P. M. McCarroll exhibited her desk and Mrs. J. G. Wharry the night table of a bedroom suite she plans for her son.

Mrs. Wharry is also a metalcraft artist and had a smoker's set, two large trays and smaller articles on display. With all the tools of the trade before her, she was demonstrating for a crowd of visitors all afternoon. Other members had put in pieces of silver jewellery and bracelets.

Mrs. Grace Reinhardt moulds wet lumps of pottery clay into beautifully shaped odd dishes, vases and jugs and does them in colors that add charm to any table. On a banding wheel she was demonstrating the method by which very narrow bands of color are painted on a vase. Work of other pottery makers showed decorative leaf design, outlined with a modelling tool.

Hooked rugs present a wonderful means of disposing of worn out hose and fine garments, but the maker must have patience to burn. Mrs. P. M. McCarroll brought the frame and large canvas on which she is presently working. Its size and the detail of her pattern were a bit staggering for a beginner to contemplate, but she has made many others in various sizes and knows just how much close work it means.

Another form of hooked rug making was demonstrated by Mrs. H. Powell. Through holes in open weave mesh, with a special hook, she quickly pulled short lengths of thick yarn and tied each firmly. The finished product is delightfully soft and warm. There was also a huge braided rug, reminder of the Canadian homesteads.

For smartly gloved hands, see Mrs. C. S. Browne, who makes her own patterns to fit any size and shape. She procures beautiful fine English leathers, suede in costume colors that make highly flattering costume accents.

Several hand-tooled and laced purses of leather, well detailed inside, were shown with book covers and smaller articles.

Only part of the display has been covered in this space. The tables were laden with hand-made articles representing crocheting, knitting and sewing in various manners. A gallery of beautiful paintings producing effects characteristic of the artist was greatly admired.

Young Withdraws 'Crook' Charges

OTTAWA, Feb. 19 — (CP). — Rodney Young (CCF-Vancouver Centre) Friday in the Commons publicly withdrew charges that his fellow-members were "a bunch of crooks" and thereby dispelled a threat of expulsion from the Chamber.

There was no one, he told the Chamber, who deserved to maintain respect for Parliamentary institutions than did he, and he wished to withdraw the charge, made in a speech to a CCF audience at Vancouver last July.

A moment later, James Sinclair (L-Vancouver North), who had threatened to have Mr. Young summoned before an appropriate House committee, rose and said the withdrawal was "quite satisfactory" and the incident was closed.

Little Theatre Play Goes On At Brockville

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Feb. 19.—(CP).—Adjudicator Robert Speaight didn't toss many bouquets around at the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival last night. Phrases such as "careless diction" and "disastrous lighting" occurred frequently in his remarks at the end of Ottawa Civil Service group's performance of J. B. Priestley's "Music at Night."

But despite a production which needed more rehearsals, Mr. Speaight said the three-act drama was certainly worth doing.

"It's much better to get your teeth into a fine sirloin of beef than into the old stale cat's meat that some companies serve up," he told the group at the end of the performance which marked the Ottawa group's second entry in the Festival.

Mr. Speaight congratulated the troupe for its enterprise in presenting two plays. The first, "Self-made Man," a one act drama by Sydney Box, was given earlier in this competition from which a play will be picked to go to the Dominion Drama Festival in Toronto next April.

One of the final entries in this three-day regional contest will be Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" to be produced at a matinee today by a newly-formed Little Theatre group from Peterborough.

Director of the classic will be Robertson Davies, Canadian playwright and editor of the Peterborough Examiner.

Mr. Davies' own play, "Fortune My Foe," will be produced tonight by the Ottawa Drama League. The full-length drama is the only Canadian-written play entered this year in either of the French-speaking or English-speaking regional drama festivals of Eastern Ontario.
